JUTE SHORT CROP

Report From India of Decreased Acreage.

AFFECTS COST OF BURLAP

Oregon Canners Hold Back Announcement of Price List of This Season's Goods—No Future Delivery Business.

According to reports received by the New York Journal of Commerce from India the forecast for the coming jute crop as made by the Indian government falls to a 28 per cent decrease compared with the last yield. If this estimate proves to be well founded and should appear in the final returns, the result will be severely felt in this part of the country, on account of the advance in price of grain bags, wool sacks, hop-baling and other important industries here that make large use of burlap.

The market is reported as fairly steady at the present time, with full stocks in jobbers' hands, but many of these large holders will be unable to hold their stocks against a possible rise in prices next season. Many of these have obligations to meet in the banks that have advanced money on storage certificates and which will not be willing to carry over the loans for another year, even if the jobbers cared to run the risk of carrying over the stocks. For this and similar reasons the probability is that no apparent effect will come this season from the reported short crop. The Journal of Commerce report is as follows:

The preliminary forecast made by the Indian government regarding the jute acreage for the year 1908-9 was received yesterday. The figures given are 2,868,000 acres, a shrinkage of 28 per cent compared with the amount planted a year ago. This is about what was generally expected, and confirms the reports on jute that were published in these columns during the week, which stated that the jute acreage in India this year would be 27.2 per cent less than last year, although the estimates printed before were based on the returns from only a part of the jute growing districts.

There is a difference of opinion regarding the probable yield per acre. In some quarters it is contended that only 2⅓ bales of jute to the acre will be harvested, while other well-informed authorities believe that 2⅝ bales can be obtained from every acre sown. In the former case the total number of bales of jute will be about 7,100,000 and in the latter case 7,500,000.

If the government estimate is verified by the final forecast in September it will show that the acreage planted this year is the smallest since 1904. Among local dealers it is thought that the effect of the figures received yesterday will be to slowly strengthen the market. In the year of an abnormal burlap demand prices would harden immediately and a sharp upward flight of values would be the outcome; but while it is not considered likely that this will happen in the near future because of the slackness in the burlap trade, advices from Calcutta state that sellers have withdrawn from the market to await the effect of the forecast.

Moreover, it was reported that the director that issues the acreage figures has supplemented his report with a statement concerning the size of the holdover of old material, which this official is alleged to have stated would be quite small. This, however, could not be confirmed, and the general opinion here is that the amount of jute that will be carried forward will be close to 1,000,000 bales.

RETAIL GROCERS HOLD BACK.

Heavy Pack of All Varieties of Fruit Reason of Delay.

Retail grocers are holding off in placing their orders for future delivery canned fruits, principally for the reason that the pack this season promises to be extremely heavy, both in this state and in California. Oregon canners have not yet announced their prices for this season, but of course will do so before many days. All varieties of fruits are of prolific yield this year with the exception of plums and prunes, which are reported as dropping badly in the Santa Clara Valley, California.

Canners have made a large pack of cherries and berries and are now working apricots and the later varieties of cherries.

The Eastern packers are also prepared to handle unusually large amounts of fruit this season, and peaches, particularly, will reach former proportions. Last year the yield was small, but this year came back to normal. The following report is from a New York trade paper:

The peach crop from the Delaware peninsula last year amounted to only 188 cars, by reason of adverse conditions. It is expected that this year it will require more than 3500 cars to handle the output. With this idea in mind, the Pennsylvania Railroad is planning to send to the peninsula during the next six weeks a large number of refrigerators and ventilator cars. These will be stored on side tracks, and be ready for immediate use as the peaches are brought in from the orchard. Trains will then be made up as rapidly as the loaded cars accumulate, and the cars will be rushed to market on passenger train schedules.

Notes of the Wholesale Trade.

On account of the good prices prevailing in the country for cream, there is reported to be quite a marked falling off in the amount of country butter coming in to this market. Besides, the pastures are not in the best condition and supplies of cream are affected for that reason. There is a fairly good demand for country butter in San Francisco, and the occasional lots are sent there after butter is allowed to rest in cold storage a few days to get into some sort of shipping shape.

The last steamer brought up from California an assortment of mixed vegetables which were handled promptly. The lot was mostly of artichokes and celery.

New potatoes were quoted yesterday in some quarters at 90c with a fairly full supply reported. Oregon Burbanks were priced at 75@80c.

HARRIMAN NEEDS MILLIONS

Central Pacific Issue of $18,000,000 Bonds Rather Staggers Bond Market in New York, Causing Some Reaction.

NEW YORK, July 21.—An added weight of sales had to be borne by the stock market today and some effect was produced on prices by this pressure. The market comported itself on the whole in a manner to keep up the courage of those committed to a continuance of the rise in prices, showing good power of digestion of the selling and excellent recuperative force when the pressure lightened.

An element of the speculative holders was disposed to take profits on the rise already achieved, and another professional element, watchful for such a contingency, joined in the selling on the short side and offered prices down in an attack on the long position. The process of digestion of profits was healthy for the market and the building up of the short interest made a supporting factor for values.

Reading was a prominent sustaining force in the market and it was run up aggressively in the face of a declining tendency in the general list. There was no news to explain the strength of the stock. The suggestion found currency that the movement was in anticipation of an outcome of the suit to test the validity of the commodities clause of the Hepburn act in favor of the contention of the company.

The small effect produced on United States steel by the sales of it to realize and its aggressive recovery to a price higher than was touched yesterday was a sentimental sustaining influence on the whole market.

Reports were current that the revival in the steel trade was making such demands for additional cars in the Pittsburg district as to threaten a shortage in a few weeks and to cause a rush in the repair shops to replace equipment. Shops in that region, however, were under the disadvantage of the poor showing of the net earnings for June reported by the Baltimore & Ohio.

The announcement of an issue of $18,000,000 Central Pacific bonds proved of rather chilling effect, both to the stock and bond divisions of the market. Southern Pacific, which guarantees the bonds, was noticeably affected. The prospect of this amount of new supplies of offerings caused some reaction in the general bond market.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $4,708,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

PORTLAND LIVESTOCK MARKET.

Prices Quoted Locally on Cattle, Sheep and Hogs.

As is customary at this season of the year, when the ranges are burned with the excessive heat and grass, as a consequence, becomes hard for cattle to find, the quality sent in for slaughter is poor and scrawny. The local stockyards is receiving too many poor cattle to keep up prices, as might be done if the quality could be improved, and as a result the market is weak and growing weaker every day. No decline in former quotations has yet been announced, but it must come unless the receipts are of much better quality before long. Lambs shaded off 25c.

BULLS IN CONTROL

Various Schemes Fail to Beat Down Grain.

DAKOTA DROUGHT FACTOR

Reports Cause Dull Day on Chicago Board, but Market for September Wheat Remains Steady and Closes at 91 1-4.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Dullness prevailed in the wheat pit almost all day, but sentiment was inclined to be bullish. Commission houses and shorts were moderate bidders and offerings came chiefly from holders.

A report from a local crop expert who is now traveling in Western Canada, which claimed that the wheat crop had been greatly over-estimated, was the chief source of strength early in the day. The market was further strengthened by reports from South Dakota claiming that the crop in that section is beginning to show the effects of the recent prolonged drought.

Other factors that tended to stimulate demand were firm cables, light acceptances from the country and an active demand for cash wheat at the principal grain centers of this country.

The close was firm. September opened unchanged at 90⅝c, sold at 90½@90⅝c, and then advanced to 91⅛@91⅜c. The close was at 91¼c.

The corn market was rather weak all day on selling by commission houses and pit traders, due to ideal weather conditions for growing crops. The market closed easy. September opened ⅛c lower at 75⅝c, sold at 75⅞c and then declined to 75¼c. The close was at 75½c.

Oats were quiet, but firm. The close was strong. September opened unchanged at 43⅞c, advanced to 44c, and closed at 43⅞@44c.

Provisions were rather weak at the start, but developed decided strength in the latter part of the day and closed strong. At the close September pork was up 22½c at $15.82½; lard was 7½@10c higher at $9.35@9.37½, and ribs were 10c higher, at $8.85.
