THEODORE A. BELL SOUNDS KEYNOTE

Temporary Chairman Dwells on Omissions of Republican Platform.

WHAT PARTY DID NOT DO

Federal Control of Corporations and Railroads, Campaign Fund Publicity, Revenue Tariff, Limit on Issue of Injunctions.

DENVER, July 7.—Theodore A. Bell, of California, temporary chairman of the Democratic National convention, made the following opening speech:

We have assembled at a time when the public conscience is demanding honesty of purpose in the men who undertake to direct the affairs of state. The public eye is keenly sensitive to every political movement, and our proceedings here will be approved according to the degree of sincerity appearing in the work of this convention. There is a widespread belief, founded upon evidence of a convincing character, that the party in power has not been true to its trust, that it has betrayed the common interest into the hands of the enemies of good government, thereby forfeiting its right and destroying its ability to rule in the name of the people.

Apparent to everyone is the fact that way down deep in the heart of the Republican convention at Chicago there was a feeling of anger and resentment over the popular clamor for reforms; and it is equally patent that there is no bona fide intention on the part of the Republican party of granting any reforms if the machinery of that party can be retained in present hands. Its paper platform, divided like ancient Gaul into three parts—barren promises, makeshifts and evasions—it is hoped will make a good campaign transparency; but no one seriously believes that the Republican party really indorses that neutral manuscript which held the convention together until it could ratify the nomination of a Presidential candidate.

Approaching our great task in a manly, dignified manner, imbued with the loftiest sentiments of patriotism, ambitious to throw every safeguard around the liberties of our people, determined to stamp out the abuses that are consuming the substance of the Nation, let us proceed to our appointed duty with the sustaining consciousness that we are responsible alone to God and to our country for the justice of our cause.

Republican Aid to Greedy.

There are three things that this convention should do. It ought to present in a plain and intelligible manner the serious industrial and political conditions that are disturbing the peace and happiness of our country. We should then proceed to a courageous exposure of the Republican policies that are co-operating with private greed in the general oppression of the people. Most important of all, we must exhibit a readiness and an ability to grasp the problems of the hour and to effect their solution in a manner that will satisfy the sober common-sense of the multitudes whose interests are at stake.

Among the great evils that afflict the country at the present time is the business of corporate power. At first the advancing aggressions of the corporations are not discernible to the common eye, for every move is carefully covered up until sufficient political strength is attained to defy the protests of the people. Thus the constant and insidious invasion of the people's rights finally results in a species of arrogance and defiance so formidable in its appearance that the body of the people, in fear of even worse aggressions, hesitate to assert and exercise their rightful authority over these colossal enemies of the commonwealth. And so we behold a subversion of our free institutions, a Government voluntarily subordinating itself to selfish private ends, special privilege, resorting to cunning, bribery and intimidation to maintain its unholy power, while the masses timidly hope that, when avarice has at last reached the point of satiety, it will then benevolently permit the people to resume their rightful share in the government of themselves. Whenever the mutterings of the people become too threatening, the cry of confiscation goes up and appeals are frantically made to the sacred rights of property. This is intended to affright the ears of honest men in the enjoyment of the fruits of their industry and thrift, and by thus playing upon their prejudices and fears to deter them from casting their influence upon the side of wholesome reform. The cry of confiscation is the historic defense of usurpation. Let the people take warning. Whenever the wrongs of today become the rights of tomorrow, the Nation is in deadly peril.

Against Special Privilege.

The Democratic party is not the enemy of property, but to the contrary, it has always stood and will continue to stand firmly against every species of aggression that would destroy or weaken the right of any man to enjoy the rewards to which his patience, his skill, his industry and his economy entitle him. Our party approves that feeling of pride which always accompanies the possession of property, and it commends an individual ownership in the soil that will bring to the homes of America more of the conveniences, comforts and luxuries of life. Against the evils of special privilege we urge the benefits of equal opportunity, in order that there may be more landowners, more homes and more happiness among the masses.

The Democratic party is not an enemy of all corporations. It recognizes their great value in the industrial world. Through the agency of corporations scattered wealth is brought together and given a driving force that it would not otherwise possess. Great enterprises are thereby undertaken and the undeveloped resources of the country added to the wealth of the world. No radical man can be opposed to corporations as such and the assertion that the Democratic party is waging an indiscriminate war against this form of transacting business has no foundation in fact. It is the abuse of corporate power that we seek to eliminate.

Our party is not opposed to production on a large scale, but it is unalterably opposed to monopoly in production. It is easier to prevent monopoly than it is to control it after being established. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and the withdrawal of special privileges will take away the meat upon which the trusts are fed. If this be followed by a criminal prosecution and an imprisonment of the directors and officers of the guilty corporation, monopoly will be shorn of many of its terrors.

Dissects Chicago Platform.

Viewed in the light of a great moral question, the control of corporations should remain a question of common concern rather than a political one, but the shameful complacence of the Republican party in permitting its forces to be controlled and operated by the most offending corporations of the country throws the problem into the political arena and compels the public to choose between the Democratic party that will and the Republican party that will not place some restrictions on incorporated greed.

We are now confronted with the inquiry: What assurance has the Republican party given that it will use the forces at its command to restore to the people their rights? In its Chicago platform it did not make even a decent pretense of championing the people's cause, and the proceedings of that convention are glaringly insincere. It was noted that two elements were present at that gathering, one with sufficient votes to adopt a platform and nominate its candidate for President and the other powerful enough to unwrite that platform and tie the hands of the nominee. The distinguishing feature of the Chicago platform is its oft-repeated promise to do a lot of things that the Republican party has heretofore failed to do. That party went to Chicago fresh from the halls of Congress, where an overwhelming Republican majority in both branches enabled it to propose and adopt any legislation it chose. Does the Republican party believe that it can be absolved from its dereliction of duty by an empty promise to do in the future what it has wilfully failed to do in the past? Some one has suggested that this convention should publish an indictment against the Republican party. We can probably expedite the proceedings by entering the plea of guilty that is contained in the Chicago platform, simply changing the words "We will" to the words "We did not" to conform to the admitted facts. We then have the following Republican confession of guilt:

Chapter of Omissions.

"We did not revise the tariff."

"We did not amend the anti-trust laws to secure greater effectiveness in the prosecution of criminal monopolies."

"We did not add a single line to the interstate commerce law giving the Federal Government supervision of the issuance of stocks and bonds by interstate carriers."

We did not enact a currency measure that would mitigate the evils of a financial panic, such as has recently prostrated the country under a Republican administration.

We did not limit the opportunities for abusing the writ of injunction.

We did not establish postal savings banks.

We did not establish a bureau of mines and mining.

We did not admit into the Union the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona as separate states.

The last Congress was in session during a financial crisis when innumerable banking institutions, preferring a holiday to a funeral, closed their doors and filled the minds of millions of depositors with anxiety and fear. The sentiment in favor of postal savings banks, which had been steadily growing in this country, became almost universal during the recent panic. So insistent became the voice of the people that the President sent a special message to Congress urging the establishment of postal savings banks where the earnings of our people might be safely deposited under the direct control and responsibility of the Federal Government and where no peculating bank cashier or gambling board of directors could eat up the savings of years.

Congress Insults President.

The United States Senate showed its hearty sympathy with the popular demand and its profound respect for the President by adjourning while the message was being read, while over in the House of Representatives they refused to suspend the rollcall long enough to receive the communication that had been sent there from the White House.

The Chicago platform points with pride to the passage of a child labor law for the District of Columbia. Let the Republican party go farther than the enactment of penal laws and in the name of humanity use its vast energies for the removal of the conditions that are forcing our children into the labor market. It is the reign of monopoly that is emptying our schoolhouses and filling the sweatshops with child labor, and this same system of monopoly is fast limiting the opportunities for independent livelihood among those who are forced into the industrial field, and thus it is doubly blighting that hope of youth which in former stages of our National growth opened an avenue of honor and independence to every child reared upon our soil.

Injunction Bill Killed.

The most palpable instance of the insincerity of the Chicago convention is found in its declaration respecting the issuance of injunctions. It would have been entitled to more respect if it had omitted all mention of the subject. At session after session of Congress labor has pleaded for relief from the abuse of injunctions, but its appeals have fallen on deaf ears and there has been no indication that remedial legislation of any character would be enacted. The oligarchy in House and Senate has declared that nothing shall be done to weaken any advantage that corporations have gained in labor disputes.

The fact is that all our citizens, without respect to station or occupation in life, have a genuine respect for the courts and desire to maintain their integrity. The charge the courts are being assailed is simply for the purpose of diverting attention from the real issue. Heretofore it has not been considered treason or an unwarrantable attack upon the honor of the courts to define their jurisdiction, prescribe their procedure, restrict their processes and generally to fix the bounds within which judicial functions are to be exercised. It makes no difference whether they have gone beyond their jurisdiction or are strictly within their delegated powers. In either case the people have a right to throw additional safeguards around human liberty. There can be no reflection upon the honesty of the courts in the passage of a measure that will confine the equity powers of the Federal judiciary within such bounds as the people of the United States, through the legislative branches of their Government, may determine. This Democratic Convention must frankly, firmly and unequivocally pledge itself to such legislation as will prevent the writ of injunction from being converted into an instrument of oppression.

Irrigation Due to Democracy.

We have something to do in this convention besides point out evils and calling the Republican party to task for the part it has played in creating and in perpetuating abuses.

Nor has the constructive work of the Democratic party been confined to the earlier periods of our Nation's history. In recent years our party has given signal proof of its ability to grasp the opportunity of building up an internal policy, of developing the natural resources of America, and converting them to the use and benefit of all that will share in their blessings. This policy of domestic development, as strongly urged in former Democratic National platforms and as earnestly advocated by Democratic members in both Houses of Congress, stand in brilliant contrast with the imperial policy of the Republican party in the exploitation of distant territory for the benefit of a favored few. Witness the beneficent operation of National irrigation, which had its origin in the Newlands bill and which owes its place upon our statute books, not to the opposition of Republican leaders in Congress but to Francis G. Newlands and his Democratic colleagues, who labored in and out of season for the reclamation of our arid lands under Federal aid and supervision.

The preservation of our forests and conservation of all our natural resources were taken up by a Republican President only after years of agitation by the Democratic party. Is it not the Democratic party today that is leading the fight for the improvement of our inland waterways along comprehensive and scientific lines? The last Republican Congress turned a deaf ear to the appeals of the President and refused to organize an Inland Waterway Commission to examine and report upon the subject. The opposition of the Republican party to the policy of preserving and developing our natural wealth to the interest of the whole people has its origin in that unholy alliance between the Republican party and the land transportation monopolies of the country.

The triumph of the people can come only through the Democratic party, for the life of its chief political opponent is so absorbed into the official life of the monopolies and trusts that it excludes the hope that the Republican party will ever be able or willing to regain a separate existence where it can honestly discharge its duty to the people.

Democratic Tariff Revision.

With the power and opportunity to carry out Democratic principles we will be called upon to revise the tariff laws in the interest of the whole people. This issue cannot be disposed of by the assertion that the Republican party also stands for tariff reform. Republican revision and Democratic revision are two different things. The Democratic idea is that, where the tariff enables the trusts to maintain a system of extortion, the duty should be removed from all trust-made goods, so that competition from abroad may compel reasonable prices to our own people. There is a vast difference between the protection of American industries and the protection of criminal monopolies.

The expenses of our Government, even when most economically administered, will always require substantial tariff rates, for the customs duties will always be our chief source of revenue.

The distribution of tariff rates must always be established with special reference to the expenditures of the Government, keeping in view the greatest good to the greatest number and particularly prohibiting the conversion of the tariff into an accomplice of monopoly in the robbery of the American consumer. The Democratic idea is that the collection of sufficient revenue to meet the necessities of government must be the basis for tariff regulations, and that the philosophy of excluding competition by a tax on the American consumer which requires him to pay greater prices at home than are demanded abroad is a pernicious abuse of the taxing power and a manifest injustice to our own people.

An election is a party affair and the people have a right to know before casting their votes whether a campaign is being financed by the trusts and monopolies, and just exactly what influences are being exerted to gain control, for it is not to be presumed that large appropriations for election purposes are being made by the treasuries of the corporations without an expressed or implied promise that the contributors shall receive special benefits in consideration of their subscriptions. Upon no other subject has the Republican party shown such utter contempt for the wishes of the people, and its refusal to use a cash register in its political affairs clearly exhibits a crookedness and dishonesty that will not bear the light of day.

Campaign Fund Publicity.

In the Chicago convention a minority report of the committee on resolutions containing a declaration in favor of campaign publicity was overwhelmingly defeated upon a rollcall of the convention, and the Republican party placed itself squarely upon record in favor of concealing the names of the contributors and the amounts of their subscriptions by a vote of 50 to 1 in the committee and by a vote of more than 10 to 2 in the convention confessed their guilt, thus admitting the charge so frequently made by our party that Republican success in the past has largely depended upon the vast sums collected from the great monopolies and corruptly used in its campaigns. Will the voters of this country seriously consider whether the refusal of the Republican party to disclose the sources and amounts of its election fund is not a confession of the debasing and corrupt use of money in its campaign?

Regulation of Railroads.

It is eminently proper that this convention should define the Democratic attitude toward the regulation of transportation companies and call the attention of the country to the indisputable fact that it was only after years of Democratic effort that an amendment was made to the interstate commerce law authorizing the Commission to establish reasonable rates whenever it appeared that an existing schedule was unjust or unreasonable. The National platforms of the Republican party remained silent upon this great question for years and the fact that the necessary change was advocated by a Republican President, who succeeded only through the aid of the Democrats in both branches of Congress in placing the amendment upon our statute books, does not affect the credit to which our party is entitled for having worked persistently for such an enactment. Further amendment to our laws giving the Federal Government supervision over the issuance of railroad stocks and bonds is demanded.

The fixing of transportation charges and the control of issuance of railroad securities are inseparably connected with the actual valuation of railroads. The Democratic party believes that the first thing to do is to secure a physical valuation of the roads, that is, a valuation of the solid rather than the liquid assets of railroad companies, while on the other hand the Republican party on a rollcall in the convention by an overwhelming vote took an unequivocal stand in favor of a system of water rates without giving the people the benefit of a meter.

We search in vain for one syllable in the Chicago platform pledging the Republican party to retrenchment and reform; and it is no mere coincidence that has given us a billion dollar session of Congress on the eve of a National election and the possible revision of the tariff.

Reform Election of Senators.

So long as we maintain the present method of selecting United States Senators we cannot hope that the upper chamber of Congress will reflect the popular will. On five different occasions the House of Representatives has passed a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States Senators by the direct vote of the people, but these measures have been sand-bagged in the Senate by those who are determined that the Senate shall not become an integral part of our free, representative institutions. The Democratic party will continue to labor for the direct election of United States Senators and it appeals to the voters of America to elect members of the different State Legislatures who will pledge themselves to vote for no candidate for the United States Senate that is not in favor of this reform.

The affirmative position of the Democratic party upon these great questions will be made clear during the impending campaign and, disdaining all subterfuge, it will speak in a language that cannot be misunderstood. Its voice will ring with a genuine love for humanity, and the charge of insincerity will never be brought to its doors. Let our party declaration in this convention present the strongest contrast between that which we here propose and that declared at Chicago. Let a man take the temperature of the Chicago platform and, discover, if he can, any sign of a human warmth. Not a single sentiment is there to redeem it from the materialism permeating it through and through.

Needs of Pacific Coast.

On the bosom of the Pacific will be enacted the mighty commercial struggles of the future, and the interests of the American commerce will demand that an adequate naval strength be maintained in the waters of the Pacific to protect our expanding commerce.

This magnificent Western country of ours has not only proved attractive to our own people and the other white nations of the earth, but it has likewise proved alluring to the brown and yellow races of the East. Some protection has been afforded by the exclusion of Chinese labor, but the evil is but half met if the immigration of other Asiatic people be not also excluded from our shores. Not only the white toilers in America, but all our people, without respect to class or residence, are vitally interested in this menace to our social and industrial life from Asiatic quarters and, if this is to remain a white man's country, immediate steps should be taken to prevent Asiatic immigration of whatsoever character.

This convention is meeting at a time when the angel of peace is hovering over the entire world, and the nations of the earth each day are strengthening those ties of friendship and common interest that will render war less frequent and permit mankind to turn their hands to the peaceable pursuits of life rather than to the destruction of one another.

America Friend of Oppressed.

The Democratic party realizes the part that America must inevitably play in the affairs of the world and that we cannot escape participation in the settlement of every world-problem that arises; but America's weight and influence must ever be on the side of peace, on the side of justice, on the side of the oppressed and, if the will of the people shall commit to our hands the sceptre of power, it will be used for the realization of the high American ideals that raise our own people to loftier and better standards and through precepts and example contribute to the wellbeing and happiness of all mankind.

STEAMER POTTER DELAYED

Two Passengers Make Hurried Trip From Oregon City in Auto.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 7.—(Special.)—The Oregon State Pharmaceutical Association, which will meet in annual session tomorrow at Long Beach, Wash., had a narrow squeeze from holding its first day's session without its president, C. G. Huntley, of this city. Mr. Huntley and George A. Harding, also a well-known druggist, expected to leave the city in time to catch the Potter this morning, but missed their car and kept the wires hot for a few minutes. Finally Mr. Huntley communicated with John M. Laue, who was requested to hold the steamer's departure until they could arrive, and Mr. Harding obtained an automobile to meet their car at East Madison street, and they were whirled over the bridge and down to the Ash-street dock in time to make the boat.

TO ENFORCE GAMBLING LAW

Mayor Wingate, of The Dalles, Defines His Position to Council.

THE DALLES, Or., July 7.—(Special)—E. M. Wingate, newly-elected Mayor, assumed the duties of his office yesterday, and last night presided at the first meeting of the new Council. Mayor Wingate delivered his message outlining his policy, which was strictly for law and order, especially regarding gambling and the enforcement of ordinances governing the saloons and the sale of intoxicants. He also recommended extensive improvement of streets and walks throughout the city. The Mayor appointed James Harper City Marshal, the remaining city officials retaining their offices for another year.

New Building for Kalama.

KALAMA, Wash., July 7.—(Special.)—The Knights of Pythias have let a contract for the erection of a large two-story building on Fir street, between the Kalama Hotel and Hettum's new store. The foundation is now being put in and the structure will be completed as soon as possible. When completed the building will cost about $10,000. The lower floor will be used for business purposes, the rooms being already rented. The upper story will be a lodgeroom.

Will Boost for La Grande.

LA GRANDE, Or., July 7.—(Special.)—After weeks of search for a competent manager of the Booster Club in this city, the La Grande Commercial Club has secured P. C. Lavey, late of Oklahoma, where he had charge of a similar club. He is a newspaper man of experience. As soon as the beautiful descriptive booklets that are about to go to press, are completed and sent here, Mr. Lavey will begin distribution of the literature.

ANTI-BRYAN MEN RALLY TO GUFFEY

May Lead Revolt Against Nebraskan and Cause Bitter Fight.

BRYANITES NOT WORRYING

Say They Already Have Guffey's Scalp—Other State Leaders Eager to Rebuke Peerless One. Effect on Vice-President.

DENVER, July 7.—The possibility of a revolt by delegates not in sympathy with the Bryan control of the Democratic National Convention against the preliminary tactics employed by officers of the convention today in sending the Pennsylvania controversy to the committee on credentials is the only hope left to the allied opposition to Mr. Bryan's nomination. This opposition is proceeding on the belief that the committee on credentials will report against the contested delegates from Philadelphia and in favor of the election of Colonel James M. Guffey for National Committeeman, in which event a minority report will be made.

The first test of anti-Bryan strength therefore will occur over the adoption of the report of the committee on credentials, and it promises to be the bitterest of the convention. Should it be decided against the Bryan men, some of whom have announced a purpose to "railroad" the Pennsylvania leader out of the party in accordance with the expressed wish of the Nebraska candidate, unquestionably it will encourage the opposition to Mr. Bryan to renewed efforts to defeat him for the Presidential nomination.

Rally Around Guffey.

No sooner had the convention adjourned today than the anti-Bryan men began to gather to discuss the situation. At several of these informal conferences the consensus of opinion was that the Guffey-Bryan fight furnished an issue on which the anti-Bryan men could take their stand and supplied the rallying ground that has been needed in order to concentrate their forces. It was asserted by anti-Bryan men tonight that the refusal today of Temporary Chairman Bell to recognize the demand of Guffey men for a rollcall on the question of sending the Pennsylvania case to the credentials committee had brought them many recruits and that these, added to the force that has been against Mr. Bryan on other points, promises victory for Colonel Guffey tomorrow. On the other hand the Bryan men claim to have Colonel Guffey's scalp already dangling at the belt of their leader, and declare that they are not worried in the least.

Others Have Grievances.

Much is being made by the Guffey men of the differences which Mr. Bryan has had with such men as Roger Sullivan, of Illinois; John T. McGraw, of West Virginia; certain of the Democratic leaders of Texas, Tennessee, Wisconsin, Michigan and other states. They profess to believe that the delegations from these states are anxious to administer a rebuke to Mr. Bryan for his alleged interference with the state delegations in selecting their representatives in the convention after the states themselves had declared in favor of the nomination of the Nebraskan. Should the anti-Bryan men prove to be correct in their estimate of the situation, Mr. Bryan without doubt would be defeated in his attempt to overthrow Mr. Guffey in Pennsylvania.

May Cause Bitter Feeling.

It is not unlikely that a contest over this issue would engender the bitterest kind of feeling and have an important bearing on the vote of the convention after candidates have been placed in nomination for the Presidency. It is conceded that, if Colonel Guffey should be defeated, which would be the result of seating the anti-Guffey delegation from Philadelphia, that would end the opposition to Mr. Bryan and all of the fighting spirit would be taken out of the anti-Bryan men. The Nebraskan's friends then would be given a clear road to the adoption of whatever character of platform they favor, and no showing whatever would be made against him for the nomination for first place on the ticket.

Little Hope for Eastern Men.

Should the Bryan men be so disposed, they could dictate also the nomination for the Vice-Presidency. Gossip over the candidates for Vice-President has been completely overshadowed by the events of the day and there is little change in the situation. There are nearly a hundred men in the field. Such leaders as found time to give attention to the Vice-Presidential situation tonight seemed to think that, the Bryan-Guffey contest having become a National Convention issue, there is little hope left of the nomination of a conservative Eastern Democrat on the ticket with Mr. Bryan. The feeling was that there was such grave danger of alienating the conservative wing of the party that no man representing that wing would consent to being named.

Street Lights for La Grande.

LA GRANDE, Or., July 7.—(Special.)—This city is to be brilliantly illuminated hereafter. The business men have subscribed to a fund which will maintain hundreds of incadescent lights at all hours of the night.
