BY W. J. PETRAIN.

Harry Sutor, the San Francisco southpaw, had the Indian sign on Portland yesterday, and the result of his excellent work on the mound was a whitewash for the locals, while the Scals collected nine runs off Grancy Marshall and Ote Johnson. Johnson however, was not to blame for the runs scored while he was on the mound, for Danzig's lack of judgment and Cooney's Danzig's lack of judgment and Cooney's had heave gave the Seals two more runs than they were entitled to.

The erratic playing of the home guard had nothing to do with the result, for McCredie's men simply found themselves up against the real article in the pitching of Sutor, and he scored a shut-out with ease. For one time Portland sluggers were as pigmies in Sutor's hands, and while they are credited with three hits, not one of them was a good, healthy, life-sized bingle. On the other hand, the Seals had shed their fins and had donned their batting paraphernalla, which, combined with paraphernalla, which, combined with Portland's exhibition of boot-the-ballism, assisted in swelling the run collec-tion of the Bay City aggregation to nine full-grown scores.

Earned Run in Second.

The Seals collected toll on a legiti-mate score in the second inning. And it happened after two were out. Willams and Beck were stowed away nicely on the ice pack, but Berry was not such an easy proposition, and tapped a Graney puzzler for two sacks. At this juncture Captain Mohler suddenly decided that McArdle had seen enough of the activities, and delegated los Curtis to interview Graney. Joe Joe Curtis to interview Grancy. Joe was the candy kid in this pinch, and pasted a single to center, on which Berry tallied the first run, which alone would have won the game.

The opening knell of disaster came in the fifth canto, and can mainly be attributed to Jack Ryan's inability to play third base. Graney's over-anxiety to field a dinky bunt, and a muffed pop fly in the infield by Casey. The cap-tain tried hard enough, but the ball belonged to some other player, who made no move to get it, and Pearl gets e error. Sutor, by the way, was the first man up, and he dropped a single in center. Mohler bunted to Ryan and caught "Buddy" napping. Result—an error and two on. Hildebrand picked out the first base line for his attempt at sacrificing, and Graney's foosle filled the bags. At this juncture the infieldthe bags. At this juncture the infielders came in for a play at the plate, but Zeider fooled them by poking a safety to right, which scored Sutor and Mohler. Zeider siole second, with Hildebrand on third, and Melchlor's effort was the pop fly. When the muff took place, both Hildy and Zelder raced over the plate, but Melchlor, in his anxiety to hog two sacks instead of one, was tossed out at midstation, Williams flew to McCredie, but Beck beat out an infield tap. Berry ended the fans' agony by an out at first. fans' agony by an out at first.

Graney Sent to Bench.

McCredie decided that Graney had had enough, and delegated Slim Mar-shall to slab it for Portland. The sup-port the kid received would have dis-couraged a more experienced pitcher and, while he is charged with allowing four hits for two runs, some of his teammates who are expert. teammates who are exempt from errors by not trying for the chances, should be read the riot act by the manager. This applies to Ryan and Bassey in particular. The crowd got after Ryan, and he displayed very poor judgment in walking to the stand and attempting to call someone whom he attempting to call someone whom he believed had said unkind things about

m. After Curtis, Sutor, Mohler and Hil-brand had hit Marshall safely and debrand had hit Marshall safely and the first two named had scored, the youngster was chased and Johnson substituted, while Cooney went in at short Zeider sacrificed, Johnson to Danzig Hall attempted to catch Hilde-brand at second, and when Mohler raced for the plate on the toss, Cooney heaved the hall clear over Whallne's heaved the ball clear over Whaling's head and both Mohler and Hildebrand scored. This was all for the Seals, as Johnson tightened up and, with his double-shuffle windup, made the vis-itors pop 'em up or hit 'em at some-body.

It was not Sutor's turn to pitch yes-terday, but he was afraid that if he waited another day he would be pitted against Jesse Garrett, who has had the Indian sign on the Seal southpaw.

Portland horsemen are on the qu vive for the fine two days' meet which is to be held at Hillsboro tomorrow and Saturday, and plans are already under way for invading the Washington County metropolis in force on both days of the "try-out" harness events. All the entries, about 30 in number, which will take part in the warming-up contests at Hillsboro, are entered in the races to be held in Portland the last week of September, and the local speed lovers will 'have their first opportunity of getting lines on the performers which are to take part in the preliminary events.

greater portion of the fund to be raised. Reverend A. A. Morrison, chairman of the Multnomah Club's delegates on the entertainment commmittee, has entered into the affair with the utmost enthusiasm, as have H. C. Campbell, James F. Ewing and George W. Simons.

"The performance of these three lads," said Dr. Morrison yesterday, "has given Oregon an opportunity to advertise herself on a greater plane than anything self on a greater plane than anything that has occurred since the Lewis and Clark Exposition. We cannot honor these youths too much. Just think of the magnitude of their performances. At London they were entered among 2009 contestants from all parts of the world, and despite the numbers arrayed against them, each of our three native sons dis-tinguished himself by wining a place in the contests."

The plans, while yet somewhat indefinite, contemplate the returning of the Oregon trio in a special car from New York. This car, providing that this portion of the programme is adopted, will bear banners on its sides informing citizens of the state through which it will pass of the performance of Smithson, Gilbert and Kelly.
