WORLD UNITE CITY AND COUNTY.—Thomas Hislop, a prominent resident of the East Side, is a persistent advocate of the plan to unite the city and county under one government on the grounds of economy and prompt transaction of business. Fifteen years ago Mr. Hislop sought the projected Board of Public Works, which afterwards appeared in the Executive Board, and has been assisting on doing away with this last body. He calls attention to the fact that the affairs of the county are handled by three men, the County Judge and two Commissioners, and these three men, he says, handle as much business as the city officials. "By uniting the city and county," he declares, "we could jointly take up the matter of crushing rock for road and street improvement. The county has the quarry and plant at Kelly Butte, and the output could be delivered by electric railway at points in the city at minimum cost to the property-owners. I firmly believe that a council or board of five members, two elected for two years, two for four years and a Mayor elected for five years could give us a compact and economical administration of both city and county affairs. The business of the city and county is so closely united that it is practically the same. The details of course, of the charter, would have to be worked out by those fitted for the work."

MOUNT TABOR SCHOOL SANITATION.—At the meeting of the Mount Tabor Improvement Club Tuesday night a report was made on the condition of the lot of the West-avenue schoolhouse to the effect that it could not be much better, so far nothing has been done to better the arrangements. It was decided that unless the Board of Education takes some action before the opening of school the attention of the building inspector will be called to the conditions. There has been talk of a septic tank to replace the present provisions, as there are yet no sewers within reach of the West-avenue building. Nothing has been done, however, and the closets are in a building over a ravine and it was the opinion expressed at the meeting that when weather sets in and the ground becomes saturated the building might slide into the ravine, thus endangering the lives of the school children. The club, at the request of the Board of Education for some improvement.

MEETING IS PERSUASIVE.—The City Civil Service Commission met at the City Hall yesterday morning, but transacted little besides routine business. Nothing was said about the failure of the police committee of the Executive Board to appoint a Captain to fill the vacancy left by Captain Bruhl, although some looked for sensational developments. It has been intimated in certain quarters that the Commission might take steps to compel the Commission to name a Captain, but no name has been mentioned. The matter was not even mentioned. Appeals of Joe Day, J. P. Resing, Frank J. Snow and L. G. Carpenter, former detectives and L. P. Murphy, formerly a patrolman, were officially considered. But no date was set for the hearing. City Attorney Kavanaugh announced that he could start in on these cases tomorrow morning, if agreeable to the Commission, but Chairman Willis thought best to postpone the matter until Monday, September 7. Joint committees have been appointed and are now completing arrangements for the event. Rev. J. A. Ryan, of St. Paul, Minn., who has been visiting in the city, will deliver the principal address. He is a prominent thinker along economical and social lines. Apart from the address, there will be a musical and literary programme, with amusements and sports in the afternoon. It is intended to have a grand procession from the City Hall in St. John to the park, a distance of half a mile. A number of prominent sprinters have promised to enter this contest. There will be a tug-of-war between a West and East Side team. Refreshments will be provided on the ground. The committee is completing arrangements for the event.

WILL HOLD BRIDGE MEETING.—A meeting of citizens will be held in a vacant store at the corner of East Eleventh and Division streets, tomorrow night, to discuss the erection of a high bridge for South Portland. Each party is prominently represented by the bridge for South Portland, will be present and talk to the people. Resolutions favorable to the project will be introduced at this meeting.

EXTENSION OF DAWSON STREET.—Dawson street on the Peninsula is to be extended from the southerly boundaries of Columbia Park to the westerly line of Wabasha avenue. The object is to make Dawson 80 feet wide to Wabasha avenue. The widening of the street is part of a plan to open gradually a wide street through the Peninsula to St. John.

METHODIST REVIVAL.—Rev. Aura Smith, who is assisting Rev. L. F. Smith in revival meetings at Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, preaches the Gospel with power. He does not attack the churches, but preaches that Christ can save a man from all sin, and keep him saved. The meetings are growing in interest. Services each day at 7:30 and 10:30 o'clock.

MEETING CALLED.—Citizens of the East Side, who favor the proposed high bridge for South Portland, will hold a mass meeting in a vacant store at East Ninth and Division streets, tomorrow night. Mark O'Neil will preside and will present a set of resolutions, which will probably be adopted, calling for favorable action on the project.
