GIRLS WILL PLAY

Feminine Balltossers Headed for Portland.

THREE GAMES SCHEDULED

Team Comes From Chicago and Proposes to Show Local Amateurs How National Sport Should Be Played.

WASH-FED—Athletic girls to join a baseball club; good salary, long engagement and best of treatment. AD 53, Oregonian.

The above advertisement appearing in the help wanted columns of The Oregonian yesterday morning will no doubt be gladly welcomed by some of the fair feminine fans of this city, who may now have an opportunity of showing their husky brothers how the game of baseball should really be played.

The advertisement was undoubtedly inserted by the advance manager of the Chicago Ladies' baseball team, which has been playing in the Washington towns. The team has held forth in that state for several weeks and has played numerous games with more or less, principally less, success. It has been handicapped by the frequent loss of star players some of whom chose to play home to hysens, while others thought that other work was preferable to playing the great National game.

The Chicago Ladies' Baseball team is scheduled to play a series of games in Portland and vicinity with the Wabash Independents, a well-known local amateur team.

The Chicago girls, at least they were Chicago girls when the team started on the road, are scheduled to arrive in Portland in the next few days; that is, the few who are left among the diamond exponents will no doubt appear in the series with the Wabashers.

Girls, as a rule, like diamonds to shine on them, but heretofore they have not shone very brilliantly on the diamond.

The bloomer-clad Venuses may shine in the game as played at a girl's seminary, but the pitting of them against teams composed of men seems rather an unequal matching of teams. The girls played a game at Chehalis the other day during which the Chehalis players succeeded in scoring so many runs that the official scorer threw up his job. Two of the female Hans Wagners also deserted the team at that enterprising town, and both are said to have secured positions in the dining room of a hotel, where hustling biscuits is an easier task than chasing flies and yelling at the umpire.

The games scheduled for Portland and vicinity between the girls and the Wabashers are as follows: Saturday, July 18, at St. John; Sunday, July 19, at Vancouver; and Monday, July 20, at Vancouver street.

Waste of Beer Stirs Up Dock Idler's Wrath

Hobo Longs for Good Old Days When Empty Barrels Were Always Drained Before Shipment.

"SAY, Cull, is dese barrels bin dreened proper? Et weed' a-had 'em on de frunt in ole Samfriskoos dare be nothin' to it, see? Me an' de push on de dock allus seed dere was no good beer never sent forin."

"Peg" Hennessy, late of San Francisco, was one of a crowd gathered on a downtown street Friday afternoon watching teamsters loading empty beer barrels on trucks. The "empties" were brought from the basement of one of the leading cafes of the city that makes a specialty of foreign brews. Some one in the crowd assembled kept tab on the lot, and announced a total of 200 when the last one was brought to the sidewalk. As the wagons turned in the direction of the freight yards, "Peg" fell in behind the procession, intent on renewing his old-time experiences in San Francisco before the fire, when he and his fellow dock "bums" got their "heavies" regularly.

There is an arrangement with Eastern importers of foreign beers that upon return of the empty barrels a credit is extended, which is adjusted in freight charges. German barrels hold more than American, which makes their use in this country impracticable, so dealers all over the country send their empties to New York, from which port they are sent back to Germany to be refilled.
