STATE FAIR WILL

Preparations Made to Handle Bigger Crowd and More Exhibits Than Formerly.

BUILDINGS ARE IMPROVED

Surplus From Last Year Used to Enlarge Exhibit Halls and Grandstand-List of Horses Entered for Racing Events.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 10.—(Special.)—All signs indicate that the State Fair, which will open at the fairgrounds next Monday, will be the greatest ever held, both in size and character of exhibits and in number of people in attendance. This baving been an exceptionally good agricultural season the exhibits of farm, garden and orchard products will be the best that Oregon has ever seen. cause the Fair has expanded to larger proportions and the premiums have been increased, there will be a larger number of entries than at any previous fair. The construction last year of 12 large, light, well ventilated and convenient stables for the livestock, has encouraged breeders of the best stock to continue to bring their herds here and has induced some breeders to enter their stock who have never done so before. The races have attracted the owners of the best horses attracted the owners of the best horses that come to the Northwest circuit. Proprietors of side attractions have been alert and know that the crowd will be immense. Though the Fair management has shut out all games of chance and such money-making schemes as knife racks, nigger-baby stands, etc., the concessions have been more numerous than ever before. All the midway attractions will be of the highest order. The managers of the local streetcar company are also convinced that this will be a great year for the Fair and arrangements have been made to secure plenty of streetcar from Portland to handle the crowds be-

Last year's Fair was a financial success Last year's Fair was a financial success and left the management with a surplus which has been spent on improvements upon the grounds. The old gates have been torn out and modern electric stiles have been installed, making it possible to handle larger crowds in less time. Ticket windows have been discontinued se that there will be no crush and crowd in the effort to get tickets. Those who wish to enter will pay cash at the gates, but as no change will be made by the attendants, each visitor must provide himself with the requisite 50-cent piece in East Side Countles Appeal to State Board to Reduce Valuations.

OLYMPIA, Wash, Sept. 10.—(Special)—The State Board of Equalization met today and heard representatives of a number of East Side countles. W. S. Hunt, assessor, appeared for Columbia County and urged the State Board to make no increase of the county assessment. Michael Toner, of Walla Walla, urged similarly no change ification of that county. They said lands were classed too high last year and should be classed with Franklin County rather than with Lincoln.

C. T. Deets, treasurer of Lincoln County, declared the classification of that county was too high. He insisted the county contained a large amount of scab land which would always remain valueless.

Auditor W. S. Jenkins, Commissioner
D. E. Cresswell and E. F. Benson appearing for Benton County, also asked lower classification. The assessment on lands was raised by the Board
$1,000,000 last year and the speakers claimed Benton County lands are not in the same class as Yakima. Charles S. Florence, Auditor, appeared for Asotin County to urge that its asseesments be not increased.
Treasurer Charles Adams and Prose-

Treasurer Charles Adams and Prosecuting Attorney J. A. Rochford for Stevens County, saked for a lower classification, being now with Whitman and Walla Walla.

WILLIAM BARCLAY ARRESTED IN ALTURAS, CAL.

Aged Indian, Great Uncle of Accused, Says He Helped to Conceal Body of Murdered Man.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Sept. 10.— (Special.)—William Barclay is under arrest at Alturas, Cal., charged with the murder of F. O. Jacobs, a horse-buyer, on Yainax Butte, Klamath Indian Reservation, August 26. Sheriff Birnes, of this county, will bring the prisoner, who is a half-breed, and an Indian boy who was with him, to Klamath Falls to await trial.

Evidence going to show that a crime had been committed and revealing the place of concealment of the body was given by an aged great uncle of the alleged murderer, who helped to conceal the body.

The old Indian, Little John by name, was worried by the knowledge of the murder and communicated the information to others. The coroner's jury de-clared its belief in Barclay's guilt after Salem Republicans Say They Don't Want His Help.

VOICE THEIR DISAPPROVAL

Fiery Oratory at Organization of Taft and Sherman Club in Capital City-Loyal to Taft, but Not to Young.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 10 .- (Special.)-John C. Young, state organizer of Taft Republican Clubs in Oregon, was given a severe jolt tonight when the Young Men's Republican Club and the Roose-velt Republican Club met to join in a single organization for the work of this campaign.

After an extended and somewhat heated discussion, the meeting voted down an amendment proposing to call the new club s "Taft Republican Club," as desired by Mr. Young, and the name Salem Republican Club was adopted instead.

After having thus expressed their dis-satisfaction with the appointment of Mr. Young as organizer of Republican clubs, the faction which prevailed moved a reconsideration, and by unani-mous vote decided to call the organiza-tion the "Taft and Sherman Republican Clubs". The vote on the adoption of the Club," The vote on the adoption of the name in the first instance was a tie and Senster J. N. Smith, who presided, cast the deciding vote in favor of "Salem Republican Club."

Oppose Young as Organizer.

In the discussion of the question it In the discussion of the question it was evident that many who voted in the first place for the use of the word "Taft" were nevertheless displeased with the selection of Young as organizer. H. D. Patton, A. Gesner and Senator T. B. Kay led the fight for the use of the word "Taft." A. N. Gilbert. F. G. Deckebach, John A. Carson and John Knight objected to limiting the scope of a Republican club by giving it any one a Republican club by giving it any one man's name. Kay expressed himself as being little disposed to work with Young as anyone, but said that to refuse to use Taft's name would be a slap at Taft. He did not believe in doing this in order to show disapproval of Young's appointment.

After the name "Salem Republican Club" had been adopted, several other Club" members entered the room and Patton asked for a reconsideration, and in doing so stated that he had received a letter so stated that he had received a letter frem John C. Young asking that a Taft club be organized here. This let loose the pent-up storm of wrath. Responding to the plea for harmony, Mr. Gilbert de-clared that the only ones who were dis-turbing the meeting were the followers of Young, who wanted to reconsider a name already adopted.

Say Young Is Populist.

"Young is not a Republican, and never was, and I don't propose that he shall organize me into a Republican club," exclaimed Mr. Gilbert.

Others expressed similar views, calling Young a Populiat and otherwise making known their disgust at the prominence he has been given. Having thus made their opinions known, the anti-Young forces consented to a reconsideration and adopted the name "Taft and Sherman Club." Without a single exception the speakers declared their loyalty to Taft. The following officers were elected:

President, C. L. McNary; vice-president, Earl Race; secretary, Frank West; treasurer, B. F. Meredith; executive committee, Chauncey Bishop, Lie Acheson, W. C. Smith. Delegates to the state conven C. Smith. Delegates to the state of the tion of Republican Clubs, H. A. Johnson, H. B. Thielsen, John W. Rowland, F. G. Deckebach, W. T. Perkins.

The following were appointed a membership committee: H. D. Patton, R. C.

DISMISS ANCIENT SUIT

Halley, L. C. Stringer.

Ben Butler Defendant in Long-Forgotten Damage Case.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—After a lapse of 30 years, action has been taken to have dismissed a suit brought against the late General Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts, by John H. Loster, who sought to recover $100,000 damages for alleged false imprisonment in 1864. In its time the action attracted widespread attention, but it had long since been forgotten and was revived only by the unexpected uncarthing of some musty old records bearing upon it by United States District Attorney Stimson.

When General Butler was in co of the Department of Virginia and North Carolina, in 1864, he was called upon by Lester, who wished to have his family Lester, who wished to have his family passed through the lines on a flag of truce. While he was talking with the General he was recognized by one of the latter's subordinates as a spy. He was taken into custody and incriminating documents were found upon his person, as a result of which he was tried by a commission and sent to a military prison. As long afterward as 1878, Lester brought two suits against General Butler. One of these was thrown out of court and the other never came to trial.
