veral dealers are in the market for 1907 hops, but most of the business pass-ng is between dealers. The only growers' ransaction of importance reported was the hale of the Hannagan lot of 400 hales at grants Pass at 5 cents. The purchaser ras either Hart or Herren. Neither of these jentlemen was in the city yearerday and the exact facts could not be learned. The following English plantation reports

The following English plantation reports are from the Kentish Observer of July 2:
Ashford—The hops have made great eirides during the last week, and are now in many gardens well over the top wire, while in others the bine is a little below. In spite of the cold winds at the end of last week the hops are of a good color and there is not much vermin, consequently no washing has yet been done.

Bethersden—The bine looks less healthy than it did a week ago, and warmer nights and genial showers would be an advantage. There is scarcely any vermin as yet.

Canterbury—Easterly winds and cold foray nights do not constitute hop weather, yet the host managed gardens are holding their own. A good rain and warm nights are much wanted. Some gardens which have not been well done are beginning to show signs of slowing down.

Edenbridge—The drying winds and hot sam are making the weak bine look sickly and yellow.

Maidstone and District—Although the de-sun are making the weak blue look sickly and yellow. Maidstone and District—Although the development of the bine has been slightly checked by the strong northeast winds and the cold nights, the prospect continues very satisfactory. There is but little vermin, and it is hoped that no washing will be required. A full crop seems to be assured. Selling—The hops in this parish are doing exceedingly well and give promise, of a good crop. Indeed there is enough bine to grow an over average one, and it is practically free of vermin, while mould is non-existent. The long spell of northeast wind has slightly affected the color, but this will soon be remedied by a few warm days and nights.

soon he remedied by a rew warm days and nights.

Sussex—Hop bines still healthy and growing. Midsummer interals appearing. The gales and cold nights have checked them but little Ladyhirds seem hungry and hunting for what they can't find.

Tenterden (Weslid)—The growth has not been so fast during the past week owing to the northeasterly winds and the lew night temperature. The foliage looks rather yellow in places, but there is no access of vermin. Woodchurch—The sheltered and well-cultivated grounds look well, but where they are exposed to the cold northeasterly winds there is some loss of color.

WHEAT CROP REPORTS MUCH BETTER. Rain Has Been General in Eastern Oregon

Rain Has Been General in Enstern Oregon and Enstern Washington.

Crop reports from east of the mountains received yesterfax by D. A. Patiulio, of Balfour, Guthrie & Co., were nearly all favorable. The rainfall has been general both north and south of the Columbia, and where it has not come too late, the precipitation has been in sufficient quantity to do much good. Umailla, Heppher and Walla Walla have had good rains as well as Columbia, Garfield and the Palouse, in Franklin and Adams, however, it is too late to do much good. Some of his correspondents reported that the only danger now was from hot winds immediately following the rains, but this occurrence is not likely.

Among the cherry receipts was a good shipment of Lamberts, which were held at the a pound. Other varieties were slow at ower at $1.25, owing to the large supply of California cots on the street. Some prunes were received, mostly of the Tragedy variety, which were offered at $1,01.25 per box. Plums are about cleaned up. A car of Crawford peaches and a car of watermeiona arrived last night, and two cars of watermeions and two of cantaloupes are due today. Three fresh cars of bananas will be on sale this afternoon.

General Lifting of the Level of Stock Values.

STEEL IS THE LEADER

Railroad List Helped by the Readjustment of Freight Rates-Engagement of Gold for Export Is Without Effect.

NEW YORK, July 15.-There were no strikingly new developments to account for the further advance in prices of stocks today. The buying was based on the gen eral improvement in the speculative situ-ation. Commission houses reported some moderate and scattering increase in orders from miscellaneous sources, but the transactions remained largely in professional hands and partook of the manipulative character usual in that class of operations. The decisive fact stood out prominently, as was the case yesterday, that increased selling pressure was slight as the level of prices was lifted, thus leaving the way unobstructed for a continuance of the advance. There were occasionally setbacks in the movement, which seemed to be due as much to pauses in the buillah operations as to any active selling pressure.

seemed to be due as much to pauses in the builtsh operations as to any active selling pressure.

In United States Steel there was some manifest selling to realize, part of it coming from foreign quarters. This was absorbed and the common and preferred continued up to a new high price for the year. These stocks constituted an effective leadership for the whole market, their persistent strength having a strong sentimental influence in maintaining prices elsewhere. Amalgamated Copper, National Lead. Central Leather and United States Rubber were examples in the class of industrials which went to the highest prices of the year. The railroad list shared in the day's strength but offered fewer instances of high record prices. However, Union Pacific (allowing for a dividend reduction), Northern Pacific, Atchison and, Canadian Pacific were at the year's best prices today. The Canadian stock is helped particularly by favorable reports of the wheat crop prospects in its territory and by the rapid development of some of that territory.

Croj. news generally was favorable today, as was indicated by the decline in prices of grains. The generally cheerful view of prospects which is obtaining a foothold in financial circles was fostered by confident views expressed in published interviews by several leading financial authorities.

by confident views expressed in published interviews by several leading financial authorities.

Probably some part of the underlying strength of railroad stocks is due to the conviction that the process of readjustment of freight rates is being worked out by the railroads of the country, which will result in an increase of the revenues derived from their traffic. Nows of the filing of notices with the interstate Commerce Commission of new rates shows the movement to be widespread and the changes to represent increases as a rule. While nothing like a general increase has been attempted thus far, it is not believed that the result will be sought in a piecemeal manner. Shipping interests are by no means agreed with the contention of the railroads that these increases can be instituted without perceptible effect on prices of commodities and can thus hope to escape complaint and criticism while enabling the railroads to cover the margin of fixed charges and moderate profits without cutting down wages of employes. In spite of protests of shippers in various organisations, it is evident that the increases in freight rates are going on and the effect on security prices is undeniably favorable.

The quick sale of the Delaware & Hudson bond issue and the advance in the premium on the new bonds in the market had some helpful influence. The engagement of $500.000 gold for export to Paris, being all the bar gold procurable, was practically ignored in the stock market Repayment of the quota of Government deposits called for by the Secretary of the Treasury was completed foday and preparations were completed for the 35 per cent payment of called for by the Secretary of the Treasury was completed today and preparations were completed for the 95 per cent payment of the subscriptions to the Union Pacific bonds tomorrow. With the effect of these transactions and the Delaware & Hudson bond sale barely perceptible in the maney market, the gold export excited no uneasiness. A break of four points in the Rick Island collateral 5s was a disturbing element in the later market, in which a considerable reaction occurred.

PORTLAND LIVESTOCK MARKET.

Prices Quoted Locally on Cattle, Sheep and Hogs.

Quiet conditions prevailed in the livestock market yeaterday. Lower prices were quoted on the best grades of sheep, as the result of recent heavy arrivals, and cowe also declined. According to the trade, a good deal of inferior and half-fattened stock is coming in now, and at this time of year, when the demand is always lighter, this naturally has a depressing effect on the market as a whole. Becopts yesterday were 250 sheep, 90 hogs. So cattle and 650 lambs.
