LIBERTY LINKED WITH OBEDIENCE

Freedom Really Lies in Noblest Service, Declares Rev. W. S. Eliot, Jr.

OUR REPUBLIC EXPERIMENT

Will Not Be Fully Established as Long as Two Per Cent of Population Holds 90 Per Cent of Wealth, Says Pastor.

That our Republic is only an experiment as long as 90 per cent of the wealth of the Nation is in the hands of 2 per cent of the population, was the statement made by Rev. W. G. Eliot, Jr., in his sermon at the Unitarian Church yesterday morning. The minister went on to say that if a King could be found who would always administer justice impartially to all, a monarchy would be better than a democracy. The subject of his sermon was, "Three Phases of Human Liberty," and these he characterized as service, duty and obedience. In his sermon, he said:

Freedom is not merely an escape from outward restrictions. It is the escape from inward restrictions and hindrances. Nor is it merely an escape, for the truest and largest liberty is something positive, so close to life that it merges into life. When we speak of the truest liberty, and measure it in its fullest development, we must use such paradoxical words as service, duty and obedience.

The history of liberty in the ordinary sense is the history of revolt against tyranny, of heresy in the individual pitted against ecclesiastical and political despotism. The rollcall of those who have perished in the cause of liberty is a roll of honor. Next to the elementary affections of our human hearts, the greatest, noblest thing in human history is the pale face of heresy. Those who have given themselves to this cause—their names are truly great.

When Liberty Makes Wrecks.

But the great trouble has been that people have been so weak and selfish that they have abused their freedom. For this reason many a nation has perished. History is strewn with the wrecks of people who had liberty, but so little character and obedience to the calls of liberty that outward freedom was inward bondage.

In any absolute monarchy there is a measure of consent on the part of the people. It has been said, and truly, that the man is not a king because he sits upon the charger, but because the crowds applaud, and throw their hats in the air. At one time Israel cried for a king, not because she wished to be tyrannized over, but because her liberty was being degraded in license and disobedience.

In every democracy lurks a monarchy. That monarchy will find itself alive whenever the democracy goes too far without the virtue, without which that democracy is impossible. Were it but an end in itself, the democratic government could not exist. If I could know that forever, under a king, we should have absolute justice, I should be bound to choose a kingdom over against a democracy, because I believe the democratic government is not the end in itself, but the means toward the realization of better ideals in social justice.

We have confused political liberty with social liberty. Under Charles I people could do as they pleased more than under the commonwealth. Freedom should be so balanced with virtue that it would find itself standing upon the foundation rock of justice.

True Conception of Liberty.

It is not enough for us to have our civil rights, important as they are. It is not enough for us to have freedom of thought and action. It is not enough for us to be merely free from the things within, which inhibit our freer, nobler development. We need that conception of liberty which is at one with obedience. We need positive courage. We must learn, paradoxical as it may seem, that freedom is nothing less than the noblest, highest service, dependence and obedience.

Our Republic is an experiment just so long as 90 per cent of the wealth is in the hands of two per cent of the people. It is an experiment just so long as it is a fact, a terrible and monstrous fact, that between 70 and 80 per cent of the adult population have at one time or another lived in such illicit relationship as to contract loathsome diseases. Obedience and liberty must go together.

He is the greatest statesman who ever lived who can put into the hearts of his people a love for those institutions which stand for the higher life, who can instill motives for decency, who can make men enamored of the ideal home and perfect family for which armies and nations stand, and which give real meaning and value to the machinery of the Republic. Creeds and ecclesiastical organizations will crumble. Let us put forth a plea for justice, righteousness, decency. Then we shall be a people worthy of freedom. Then we shall see results from the great struggle which has been a characteristic of human history.

DANIEL GREATEST POLITICIAN

Pastor Compares Bible Character With Men of Today.

Preaching at the Grace Methodist church on "A Politician With an Ideal Pull," Dr. William H. Heppe said last night that Daniel, of Old Testament fame, was the greatest politician and statesman the world has ever known. Dr. Heppe took for his text Daniel vi:16, and said in part:

Everything seems to depend today on the "pull." It is not confined to the politaical arena, but is creeping into the ministry. Daniel, who is referred to in my text, had a "pull" but not that of the modern politician. He served God continually. Some of the modern politicians do serve a god continually—the god of mammon.

Early in life, Daniel's ideals were high. He refused to defile himself, yet his example is followed by but few of the young men in our cities today. Not only unspottedness of body but unspottedness of soul and life distinguished this great statesman of 2500 years ago. No graft, no boodle, no rake-off did he receive. Men say that it is impossible to be engaged in political and municipal affairs without being tainted; but Daniel did not think so. He had something in which our modern politicians are wanting—moral spine.

When President Roosevelt was Police Commissioner of New York he gave us a very famous epigram: "Better faithful than famous." And I would add, No fame without faithfulness. Only the faithful become famous. Faithfulness to duty, to conscience, to truth, to country, to flag, to God brings its own sure and great reward.

PAINTS BRILLIANT FUTURE

Dr. Dyott Predicts America's Future Greatness.

"The Destiny of America; What Shall It Be?" was the subject of the sermon preached at the First Congregational Church last night by Dr. Luther R. Dyott. His text was Ps. 147:20, "He hath not dealt so with any nation." Dr. Dyott said in part:

If America could come from what it was to that which it now is we may safely predict that it is destined to become the greatest of all the world powers. We are that now in some respects, but we are destined to become that in even larger measure. Anglo-Saxon supremacy is inevitable. We have all its potentialities in the embryo.

America is destined to give the world the idea of liberty, fraternity, equality and co-operation. These things are promised because in the final analysis America's heart is always right. Here education, religion and civilization and altruism are to have their best opportunity. Here we will conquer everything that is contrary to our highest ideals and prejudicial to the common interests of all mankind.

America's destiny will be found in doing the will of God, not merely for America and Americans, but for the world, not merely for this century, nor the next, but for eternity. America is in the hands of God. He is the pilot of our ship of state.

It is James Martineau who reminds us that "the first party of painted savages who raised a few huts upon the banks of the Thames did not dream of the London they were creating." We may go higher than painted savages in rude huts, or evolving barbarians at the dawn of civilization, and find that the same thing is largely true. Some of the finest products of the old world, craving to taste the sweets of liberty, did not dream that they would present the initiative of such a country as we have today, when emancipated truth brought them here at the psychological moment. Neither did our forefathers think, at any moment, of our America of today.

DR. RILEY ENDS MEETING

GOOD RESULTS FROM WHITE TEMPLE SERVICES.

Pastor Declares That He Who Kills the Soul Is Even Worse Than Murderer.

Yesterday was the last day of the series of evangelistic meetings, conducted in this city by Dr. W. B. Riley and Malcolm C. Martin, of Minneapolis. The White Temple was crowded morning and night, and although Dr. Riley was suffering from a severe cold, he preached three impressive sermons. In the morning he spoke on "The Parable of the Lost Sheep," and at night on "The Sinner in the Modern Sodom." At the afternoon service Miss Ethel Shea sang in a very impressive manner, the solo "Almost Persuaded." J. W. Belcher, with the large chorus choir, led the singing, and at the morning service a large number were baptized. A still larger number will unite with the First Baptist church and other churches as a result of these meetings. In commenting upon the services, Dr. Brougher said:

"Dr. Riley's fearless, brilliant scriptural preaching has been a blessing to every one who has heard him. Mr. Martin, with his great chorus, has been an inspiration at every service. The bright and happy Christianity of these two men has been really contagious. They have helped us all to be better Christians. Many have accepted Christ during the meetings, and will never cease to thank God for their coming. As they go on to other work they will carry with them the love, the prayers and the best wishes of the pastors and the members of this church and congregation."

At the men's meeting in the afternoon Dr. Riley's theme was "The Sixth Commandment, 'Thou Shalt not Kill.'" He called attention to the fact that the primary purpose of this commandment is opposition to manslaughter, and yet reminded his auditors that manslaughter was not the only form of murder. He said in part:

One who takes the life of his fellow comes under condemnation of the divine and also the human law. It is a sin which is not sufficiently judged even by the gallows. God declares that no murderer shall enter the kingdom of heaven. Suicide is often as much murder as is homicide.

The man, who from mental weakness, suicides, is to be condemned and pitied, but the man whose moral madness drives him to suicide is necessarily under condemnation. It would seem clear that the great majority of suicides are not the result of mental madness, but of moral madness. It is a rare thing that a good man kills himself. It is a very common thing for a man who has served Satan at every point to put an end to it all by taking his own life. But this is not to escape responsibility; it is only to plunge more quickly into judgment.

HEAD OF CHURCH TALKS

JOSEPH F. SMITH GIVES ADDRESS TO MORMONS.

Contends His Followers Have Divine Authority for Their Faith.

At the semi-annual conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, held yesterday in the Woodmen of the World Hall, an address was made by President Joseph F. Smith, of Salt Lake City, head of the church, who is visiting in Portland. Addresses were also made by First Counselor John R. Winder, Patriarch John Smith, George A. Smith, one of the 12 apostles, and C. W. Nibley, Presiding Bishop, who are members of President Smith's party in his tour of the Northwest. The addresses of all these men dealt with various principles of the Mormon doctrine. President Smith spoke on the necessity of divine authority in the administration of the church. He illustrated his remarks by readings from the New Testament and the Book of Mormon.

"Truth is essential," said President Smith, "to the happiness, well-being, progress and exaltation of the children of men; but the truth can only be administered by God's authority when it has reference to God's plan of life and salvation to the children of men. No man taketh his honor unto himself, and no man can perform God's will or proclaim his laws or purposes until he is duly commissioned of the Lord to perform the work upon which he is sent. It seems to me that these are propositions which cannot be gainsaid.

"It is true that men deny that divine authority was given to Joseph Smith. It is the privilege of every living soul to deny God and to defy God and his authority; but he will be held responsible by the Great Judge, not by me nor by mankind. Everything the Lord requires of his people he leaves voluntarily with them to accept or reject. As surely as God ever spoke to Adam, as surely as he ever spoke to Abraham and Moses, to Christ or the apostles, just so surely has he spoken in the latter days by ministering angels, spirits and prophets.

"We assert it and preach it and know it, that he came himself in his personal being and revealed himself to one of our fellow men in the age in which we now live. And we believe if he had not done so in the condition the world is in today he could have been charged with partiality to the ancients to whom he sent prophets and whom he inspired with his word, and by messages and heavenly beings. In these latter days, when the earth was never fuller of the children of men, to leave us untaught, to leave us ignorant of him, ignorant of his will, only as preached by self-made teachers who are not called by God to proclaim his word, he would have been charged with partiality. But he has revealed himself in our day to the children of men and has given them divine authority to preach the gospel, to baptize for the remission of sins, and to lay on hands for the gift of tongues."

Services were held last night in Alisky Hall, at which the high church officials from Salt Lake City were present.

MUST BE CHANGE, SAYS BISHOP BELL

Deplores Unequal Opportunities and Unhappy Social Conditions.

PROBLEMS TO BE MET

Declares That Reforms Must Come Soon or There Will Be a Revolution That Will Rearrange Present Scheme of Things.

"Social and Economic Unrest and the Remedy" was the subject of Bishop William M. Bell's sermon yesterday morning in the First United Brethren church, East Morrison and Fifteenth streets. It was a discourse of great power and held the interest of the large congregation for over an hour. Dr. Daniel Rader, editor of the Pacific Advocate, occupied a place on the platform. All ministers and lay delegates were present.

Bishop Bell discussed social conditions and pointed out the unrest and mal-adjustment of social relations, the greed of predatory wealth, the cruelty of poverty, and the new alignment in all affairs, the disintegration of political parties, independence of thought and action and the demand for better moral and economic conditions. He also declared that all these great problems must be met within the next 15 years, or this country will see a revolution, for the demands of the masses must be heeded and will not down. He said in part:

We hear there are 7,000,000 men out of employment, and there is a general condition of unrest overshadowing the whole country. It is a condition that cannot be ignored, but must be met, and the ministers of the gospel must give out a message of relief. These social problems represent and involve, not the poor, not the rich, but affect all classes.

Unrest Shows Trouble.

We see in the unrest in this country evidence of mal-adjustment of social relations disturbing the people. We see it in industrial development. We see the crime of child labor—the infant deprived of education and working out its life-blood in our factories. Conditions like these affect the wealthy and the poor, the spiritual and the social. Insistent demands come that these conditions shall be remedied. Appeal is made to the Legislature to better social affairs. That appeal reaches the President and reaches down to the Mayor of the city. That demand cannot be ignored. It must be heard. It will be heard.

I do not countenance the passion and hate that are often injected into these social movements, but, men and women, we must put our ear to the ground and hear the message. Ministers, you must take part in this movement for readjustment and you must be friendly to these demands. I say that the demand for better social conditions will not down. We are to look the situation squarely in the face. In America there will be a revolution within 15 years unless there be a change for the better. Within that time we shall come to a great crisis. We see it demonstrated in the disintegration of political lines and the breaking up of political parties. The great editors of our journals may become cross over the fact that men will no longer vote together as so many sheep. The bosses may grumble over the independence of the hour. The editor or politician must respect the trend of affairs or be unhorsed and covered under a moss-grown tomb.

I do not expect revolution, but it may come. Evolution sometimes brings results, but the people will not wait long for results through the slow processes of evolution and themselves set things in motion. Readjustment may come through knocks and jars. Sometimes we have the electric storm that upheaves and kills, but it brings readjustments in the atmosphere, and so our readjustment may come this way.

An Age of Organization.

This is an age of organization. Everything is done through organization. We are seeking the unification of the Protestant forces so that they shall stand for the kingdom of Christ with solid ranks, and in December next, in Philadelphia, a great gathering will make another effort for unification of the Protestant ranks, and I trust will be successful. The charge is made the general government of this country is become too powerful and is being centralized—this government, which protects your life and my life and our property and the property of the church. But I believe that it cannot become too strong for these purposes. So we must face new problems. We must get away from precedent and from history as we face these new problems. It means self-submersion.

But there are tremendous remedial movements sweeping over the country. A mighty tidal wave swept the curse of slavery from the Nation. A mighty tidal wave is sweeping the liquor business from this country, and even now is rattling the bottles of the brewer. The thunderings of these tidal waves are heard. Another tidal wave is thundering at the walls of corporate greed and predatory wealth. These conscienceless trusts have swept down on our liberties, and America is demanding that they stay their hand. Americans are demanding that the corporations shall no longer be above the law, but shall respect the law the same as the humblest individual in the land. They must yield—they must call a halt right now. The moral standard of political life in this Nation is growing higher and requiring of all parties a constructive moral policy. It is here to stay. No man may be elected to the Presidency without he recognizes and reflects the Christian religion—unless he represents the Christian religion.

We have the cruel curse of poverty among us. Would it be here if all these problems were solved, and there be a readjustment of social conditions?

Bishop Makes Appointments.

Bishop Bell, at the morning services, announced the following appointments for 1908-1909: District Presiding Elder, Dr. F. W. Jones; ministers—Philomath, P. O. Bonebrake; Philomath Circuit, G. W. Beeler; Salem, F. H. Neff; Eugene, J. W. Sprecher; Hopewell, J. H. Rhodes; Hood River, C. E. Corman; Peak Circuit, Mrs. B. M. Peoples; Portland First Church, H. C. Shaffer; Portland Second Church, B. E. Emerick; Hazel Glen, A. H. Cisna; Everett, Mrs. R. N. Lewis; Tygh Valley, Mrs. M. J. Mumma; The Dalles, H. F. White; Irving, D. Morris; View, Mrs. Dora Young; Tillamook, W. W. Rosebraugh; North Bend, R. G. Summerlin; Beaver, O. Ketchum; Vancouver, J. L. Merrill. J. S. Rhodes was appointed lay delegate to other conferences.

In the afternoon the Second United Brethren church, on East Twenty-seventh and Mildred streets, in the Vernon tract, was dedicated by Bishop Bell, assisted by Bishop Castle and Dr. W. R. Funk. There was a large congregation present.

BUILDING FIGURES LOOM

Eugene Permits for Last Thirty Days Amount to Over $183,000.

EUGENE, Or., July 4.—(Special.)—The report of the Building Inspector for the month of June shows that Eugene has contracted for and has under course of construction in the last 30 days $75,000 in buildings. Since April permits have been issued amounting to over $183,000. For the month of April the amount was $83,000; for May, $24,000, and for July, $75,000.

Eugene has completed and has under construction since the first of the year 1908, or during the past six months, more business blocks than in any other period of three times the duration. The buildings are for the most part substantial and modern. The most important building in course of construction is the five-story brick being erected by the Odd Fellows on the corner of Ninth and Oak streets, at a cost of $46,000.

But the activity in the construction of dwelling houses is quite as marked as that in business blocks. There are about 30 dwellings in course of construction now which will cost from $2500 to $8000 each.

Road Wants to Change Property.

ABERDEEN, Wash., July 5.—(Special.)—Additional steps taken the past week have added the usual new interest to the question of another railroad. Attorneys of the Union Pacific Company have appeared before the County Commissioners asking for an exchange of land along the proposed right of way, the company desiring certain county road rights for land in other places. A special meeting of the Commissioners will be held to take up this proposition.
