MUST PAY IN CASH

Publishers Cannot Give Advertising for Railway Tickets.

TEST CASE IS DECIDED

Value of Space Sold Having No Fixed Price, Makes Its Exchange for Mileage a Violation of Hepburn Law.

CHICAGO, July 15.—If it be lawful to make the exchange of railroad transportation for advertising then it would be lawful to do the same in every transaction, and the railroad business might lawfully become one of barter and sale, limited only by the demand. In a decision today by Judge C. C. Kohlman in the United States Circuit Court, from which the quotation is taken, the jurist enjoined the issuance of transportation by the Chicago, Indianapolis & Louisville Railway Company to the publishers of Munsey's Magazine in exchange for advertising. The decision was rendered in a test case, in which the Federal authorities brought suit to prevent the carrying out of a contract entered into January, 1907, between the railroad company and Frank A. Munsey & Co., providing for the issuance of trip tickets or mileage to the value of $300 in consideration of certain advertising space in the publication of the magazine. The contract was alleged to be a violation of the Hepburn law. The petition charges that the action of the railway company in issuing such transportation constitutes a violation of prohibition against the acceptance of any compensation for transportation "greater or less or different" from that named in the published rates. The railroad company insisted that it received a full money value based on schedule rates for the mileage or tickets issued and denied that it was committing a violation of the law.

in somewhat similar cases, Judge Kohlman says:

"It will be noted that the contract does not require that the advertising must have been furnished before the transportation is given. There is no restriction upon the part of the advertiser to call for his railroad tickets only so far as earned. In the mere matter of interest the rate would be less and different from that which is pending.

Trend Toward Law Enforcement.

"There is no mistaking the trend of the law making and constraining powers. Every step is tending toward a most rigid enforcement of the rule that requires exact equality in the matter of rates. When, not only the word 'equal' but the word 'equally' was added to the words 'greater or less.' It is not unfair to assume that Congress intended to make the law more explicit and more difficult to evade. The plain intention is to close every avenue of discrimination. Bearing this in mind, the courts have not been and will not be disposed to hesitate in giving effect to changes in the language of the statutes as they occur from time to time. It is essential to the spirit of the statute that the value of transportation be fixed and certain. In no other way can it be held to be exactly the same to all. If one person may purchase it with advertising, another with labor and another with produce, the value of which is a matter of agreement between the parties, how can it be said the schedule rate is always maintained? Would not the rate rest in the whim of the carrier? Such is not the intent of the law. To say to one man, 'you must pay cash,' and to his competitor, 'you may pay in services or merchandise at prices we may agree upon' is not less or more than the market prices. It seems clearly to constitute such a difference of transportation as condemned by the act. Some claim is made that the Government's contention would exclude the use of checks, drafts and bills of exchange. This is without weight. In practical business usage those instruments pass for cash. The action of the defendant is in dissonance with the letter and spirit of the Interstate Commerce Act."

Notice of an appeal to the United States Supreme Court was immediately given by the attorneys for the railroad company.

MAN HUNT IN CALIFORNIA

Sheriff and Posse Now Scouring the Hills for Desperate Italian Outlaw in the Feather River Canyon.

MARYSVILLE, Cal., July 15.—

Sheriff Chubbuck and a posse of 20 men are scouring the hills up and down the Feather River canyon for Adolph Julius, alias Pietro Rassi, who killed Antonio Laborato and Giovanni Pucini yesterday at Camp No. 29 on the Western Pacific Railroad. The crime was committed in cold blood. Julius was compelled by his fellow workmen to leave the camp where he was employed last March, after a dispute regarding wages. He then threatened to be revenged. On Monday evening he returned and camped about a mile from the place. Early yesterday morning he took his rifle and hid behind some brush within range of the tent where the men slept. As they came out he picked them off with his rifle. One dropped alongside a dump-car, and the other was shot while climbing a small embankment and fell into a ravine. Three other took refuge behind boulders and escaped. Julius then shot three times at Foreman Martin and his wife, a bullet clipping off a piece of the woman's clothing. The murderer made his escape without difficulty, as he had terrorized all the men in the camp. He is a desperate man, well armed, and is hiding in a very rugged country. The three men who escaped his bullets later joined the pursuing posse. Julius is an Italian, as were his victims.

APARTMENT HOUSE SHAKEN

Bomb Explosion Hurts Fashionable New Yorkers From Beds.

NEW YORK, July 15.—A dynamite bomb exploding with terrific force early today in the rear of a fashionable apartment-house in West 146th street, hurled scores of the occupants from their beds, shattered many windows and threw the tenants into a panic. A huge hole was torn in the cement flooring of the court where the bomb went off, and considerable damage was done to the building. There were 42 families living in the apartment-house, but so far as the police can learn none of them had received threatening letters, and the reason of the bomb-throwing is a mystery. The only clue is furnished by a bellboy of a nearby apartment-house. He said that immediately before the explosion he was sitting on the front steps and saw three men pass, one carrying a large small bundle and walked in the direction of Watts Court, where the bomb later exploded. The boy did not see the men enter the building, as an express wagon shut off his view, but a moment later he heard the crash of the explosion, the force of which threw him from his chair and an instant later three men ran swiftly down the street. Almost directly across the street from Watts Court is the old Watts Manor apartment building. That same evening the boy, Pinckney, 30 years old, one of the heirs of the Watts estate. The block in which the explosion occurred is occupied by high-class apartment-houses. Detectives say that if it proves to be an attack by members of the Black Hand it will be the first of the kind in New York directed toward the wealthier class of residents.

CREMATED WITH OIL

Horrible Death of Two Men in California Field.

WHOLE COUNTRY AFLAME

Four Tanks in Succession Explode, Scattering Burning Fluid Afar. Flames Eat Railroad and Creep Underground.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 15.—

Two men are dead and property valued at about $100,000 was destroyed as the result of a fire in the Santa Maria oil fields at Orcutt, the principal pumping and shipping station of the Union Oil Company and the Standard Oil Company. The fire is still raging, but it is believed this evening that the town can be saved from the flames. Four huge tanks, holding 20,000 barrels of oil each, have been consumed. Men Cremated Alive. In the explosion of one tank, two workmen, who were fighting the fire in an effort to keep it off the pumping station, were overwhelmed with boiling, burning oil and one was instantly killed and his body consumed by the flames. The other was rescued by co-workers, but crazed with pain and blinded by the oil, he broke into his rescuers and rushed madly barreling into the burning oil. The dead men are L. L. Stevens and Frank Curtis, both employed by the Union Oil Company. The fire started at midnight last night, presumably from crossed electric wires, which ignited a stack near one of the tanks. Soon the oil was boiling over and explosion followed explosion. The tank parted at the seams, throwing scalding oil many yards about. For five hours the fire-fighters kept the flames confined to the first tank, but soon the burning oil began flowing over and around the other tanks, until four were on fire. The river of burning oil spread to the pumping plant, which was damaged to the extent of $20,000. Flames Eat Up Railroad. A tank car on the Pacific Coast Railroad caught fire and the flames spread along the track, the ground being saturated with oil until ties and bridges were all burned out and the rails were warped and broken by the intense heat. The boiling oil soon entered the pipe line, and underground explosions followed. Many thousand barrels of oil in the pipes were destroyed. Embankments to prevent the further spread of the oil are now being thrown up. The fire will seriously interfere with shipments of oil from these fields, as it is estimated it will take three months to repair the damage to the pipe lines and pumping stations. Troops Start for Wyoming. SALT LAKE, July 15.—Six hundred and 30 officers of the Fifteenth Infantry, U. S. A., left here in three

DIES UNDER FALSE NAME

Hartridge's Wife Hurried From Pittsburg for Burial.

PITTSBURG, July 15.—

After an illness of 10 days in the Homeopathic Hospital, this city, Mrs. Clifford W. Hartridge, wife of the New York attorney who defended Harry K. Thaw, died Monday of cerebrospinal meningitis. That same evening the body was shipped to Canton, N. Y., the home of her parents. The superintendent of the hospital says she was brought there under another name. Only after death was her identity made known. She was visited almost daily by her mother and brother, who were with her when she died. Dr. Z. T. Miller, who attended Mrs. Hartridge, refuses to talk about the case. While much mystery surrounds the illness of Mrs. Hartridge, her death clears up the mystery of her disappearance from New York during the latter part of the Thaw trial. Her relatives refused to discuss her disappearance and friends said at the time that her married life was happy. The first publicity of her disappearance followed a report to the New York police on October 5. It was said at the time that Mrs. Hartridge had developed a nervous affection.

Ship Subsidy Works Well.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15.—W. Cameron Forbes, a member of the Philippine Commission, arrived here on the steamship Korea, accompanied by Jose Luis de Lueriaga, a member of the commission, both on a six months leave of absence. Speaking of conditions in the islands, Commissioner Forbes said: "Transportation was the big problem that faced the commission when it took charge of the islands. By means of a subsidy we have built up an inter-island merchant marine of which we feel proud. The commission assists the private shipowner to the extent of $100,000 a year. Our waterways are being put into good shape. Railroad development is slow, but when the roads planned and in course of construction have been built, we will have opened up a wide stretch of territory. We are getting good roads gradually. We need them probably worse than anything else. Our islands are in fine shape, and the experiment of letting the people govern themselves is a success as far as it has gone."

SEEK WILSON MURDERERS

Detectives Follow Clues Found in Voluminous Correspondence. PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—An investigation along new lines has been begun in the case of Dr. William H. Wilson, who was killed by drinking poisoned ale. This new move was made after the District Attorney's office had read many of the 1000 letters found in Wilson's office. The majority of these letters came to Wilson from women patients, and detectives have been sent to various cities to run out new clues with the hope that in the correspondence lies the solution of the mysterious case. Former patients of the murdered man will be visited by the detectives and no effort will be spared to shed some light which will lead to the arrest of the murderer of the poisoned ale. John Hays Hammond III. GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 15.—John Hays Hammond, the mining expert, is at his residence here recovering from a serious illness caused by eating lobster, according to a statement given out by the family today.
