LONDON, July 22.-Comparative gloom pervaded the American camp tonight. The athletes from over the seas had strongly cherished hopes of repeating yesterday's grand record-making clean sweeps in the track events, but a dark horse in the person of the South African youth, R. E. walker, upset the calculations. Walker broke the tape in what is considered the most important event in the Olympic games, the 100-meters dash, a short two feet in front of J. A. Rector, the University of Virginia crack, thereby putting an end to the extending an end to the extending and conditions. end to the astonishing succession of American triumphs which had begun to sadden the Britons. Shoulder and shoulder, Walker, Recto and the Canadian star, Kerr, ran down the straight course, with Carimell, the Pennsylvania sprinter, close behind. At the halfway mark Walker forged slightly shead, but at the tape less than a yard separated the first three men, with the Canadian only a few inches behind the Virginian in third place.

Want Everything in Sight.

The Americans did remarkably well at The Americans did remarkably well at the Stadium today but success had elated them to the point where they were satisfied with nothing less than everything in sight. A world's record by C. J. Bacon, of the Irish-American A. C. in the 400-meter hardies, which he won in 56 seconds, an Olympic record of 24 feet 64 inches by F. C. Irons, of the Chicago A. A., in the running broad jump; and the victory of G. S. Dole, of Yale, in the the victory of G. S. Dole, of Yale, in the featherweight wrestling, out of seven finals, should be a satisfactory day's performance. Great Britain, as usual, came second among the countries, with S. V. Bacon winning the middleweight wrestling, and the English team defeating the Belgians in the water polo.

Ovation to Walker.

The African colonial flag was raise to the masthead to signalize Walker great sprint and Finland, whose repreconquered all comers in the Graeco-Roman wrestling bouts, having no flag, brought forth the standard bearing the word "Finland," which the Finns carried in the opening parade, and it was elevated on the flagpole.

lifetime on an athletic when 40,000 people rose with a greet cheer and filled the sir with hats, while the boy, this morning unknown, but whose name fills London tonight, was lifted on the shoulders of enthusiastic only demonstration approaching this during the meeting was the tumult after Shephard's sensational tumult after Shephard's sensat in the 800 meters yesterday, but was feeble by comparison, because Wal-ker is a Britisher, and the English publie is not partial toward American suc-

Made Uppopular by Protests.

This is due partly to the fact that it is a bitter pill to the keenest-sporting nation on earth to take second place in any con-test and it is also true that the Americans incurred some unpopularity by their pro-tests, which the London newspapers and the Olympic officials interpret as flection upon the honesty of the English judges, and resented accordingly. The American contingent had feared that Kerr, the Canadian would rob it of the 100 meters, but had not considered Walker dangerous. No one accepted the National misfortune more gracefully than Rector. When spoken to regarding Walker's victory, the Virginian said: "Walker is a faster runner than I, and that is all there is to say."

London Mad for Athletics. The Olympic games are developing into a hugo success. While the meeting started discouragingly, with the weather and other conditions strongly against it. London is fast becoming athletic mad. People everywhere talk of nothing but the Olympian runners and jumpers and the women seem as much interested as the women seem as much interested as men. Great crowds gather around ticket offices to secure the best scale the final days and a big attendan.

It would be hard to imagine a finer spectacle than the Stadium presented today. From athletic, social and spectacular standpoints it quite equaled the expectations of the promoters. Quee Alexandra and other members of the contractions of the promoters. royal family were present and congratulated the African runner on his victory. The stands contained 40.000 persons, of whom at least one-half were women, whose multi-colored costumes presented a fascinating picture.

Americans Cheer Walker.

The American section was truly merican, with waving flags and noisemaking instruments. There was or-ganized cheering by a large band of collegians under the leadership of a frantic youth, brandishing a huge club and shouting "Rah, rah, rah, Bacon," which was heartly taken up by the others when the first American victor. of the day was proclaimed. This raught the fancy of the crowd immensely, as did the Americans cheering for Walker, who, although he de-feated their favorite, was as cordially, greeted as was their own countryman.

The picture in the arena was worthy of applanuse. When the Queen entered the royal box, the runners were striving with every muscle set in the 490-meters race around the track, divers were throwing double somersaults from the tower and brawny wrestlers were struggling in the Graeco-Roman contests. On the platform at either end of the oval a band of Danish women gymnasts, who were the most stractive novelty of the meeting, arrayed in white uniforms and yellow stockings, were engaged in a graceful exercise. The jumping events were conducted on the green turf in the center of the stadium and, altogether, today's meeting furnished a series of thrilling pictures and quite as much excitement and close finishes as yesterday.

Run Away From Englishmen.

In addition to Walker's sprint, the 400-meter hurdle and the semi-final heats of the 400 and 200 meters flat races were memorable events. The Americans had memoranic events. The Americans had the lundies to themselves. C. J. Bacon, the Irish-American A. C., and Harry L. Hillman, New York A. C., between whom there was as warm a rivairy as between the men of different nationalities, ran clear away from their English rivals, Burton and Tremer. The Americans rounded the turn yards ahead of the Englishmen and fought it out for first place in the stretch. Bacon reaching the tape slightly in the lead. On Hillman's previous record be was expected to win, for at the Olympic games in St. Louis,

Dan J. Kelly, Oregon Athlete, Who Wins Second Place in Broad Jump at Olympic

in 1904, he ran the distance in 52 secones, but as he had knocked down two hurdles, a world's record was not made. When he was defented today, Hill-man's bride, who was sitting in the stand, bust into tears.

Between Negro and Englishman.

J. B. Taylor, of the Irish-American A. C., the colored University of Pennsylvania runner, J. C. Carpenter, of Cornell University, and D. R. Robinson, of Yale, won their heats in the semifinals of the 400 meters with the English champion, Halswelle, as their only opponent for the final. Halswelle's feat in lowering the Olympic record was easily one of the most brilliant performances of the day. He covered the distance in 48 2-5 seconds, breaking Harry Hillman's record of 49 1-5 seconds, made at St. Louis in 1904. Taylor's time was 49 4-5 seconds. Halswelle is picked as the winner of the final, which will be tomorrow, but Taylor, if he is in his best form, Americans, at least, believe, may succeed in reaching the tape first. lish champion, Halswelle, as their only

R. Cloughen, Irish-American A. C., and N. J. Cartmell, University of Penn-sylvania, won two of the four semi-finals of the 200-meter and will oppose Kerr, of Canada, and Hawkins, of the United Kingdom, in the final. The public is backing the Canadian to win. All the heats in this event resulted in close finishes. W. F. Hamilton, Chiin close finishes. cago A. A., gave Kerr so close a race that a majority of the spectators henbeat George, who was England's chief hope, while Hawkins, in a heat in which no Americans were entered shut out Roche, another British favorite.

Diver's Narrow Escape.

A sensation occurred during the high diving. Cane, England's representative, struck the water heavily and failed to come to the surface. A bystander plunged the tank and brought Cane ashore The Englishman, however, suffered no more serious injury than a temporary loss The Olympic managers tendered their official thanks to the rescuer, whose name is Johaansen, and who is the holder of King Edward's cup for life-saving. Soon after this the German, Nicolia.

finished a double somersault from the high tower by striking the water at full length like a sandbag. An American, N. C. Grote, of the Missouri A. C., promptly dived after him, but the German, who came up almost immediately, rejected the offer of rescue and swam ashore unaided.

Portland dropped the second game of the series to Oakland yesterday simply because an attenuated personage known as Nelson was exceedingly stingy with his allowance of hits, while our Jesse Garrett was anything but a puzzle to the Athenian outfit after the fifth inning. The Oaks scored four runs, while the best our boys could do was to prevent a shutout, one lone tally coming our way in the third canto.

For five innings Garrett held the visitors runless, but not hitless, for they tapped the little fellow for a bingle in nearly every inning; in fact the fourth was the only session in every inning; in fact the fourth was the only session in which they went down in order. It was a sensational catch of a hard drive from Hogan's bat by Bassey that prevented the regatering of at least one hit in that Inning.

However, Garrett managed to extricate himself from difficulty until the sixth, when "Woodenshoes" Heitmuller led off with a safe bingle. Eagan's effort was a fly to McCredle. "Happy Bill" Hogan, who had been robbed twice earlier in the game, succeeded in placing one in safe territory and Heitmuller ambied to third. "Nutmeg" Miller boosted one past "Nutmeg" Miller boosted one past Raftery for three sacks and "Heiney" and "Happy" scored. Altman's grounder to Johnson caused Miller to be retired at the plate, and "Dutch" was caught a moment later attempting to purioin the middle sack

Rally Fails to Come.

Garrett passed the seventh without mishap and the fans retained hopes of the home guard starting a batting rally which would place Portland again in the lead. All such visions were given a rude shock in the eighth, for Van's crew clamped a padlock on the game by bagging another brace of runs by clean, if not lucky hitting. Heltmeller was again the first individual to face Garrett, but on this occasion he was tossed out at first by the Swede. Charles Eugene Pagan, otherwise known as Truck, finally succeded in connecting for a safety. Incidentally, it was a two-ply bingle, and Eagan was tickled alimost to death at not having to suffer a material drop in his batting average.

"Happy Bill" dropped a Texas leager back of first base which Manager Mac was unable to reach, and as the ball bounded sway from the fielder. Hogan ran to third while Eagan tapped the platter. "Joyous William" planted his feet firmly in the canvas covering of the third sack, but for some unaccountable reason Phil Cooney, who was playing the mid station in the absence of Casey. heaved the relayed ball some yards abov Jack Ryan, and the smilling one hiked for the register. This brought Oakland's total to four runs. "Slim" Nelson was the direct cause of Portland's run in the third, for he tickled

Cooney in the slats, and the little fellow scored when Raftery drove out his triple after Ryan had sacrificed. In spite of the defeat the game was a most interesting battle. Nelson demonstrated that the many psalms sung of his ability were not without some founda-tion, for the lengthy chap pitched a gilt-edged game. On the other hand, Garrett was hit frequently, but until the sixth he managd to keep the bingles scattered ne managa to keep the bingles scattered widely enough to prevent scores. In the first inning he wormed out of a hole simply because Tom Raftery possessed a good wing, and "Pop" Van Haitren did a funny stunt in running the bases. Van's Lead Costs Run.

Van had led off with a single, and Cook was passed to first on balls. Heitmuller sacrificed, advancing both runners. Eagan laced a drive to center which Raftery glommed, and toesed to Whalen in time to nab Van Haltren. Van had taken a lead off third on the hit, and had to run back to the base as the catch was made. He had but little chance of making the plate, and when Perrine ruled him out he was inclined to dispute

Pearl Casey was out of the game on caused a swelling of the facial muscles to such an extent that the little second baseman's left eye was closed.
