

SMALLER FARMS NEED OF VALLEY

Railroad Men Indorse Plan to Increase Population in Rural Districts.

WORK WITH REALTY BOARD

Improvement of Agricultural Conditions Included in Project Dis- cussed at Meeting at Which Big Interests Are Represented.

Managers of the railroads centering in Portland gave their hearty indorsement yesterday to a plan to split up the farms of the Willamette Valley into smaller holdings and improve agricultural conditions generally throughout Western Oregon. Better farming environments, increased productivity and denser population, it was said, would follow the changes outlined.

The project was set on foot by the Portland Realty Board and the committee having it in charge met at the Commercial Club yesterday, where the railroad men had been asked to confer with the real estate board. The result of the meeting was most favorable to the success of the plan and the committee will make its report within a few days to the Realty Board. There is little question but that the report will be a favorable one and that the movement will be taken up actively.

Whitney L. Boise Presides.

Representative railroad men met with the committee yesterday and made brief talks which were all favorable to the change in agricultural methods in Western Oregon. Whitney L. Boise, who called the meeting on behalf of the real estate board, presented and introduced the subject by outlining a plan whereby the large farms of the Willamette Valley should be divided and more efficient farming methods followed. He pointed out the benefits that would follow such action.

Dr. James Withycombe, director of the Oregon Experiment Station, at Corvallis, spoke, saying the plan is practical and urged those present to undertake the project, he believing it the biggest thing that can be done for the development of the country. He said the proposed change in conditions would benefit the farmer and it would bring about a far denser population for the country directly tributary to Portland.

Francis K. Frank, president of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway; R. B. Miller, general freight agent for the Harriman lines in this territory; G. W. Talbot, general manager of the Oregon Electric Railway; Benage S. Josselyn, president of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, spoke and favored the project and assured the realty men of the full co-operation of the various railroads they represent.

Added Wealth for Producers.

C. C. Colt, of the Union Meat Company, and George M. Brown, president of the Portland Packing Company, spoke, showing what can be accomplished along the lines suggested in increasing the dairy and livestock products of Western Oregon. Mr. Colt added wealth to the producers. E. L. Thompson of the Realty Board, spoke encouragingly on the subject, and H. A. Meyer, of Chicago, who was a visitor to the club yesterday, was introduced by Tom Richardson and gave an interesting discussion of the value of modern scientific agriculture and the benefits of smaller and better cultivated farms. He heartily approved of the plan and said it was the best project he had heard since he has been on his present trip west from Chicago.

As soon as the committee of the Realty Board has reported to the organization, it is expected the members will start active work on a proposition to bring about the changes desired. A campaign along these lines will be launched that promises to be of great benefit to this state.

CHANGES IN STREETCAR LINES

Eleventh and Thirteenth Streets Service Will Be Combined.

Marked changes will be made in the operation of cars on Eleventh and Thirteenth streets if a proposition now under consideration by the officials of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company is approved by the Council and the franchisees asked for by the street railway company are granted. It is planned to extend the Eleventh-street line to Hall and build a track on that to Thirteenth and on Thirteenth to Portland Academy, the present terminus of the Thirteenth-street line. This will form a loop so that cars from the downtown district will run up Harrison to Eleventh, on Eleventh to Hall and back on Thirteenth to Washington and down Washington to Third or Second.

By this means, says President Josselyn of the trolley company, the number of cars on the run can be increased and a better service given. "People of this district have been clamoring for better service for some time," said President Josselyn. "The present traffic, with cars operated independently on the Eleventh and Thirteenth-street lines, does not justify the present service but it is thought that by putting the two lines together and operating them together the service desired can be given."

"While this plan may not be satisfactory to everyone living in the district, it seems the best that the company can make out of a bad proposition and will no doubt in the end be appreciated by all."

Another plan is up for consideration whereby the streetcar company will abandon the tracks on Fourteenth street, between Gilsan and Thurman streets. This district, formerly occupied by warehouses, has been given up almost wholly to warehouses and very little traffic for a streetcar line is offered. The North and South Portland cars, which are now operated on Fourteenth street, will be routed on Sixteenth street instead and the Fourteenth-street tracks torn up. This will give double the present frequency of service on Sixteenth as at present between Gilsan and Thurman. It is also proposed to give up a short piece of track on Nineteenth street, from Thurman to Sherlock avenue, and all the track on Sherlock avenue. A new track will then be built on Twenty-first street from Thurman to Sherlock avenue.

The abandonment of any present tracks cannot be accomplished, however, without reducing the amount of the bonded debt, which is impracticable, or by building an equal amount of new track in some other locality to preserve the existing equities.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR H. CLUTE, CAUGHT BY OREGONIAN PHOTOGRAPHER JUST AS THEY WERE LEAVING CITY JAIL FOR COUNTY JAIL.

FAIR SUSPECT IS ANGRY

ALLEGED DIAMOND THIEF RE- SENTS JAIL LIFE.

Pretty Mrs. Arthur Clute Greatly Perturbed Over Indignities Upon Herself and Her Infant Child.

Protesting that she had never before ridden in a patrol and begging to be removed in a carriage, Mrs. Arthur H. Clute, accused of the theft of $2000 worth of jewels, was yesterday transferred from police headquarters to the County Jail. Her husband, also in custody, and 9-month-old baby, accompanied her.

For 24 hours she was a prisoner in the women's ward of the City Jail, under the care of Matron Simmons. It is the first time, according to Mrs. Simmons, that a woman has been imprisoned in the City Jail with a child. Obnoxious to her surroundings, the child laughed and played and entertained other prisoners in the women's ward.

Mrs. Clute is indignant as a result of her arrest. So also is her husband, who purely a "frame-up," she declares, and somebody is sure to suffer for the indignities heaped upon her.

CLUB TO BANQUET BRUSH

Dinner in Honor of New Comman- der at Vancouver.

Members of the Arlington Club will give a complimentary dinner to Brigadier-General Daniel F. Brush tonight in the banquet room of the club, to which his staff has been invited, and about 50 members of the club will attend. The affair promises to be a brilliant one.

General Brush has lately come to take command of the Department of the Columbia, U. S. A., with headquarters at Vancouver Barracks. The dinner tonight will be in the nature of a welcome to his new post of duty. About 15 members of his staff will probably attend.

Ex-Senator Gearty, president of the Arlington Club, will act as toastmaster and a few prominent members of the club will be called upon to speak, and General Brush will probably make a short reply to the good wishes expressed by his hosts. Relations of the club organization and the officers at the Vancouver garrison have always been of the most pleasant character and it is the desire of the club members to make the new commander feel that he has the best wishes of Portland people at his new post of duty.

SPIRITUALIST ROW IS CASE OF BUTTON, WHO HAS THE BUTTON?

State and National Organizations Are Waging Legal Warfare as to Respec- tive Standing of Their Orders in the Local Courts.

"B"UTTON, button, who's got the button?" That was the game that was played in Judge Bronaugh's court with a few slight variations, yesterday morning. The books and records of the State Spiritualist Society were substituted for the "button" and Green C. Love was "B"utton. But as he didn't call the spirits to his aid in finding the records, he was still "B"utton when Court adjourned at noon, the Judge deciding that whoever had the books might keep them until Love succeeds in locating them.

Love is suing Mrs. Sophia B. Selp, Virginia Howe, Mrs. Lou Ellen Corneil, Mrs. Fannie Branch, Mrs. Belle M. Haviland, Miss Jennie Werber and Edwin King, to assist him as directors of the state association, and to recover $2000 damages from each of them on the charge that they have been holding office illegally. Yesterday's session in court was the result of an order issued by Judge O'Day against Mrs. Selp and Mrs. Corneil directing them to come into court and show cause why they should not turn over the state association, to Love, who is a member of the National Spiritualists' Association and is known as a "missionary."

Had No Right Here.

Attorney Ralph Dunway appeared for Mrs. Selp, while Mrs. Corneil was not represented in court although present herself. Mr. Dunway contended that the president of the National Spiritualists' Association has no right to come to Oregon and oust the officers of a body incorporated in this state. "It is a very small matter, anyway. Your Honor," said Mr. Dunway. "New officers are to be elected in September. The plaintiff wants this court to put this corporation in the hands of Yanckwich, as attorney in fact, and give the plaintiff $2000 damages from each of the defendants because they are not in the particular brand of spiritualists he thinks they should be."

DEBTS ARE WIPED OUT

OREGON TRUST OBLIGATIONS CUT 65 PER CENT.

Receiver Has Realized Promptly on Assets of Defunct Institution Now in Merger.

That 65 per cent of the liabilities of the defunct Oregon Trust & Savings Bank has been liquidated since the assets and bad debts of the failed institution have been taken over by the German-American Bank, is the most interesting feature of the report of Receiver Devin filed with the court yesterday. Although Receiver Devin has two years in which to wind up the affairs of the defunct bank and meet the claims against it, he has made this splendid showing in four months and a half.

From the liabilities listed January 15 at $2,208,455.15, the indebtedness has been reduced to $628,285.05. Assets were listed in January at $2,135,594.88 and they are now $719,051.24. The report is dated at the close of business June 26.

From the progress made so far, it appears that much less than the two years granted by the courts will be needed to wind up the affairs of the closed institution. However, the best of the assets have been realized upon, as the most available to close the accounts so far satisfied and the remaining debts to be paid off will not be handled so readily. But the success of the new management of the affairs of the club membership in the collection of the outstanding loans in so short a time shows good persistent work.

Telephone bonds, which were credited with having swamped the bank, a little over a year ago because of the apparently childlike faith of the bank's managers in the security until they bought a total of $1,100,000, happily been reduced to about $324,000.

VALLEY WHEAT CROP GOOD

Heavy Yield of Fall Grain About Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—The farmers of this section are preparing for the approaching harvest. Wagons, headers, and everything appertaining to the harvest outfit is being fitted for use. In the meantime many self-binding harvesters have gone to the fields today. The report is that a better yield from the fall-sown grain will be realized than during the last year. On account of the late hot, dry weather fears are expressed in regard to spring-sown grain crops, but it will not mature in good form. However, in years past, when dry seasons occurred, this same complaint has been heard, but in every instance the grain has come to the warehouses sounder and heavier than in years when there was greater precipitation.

The only complete and unaltered Saxon crypt in Britain is that of Haxham Abbey, it being built wholly of Roman stones, there being also many Saxon stones imbedded in the new walls of the building.

DRISCOLL'S VETOES MAY NOW STAND

Driscoll's Vote Will Allow the Council Minority to Block Measures of Majority.

LIVELY SESSION EXPECTED

Ordinances Proposing Erection of New City Jail and Exclusion of Women From Saloons Will Come Up Today.

Today's session of the City Council bids fair to be worth attending. Aside from a number of important measures that are coming up for action, it will be notable as the first meeting of that body in which M. J. Driscoll, Councilman-at-Large, will appear as a member of the majority faction. It will be interesting, also, to note what effect his desertion from the ranks of the so-called "solid ten" will have upon legislation. He is but one of 15 members, but much depends upon his action just at this time. Desperate efforts are being made, both by majority and minority leaders, to "land" Mr. Driscoll, and it remains to be seen whether he will vote with the minority henceforth, or will wreak vengeance for a time only by so doing, and then return to the opposite faction.

Mr. Driscoll is about as angry as it is possible for a city legislator to be and contain himself, because he believes that he has been used as a sort of a mat by his associates of the "solid ten," and he has publicly declared that he will no longer act with the majority. The greatest fight he ever led was in attempting to keep alive a license for the Pullman cafe, an Alder-street resort, and when he was in the thickest of the battle, he says his colleagues deserted him and let him go down to defeat.

OLD-TIME sailor men must have been, in a way, different from those of today. The frame two-story building at the northwest corner of Fourth and Ankeny streets, being razed to make room for the modern warehouse to be occupied by the Pacific Paper Company, was, years ago, the quarters of the Seaman's Institute. The outer framework fell to the ground yesterday afternoon leaving the plastered walls of the upper story exposed to view. In a circular line on the west wall were in big black letters the words of the commandment—"Thou Shalt Not Steal." No other word of admonition appeared, which leaves the impression on the passerby that larceny was the besetting sin of the sail of former days.

The old buildings on the half block are being torn away by C. J. Cook & Co., which firm is also clearing the ground of the old building at Fifth and Stark from the quarter block on which Guy Lombard is to erect a modern structure and also the corner of Sixth and Alder on the Meier-Frank company's site of their ten-story building.

Many of Cook & Company's teams are at the job, and as the work passes through the streets hauling building material to and from the new buildings it looks like a Democratic campaign procession.

Pilot Rock Alfalfa Fields Ruined by Horde of Insects.

PENDELTON, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—For the first time in many years, grasshoppers are creating havoc in the alfalfa fields and gardens in the vicinity of Pilot Rock. In some instances, the hoppers have seriously damaged the second and third cuttings of alfalfa. In the Birch Creek Valley, while gardens have suffered still more seriously, only on a much smaller scale.

The cause of the plague of insects is attributed to the dry Spring and early Summer, though why their operations should be confined to the southern part of the county is not known.

Mr. Driscoll is about as angry as it is possible for a city legislator to be and contain himself, because he believes that he has been used as a sort of a mat by his associates of the "solid ten," and he has publicly declared that he will no longer act with the majority. The greatest fight he ever led was in attempting to keep alive a license for the Pullman cafe, an Alder-street resort, and when he was in the thickest of the battle, he says his colleagues deserted him and let him go down to defeat.

Driscoll Ready to Fight.

"They refused to help me when I needed their help, although I had acted with them for months and had supported them whenever they asked me," says Mr. Driscoll of his colleagues. "When I wanted them to stand by me, they turned me down hard. Now, you want to try and hold your breath until I support them again. I'll fight them right down the line, and show them what a real independent man can do in this Council."

Mr. Driscoll's attitude means more than the mere shifting from the majority to the minority faction. By voting with the five minority members, he makes it absolutely impossible for the majority faction henceforth to pass any measure over the veto of Mayor Lane, and it takes a two-thirds majority to do so, and the desertion of Mr. Driscoll leaves the majority lacking one vote. This will really leave the majority powerless to accomplish anything of importance in case of a veto.

That Mr. Driscoll is a hard fighter is acknowledged, and that there will be animated times at future sessions, unless he is won back to the majority, is predicted. He has already laid plans to retaliate on Councilman Wills, whom he considers as having been the prime mover in the recent defeat by the majority faction.

SAYS WILLS HAS AN OBJECT.

Mr. Wills has introduced an ordinance authorizing the Executive Board to sell the City Jail site and to use the money for the purchase of other property.
