

STROKES DISMAY

Machine Men View With Alarm Governor's Intention to Run for Re-election.

"BILLY" BARNES BLAMED

Executive Decides He Can Insure Carrying Out of His Reform Measures Only by Staying at Helm Another Four Years.

BY LLOYD F. LONERGAN. NEW YORK, July 30.—(Special.)—Republican machine leaders are blaming Billy Barnes, of Albany, because Governor Charles Evans Hughes has decided to remain in the political arena.

The Governor's statement that he will accept a renomination "if the people want me" has frightened them with dismay. For the "practical men" who most bitterly dislike him are the very ones who candidly admit his great strength with the voters.

As already stated in The Oregonian, Hughes was willing to retire if he received satisfactory promises that reforms by favoring would be carried out in laws. Parsons, of New York, gave assurances; State Chairman Woodruff, of Brooklyn, was willing to promise anything, in or out of season, and the only stumbling block was Barnes.

Barnes Said Rough Things. For Barnes said Hughes had disrupted the party, that the legislation he demanded was ridiculous and advised ignoring anything the Governor might say or do, and nominating a straight-out machine ticket.

Persons and Woodruff tried to suppress Barnes, at least until after election. They met with some success, and were horrified when Hughes exploded his bombshell and entered the lists for the nomination.

The Governor's friends say that the reason he made up his mind to continue in office was because of the "thousands of letters" he had received from all quarters of the state. This was only a minor consideration, however. The real cause was that the Governor realized that an attempt to hoodlunk him was being made by tricky politicians.

Sees Willcox, Then Announces. It is an interesting fact that this most important political announcement was made a few hours after the Governor had been in consultation with William R. Willcox, chairman of the Public Service Commission of the first district.

Mr. Willcox is one of half a dozen intimates who have been carefully canvassing the situation, under orders. "Governor" Hughes does not believe in hasty action. Before he decides on any particular line of policy, he wants to know all that is possible on the subject. And he is interested in the probable fate of the reform legislation with which his administration is identified.

The Governor does not use slang, but he knows what "the double cross" means, and he has been satisfied he was slated to be the victim.

How Hughes Was Won Over. His friends told him there was absolutely no intention of passing the bills demanded, as the legislators would simply ignore the "orders" of their leaders. The only way he could be certain of success was to ask on February 11 next, "Ever since he went to Albany Hughes has been trying to oust Kelsey, and in addition to it being a public enemy, he would regard it as a personal pleasure to name another man to run this highly important department. For the Governor believes that the right man in that place would be bound to accomplish his reforms."

No Money in Office. The reason Governor Hughes at first did not desire to run again was purely personal. He was not a politician, but a law practice, as he had expected that the last legislature would enact all of his pet measures. Then again, being Governor was rather an expensive honor. The salary is $19,000 a year. Last year the Governor spent $23,500 in maintaining the dignity and honor of the office of the Chief Executive of the Empire State.

Should he serve four years, this means that the $100,000 "rainy day fund" which a friend intimated Mr. Hughes had when he became Governor will be cut in half. Senator Agnew introduced a bill last winter increasing the Governor's salary from $19,000 to $23,000, but the Senate defeated the measure when it came up on final passage.

The re-election of Governor Hughes would mean he would have the name of state re-nomination in May, 1910. This naturally would not overjoy the bookmakers, who regard the Governor as their enemy.

Hughes' Course of Reasoning. It is no secret that Chairman Woodruff and the county leaders associated with him feel they must get a Governor of their own selection if they are to control of the state machine is to continue. Apparently the Governor is of the same opinion. Lacking a primary direct nomination law, through which he believes his nomination would be demanded by the voters of the Republican party, the Governor makes his position known thus early in the fight, in order to put the matter directly up to the "organization" leaders. In the opinion of Governor Hughes' advisers there is no question of the outcome, and they are ready to back the Governor, the caliber of those at present in control of the Republican party in the state.

It is the general opinion that both President Roosevelt and William H. Taft are pleased with the Governor's determination, as they regard him as the strongest candidate who could be named. Voters are satisfied with the honesty and earnestness of Hughes, and are likely to condone any faults that may have been committed during his administration.

Bossism to Be Issued. Everybody knows what the principal plank in the Governor's platform will be. In public speech and privately during the past 18 months the Governor has strongly condemned political party bossism.

It was on this issue he fought and won out in the short, sharp campaign he conducted in the Niagara-Oriente Senatorial district prior to the special election called as a result of the defeat of the Governor's anti-race-track bills.

The great majority of the Republican leaders refuse to be quoted on the local political situation. Congressman William S. Bennett is one of the few exceptions to the rule. He is the leader of the Nineteenth Assembly district, Manhattan. Mr. Bennett says:

Can He Have It If He Wants It. "If Governor Hughes wants the nomination, in my opinion, he will get it. For since his election will be given, if any, opposition to his renomination."

Another prominent leader, who personally opposes Hughes, was asked if he pronounced the attack on his active machine men to the Governor might not produce a Kilkenny fight in the state convention. He replied:

"The Chicago convention of 1904 was not altogether a peaceful affair. A majority of the leaders did not take kindly to the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt at that time. And yet, after he had been nominated, the people made him the greatest popular majority that any President has received in recent years. It would seem to be a good thing for a candidate these days to have a reputation of having been hard on the bosses."

Barnes Expected to Calm. Although William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, is one of the most formidable opponents to the renomination of the Governor, he is expected to calm down before the convention meets. Those who know Mr. Barnes best declare that he is enough of a politician and a party man to sink his personal dislike of the Governor, should Mr. Hughes become the choice of the Republican state convention for the gubernatorial nomination.

Post Eulogies to Hughes. The Evening Post, Independent Democrat, devotes over a column to a eulogy of Hughes. Here are a few extracts:

"The Governor's attitude toward state and country an invaluable lesson in what is the proper attitude of an executive. He has recognized the political politician; he has allied himself with no faction, and in office has forgotten whether he was a Democrat or Republican. His appointments to office have been made for merit simply. In brief, he has been the Governor of all the people of the state, doing precisely what he considered to be right, without the slightest regard for consequences. He has gathered the strength and satisfaction that ever come with unselfish labor; and it is a pleasure to record that his straightforward course has been recognized and appreciated the country over. He has been the poorest self-advertiser the country has in high office today. He has refused to become a sensationalist when successful political sensations were the order of the day."

That Mr. Hughes can win an immediate and effective response from the bulk of our citizenship independent of party is known. That the machine is against him is all too plain. He is to be loved, like Grover Cleveland, for the enemies he has made. "Wall street we know shakes its head over him as a 'reactionary' and a 'corrupt' operation of the Aldridge, Woodruff, Barnes, like their language about him we know is not sincere. The Federal Reserve Bank man—a politician who will not play the game according to their rules; who bows down to the Federal Reserve Bank, and who dicker with no one, and cares not a jot what becomes of him, and who attempts to suppress the truth, and who will be nominated against their will. Yet we do not see how he even they can prevent it."

Mr. Hughes is a vote-getter wherever he goes. Independent Democrats everywhere admire and respect him as they do not Mr. Taft, the echo of Theodore Roosevelt. Nothing would do so much to insure Mr. Taft's success as the Governor's renomination. But here this otherwise, it would be to the best interests of the party and of the state to renominate and re-elect Mr. Hughes.

The Evening Post, in this instance anyway, fairly reflects the attitude of the independent voters of the state.

A poll of the Republican leaders, were they to appear, would indicate quite freely, would disclose an overwhelming majority bitterly opposed to the continuance of Governor Hughes and his policies. On the other hand they are aware of the strong sentiment among the rank and file in favor of his renomination, and dare not run counter to it.

JULY BUSINESS IS GOOD

(Continued from First Page.) shipped from this port 14,217,115 feet, breaking all records for the month of July and exceeding those of any other month this year. For the same month a year ago these shipments aggregated only 4,832,764 feet. For the same period coastwise shipments of lumber increased proportionately. In July, 1907, these shipments reached a total of 2,865,000 feet, while the same business last month reached the remarkable total of 5,375,000 feet.

Bank clearings for the month aggregated $1,223,270, while the sale of stamps at the Portland postoffice continues to increase amazingly. While the report for the month had not been compiled yesterday, Postmaster J. W. Minto said the receipts of his office from stamp sales this month would exceed those of the corresponding month in 1907 by probably $800, representing an increase of 10 to 12 per cent in the receipts.

Ready to Handle Crops. Reports made by Portland bankers indicate that this year's grain crop is to be handled with ease. All the city banks are in excellent shape to advance whatever funds may be necessary to move the crops, but the demand from country banks for accommodations promises to fall below that of former years.

It has been the practice of interior banks in years past to call on city institutions not only for their balances, to a great extent, at this season of the year, but to do considerable red-counting of bills in order to provide the necessary currency to move grain crops expeditiously.

This year it is reported that the banks of the interior have been getting ready for the present time for the last few months and have accumulated more than the usual amount of cash in their vaults. City banks regard this as a good stroke of business on the part of their correspondents, as it distributes the cash funds to points where needed without disturbing conditions in the metropolises.

DANGER OF STRIKE

Lackawanna Road Ignores Switchmen's Union.

NO CONFERENCE GRANTED

Truesdale's Flat Refusal to Hear Complaints Leaves No Alternative to Strike, Unless Outside Interests Mediate.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 31.—President Truesdale today refused the switchmen's request for a conference over the troubles on the Buffalo division of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad. Grand Master Hawley, of the Switchmen's Union, said afterward that a strike seems inevitable.

After receiving Mr. Truesdale's refusal, the grievance board went into executive session to discuss the prospects of bringing in outside influence to avert a strike. This is the first time Mr. Truesdale has refused to meet a committee of the road's employees, and his answer has cast gloom over the committee, who were confident that he would meet them and listen to their side of the dispute.

Mr. Hawley stated that one of the last resorts of the men has been used and that only outside interests can intervene to prevent trouble. What interests he refers to he would not say, but the impression here is that they involve the engineers, firemen and trainmen, the executive board of the Firemen's Brotherhood already being here to take up questions with General Superintendent Clarke.

Asked when a formal strike order will be issued, Mr. Hawley replied that it would not come today. He admitted there is small hope of avoiding one.

CLOAKMAKERS WILL STRIKE

Struggle for Higher Wages by Both Men and Women.

NEW YORK, July 31.—The Brotherhood of Tailors, composed of cloakmakers, has decided to have no general strike in 14 years. The cloakmakers broke away some time ago from the United Garment Workers of America, to which the coat tailors belong, and 80 per cent of them are Socialists.

Abraham Rosenberg, president of the International Women's Garment-workers' union, with which the cloakmakers are affiliated, says the strike will affect 25,000 to 30,000 workers, including about 10,000 women.

"Last year," he said, "they were getting $18 to $20 a week and now they are making from $7 to $8 a week. Some of them are making far less and the women average $3 and $4 a week. About 65 per cent of the cloakmakers are working, some on whole and some on part time."

REFUSES AN INJUNCTION

Suit to Enjoin New York Police Ignominiously Falls—Grand Jury Lays Ugly Facts Before Governor Hughes.

NEW YORK, July 31.—An application made by the Coney Island Jockey Club for an injunction restraining Police Commissioner Binham and his subordinates from interfering with the assembling of sheephead men on the race track at Sheepshead Bay was denied today by Justice Blanchard in the Supreme Court. The justice said:

"It is the settled law of the state that it is the duty of the police to enforce the law and prevent its infraction. Their duty is not merely to arrest those who are guilty of crimes. It is also their duty to prevent crime and the duty of punishing crime after it has been committed."

Bearing an official copy of the presentment, made by the grand jury today, Justice Blanchard said that the police have a duty to enforce the law and prevent its infraction. Their duty is not merely to arrest those who are guilty of crimes. It is also their duty to prevent crime and the duty of punishing crime after it has been committed."

Law Flagrantly Broken.

Recommendation that Governor Hughes' attention be called to the conditions existing at the Brighton Beach and Sheepshead Bay racetracks, and charges that there has been systematic and flagrant violations of the new anti-gambling law, were made in a presentment handed down by the Kings County grand jury today.

The grand jury also recommends that the attention of the Governor be called to the special laws under which the racetracks now are operating and that the provision of law permitting the racing associations to employ special policemen should be repealed. It is asserted in the presentment that under the laws permitting the employment of special policemen it has been impossible for the authorities to close the grounds of the association, which action would have been possible otherwise "because of the lawless character" in which the racing grounds were conducted.

The grand jury says that its presentment is based on evidence laid before it and also upon personal investigation made by committees appointed by the grand jury. This investigation disclosed, the presentment says, that opportunities for gambling were among the attractions which the managers of the racetracks relied upon to attract crowds to the tracks, and "we learn that a very large percentage of the income of these racing associations is not doing all it could have done to prevent the commission of crime on the race courses."

Activity Suddenly Ceased.

The presentment declares that while for a short period after the law went into effect the police had been quite active in suppressing and preventing violations of the law, "at a certain period, their activity ceased, and the commission of crime on the race courses."

The Brighton Beach Racing Association which continued racing, used as the Brighton Beach track on Wednesday was indicted by the grand jury today on a charge of aiding gamblers to violate the new anti-gambling law. Indictments also were returned jointly with the association against Christopher Fitzgerald, its Visited by Mother, Accused Mail-Robber Folds Detectives.

KANSAS CITY, July 31.—A mysterious negro woman, whom Postoffice officials followed from Denver to Leavenworth, Kan., believing that she probably knew something about the $20,000 stolen in a mail pouch from the Union Station here for which Charles Savage, a negro, is being held, turned out to be his mother.

After trailing the woman to Leavenworth the officers lost track of her yesterday, but today she appeared at the Federal building and asked permission to see her son. This was granted and it was hoped that through the conversation of Savage and his mother some light might be thrown upon the whereabouts of the money, but no reference to the money was made by either the woman or her son.

Admiral Dayton, accompanied by his aide, Lieutenant John C. Fremont, Jr., will start East tonight, having been ordered home preparatory to being placed on the retired list on account of age. The organization is expected to fight bitterly for its existence. During the night the city was placarded with inflammatory accounts of what is called "crime in the streets," calling for an extension and prolongation of the strike.
