

RIFLE MATCHES WILL OPEN TODAY

Best Marksmen in Oregon National Guard to Compete at Salem.

KEEN RIVALRY DISPLAYED

Every Company City in State, Except The Dalles and Dallas, Represented in Annual Shoot for Military Trophies.

CAMP RUGE, Or., July 19.—(Staff Correspondence.)—One hundred National Guard riflemen, the best marksmen of the state, are under canvas here today, awaiting the opening of the annual rifle competition of the Oregon National Guard, which begins bright and early tomorrow morning.

Unusual interest attaches to this year's shoot, from the fact that the new Springfield service rifle is being used, and in addition, there will be a well-defined struggle for supremacy between the Third and Fourth Infantry Regiments. While this struggle will manifest itself throughout, it will find its zenith in the Governor's trophy match, wherein teams of eight picked men representing each regiment will try for regimental supremacy, the winning team to take the handsome trophy especially selected and designed for the event.

SOUTH HAS FINE SHOTS. Southern Oregon is represented by formidable riflemen, some of the very best shots of the Coast hailing from Roseburg, Eugene, Cottage Grove and Ashland. Portland and other Third Infantry stations are represented by an array of experts, who are well able to give the best possible account of themselves in any sort of competition, and while these men have been handicapped to a large extent by improper range facilities for practice, their chances in the Governor's trophy are excellent. The Third Infantry is confident of victory; the Fourth is equally sure, and nobody is offering odds either way. The contest will be worth travelling far to see.

The competitions open in the morning with the state trophy match, for company championship. There will be slow fire at 400 and 600 yards, and rapid fire at 200. The prize is a silver cup to be held until won in three successive competitions, when it becomes company property. The distance to be followed by the state medal match, which likely will be reached late in the afternoon, or before noon of Tuesday. It is open to all members competing for the state trophy. The distance to be similar and the prize will be a gold medal.

State Individual Match. The state individual match, a rifle event of the greatest importance, will follow, opening possibly on Wednesday if not late Tuesday. It will open with a skirmish run, followed by 200-yard rapid fire, and then 200, 400, 500 and 1000 yards slow. A gold medal will be awarded the competitor making the highest aggregate score. Five silver medals and five bronze medals will also be awarded in this match. Then will follow the Governor's trophy match, with rapid fire at 400 yards and slow fire at 200 and 1000, and this in turn will be succeeded by an important match in the Oregon Guard, by way of a state pistol match, open to all commissioned officers. There have been an unexpectedly large number of entries for this event.

With the arrival this afternoon of the Roseburg delegation, all competing teams are now in the preliminary arrangements. The Third Infantry teams coming early in order to get practice on the long ranges, which are not included in the Portland range. General satisfaction is expressed with the Salem range, which has been remodeled and put in shape for the state shoot.

Rifle Camp Is Ideal. An ideal camp has been established by Captain L. K. Knapp, the tents being pitched in an orchard with the Willamette River in the immediate background one mile west of Salem. The camp equipment and the mess facilities are of the best, and complaint is not possible, even from those known as most accomplished grumblers.

Adjutant-General W. E. Finzer, as executive officer, has general supervision of the camp and competition, and has left no stone unturned in his arrangements unattended to. He has adopted the rules used by the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice governing the National rifle competition for 1908, and these rules will be rigidly enforced by the range officers.

INAUGURATE SUMMER BIBLE SCHOOL. President H. M. Crooks.

ALBANY, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—In the Summer Bible school, which is now in progress in this city, President H. M. Crooks, of Albany College, has inaugurated an innovation in the religious work of Oregon. Not only do he originate the idea of holding this school, but he has borne the principal work of arranging for it, and is now at the head of the school and is making it a success. It is planned to make the Bible school an annual event here and enlarge it and place it on the same relative basis as the Chautauque gatherings held in other parts of the state. Besides rendering efficient service as the head of Albany College, President Crooks has been prominently identified with many movements for the betterment and upbuilding of the city of Albany.

CROWDS AT BIBLE SCHOOL. Sermons Delivered Afternoon and Evening at Bryant's Park.

ALBANY, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—Large crowds greeted the speakers at the Summer Bible School today. None of the regular school work was carried on, but sermons were delivered in the afternoon and evening at the school open air auditorium in Bryant's Park. Rev. Dr. Selby Frame Vance, of the Lane Theological Seminary, of Cincinnati, delivered the afternoon sermon on the subject, "Paul the Bold." This evening the sermon was pronounced by Rev. Dr. L. R. Rader, of Portland, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate. Almost all of the churches of the city held no regular services this evening on account of this sermon and the auditorium was crowded. This morning two of the leading instructors of the school occupied local pulpits. Dr. Vance spoke in the First Presbyterian Church, and A. H. Crooks, of Toledo, O., spoke in the United Presbyterian Church. The regular daily conferences of the Bible School will begin again in the morning and will continue until Monday, July 21.

MERCURY CLIMBS TO HIGH POINT

Yesterday Equals Record Hot Days of Present Summer.

THERMOMETER REACHES 92

Reports From Various Cities of State Show Conditions Are Even More Torrid in the Interior—No Prostrations.

Oregon's hot weather record for 1908 was equaled locally yesterday when the thermometer registered 92 degrees. Between 11 A. M. and 3 P. M. the temperature increased 19 degrees or from 82 to 92 degrees, continuing stationary at the latter point until after 6 o'clock. The same temperature was recorded on two previous occasions this summer, as follows: June 29 and July 7. No prostrations from the heat, however, were reported during the day.

The degree of heat varied in different sections of the state. The highest temperature was recorded at The Dalles where a thermometer on one of the bluffs surrounding the city registered 108 degrees. In the business district the thermometers averaged about 104 degrees. In the Southern part of the state the heat was not so oppressive. Eugene reported a temperature around 96 degrees.

Decidedly more tropical weather was experienced at Jacksonville in the extreme Southern part of the state where the maximum temperature for the day was 104 degrees. At Albany the people sweated while the thermometer hovered around the 99-degree point. Salem had 96 degrees, Corvallis, 92, Pendleton, 90, while McMinnville remained cool with thermometers at 88. Portland people took to shady nooks and accustomed spots yesterday and endeavored to escape the tropical heat of the city. Every excursion boat which left the city was crowded almost to the limit and launches, sailboats and rowboats of every class and build were pressed into service. Picnic parties dotted the river banks between Portland and Vancouver and Portland and Oregon City.

The steamer Beaver left the Couch-street dock with 200 members of a German society. The crew was prepared for a good time. The steamer J. N. Teal left the Oak-street dock with 200 members of the M. A. C. C. who were bound for the Lewis River on an annual picnic. The Teal returned to Portland at 6:30 P. M.

The capacity of the steamer Bailey Gatzert was taxed almost to the limit. She sailed from Portland for the Cascade Locks with 600 passengers on board. On the river there was a breeze blowing which tempered the superheated atmosphere to a pleasant degree. Sun burned faces and hands were features of the day.

Unlike former warm days of the summer, it continued hot all last night. People about the city who work until late in the morning went home at 2 and 3 o'clock this morning with their coats off. The hourly temperature in this city during the day as reported by District Forecaster Dealy, was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Time and Temperature. 5 A. M. 84, 7 A. M. 87, 9 A. M. 89, 11 A. M. 92, 1 P. M. 92, 3 P. M. 92, 5 P. M. 92, 7 P. M. 92, 9 P. M. 92, 11 P. M. 92.

HOTTEST DAY FOR THE DALLES. Thermometer in Parts of City Registered as High as 108.

THE DALLES, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—The hottest day of the season was not possible here for the thermometer varied between 101 and 108 degrees during the afternoon. The maximum of 108 degrees was reached shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon, but despite this high mark comparatively little distress was felt, and no prostrations were reported.

LOSS OF $125,000 FALLS ON SIMPSON LUMBER COMPANY, OWNER OF THE BUILDING, AND NUMEROUS TENANTS—STRUCTURE NOT INSURED.

MARSHFIELD, Or., July 19.—One of the most destructive fires in the history of Coos Bay occurred at North Bend this morning at about 1 o'clock in the Clark Woolen Mills building. The flames had gained such headway before water could be got to the building that it was destroyed, with all its contents. The structure was 259 feet long by 70 feet wide and three stories high. There was also a large boiler and engine-room and large dry sheds. The plant was one of the best equipped on the Coast, the building and machinery being valued at $250,000. There was no insurance on the property. The mill has not been operated for the past two years. It was built in 1903. It was owned by the Simpson Lumber Company.

E. M. Ward, dealer in machinery and logging supplies had a $25,000 stock on the lower floor, which was totally destroyed with only $1000 insurance, he having allowed a $10,000 policy to lapse about two weeks ago, intending every day to have renewed it. The Beaver Engine Works, dealers in gasoline engines and boats, also occupied part of the lower floor. Their loss is estimated at $400 with $300 insurance. The Simpson Lumber Company, the owners of the mill, had about $15,000 worth of wire rope and cable stored on the lower floor, which was rendered valueless by the fire. It was without any insurance. The North Bend Shingle Mill's loss on shingles on the wharf was $800 and North Bend Manufacturing Company's loss on lumber stored on the wharf about $500.

This mill was built on piling adjoining the city wharf, which was damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars. The fact that there was no wind and hard fighting on the part of the volunteer fire department confined the fire to this one plant, but for some time it looked as if the Western Oregon Company, about 200 feet distant with a stock of groceries valued at about $100,000, was doomed; also the Coos Bay Condensing plant on the other side with 5000 cases of condensed milk ready for shipping.

If either of these buildings had burned the following plants also would have gone up in smoke: Coos Bay Manufacturing Company, North Bend Manufacturing Company, North Bend Shingle Company, North Bend Lumber Company and city warehouse and docks. The origin of the fire is unknown.

MALTED BARLEY is digested food. Hops are a tonic —also an aid to sleep. That's what you get in beer. That's why the doctor says "drink beer" when one lacks vitality.

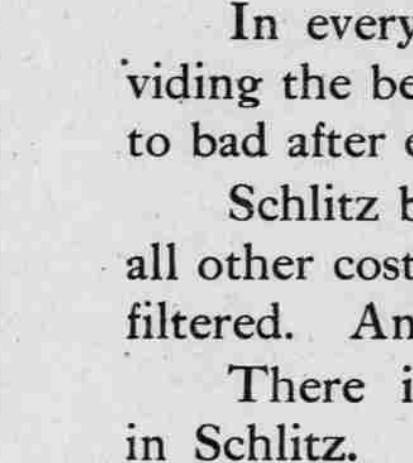

Beer quiets the nerves, not because of the alcohol. There is only 3 1/2 per cent. of that. But because of the hops, for hops are soporific.

A bottle of Schlitz at bedtime induces sleep.

In every way the drinking of beer is good for you, providing the beer is pure. It is only the wrong beer that leads to bad after effects and to biliousness.

Schlitz beer is pure. We spend more on purity than on all other costs of our brewing. Even the air that cools it is filtered. And every bottle is sterilized.

There is all the good of beer, and none of the harm, in Schlitz.
