PUTS 35,000 ACRES UNDER IRRIGATION

David Eccles Will Build Extensive System for Grand Ronde Valley.

WATER RIGHT $20 ACRE

Big Dam in Mountains Will Convey River Onto Fertile Fields of Union County—Work to Begin Very Soon.

LA GRANDE, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—David Eccles, the Utah capitalist, has opened a gateway to prosperity in Union County through a decision rendered to the Commercial Club last evening, that was made public today.

This prosperity pathway is to follow the road of irrigation, for it is now announced that, aided by subscriptions of stock to cover bonded indebtedness of $400,000 by landowners of the valley, the Amalgamated Sugar Company will finance the great irrigation scheme in this county.

For the remarkably low rate of $20 an acre-foot of water, the landowners can secure perpetual water rights, payments to be made at the rate of $2 an acre per annum. This is much cheaper than the Government projects in Umatilla.

Big Reservoir in Mountains.

The water is to be dammed in the Grand Ronde River in the mountains 20 miles from here, where a natural basin exists, and all that is necessary is the construction of a concrete dam, which will mean an expenditure of $250,000.

With Eccles' ready availability to cement and construction forces he can do the work cheaper than any one else. The wings of the dam are to be imbedded in the mountain rocks, and even beyond these ends will be the floodgate leading the water through the tunnels back into the river again, which will carry it down the canyon for 20 miles to the valley.

There two main canals will lead the water in sufficient quantities to irrigate 25,000 acres, if necessary, through a network of laterals. At present only 20,000 acres will be included in the project.

Land Values Feel Impetus.

A mass meeting of landholders in this valley will be held one week from tomorrow. Real estate is said to be climbing up rapidly as a result of the announcement that the entire valley, or that part of it which is arid, will be put under a foot of water annually. Effort to subscribe the stock on a purely mutual plan will be made at once.

BRAKE FAILS ON HILLSIDE

Auto Party Meets Accident 15 Miles Out of Colfax.

COLFAX, Wash., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—Bert Hargrave, Mrs. Dr. Balziger, Virgil McCroskey, of Colfax; Miss Helen Lindsey, of Seattle, and Miss Geneva Hatfield, of North Yakima, were thrown from an automobile today, receiving painful injuries.

The party left Colfax for a camping trip on Snake River. After starting down the steep five-mile grade near the river, the brake refused to work and the auto dashed down the hill at full speed. After a quarter-mile dash Hargrave and Miss Hatfield were thrown clear of the machine, the others were buried under the machine as it turned over.

Dr. Balziger and Ed Johnsosn hurried with an automobile from Colfax, driving 15 miles in 30 minutes. All the party except Mrs. Balziger were able to be brought home tonight.

O. R. & N. BUYS TIDE LANDS

Secures 400 Acres From F. S. Stanley on West Side of Young's Bay.

ASTORIA, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—A deed was filed for record in the County Clerk's office today, whereby F. S. Stanley, of Portland, transfers a tract of land on the west side of Young's bay to the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company. The consideration named in the deed is $1.

The property consists of 400 acres of frontage, being a tract about 3500 feet along the waterfront and a mile deep. It is located nearly a mile north of the west end of the Astoria & Columbia River Railroad Company's bridge. The property was purchased by Mr. Stanley over a year ago from E. Z. Ferguson and D. M. Stuart and the announcement was made at a meeting of the stockholders of the Union Pacific at Salt Lake that it was bought for terminal purposes.

FORTY BUSHELS TO ACRE

Splendid Yield on Bagley Ranch in Washington County.

HILLSBORO, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—The best wheat yield yet reported for Washington County comes from the George R. Bagley ranch, five miles northwest of town. Forty bushels an acre for a field of 20 acres was the net result.

This is on the farm which has been used for irrigation experiments by A. P. Stover, of the Government Irrigation Department. The grain, however, was not grown on irrigated land. The average yield of Winter wheat so far as reported from over the county, is about 25 bushels an acre.

BIG ELK IN COAST RANGE

Band of Seven Seen Near Washington County Line.

HILLSBORO, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—A band of elk is reported in the mountains at the head of Trask, in Tillamook County, and near the Washington County line, northeast of Forest Grove. A cruiser reports that he saw seven Wednesday, and that dogs had run them in from across the Wilson River divide.

One lone elk was seen 15 miles north of here this week, and local hunters are preparing for an extended chase. This is the first time that elk have been seen so close in for years.

SAY TOLEDO RATE UNFAIR

Lincoln County Lumber Shippers Complain of Railroad Tariff.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—Lumbermen at Toledo, Lincoln County, have complained to the Oregon Railroad Commission that the Corvallis & Eastern and the Southern Pacific discriminate against Toledo and in favor of Mill City in the rates charged on lumber to Western Oregon points and to the East. An investigation has been asked.

While the Commission has no authority to make an order affecting rates on shipments outside the state, it can investigate the facts, and if it finds the conditions warrant such action can take the matter up with the Interstate Commerce Commission. In this instance it is presumed that the defense of the railroad companies will be that the haul from Mill City is all down hill, while that from Toledo is over the summit of the Coast Range. The question present is, therefore, whether each shipping point should be given a rate according to the difficulties of the haul. The Toledo complaints do not submit any figures showing the extent of the discrimination alleged or the basis upon which they think the rates should be fixed.

EAGLES DECIDE ON OMAHA

OFFICERS OF GRAND AERIE ARE ELECTED.

Clam Bake and Barbecue on Shores of Lake Washington Attract Large Crowds.

SEATTLE, Aug. 14.—Omaha, Neb., was selected as the city in which to hold the

S. G. Cosgrove, of Pomeroy, Candidate for Gubernatorial Nomination on Republican Ticket in Washington.

1909 convention of Eagles, at the session of the grand aerie today, and the following officers were elected:

Grand worthy president, Bernard J. Monaghan, Philadelphia, No. 42; grand worthy vice-president, Frank E. Hering, South Bend, No. 43; grand worthy chaplain, John A. Cline, Cleveland, No. 135; grand worthy secretary, Conrad H. Mann, Milwaukee, No. 137; grand worthy treasurer, Finley McRae, Helena, No. 16; grand worthy conductor, Charles E. McDonald, Buffalo, No. 46; grand inside guard, Robert L. Armstrong, Fort Worth, No. 42; grand trustees, Martin J. Gray, New Haven, No. 242; William T. Gartland, Boston, No. 45; Henry J. Lea, Seattle, No. 1; W. C. McKinney, Saginaw, No. 497.

St. Paul, Minn., and Saratoga Springs, N. Y., put up hard fights for the convention, but J. A. (geographical center) Tuthill, who was handling the campaign for the Nebraska city, succeeded in polling more votes than the two other cities combined.

There were no hard fights for the offices in the grand aerie and the "administration ticket" went through without a hitch.

Harry L. Leavitt, of Seattle, one of the original founders of the Eagles, was today elected to the honorary office of past grand worthy president in recognition of his early labors in behalf of the order.

The newly elected officers of the grand aerie will be installed tomorrow morning and after concluding all the outstanding business the convention will formally adjourn.

A big clam bake, barbecue and field sports at Lake Washington was a feature of today's proceedings. Several thousand people from Seattle and outside points attended, beside many of the delegates and their wives and families.

SEATTLE BLUE BOOK FAILS

Socially Prominent Won't See Their Names and Pictures in Print.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—The State Supreme Court has dismissed the receivership of the Seattle Blue Book. The opinion recites that Thomas R. Smith, who was to do the soliciting and induce the Seattle socially prominent to subscribe; Ethel Hine Morse, art manager; Gertrude J. Deach, literary editor, and Edwin J. Brown, who was to finance the scheme to the extent of $1000, entered into partnership to share the profits.

The two women, after a month, drew out of the concern and assigned their claims to John R. Parker, a Seattle attorney. Later Brown took full possession. Smith then brought suit, claiming to be a half owner, and secured the appointment of a receiver.

The Supreme Court says the book is not completed and that it will take money to bring it out, and that anyhow the case was not one for the appointment of a receiver.

The Court adds: "Unless some charitably-inclined persons come to its relief, it will die in the hands of the receiver for want of means."

TWO NEW CASES OF PLAGUE

One at Oakland, Another at Porta Costa in California.

ASTORIA, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—Dr. Holt, Quarantine Officer at this port, has received notification that two new cases of plague have developed in the vicinity of San Francisco, one at Oakland and the other at Porta Costa.

It was expected that the present quarantine regulations requiring the fumigation of vessels arriving from San Francisco, would soon cease, but the discovery of these new cases will cause their continuance for a longer period.

Pythians to Visit Coos.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—G. C. Moser, grand chancellor of the Oregon Knights of Pythias, and L. R. Stinson, grand keeper of records and seals, of the order, are expected to leave Portland August 22 to visit the lodges in Coos County on a tour of inspection and will attend the Oregon-Idaho development congress, to be held in Marshfield August 24 and 25.

COSGROVE GUEST IN KING COUNTY

Gubernatorial Candidate Addresses Young Men's Republican Club.

OUTLINES HIS PLATFORM

Declares He Has Made No Pledges, No Alliances and Will, If Elected, Give People Businesslike Administration.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—The capacity of the banquet room in the Rathskeller was taxed at noon today to accommodate those attending the luncheon given S. G. Cosgrove, candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket, by the King County Republican Club.

R. R. Fox, president of the club, presided and introduced L. H. Gray as toastmaster. John C. Higgins, of the Young Men's Republican Club, made the opening speech, responding to the toast "The Younger Generation of Republicans," in which he strongly urged the young men of the state to rally to the support of the Grand Old Man of the Republican party.

J. M. Frink spoke to "The Older Generation of Republicans," paying tribute to the long service Mr. Cosgrove had rendered the party.

Mr. Cosgrove brought the luncheon to a close. He spoke as follows:

Cosgrove Explains His Platform.

When defeated in anything in a Republican convention I have never pouted, but have considered it my duty to help elect the ticket. I have missed attending as a delegate but two territorial or state conventions for 26 years, paying my own expenses, in addition to the campaigning I have spoken of before.

About the only criticism of my candidacy that has been made in Seattle is that of the P.-I., which says that I am running on a platform of vague promises. I do not think there is anything vague about promises of an administration that will be free from hoodlum, one that will be conducted along businesslike and honest lines. If my quarter of a century among you has taught you anything it surely has taught you that such a promise on my part will be fulfilled. I do not know that I ever went back on a promise, and I do not know that I ever made a promise that I could not keep. In addition to this I stand on the platform as adopted by the Republican party of this state, in its convention at Spokane. There is not a plank in it that has not my heartiest indorsement.

Its most striking feature, that regarding local option, is not such a great departure—it is merely the general application of a principle you already have in force right here in Seattle. No Councilman who values his political existence would vote for the establishment of a saloon in one of your residential districts. The force of public opinion keeps saloons off Capitol Hill and Queen Anne Hill. All that the advocates of a local option law ask for is to give all the districts of the state the privilege that is enjoyed by those who have their homes on those two hills. It is a simple matter, and one that is eminently fair to both the people and the saloons. I am for it with all my heart.

Rights of Capital and Labor.

Some of my friends criticise me on my position in regard to labor and capital, and yet when my position is stated I do not believe that anyone could criticise me for a single moment who was not prejudiced on one side or the other of this great question. I want right here to say that organized capital is here to say. Under the present civilization of this country it would be impossible to promote the many things now demanded by civilization with individual capital, and therefore organized capital is a necessity, but it should be made to obey the law of the land, just the same as the commonest individual, and I am opposed to those men who believe that organized capital should have rights before those of the commonest citizen. The organization of capital has compelled the organization of labor, and that is here to stay. It is a necessity, because were not labor organized, the organization of capital would soon reduce labor in this country to peonage. Organized labor has made some mistakes, but the general result of it has been to advance the laboring man, lift him higher in the scale of education and enlightenment, and has given him and his family many privileges which he would not otherwise have enjoyed. Organized labor must also obey the law.

His Record an Open Book.

Should the people of this state honor me and make me its Governor, I pledge you that I will give it a thorough, businesslike administration, based on strict economy, business methods and constant attention to the same.

Should I become Governor of this state, let me assure you that there will be no ring rule, no corporate domination in the state's affairs; all the institutions of the state shall be free from politics, and no man shall be appointed to office unless qualified. I have no interests supporting me; I have made no alliances whatever, and shall make none; I stand alone upon my merits and the support of the good people of the State of Washington.

In conclusion, let me say again, I have no political entanglements. I am pledged to no man or set of men. I believe there are more officeholders in the state than there should be. When I appoint a man to office I will first be assured that there is work for him, and that he is the best man to do it. For 28 years I have lived amoung you. My life has been an open book. Turn each page and scan it well. It is all I have to offer you as a guarantee of my faithful discharge of the duties of the office which I am firmly convinved I am to fill for the next four years.

DEATH ROLL IN NORTHWEST

Henry Coleman, Pioneer of '52 and Well Known Throughout State.

EUGENE, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—Henry Coleman, a pioneer of Lane County, well known in both Eastern and Western Oregon, died this morning at Lorraine, on the old donation claim on which his father and family settled in 1852. Henry Coleman, who was nearly 84 years old, crossed the plains in 1852 with his father, Nathan Coleman, and family. Nathan Coleman was a prominent pioneer farmer and cattle-raiser, owning at one time the finest Durham herds in this section of Oregon.

Henry Coleman was a typical Oregon pioneer, possessing in the extreme those hardy qualities which mark the earliest settlers. He was a man of iron will. It was nothing for him to mount his horse in Eugene and with scant provisions ride across the mountains to Eastern Oregon at all times of the year, and return in the same way.

He was largely associated with Joe Teal, Sr., in the stock business in Eastern Oregon. Later he had extensive interests in different parts of Western Oregon. During his life he made and lost several fortunes. He could never do too much for his people or his friends, and his sterling sense of justice and honor is well remembered by all who knew him.

Mrs. Mary Phalem Quinn.

OREGON CITY, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Mary Phalem Quinn, wife of William W. Quinn, died at the family home in Canemah on Friday morning, after an illness of typhoid fever and rheumatism. Mrs. Quinn was born at Stockbridge, Mass., on February 27, 1845, and came to Oregon in 1864, making her home in Portland until 1865, when she was married to William Quinn, coming to Oregon City the same year. She leaves a husband and eight children—Mrs. Adele Crissinger, Mrs. Clara Bruce, Misses Ella, Charlotte, Emma, William, Ferd, Frank, and one grandson, Frank Bruce of this city.

Mrs. A. N. Brown, of Seattle.

SEATTLE, Aug. 14.—Mrs. A. N. Brown, wife of Colonel Ashman Brown, news editor of the Post-Intelligencer, well-known newspaper man, and ex-private secretary to Governor Mead, is dead, after four months' illness.

JAPS BUY AT HOOD RIVER

ORIENTALS PROPOSE TO GROW BIG, RED APPLES.

"We Have Come to Stay," Says Mr. Yasui, Who Has Opened Real Estate Office.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.) According to Mr. Yasui, a Japanese, who has opened a real estate office at Hood River, many of his countrymen are so impressed with the Oregon country that they have forever turned their eyes away from the land of the cherry blossom and wish to become American property holders and citizens. Already several of the Orientals have the knowledge that will enable them to grow Newtons and Spitzenbergs to perfection.

"No more we want to make money and go back to Japan," said Mr. Yasui today. "My countrymen, many of them have come to stay. They buy the ranch at Hood River and The Dalles and raise the apple and vegetable. You notice several Japanese have already bought ranches at Hood River and we have formed the corporation to buy 1400 acres near The Dalles up Mill Creek. Here we raise the peach, cherry and vegetable and at Hood River we raise the apple."

During the past month several Japanese merchants have opened stores at Hood River and are doing a thriving business with their many countrymen who are scattered throughout the valley. In the Mount Hood country there is quite a colony, some of whom are accompanied by their wives, and the first Japanese baby to see the light of day in the new country was recently born there.

SHIP GETS NEAR BREAKERS

Andorinha Has Serious Time in Calm Off North Head.

ASTORIA, Or., Aug. 14.—(Special.)—The four-masted British bark Andorinha, the largest sailing vessel that ever entered the Columbia River, arrived in this evening, 76 days from Iquique, in ballast. Captain Griffiths, her master, reports an exceedingly tedious passage up the coast, owing to calms and contrary winds and the fact that his vessel is very foul.

The Andorinha is the vessel reported at anchor on Wednesday morning about 15 miles above North Head. The weather was very thick outside, and on Tuesday evening the bark drifted in almost to the line of the breakers, where she dropped anchor in 17 fathoms of water. Twice she took up anchors but as the wind died out each time was compelled to drop them again.

On Wednesday morning the bark was sighted by a steam schooner, which promised to report her, and did so, but before the tug arrived the wind came up and the bark was able to run off shore. She then beat too far south in the fog and was unable to work her way back until today.

Captain Griffiths is worn out with his constant watch of the past four days and did not come ashore tonight. One of the sailors who was taken ill on the passage was brought ashore and taken to the hospital this evening. Captain Griffiths had been here twice before, the last time as master of the Riversdale. The Andorinha was here five years ago.
