Los Angeles took the measure of the home team again in yesterday's game, this time by a 7-to-1 score. Portland started out well and seemed to have recovered from its had slump, but luck turned and Los Angeles soon had the game safely put away, winning with ridiculous case. Koestner was strong with men on bases and when a hit meant a run he was invincible, seldom allowing the ball to be knocked out of the dia-

Kinsella, with the exception of the third

Kinsella, with the exception of the third and eighth innings, pitched a good game, retiring the side in quick order most of the time. Cooney, despite one error, pulled off some lightning plays, and in the seventh accepted two difficult chances and helped in a double play.

Portland had a fine chance to score in the second. Danzig started with a scratch single and Raftery bunted safely. Bassey sacrificed and Ryan was given a pass purposely, filling the bases, with only one out. Here Koestner showed his generalship, for Whalen, the next man up, hit into a double play. Portland generalship, for Whalen, the next man up, hit into a double play. Porfland didn't get a man on base again until the sixth, when Cooney got an infield hit and Johnson knocked the first clean single off Koestner. There were two out and Danzig was retired at first.

Los Angeles gathered three in the aeventh with the aid of a base on balls, two scratch singles, good base running and a close decision at second. Only three men in each inning faced Kinsella from then to the eighth, when the Southerners got four more runs.

Kinsella Himself to Blame.

Kinsella was a good deal to blame Kinsella was a good deal to blame for these runs, as he threw the ball past Danzig on Koestner's bunt, allowing runner to take second, and on the next play was slow in handling Oakes' bunt. Casey followed on the third play with another error filling the bases. Koestner was caught at the plate trying the squeeze play on Dillon's bunt, but Whalen threw wide to first trying for a double and Bernard scored. Two more double and Bernard scored. Two more runs came in when Wheeler and Smith singled and Cooney made a miscue. Patrick pitched the ninth inning and retired the side without further scor-

Koestner let up a little in the ninth and Portland got its one run across. Johnson, Danzig and Bassey singled when Koestner put on steam and got the next two men.

The French experts were greatly astonished at the demonstration given by Mr. Wright of his ability to leave the ground again after touching it. It had been supposed that it was impossible for him to launch his machine without the aid of apparatus.

This feat apparently assures Mr. Wright of the prize for high flight, one of the conditions of which is that the machine shall leave the ground without use of outside help.

GIRL CARRIED FOR MILES

Residents of South Portland Excited by Crime Committed After Promise Made to Purchase Candy.

With the promise of buying her candy, John Jaise, 45 years of age, took 4-yearold Ida Fendell from her playmates in South Portland yesterday afternoon and started toward the banks of the river. He had carried her a mile or more before being apprehended by a woman who had seen him and rushed to the aid of the child.

Then followed an exciting chase by the police, for as soon as the child disap-peared her father had notified police headquarters and a detail of officers had been burried to the scene. The little girl lives with her parents at First and Hall streets and had wandered a short distance from home yesterday afternoon to play with a number of her companions.

Jaise coaxed the children to follow him for several blocks by promises of candy, and suddenly lifted Ida in his arms and leaving the other children behind, ran rapidly south towards the railroad tracks.

HISTORICAL DEVOTION TO IDEALS When Jonas Chickering, in 1823, sold the first piano that bore his name, he established the foundations of the scientific and artistic leadership in piano building that have been associated ever since with the name of Chickering, From the very first his inventions revolutionized the piano-makers' artand gained for American pianos in many respects a well-deserved superiority over their foreign rivals.

The personal initiative, the close supervision, the loving, enthusiastic care which Jonas Chickering bestowed upon the instruments that bore his name have been perpetuated in all the 85 years that have followed. It is this constant, painstaking care, coupled with a far-sighted progressiveness, inventive ability, initiative, that has not only maintained the Chickering standard of excellence, but kept it constantly forging ahead, never resting for a moment on its laurels.

The result of this cherishing of Chickering tradition-made constantly militant by the infusion of new enthusiasm, new artistic ideals -is clearly seen in the Chickering pianos of today-the most perfect examples of modern piano-making. The refinement of inventive genius is found in the small Chickering grands-the Quarter-Grand-adapted in size to the smallest boudoir or parlor-yet miracles of volume and clearness of tone, of resonance. of mechanical perfection.

Other new Chickerings in the display are a new style quarter-grand satin or French finish, price $778; a magnificent Louis XV design, price $945; superb parlor grands of special style; prices in short ranging from $596 up to $1600. Dozens there are that deserve particular attention for their artistic beauty.
