

BRYAN'S FLALED
BY TO WATSON

Populist Candidate Denies Peerless One Title of Democrat.

MAKES APPEAL TO SOUTH
Only Hope of Political Power Is to Turn Against Bryan—Says Nebraskan Has Shed Populist Clothes.

MACON, Ga., July 24.—Thomas E. Watson, Populist candidate for President, opened his campaign here last night in a speech of one hour to an audience that taxed the capacity of the Grand opera house. He asked for Georgia's electoral votes and said, if necessary, he would give them to Bryan to defeat Taft. His assaults were all directed at Bryan, however, and his praises were for Roosevelt and Taft. His charge against Bryan of refusing to vote for Crisp for Speaker in the Democratic caucus because of his being a Confederate was heard in silence, but his attack on the Nebraska for his attitude in giving the negroes comfort in the Brownsville matter was repeatedly applauded. Mr. Watson spoke as follows: "The greatest purpose of my life now is to put the South back into the position of the Civil War and to bring back the reign of Democratic principles as they were practiced in the 40s and 50s. The greatest obstacle in the way is the apathy of the South itself. If the Southern people would arouse themselves, they could easily throw the domination of the Eastern capitalist, who exploits the Southern States through the machinery of the Democratic party. You call yourselves Democrats. Andrew Jackson Democrats. Thomas Jefferson Democrats, and you have never stopped to inquire what are the principles for which Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson stood."

Bryan False to Democracy.
You are asked to vote for Mr. Bryan and yet Mr. Bryan's platform is one which Andrew Jackson would have spurned and Thomas Jefferson despised. It represents a fundamental principle of the South. Upon one Mr. Bryan claimed to be as good a Populist as Watson. For eight years he wore every shred of clothing which represented the wardrobe. In 1864 he abandoned his Populist raiment and entered zealously into the Parker campaign, which he himself announced as a sellout to the Wall-street element of the Democratic party. In Denver he was absolutely in the pocket of the Democratic party. Whatever he wanted was done. Whoever he wanted through out was bounced. The platform is one of the most shameful and dishonest principles that political history presents. What right has he to demand the support of those who have supported him in principle upon such a platform as this? And particularly what right has he to expect the support of the South? Upon one principle alone can he hope to get it and that is upon the idea that the South is compelled to vote the Democratic ticket, no matter how offensive in principle the platform may be, nor how much the candidate may insult her.

South Aroused to Revolt.
Mr. Bryan understands the helplessness of the South and exploits it to the very utmost. From the Southern States he drew 100 of the 242 electoral votes that are necessary to his success, and yet he has treated the Southern States as a purely negligible quantity. In return for her 100 electoral votes she gets nothing absolutely nothing. The platform recognizes no interest of hers. If the South will follow me in this campaign, revolting against the odious conditions under which she is expected to serve Mr. Bryan, she will at once assume her place in the sisterhood of nations. Being now a Democratic asset, which she thinks of with certainty, no one regards her, save any attention to her interests or feelings of her feelings. Let the South be some politically uncertain and she will again become politically great.

CAUCUS NAMES CANDIDATES
Delegates Disgusted When Wisconsin
Convention Does Nothing.

MILWAUKEE, July 24.—Disgusted over the failure of the State Democratic convention to accomplish anything, 50 or 60 delegates from various parts of the state got together yesterday and agreed to circulate nomination papers for a state ticket, to be led by J. A. Schmitz, of Milwaukee. The ticket agreed on by the caucus is as follows:
Governor, A. J. Schmitz, Milwaukee; Lieutenant-Governor, Bert Adams, Ashland; Secretary of State, Miles T. Gittins, Monroe; Insurance Commissioner, William Guillim, Hartford; Treasurer, William Pfisterer, Middleton; Attorney-General, Evan Evans, Baraboo.
Those at the caucus promised that they would take immediate steps to put out nomination papers for the men mentioned in the above list.

When the convention reassembled today, T. M. Cleary, of Platteville, was introduced as the permanent chairman. In his speech he said:
Mr. Bryan has succeeded in convincing the public that the policies of the Republican party are destructive, that its leaders are the willing tools of special privileges, that its policies brought destruction to industry, while Congress adjourned with no action attempted, confessing its incapacity to cure the sick man.

DANIELS REASSURES BRYAN
Solid South in No Danger—Negroes
Pledge Support.

FAIRVIEW, Lincoln, Neb., July 24.—A steady stream of visitors to the camp kept William J. Bryan on the qui vive all of today and tonight. They began coming early in the morning and included returning delegates to the Denver convention, politicians, representatives of a Negro local and Kern Club, members of the local Order of Maacabees and many others, who came out merely to pay their respects. It was perhaps one of the busiest days the Democratic candidate has spent recently.
Probably the most important visitor was Josephus Daniels, of Raleigh, N. C., proprietor of the News and Observer, National committeeman and member of the subcommittee of 11 to select a chairman and other officers of the committee. His friendship and political judgment are highly prized by Mr. Bryan and for that reason he was summoned here for a conference on the political situation with special reference to conditions in the Southern states.
The Democratic nominee was assured that the South would be solidly for him and that the claims alleged to emanate from Republican sources that they would carry North Carolina, Virginia and Georgia were but dog-day politics.

Not the least interesting happening of the day was the visit of a delegation of local negroes, heretofore staunch Republicans, who called to pledge their active support to the Democratic ticket. They were accorded a hearty welcome and urged by Mr. Bryan to keep in touch with their colored brethren throughout the country and work harmoniously toward Democratic success.
Beginning with today, Mr. Bryan retires as editor of the Commoner, a signed letter in the paper announcing that his candidacy for Presidency makes it necessary for him to take such action. Coupled with it is the interesting statement that as a personal campaign contribution, the profits of the Commoner over and above actual running expenses, will be turned over to the Democratic campaign fund.

Mr. Bryan will leave tomorrow afternoon for Chicago to be accompanied by his brother, Charles W. Bryan, Robert F. Rose, his secretary, and a number of newspaper correspondents. It is not known how long he will be in Chicago. Coupled with it is the interesting statement that as a personal campaign contribution, the profits of the Commoner over and above actual running expenses, will be turned over to the Democratic campaign fund.
Monday afternoon and night Mr. Bryan will spend in Omaha, and while there will be initiated into the mysteries of the Ak-Sar-Ben, a secret society of Nebraska business men. This will be followed by a banquet. He will return here Tuesday morning.

BRYAN LAYS DOWN PENCIL
Retires From Editorial Work to Conduct His Campaign.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 24.—William J. Bryan retired from active work on the Commoner, and will not be personally responsible for matter appearing in it during the present campaign. Charles W. Bryan will be the publisher, Richard L. Metcalfe, the editor, during the campaign. The following statement was issued by Mr. Bryan relative to the change in the editorial staff. "My candidacy makes it necessary for me to suspend editorial work, and I desire to have it known that I shall not be held personally responsible for matter appearing in the Commoner during the campaign, except that which appears upon my signature. My brother, Mr. Charles Bryan, who has had charge of the publication since its establishment, will assume control until November, and the associate editor, Richard L. Metcalfe, will during that time be editor. The Commoner will publish such speeches, letters, etc., as I may prepare for the general public and the readers of the Commoner will have full and accurate information as to the leading events of the campaign. I speak for the paper the cordial support which from the beginning has made my connection with it so pleasant. All profits from the Commoner, over and above actual expenses, from now until election day, will be turned over to the Democratic National Committee for the benefit of the campaign. W. J. BRYAN."

HASKELL TO BE TREASURER
Oklahoma Governor Will Handle
Democratic Campaign Funds.

GUTHRIE, Okla., July 24.—Governor C. N. Haskell, I understand the treasurer of the Democratic National Committee. Formal announcement, carrying his acceptance, it is said, will be made later in the month. I speak for organization in Chicago next Saturday.
Before the National Convention the Bryan force urged the Oklahoma executive to take the active management of the campaign as the committee chairman. This selection, it is known, would have been highly satisfactory to Mr. Bryan, but as the appointment would have necessitated Governor Haskell's almost continued absence from Oklahoma until the election, the place was declined. The convention had completed its work.
As treasurer, it will not be necessary for him to leave the state for any length of time, which is a condition said to have been largely responsible for the Governor's decision. It is not Governor Haskell's present intention to attend the Chicago meeting.

DOUGLAS WILL NOT ACCEPT
Massachusetts Man Declines Chairmanship—Out of Politics.

MONUMENT BEACH, Mass., July 24.—"I am out of politics forever," declared ex-Governor William L. Douglas today, when, upon his return from a yachting trip of several days, he was questioned concerning the reports from Lincoln, Neb., that he might be named as chairman of the Democratic National Committee. Mr. Douglas said he was not aware that his name was being considered for that position. "I have not been offered the chairmanship of the Democratic National Committee," he said, "and while I shall deeply appreciate the compliment of it if tendered to me, I shall not accept, as I am out of politics forever. This is final."

EIGHT HAZERS SENT HOME
CADETS FORCE PLEBES TO PUT ANTS IN THEIR HATS.

WEST POINT, N. Y., July 24.—Eight cadets in the United States Military Academy here were yesterday sent to their homes as a result of hazing members of the fourth class. They were William H. Rouse, of Alabama; William H. Harry G. Weaver, of Illinois; members of the first class, and Byron G. Jones, of New York; George A. Chase, New York; William M. Priddy, Alabama; William Spaulding, Oklahoma; William Moltke, Virginia, and James A. Gillespie, of Pennsylvania, members of the third class.
It has been learned that hazing at the academy has been going on during the past three months. Never, it can be said, was evidence of hazing so carefully and so skillfully concealed. Even the cadet officers were kept out of the secret, while as for the plebes, as the fourth classmen are called, all took the hazing uncomplainingly.
The form which the hazing took consisted of a requirement that the plebes "fall in" at the first tap of the warning drum instead of waiting the usual five minutes to the final call. The punishment for failure to comply is said to have taken a unique form, embodied in the name of the offender in substance as follows:
"Go out into G Company street and pick up 100 nice fat ants, put them in your coat and in half an hour come back, count them and if any are absent, report accordingly. If all are present or accounted for, put them in your locker until further orders."
The room thereupon repaired to the company street and for the next half hour or so was the busiest man in this section of the camp. When he had finally corralled the necessary number of ants, he went back and reported. Then the plebe counted them and, if all the ants were present or accounted for, he was told to place them in his locker for safe-keeping. On the other hand, if an ant was absent, he would probably be ordered out to capture another 50 as an additional punishment.

LITTLE TOT LOST IN CROWD
Jack Lollick Wanders About Several Hours as Oaks.

Jack Lollick, 6 years of age, whose father drives a brewery wagon and lives at 42 Tenth street, North, went out to the Oaks with his parents Thursday afternoon, became separated from them and lost in the crowd. The little chap wandered about the grounds until after 9 o'clock last night when he singled out a policeman and said:
"My name is Jack Lollick. My dad drives the brewery wagon. I'm lost. I live at 42 Tenth street, North, and, please sir, I want to go home for my long rest and my bed time. You're a policeman and I've heard my dad say that policemen got paid for helping people in trouble."
The boy spoke with a lip and in one chubby little hand held a 5-cent piece, which he offered to the blue-coated guardian of the peace if the officer would guide him to his home. The policeman, however, placed him in care of one of the streetcar employes, who in turn took his charge to the police station. Another policeman picked him up and carried him home, where the little fellow's parents were waiting in uncertainty as to his fate.

APPRAISE LOSSES
FROM BIG FIRE

Insurance Companies Lose Heavily and Scores of Tenants Without Quarters.

FIND OFFICES IN RUINS

Those Visiting Demolished Abington
Block Find No Trace of Their Belongings—Narrow Escape of Captain Neil.

Work of appraising the damage to the Abington building, destroyed by Tuesday morning's fire was in progress yesterday, but no decision was reached as to whether the building must be entirely reconstructed or whether it can be repaired.
The Abington building cost when new $225,000. Fifty thousand dollars insurance was carried on the structure.

List of Losses.
Losses in the McKay building total $6000, fully covered; the Van Schuyver block damage is in the neighborhood of $15,000, insured. Damage to the Concordia block is about $2000, fully insured. Jacobs & Son, clothiers, sustained a loss of about $15,000 on a $25,000 insurance covering their loss. Arata & Co.'s fixtures and stock of liquors is damaged to the extent of $10,000 to $14,000, covered by insurance. The Hudson Arm Company's loss, from fire and water, is estimated at $15,000, with two-thirds insurance. Nicol the Tailor's loss is $13,000, insured $5000. W. Van Schuyver & Co.'s stock of liquors, valued at $25,000, fully insured. The Ames Mercantile Company loses $20,000, which is the value placed on the complicated mercantile records and inventories, which were totally destroyed. The insurance is $3000.
Scores of tenants on the five floors lose fixtures and personal property having an aggregate value of perhaps $25,000, if not a little more. It will be several days before all these losses are settled and adjusted.

McKay building damage was definitely fixed yesterday at $6000, fully covered by insurance in companies represented by Harvey O'Brien. The building is owned by the McKay heirs, who happened to be in the city. The loss of Nicol the Tailor was also settled at $13,000, on which there is $5000 insurance. This stock is controlled by William Jerome South, who lives at the Abington and Van Schuyver blocks falls on the Amanda Reed estate.

FIND OFFICES IN RUINS

The northern section of the Abington building was little more than a mass of charred ruins, back of the front wall, yesterday. Many tenants, who had their offices only to find vacant places. Morgan & Boise, insurance brokers, attempted to visit their office only to find a large hole.
Four big safes went pounding through the floors and landed in the barroom of Arata's place during the fire. They were located yesterday. Two of the safes, owned by the Ames Mercantile Company. This company, by the way, is left in a serious plight by the destruction of records, and it is said that the cost of replacing the same will reach $30,000 or thereabouts. Thousands of cards were burned, the total number being close to 50,000.
F. J. Caterlin and Co. were engaged in moving and had all effects removed to the Chamber of Commerce block excepting a desk, carpet and one chair, which were destroyed. Nicol the Tailor took out the insurance he carried less than 48 hours before the fire occurred.

NEIL HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Cause of the fire has not yet been placed, although it is generally believed defective wiring must have been responsible. Both the Abington and McKay blocks a great deal of wiring had been done within the past few weeks. The fire is believed to have had its origin on the fourth floor and near the north-west corner of the building. Only the recently placed metal frames and wired glass protectors saved a spreading of the fire to the upper floor of the McKay block with disastrous results.
It was learned yesterday that Hose Captain Neil escaped death by a narrow margin while directing his men from the top of the building during the early hours of the morning. As he stepped from one position to another a heavily charged wire loop his insulation and spluttered green flames directly between his feet. He jumped aside just in time to avoid contact, as the wire whirled and twisted until, at last, gave a lurid display of spluttering green flames while the firemen were at work and it is regarded as more than fortunate no one was hurt.

TENANTS OF BURNED BLOCK

Second floor—Alameda Mining Company, J. N. Brown, J. F. Compton, J. K. Gambill, Dr. William Jones, A. W. Lord, J. E. Magers, McCants Stuart, Dr. George B. NEW PLAY BRINGS $50,000

EDMOND ROSTAND'S LATEST
DRAMA GREAT INNOVATION.
Lines Are in Verse and All Characters Are Barnyard Fowls and Animals.

PARIS, July 24.—The sensation of the coming theatrical season will be the new play by the poet, M. Edmond Rostand, with the title "Chanticleer."

Eight years have passed since Mme. Bernhardt produced with world-wide success his Napoleonic play "L'Alphonse," and rumors of the new play have been whispered ever since. But poets are notoriously capricious, and M. Rostand, who has no severer critic than himself, was jealous of his reputation as the greatest dramatist of his generation.
Great difficulties have had to be overcome and M. Jean Coquelin and M. Hertz, the managers of the Porte St. Martin Theater, who are the proud possessors of the world's rights in the play, have received the author's consent to let them have paid the unprecedented price of $10,000 on account of the author's royalties.
It is not only in the matter of its price, however, that this play is unique. Its title, "Chanticleer," gives an index to its character, but does not convey the fact that the single human being figured in the cast. This is comprised entirely of birds and animals, the ordinary denizens of a barnyard, in which the scene of the play is laid.
The common farmyard fowl is the hero of this poetic drama, and a fine hero, too, since M. Coquelin is said to interpret him in Paris. The golden pheasant, who is the old-time hero, is added that his gorgeous plumage will conceal the personality of Mme. Simone Le Barry; that M. Jean Coquelin is to grow the leaden old-time hero, and that many actors scarcely less renowned on the boulevards are to assume disguises no less fantastic, it is a very pretty plot has been selected.

Into the details of the story it may be unfair to enter at present, but it must be clearly stated that the plot hinges on the jealousies of this animal kingdom. In spite of the inclinations with which he has surrounded himself, M. Rostand has woven around his fantastic scheme a web of poetry, of drama and of philosophy which all who have been privileged to hear it unhesitatingly declare to be a unique piece of dramatic literature, exquisitely written, and ordered with an amazing sense of dramatic effect.
The mental hurdles which the dramatist has set up are many, work, however, compared with the physical impediments that he has set in the path of the actors. Not merely have they to impersonate birds—they must be as such. Only the actors' faces and voices will be left to him, but in spite of apparent difficulties every one concerned looks forward to a triumph at the Porte St. Martin in the autumn.
Arrangements are making by which there will be an almost simultaneous presentation of "Chanticleer" in Paris, New York and London.

BRYAN COUNTS ON MINERS
Sure Western Federation Will Give Him Colorado and Montana.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, July 22.—Colorado and Montana have been set down in the sure column by friends of William J. Bryan, and among the friends of the Nebraska it is not even admitted that there is any doubt about these two states. Bryan, it is said, is looking for the support of the Western Federation of Miners to carry out his plan of Montana, and for this reason there will be an "undesirable citizen" issue in these green states. That Taft is held responsible for the actions of President Roosevelt, but that Taft, at the request of the President, went to Idaho two years ago and made a law and order display of subduing the miners, which is the cause of Federation men.
Ex-Senator Dubois, of Idaho, is said to be largely responsible for this appeal to the Federation, and he wants the same issue used in his own state, for Dubois has never forgiven Taft for his "law and order" speech in Boise. He in part attributes his own defeat to Taft's interference and he is anxious to square accounts.
In Idaho, however, the Democrats are honestly split, and so evenly are they divided that the Bryan people have listed Idaho as a very doubtful state. Such an admission from them is equivalent to acknowledging the support of the Democrats, certainly go for Taft. Down in their hearts Bryan Democrats hold Dubois personally responsible for the split in the Idaho Democratic party, and the cause of the Mormon issue, for which he alone was responsible.

DIE IN FLOODED TUNNEL

Twenty-Five Workmen Perish in Boring Through Alps.

BERNE, Switzerland, July 24.—There was a fatal accident early this morning in the Loetschberg tunnel in the Bernese Alps, which resulted in the death of 25 workmen. The men were drilling inside the tunnel. Without warning the water, which was being pumped out of the tunnel, rushed into the tunnel and filled it. All of the workmen were drowned. They were Italians. The disaster occurred 2600 feet from the northern entrance. It is believed the men tapped the Kander River, which flows through the mountains above the tunnel. Water now chokes the tunnel within 1000 yards of the entrance.

APPROVED.

Manufacturers Pass Resolutions Declaring Gordon Falls Ideal Site for Great Textile Center.
At a meeting Thursday night of the Manufacturers' Association a resolution was passed in which the members expressed their entire approval of the plan of the Chamber of Commerce, after preliminary inspecting and investigating the property and water-power and other natural features of the Gordon Falls Electric Manufacturing Company to establish a power plant and woolen mill at Gordon Falls, near Bridal Veil, Or. It was the sense of those present that the site of the new enterprise offers most favorable advantages for the establishment of such an industry.
Following is the resolution in full: "The directors of the Manufacturers' Association, which is also the committee on Manufactures and Public Improvements of the Chamber of Commerce, after personally inspecting and investigating the property and water-power and other natural features of the Gordon Falls Electric Manufacturing Company, wishes to report to the respective associations in this city, and to the Chamber of Commerce, its belief that Oregon is the best natural power spot for the operation of woolen mills and other kindred industries, for which we possess the raw materials, and that the Gordon Falls Electric Manufacturing Company, with its location, served as it is, by both rail and water, offers most excellent advantages for the establishment of such an industry.
A resolution was also passed endorsing the School of Trades, to be opened this Fall under the auspices of the Board of Education.
