Catholic Institute Discusses Educational Work.

ACKERMAN SPEAKS

Head of State Department Tells How Such Conventions Help to Improve System of Teaching in Vogue Here and Elsewhere.

The second day's session of the Catholic Educational Institute of Oregon was held at the West Side High School yesterday. The morning session, which opened at 9 o'clock was devoted to educational de-partment work, under the supervision of well-known local and visiting teachers from various parts of the state. This department is the most important feature of the institute and embraces studies from department to conversal beautiful. from elementary to commercial branches At II:30 o'clock the morning session ad-

The afternoon session was opened by ocal selections by Mrs. Frederick Olsen and Miss Lucille Ragsdale.

Superintendent Ackerman Talks.

Following the musical numbers J. H. Ackerman, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, delivered an address in which he said: "I am glad to come before a body which is doing so much for the upbuilding of the educational interests of the state as evidenced by seatherings of this kind and for the plea-sure in your greetings. I give you my most sincere acknowledgment. Our state has an educational system which is made up of three elements:

The Three Elements.

First-The schools, institutions and un dertakings of every form and type which are supported by public tax, and which are immediately controlled by public officials.

officials. "Second—The schools, institutions and undertakings of every form and type, which, while neither supported by public tax, nor immediately controlled by public officials, are established and maintained by the state's authority and per-mission, granted either by specific legisla-tive enactment or in pursuance of general provisions of land. Both these elements of the educational system are public in the full sense of the word. They rep-resent the public judgment, and base their resent the public judgment, and base their existence directly on public authority exercised through government. The fact that one of these elements is tax supported and the other not, that one is directly controlled by public officials and the other not, simply indicates that the state stands in a definite relation to the one and has no relation to the other.

"The third element in the educational system is however private it includes system is, however, private, it includes the schools, institutions and undertakings which are without specific governmental sanction or authority, but which exist because they are not forbidden. They fall within the sphere of liberty, not within the sphere of government, which two spheres added together, make up the entire activity of the state. These are the private educational institutions and undertakings of our state; for while the state through its government holds itself free to enter upon any part of the educa-tional field, it puts no obstacle in the way of its citizens doing the same thing, whether as individuals or groups, and the entire problem of education may be the entire problem of education may be summed up by saying that it is to secure the highest efficiency of all three of these elements in the educational system and their increasing co-operation and I take this opportunity of saying that such has been the policy of the state's educational department and so long as the present incumbent shall be in charge of same, it shall earnestly strive to make

How to Get Efficiency.

"The ways and means by which the The ways and means by which the department will proceed to secure efficiency and co-operation will differ according as its efforts are divided toward one or another of the three classes of institutions. With the third or private element in the state's educational system, the influence of the Department of Education will be exercised by persuasion, by conveying information and by holding up ideals. With the first and second elements, the Department of Education may deal more directly in ways which are fully set out in the statutes of the state. With-in the limits of the class of institutions first named, those supported by public tax, the authority of the Department of Education is direct and unquestioned

"The ways in which the state's officials may directly control the working of these private institutions are not many. Nevertheless, these institutions constitute a numerous and important body of educational workers and they represent a powerful educational opinion.

"The training of children is a work of such breadth and importance as to call for the studious attention of the deep-est thinkers, brightest intellects and

What Education Is.

"Education we know to be a process more easily described than defined. It is the unfolding of all the powers and faculties, physical, mental and moral, latent in man. It begins with birth and ceases only when the faculties fall. The teacher must not allow himself to become narrow, or to be shut in within the come narrow, or to be shut in within the close walls of the schoolroom. It is a principle almost as old and as fixed as the mountains 'Educate the child not for school but for life.' To know the demands of life, the teacher must keep in living contact with it. He must not allow the dust of the schoolroom to settle on the wings of his soul. Can a teacher who does not think make thinkers? Can the moon by any amount of reflected light. meen by any amount of reflected light ever become a luminous body? Teachers who are crammed with methods not stu-dled out and made their own, may bewho are crammed with methods not atu-ded out and made their own, may be-come indifferent schoolkeepers, but sure-ly they never can become enthusiastic and regressive educators.

"Members of this association, the smaller floods of ignorance obstruct our progress, the instruments of exact measurement are not as yet in our possession, but the principles of action are sufficiently well known; we have long since approximated the distance, the work of construction has well advanced, and all that now remains to be done is the erection and splicing tance, together of the spans and the announcement from authoritative sources that a oughfare lies this way."

Leahy, Somody and Andre, of France, tied for second place, each having topped the bar at six feet two inches, and although they tried it a quarter of an inch higher, none of them could accomplish it. It was decided to give each a silver medal and award the points for second and third places equally among the three countries. T. Moffit, of the University of Chicago, did six feet one inch, which, as he has been ill since coming to England, was a splendid performance.

Americans Win Many Heats.

The Americans suffered two disappointments in the heats of the 200-meter flat race, Lawson Robertson, Irish-American A. C., being defeated by Roche, the Irish champion, and F. W. May, University of Illinois, being compelled to take the dust of the fleet Compelled to take the dust of the fleet Canadian, Kerr. Considering, however, that the Americans entered seven of the 15 heats and took five of them, there is not much cause for complaint. In the heats of the 400-meter flat they took seven out of nine in which they started. The two heats in which they lost in this event were won by Haiswell, who is considered the best man in England at the distance and who did the heat today in 49 2-5 seconds, and Montague, the ex-champion of England, who beat Paul H. Great Crowd of Runners.

Trouble in the Clark family dates back to the Fall of 1894, when the elder Clark to September 14 made out a deed in favor of his wife, giving her all his property. The Americans, May and Stevens, lost their heat to Walker of South Africa and Kerr of Canada, but the other two heats were gathered in for America by Rector and Robertson. Walker equaled the Olympic record.

There were four heats in the semifinals of the 60-meter hurdle, in two of which Americans contested, and they took both of them, Harry L. Hillman, of the New York Athletic Club, and C. J. Bason, Irish-American Athletic Club, doing the trick. The other two went to Great Britain and in both cases in lower time than that made by the Americans.

Shephard's Great Victory.

Shephard's victory was the most sen-sational event of the meeting. Fair-bairn Crawford made the pace at the start and sprinted speedily for 300 yards, when Shephard passed him, fol-lowed by Lungi, Italy, and Just, the English champion. In the order nam-ed they raced around the back stretch. The three men formed the first division and the other runners soon fell con-siderably to the rear. Shephard estabsiderably to the rear. announced at the very moment that in 1907. Shephard was approaching the crowd. A number of supporters rushed out and the reculifted the American victor to their departm shoulders and bore him to his dressing was used exclusively by Mr. Clark, Sr. He is said to have then informed his wife that the papers were there, and that in case of his death it would save the estate from going through the hands of an administrator

The great mass of the spectators were deeply disappointed because England failed to get a place in this race.

Testimony was given to the effect that these papers were taken by Mrs. Eliza-beth Clark, and placed in a trunk, remaining in her possession, but forgotten, until the time of her death. They were then found by Mrs. Apperson, who had the deed recorded after which the heirs commenced suit.

Mr. Clark returned home safely from his European trip. Then Mrs. Clark died, and he married again. Mrs. Apperson said that her father compelled her, after her mother's death, to earn her board by doing the housework, refusing to employ a servant or to give her an allowance. She was at last ordered from the place she said.

Judge Gantenbein said yesterday that the question in the suit is whether or not these papers were ever delivered to Mrs. Clark. He held that they were not, and that they would be void when Mr. Clark The Court said that the testimony of Mr. Clark as to his intention that the deed was only to be used in case of his death, was frank and honest, and that the decision of the Court in favor of the elder Clark is borne out by the evidence. Attorneys Bernstein and Cohen inti-mated in court yesterday that they would appeal the case to the Supreme Court.

Judge Taft looks with some favor upon the rally and will upon his return from Cincinnati consider fixing a date in August for its occurrence. He coincided with the view expressed by the delegation that good politics dictated that an active campaign be made only in the good Old Dominion, but in North Carolina and Georgia. If I have any influence with the National committee," Mr. Taft is quoted as saying to the delegation, "a fight will be made in those states."

Gaines Opposes Publicity.

He told Mr. Taft that no political speech would be expected of him. The decision in this matter, size will sweat the Index return. matter also will await the Judge's return

While here Mr. Gaines spoke his mind against a National campaign publicity law, which would tend, he considered, to discredit the personal integrity of cam-paign managers and lower rather than raise the standard of morality in that quarter. "While such a law would not exactly be a premium on perjury," he said, "it would put veracity at a discount."

Judge Taft made his best golf score of the season today and played through several heavy showers. His partner was Senator Bourne, of Orgon, and each made th score of 91, while Frank B. Kellogg and J. H. Hoyt, of Cleveland, went down to defeat, 29 to 100.

Mr. Taft today declined an elephant of-fered by W. W. Powers, of Rhode Island. His answer was:

I am very much obliged to you for your generous offer, but I am afraid your elephant, were I to accept it, would be an elephant, indeed. You are very much better able to take care of him than I, and I hope, wherever he is, he will constitute a mascot, both for you and for me.
