BY W. J. PETRAIN.

In the greatest baseball struggle that ever took place in the City of Portland, and the longest drawn-out contest in the history of the present Pacific Coast League, San Francisco yesterday got the better of a 6 to 5 argument in twenty innings of as fine baseball as the fans of Portland ever witnessed.

Seven thousand three hundred fans collected at the Vaughn-street inclosure to witness a double-header which had been scheduled. The extra innings necessary to decide the first contest, however, gave the hilarious fans all they had expected and a little more besides.

The Second Game Was Not Played.

The game was a superb one to watch and when the Seals collected toll on the deciding run in the twentieth inning, a general sigh of regret went up all around. The thousands present sincerely sympathized with Pitcher Jack Graney, of the Portland team, who is credited with the loss through no fault of his own. Unfortunate Jack Ryan was the guilty Portlander on whom the blame of the defeat is heaped, for he tossed away victory on three different occasions.

Despite the fact that San Francisco won out on errors, the game was a glorious contest, and both teams fought hard throughout. Harry Sutor, the Texas southpaw, was pitted against our clever left-hander, and Harry was touched up much more lively than had been expected.

That it was to be a hard-fought contest was demonstrated in the first inning, for in that session both pitchers were relieved from precarious situations by timely double-plays on the part of their support. Mohler was the first Seal up, and he promptly sat down because of his inability to connect with the pitch. Hildebrand singled to left and Zeider punched one for two sacks to right. Johnson's quick return of the ball from right field failed to get Rolly at second, but Cooney heaved to Whaling in time to morgue the ambitious Hildy at the plate. While this play was taking place, Zeider decided that third was easy, but Whaling tucked the ball under Hildy's fifth rib and heaved to Ryan yards ahead of the speedy Seal shortstop, and the double had been completed.

In Portland's half, Casey opened by beating an infield tap. Bassey's attempt at sacrificing was a pop fly to Williams. Tom Raftery lined one at Kid Mohler, who threw to Zeider, and the relay to first completed the double-play.

Johnson Gets Home Run.

The third inning brought joy to the home fans, for that ever faithful batsman, Ote Johnson, opened up on Sutor by spanking the second pitched ball over the right garden wall and against one of the Exposition buildings for the longest home run of the present season. While the "Terrible Swede" leisurely trotted around the sacks the fans gave a great demonstration in his honor.

The manner in which Graney was disposing of the Seals gave hope of a well-earned victory over the best twirler on the Seal payroll. Incidentally it would have given Portland the majority of the series.

The fifth inning witnessed the addition of another earned run to the Portland tally sheet. Hal Danzig opened up with his first two-ply swat, and was brought home when Johnson slapped out a single to center.

Graney continued to close the Seals out runless until the eighth, and after the fifth Harry Sutor played havoc with the batting averages of the home team.

Long Hit by Sutor.

In the eighth inning Graney had disposed of the first two Seals, and Sutor was looked upon as easy, for he had fanned out on his two previous visits to the batter's box. On this occasion he outguessed Graney on a straight ball right where he wanted it, and knocked it out of the lot in almost the identical spot selected by Johnson. Mohler was easy and Portland still had the advantage with the score 2 to 1.

Hildebrand was the first man up in the ninth, and flew out to Phil Cooney. Rolly Zeider seemed to be the luckiest man among the Seals, for he poked an easy one to Jack Ryan, who behaved miserably by tossing the sphere yards beyond Hal Danzig, and Zeider brought up at third. The Portland infielders came in for the purpose of making a play at the plate, but Melchior managed to push one past Casey on which Zeider scored the tieing run. A speedy double play from Cooney to Danzig disposed of further danger in this inning. Portland's half was fruitless, and the extra innings began.

San Francisco hooked two more runs in its half of the tenth, and it looked like curtains for Portland. But the vagaries of the game decided otherwise, and the home team succeeded in scoring an equal number of aces. The Seals' runs were the result of another bad heave by Ryan. Beck opened the proceedings with a single to right. La Longe sacrificed him to second, and when Ryan threw Curtis' bounder away, Beck scored, and Curtis took third. Sutor fanned, but Whaling dropped the ball and then threw wildly to Danzig, scoring Curtis. Mohler hit to Ryan, who threw Sutor out at second, and Mohler was caught shortly after on an attempted steal.

Cooney opened Portland's half with a single, and went to third on Danzig's second double. A passed ball by La Longe scored Cooney, and Whaling's single chased Danzig over, which again tied the score. Graney beat out an infield tap, and Casey was safe on Zeider's error, which filled the bags. Bassey and Raftery each had a chance to win the game at this juncture, but the former struck out and the latter flew to Beck.

Then both pitchers settled down to a great battle. Both sides were retired with regularity from the tenth to the 16th inning, when each scored another run. Mohler and Hildebrand were disposed of handily by Graney in this inning, but Zeider poked a safety past Cooney. Melchior walked, and Williams hit for two bases because Bassey is not as nifty at judging long drives as is Hildebrand. This hit scored Zeider and held Melchior at third. Beck went out at first, ending the inning. Daring base-running by Raftery and Cooney's clever hit-and-run play tied it up again for Portland.

As the two teams had agreed to call the game at 6 o'clock in order to permit San Francisco to catch the early train, it looked as though the contest would end in a draw. But Jack Ryan, even though chased to right field after his disastrous blunder of the ninth and tenth innings, had to butt in again, and Zeider scored the winning run after two men were out.

Zeider Scores Victory.

Mohler opened the 20th with a two-base hit. Hildebrand sacrificed him to third, but when Zeider hit to Cooney, the little fellow winged Mohler out at the plate, and if Whaling had been a trifle faster he would have got Rolly at second. Melchoir drove a single to right, and Ryan dashed in to get the ball and hold Zeider at third, but missed it entirely and Rolly scored, while Melchior took three bases. Graney fanned Beck, ending the inning. As Portland was unable to negotiate in its half, the run decided the game.

The magnificent work of Phil Cooney at short was the feature of the game, aside from the pitching of Graney and Sutor. Cooney handled 17 chances and had nothing that resembled an error. His work was the finest exhibition of fielding seen on the Portland grounds in months. On two occasions the little fellow passed up the runner going to first and got an ambitious Seal who had overrun third or tried to score on the play. Casey's work at second also was brilliant. Bert Whaling caught a magnificent game and it was too bad that he marred his work by dropping the third strike on Sutor in the tenth.

The San Francisco and Portland teams left for the south last night, and our boys will be gone three weeks. Their next appearance on the home lot will be on August 25, when the Oakland team will be the visiting nine.

SEALS BAT BETTER

Beavers Outdope in Sticking During Past Week.

LOCAL PLAYERS PUZZLED

Inability to Solve Delivery of San Francisco Pitchers the Reason for Slump in Batting Averages.

The San Francisco team outbatted Portland last week because Danzig, Raftery, Bassey and Ryan of the regulars were unable to solve the delivery of the Seal pitchers to any great extent. This also explains, in a measure, the reason for at least two of the victories scored by the visitors. Under the circumstances the Portland team is to be congratulated on getting an even break.

A glance at the column denoting the runs scored shows that Portland beat the Seals out in this department at least, for McCredie's huskies tallied 28 runs in the six games, while the best the visitors could do was to acquire 26.

Jack Ryan, who is blamed for the loss of yesterday's magnificent game, went through the week without getting a single hit off any of the Seal twirlers. Danzig, Raftery and McCredie each batted below .300, while Cooney just did get to that mark by securing the two bingles off Sutor yesterday.

Madden a Hard Hitter.

Tom Madden proved the heavy hitting member of the team. In two games Tom banged the horsehide for six safe hits in eight times at bat, and while Oscar Jones batted for the same per cent in one game, Tom is the acknowledged leader for the series. Joe Curtis and Sutor of the San Francisco players batted the hardest for their club. Curtis seems to delight in batting the ball hard on the Portland grounds, while on the other diamonds he does very little in the hitting line.

The Portland players are demons with the stick while on the road and it is possible that during this week's series at the Bay City, Bassey, Raftery, Ryan and the balance of the players who have fallen off in hitting, may pick up and give the Seal twirlers a trouncing.

The averages for the past week's series between San Francisco and Portland are as follows:

NORTHWEST LEAGUE.

Tacoma 5-0, Aberdeen 2-1.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Baker made an effort to win both games today, and with good support in the afternoon might have done so. Starkell opposed him in the morning game, while Gus Thompsan pitched for the champions in the afternoon. Big crowds saw both games. In the morning game the Tigers found Starkell for a total of ten hits, which were good for five runs. Baker was an enigma to the locals, who were unable to locate his delivery. Shea got the first home run of the series over the left field fence. Householder's three bagger netted a run for Aberdeen in the seventh, and Waters' high peg was responsible for the other.

Thompson struck out 12 men in the matinee, and the four hits secured off him were widely scattered. Aberdeen bunched hits in the second and sixth, but did not score in either inning. The lone tally of the afternoon was the result of Suess' failure to hold Brinker's fly. Sharp fielding prevented Aberdeen from running up the score. The scores:

Vancouver 6, Spokane 0.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—The Spokane tribe injected a bit of their old-time ability into the game against Vancouver today in the last innings, but the start was made too late and the Canucks won by a score of 7 to 5. Killilay's hand was split by a hard drive from Pat Flannigan's bat and the young pitcher was put out of the game. Jansen relieved him and was a puzzle to the slugging Englishmen. Vancouver did not earn a run.

Sensational catches by Kippert, robbing Nordyke of a home run, and Chlider's cutting off a two-bagger from Arbogast were features of the game. Pitcher Jensen's batting cheered the fans. The big Swede got three hits, including two doubles, scoring three men in the ninth inning with a long drive to the fence.

Chehalis 4, Tacoma Princes 1.

CHEHALIS, Wash., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—Chehalis won from the Tacoma Princes today, pulling out from an apparent shut-out in the eighth inning, when four of the home team crossed the plate. Previous to that the score stood 1 to 0 in favor of the visitors. There were several close decisions by Umpire Dever and considerable delay. Storassli of the Princes struck out 7, Tamp Osborne for Chehalis 11. Chehalis made 4 hits, the Princes, 2. Ruff caught for Chehalis and Browers for the Princes.

BUILD TO TANGANYIKA

British Company Plans Link in Cape to Cairo Road.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—(Special.)—The British South Africa Company has determined to run its railway through Northern Nigeria right up to Tanganyika without delay. There will then remain only a comparatively small chasm to be bridged, a couple of thousand miles, and the Cape-to-Cairo Railway will be a fact. It is not generally known that the whole of the next section northward of the Cape-to-Cairo Railway as far as the Congo has already been surveyed, this piece of railway can be completed in a year, so that in 1909 there should be direct railway communication between Cape Town and the Congo.

On the wall of an entrance to an old tenement house in Washington street, New York, are written these words in charcoal: "Buttonholes made and floors scrubbed, upstairs to youre right."

COUNTRY CLUB TO MEET

MUCH BUSINESS BEFORE DIRECTORS THIS AFTERNOON.

Effort Will Be Made to Secure Low Rates on Railroads for Big Stock Show.

With the first annual Pacific National Livestock show and harness race meet but six weeks away, one of the most important meetings of the directors of the Country Club and Livestock Association yet held will take place at the offices of the association in the Hamilton Building, this afternoon.

One of the important matters is the transportation arrangements for the handling of the exhibits by the railroads. It is expected that the same rates which the Southern Pacific, O. R. & N. and Northern Pacific have granted to the State Fair at Salem will be given the Pacific National people here. The Southern Pacific offers to carry all exhibits, including livestock, but not race horses, free to and from the State Fair, simply to encourage exhibitors and attendance, while the two other roads named carry the exhibits free one way. These rates apply only within the state, however, but the association here will be satisfied if similar concessions are granted for the Portland meet.

President Josselyn, of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company is expected to be present and announce details of the special facilities which his company will give for the handling of the crowds for the week of the races, and also the time when such extra service will be installed.

Officers of the State Poultry Association will announce their plans for the exhibit which will be made in connection with the meet, together with the amount of space required for exhibits of chickens, ducks, geese and turkeys, all of which are likely to be embraced in the show. The Country Club management is figuring on furnishing a canvas pavilion, 100 by 150 feet, for the poultrymen this year, and a permanent building hereafter, in case the first show proves a success and the poultrymen agree to give up their mid-winter shows.

The building committee, which has charge of arrangements for housing the temporary population of several hundred people who will be quartered on the grounds, will report on this matter as well as on the progress of the still uncompleted buildings, and on the enlarged fire-protection system to be installed.

Entertainment, programme and amusement committees will also report, and it is expected that consideration of the scores of concessions applied for will add zest to the gathering.

More than one-third of the mile track has already been surfaced and is being tamped, wet down and rolled so that it is in almost perfect condition. At the present rate of progress the entire mile oval should be finished in about three weeks.

BARLEY AND HOPS—a food and a tonic. A trifle of alcohol—an aid to digestion. That's beer. If you get a pure beer—well aged—nothing is better for you.

It is not good advice to say "Don't drink beer." There are many who need it.

Your doctor advises beer. The healthiest peoples of the world drink the most of it.

But it is good advice to say, "Don't drink the wrong beer." Some beer causes biliousness. Schlitz does not.

Schlitz beer is both good and good for you.

Nine people in ten would be better for drinking it.

Schlitz is the home beer, because of its absolute purity. It is aged for months, then filtered, then sterilized. There are no after effects.

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.
Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.
To avoid being imposed upon, see that the cork or crown is branded Schlitz.
