HELD IN BONDAGE

Japanese Locks Up White Girl He Would Wed.

BOTH ARE TAKEN TO JAIL

Young Yakima Woman Changes Her Mind After Romantic Elopement and Oriental Seeks to Change Her Mind by Force.

G. Kageyama, a Japanese with a mission education, and Miss Elsie Preston, daughter of an American farmer, living at Yakima, Wash., are sejourning in the City Jail as the sequel to a romantic elopement from Yakima, a week ago. When the two were arrested, the Japanese had the girl imprisoned at a Japanese rooming-house at Sixth and Couch streets and was holding her against her will until she reconsidered a sudden change of mind about marrying him. Although they eloped with the plan of being married in Portland and at Vancouver, Wash., Kageyama says the girl changed her mind after securing at his expense a $50 dress and other finery, which cost him about $100.

The pair say they left Yakima early last week because of strong opposition to the match. Kageyama is the owner of a Yakima boarding-house and has considerable money. He left his place to get along as best it might with the young woman, of whom he had long been enamored.

Passersby at the Japanese boarding-house here saw the girl three successive days from a window and observed that she seemed in distress. The matter was reported to the police and Detective Price invaded the place Sunday, breaking in the door. The girl begged him to take her away from the place, saying she was being held against her will. Her meals were carried to her, she said, by a countryman of Kageyama's who was careful to lock the door after each visit with food.

Kageyama, an intelligent Japanese of 35, explained in excellent English that he wished to marry the girl, that she had promised to marry him and that they left Yakima for that purpose. But no sooner had he bought her the $50 dress and a pair of shoes and some cheap jewelry, than she told him she had changed her mind and was going back to Yakima. Feeling that he had been wronged, he locked her up to give her time to change her mind, he said.

The elopers were arraigned in the Municipal Court yesterday forenoon, on a statutory charge, to which both entered pleas of guilty. Later, however, at the instance of friends of the girl, the plea was withdrawn in her case and a trial asked for today.

SHOW FINE PONIES

Best Shetland Herd in California Coming Here.

OWNER MAKES ENTRIES

Southern Woman Will Pit Her Fancy

Imported Animals Against the Best in the Northwest at Local Livestock Show.

The Shetland ponies of California will be pitted against the finest stock in Oregon at the Pacific National meet to be held here the third week of September. What is regarded as one of the handsomest and finest bred Shetland herds on the Pacific Coast was offered to the Country Club and Livestock Association for competition in the pony division, yesterday.

The owner, a woman of Southern California, whose name is withheld at her own request. She arrived in Portland Sunday and submitted to the Association pictures, pedigrees and lists of prizes won by her string with the additional information that she expected to spend the balance of the Summer at Portland and at the beach resorts and would have her Shetlands here a week or two before the show. These entries are all imported and were accepted with alacrity when their breeding was shown to the officials of the Association.

Such interest in the first exposition that Portland has had, particularly in the fancy show classes is considered the best evidence that no similar exhibition in the West will be as representative of all the divisions and classifications of livestock, horses, cattle, sheep, swine and otherwise as the initial meet held here.

The Willamette Valley, yesterday, contributed several pens of high-class swine, and within the past week several flocks of fine Angora goats have been listed with the committee. This, of course, in addition to the construction work divisions which are coming in in a most satisfactory manner.

Secretary G. A. Westgate, of the Country Club and Livestock Association, yesterday made application to Postmaster Minto for the establishment of a temporary postal substation on the Country Club grounds during the race meet, setting forth that there would be a considerable permanent population at the tract, and with several hundred people there temporarily, not only during the race week, but a week or more before and for about the same period afterward. Request was made for a substation where stamps and money orders could be purchased and where letters and other mail might be registered, and also where mail might be collected and delivered at regular hours during the week. Postmaster Minto says that he will forward the request to the Postoffice Department forthwith with the proper recommendation.

Superintendent F. A. Brooker, in charge of all contracts for construction work covering buildings, grandstand and race track, will have his permanent headquarters established at the track not later than August 1, with telephones and telegraph wires installed.

SOCIALISTS WILL FIGHT

SAY THEY ARE DENIED FREEDOM OF SPEECH.

Five Strident Curb-Stone Orators Arrested and Threatened to Take Case to Highest Court.

Socialists, arrested Sunday night for refusing to disperse when so ordered by the police at a street meeting, will make a legal fight on the minor charges against them in the Municipal Court today. The services of C. E. S. Wood have been secured and they are prepared to carry the matter to the Supreme Court if necessary.

Five arrests were made by the police. Three men, James Jackson, R. C. Goodwin and A. Lloyd, are charged with refusing to move on when so ordered. Two others, Harry Lloyd and E. L. Clossett, are charged with having interfered with an officer.

That ordering a street congregation to disperse is an encroachment on the right of free speech is the view maintained by Socialists, and an opinion handed down by a California court to that effect will be part of the legal ammunition which will be fired in the fight on the charges against these men.

Antipathy towards Socialism is said by the prisoners to have been responsible for the conduct of Sergeant Cole and a squad of officers in breaking up their meeting at Fourth and Alder early Sunday night. The Socialists were blockaded the street and sidewalk and making night noises with their strident oratory is the reply of the officers.

Bitter feeling was aroused when the assemblage was moved on by the squad from the police station. The meeting was an enthusiastic one, and had attracted about 500 men. There was much applause and some cheering. Complaint was made to the police and Sergeant Cole, who had disbanded similar meetings on several occasions, took three patrolmen with him. Making his way through the crowd he notified the speaker that the sidewalk was being blockaded in violation of the law. When this information was transmitted to the crowd some very uncomplimentary things were said. Three men absolutely refused to move when so ordered and were put under arrest. Harry Lloyd and Clossett attempted to interfere and were taken along.

The case was to have been heard yesterday morning, but postponement was asked until today.

TO REGULATE ROWBOATS

Councilman Belding Proposes to Regulate Size and Construction.

Councilman Belding announced yesterday that he will introduce before the City Council an ordinance regulating the size and construction of rowboats on the Willamette River, if City Attorney Kavanaugh holds that the municipal authority extends this far. This Mr. Belding wishes to do because of drownings in the harbor of late. He states his belief that if the city can govern this matter a great benefit will result.

"It seems to me," said Councilman Belding, "that it is high time for the city to make an attempt to stop the loss of life on the river. It must be done in the harbor of late. He states his belief that if the city can govern this matter a great benefit will result.

"I am going to investigate, with a view to introducing an ordinance to govern the size and pattern of rowboats, at least those rented from the boat-houses. The loss of life from overturned boats here is growing, and must be remedied. If there is any possible way in which to do it. Of course, we probably cannot regulate private boats, but we can look into the matter and do what we find lies within our province."

Will Investigate Drowning.

An investigation into the drowning of Miss Thetta Stephens in the Willamette River Sunday night will be conducted by the Government at the offices of Inspectors Edwards and Fuller. Miss Stephens was out rowing with E. J. Jeannot, of 462 Front street, when the boat was overturned by a towline between the steamer Vulcan and a raft of logs which was being taken up the river. The girl was drowned at once and Jeannot saved himself by grasping the raft and clinging there. The girl's body was recovered from the river several hours later. Jeannot says he had no warning of the raft or towline, or the accident would not have occurred.

Committed to the Asylum.

JACKSONVILLE, Or., July 27.—(Special.)—J. B. Jones, of North Jackson County, was today committed to the Oregon State Hospital for the Insane. Mr. Jones is an old resident of this part of Oregon. His misfortune is due to ill health. He had just returned from a hospital at Portland.
