Larrabee or Curtis for Unexpired Term-Radical Progressives Say Only Cummins' Election Can End Factional Fight.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Aug. 5 .- (Special.) -It is not altogether unlikely that members of the Thirty-second General Assembly will petition the Governor to call an extra session for the purpose of filling the Senatorial vacancy caused by the death of Senator Allison. This notwithstanding the statement made by the Governor at Chicago Tuesday evening that he expected to fill the vacancy by appointment, which would leave it to the Thirty-third General Assembly next Winter to fill the short term and elect for the long term. Governor Cummins may not return to the state until after the funeral of Mr. Allison, which will be held at Dubuque at 4 P. M. Saturday,

Cummins' Turn Now. Pending the return of the Governor, gossip today regarding the successor assumed a general character, the radical

Cummins men declaring that it depends the attitude of the standpatters whether the state shall be the scene of a bitter contest, insisting that, if they cease fighting Cummins and concede his election to the Senate, there will be no trouble this year. They say it is now the Governor's turn and that the time has come for cessation of the fight against him which has characterized the politics of Iowa for the last seven or eight years. They declare that further opposition to him for the Senatorship will be disastrous to the party at the Fall election.

Two Possible Appointees.

If the Governor makes an appointment, politicians generally assume lieve that the Governor will name George M. Curtis, ex-Congressman and his closest personal friend, Mr. Cum-mins at Lake Forest today is quoted as Whatever my plans for the political future may be eventually, I do not propose to stand at the grave of lowa's greatest man and mingle my tears with a subtle appeal for his political estate."
