TAKES WAR INTO

Climax of Day Spent in Crossing Ohio Comes at Wheeling.

PLEDGES EXTRA SESSION

If Elected, Will Immediately Act for Direct Election of Senators. Calls Taft Father of Government by Injunction.

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 11.-William J. Bryan this afternoon and tonight was West Virginia's guest. A royal welcome was accorded him as his private car Offvette, containing himself and party and a big reception committee, crossed the Ohio Rivers and entered this city: The river front was a mass of humanity and, as Democracy's leader stepped on West Virginia soil, he was cheered to Speaking tonight to a multitude of per-Speaking tonight to a multitude of persons. Mr. Bryan pointed out the differences between the two platforms and made a plea for Democratic support. He made frequent reference to Mr. Taft and told the audience that the Republican candidate was conducting his campaign on a platform so obnoxious to him that he was forced continually to patch it up with amendments of his own. Much stress was laid upon the labor and antinjunction planks of the Democratic platform.

Hearty Greeting in Ohio.

The visit to Wheeling was the climax of an eventful day in Ohio. From the time the Democratic candidate left Columbus early in the morning until he crossed the Ohio River into West Virginia the crowds which gathered along the line of travel made insistent demands for his appearance and to "talk to us a little." Altogether the receptions to the candidate in Ohio and this city were among the notable happenings of the campaign.

In his address here tonight Mr. Bryan referred to the fact that his third nomination for the Presidency had a significance that could not be overlooked either by Republicans or Democrata. He said:

Why Bryan Still Leads. The visit to Wheeling was the climax of Why Bryan Still Leads.

In former campaigns I suffered defeat, and those defeats would have been sufficient to eliminate me from politics if my claim to public attention was based upon personal merit. But, my friends, I have not been value shough to believe that any large part of the interest felt in me, of the confidence expressed in me, of the affection felt toward me, is due to personal qualities. I have believed, I do believe, that the fact that I maintain a place in politics is due to the strength of the things for which I stand.

Referring to the

I stand.

Referring to the fact that the overshadowing issue of the campaign from the Democratic standpoint was "shall the people rule." Mr. Bryan charged that the Republican party deliberately and with malice aforethought had prevented the rule of the people. Whenever publicity of campaign contributions before election was attained, he declared, it would be much easier to get control of the Government "for the great favor-seeking corporations have dominated the Government kargely through the aid they have given in the election of Republican candidates to office."

Direct Election of Senators.

Mr. Bryan poked fun at Mr. Taft for asserting that he was "personally in-clined toward the election of Senators by direct vote of the people."

"I think I ought to say," he remarked,
"that every man who goes down to ruin is personally inclined to be virtuous, but not the moral courage to has not the moral courage to resist temptation." He gave his piedge that, if elected, he would call an extra season of Congress immediately after his inauguration and, among other things would ask for the election of Senators by direct vote of the people.

He referred to what he said was the "despotic character" of the rules of the House of Bepresentatives as reflected in Speaker Cannon and said that the Speaker controlled the will of a majority of that body in matters of legislation demanded by the people.

Attitude on Injunctions.

Taking up the labor planks of the Democratic party, Mr. Bryan charged that the Republican convention refused to put itself squarely on record on the labor question, but instead had added to its offense by nominating as its candidate for President "the man who, more than any other, has been identified with the very things of which the laboring men complain." He reiterated his charge men complain." He relterated his charge that Mr. Taft was the "father of government by injunction."
Discussing the question of writs of injunction, Mr. Bryan denied that the Democratic plank "is the most inseldious attack on the courts that has ever been made." He said the bill the Democratic made." He said the bit the beneate 12 years ago and that it had had the support of Senators Sherman of Ohio, Allison of Iowa, Hale of Maine, Hawley of Connecticut and Morrill of Vermont. "I will leave Mr. Taft to explain his stand and that of prominent Republicans and I will deal with the principle involved."

No Trust Magnates in Jail.

Speaking of the trusts and the fallure of President Roosevelt to send any trust magnates to the penitentiary, Mr. Bryan said that, if a strenuous President would not take such action, "how long will it take a man like Judge Taft to get a man in the penitentiary?"

Mr. Bryan left at 12:25 o'clock over the Baltimore & Ohlo Railroad for Cumber-land, where he is due early in the morn-

Attacks Taft in Own State on Labor and Tariff.

DENISON, O., Sept. II.—Speeding to Wheeling, W. Va., W. J. Bryan, the Democratic candidate for President, today conducted his campaign into the camp of the enemy and delivered numerous speeches in the native state of Mr. Taft, his chief opponent. He pointed out to his several audiences that the indications were all favorable to Democratic success and that the party could safely be entrusted with the reins of government.

Addressing a large and enthusiastic gathering of workingmen employed in the shops at this place, Mr. Bryan declared that the platforms of the two parties, shops at this place, Mr. Bryan declared that the platforms of the two parties, with respect to the labor question, were assuming more and more prominence in the campaign, especially since Speaker Cannon has undertaken to defend the position of the Republican party. He then discussed the planks of the Democratic platform and indicated those which, in his opinion, will be most beneficial to the workers.

"The Democratic party takes the side of the laboring man," he declared, amid shouts of approval, "and the Republican party the opposite side."

Taking up the tariff, Mr. Bryan asserted that the Republicans were beginning to find that they are not prepared to meet the arguments presented by the Democrats because they are beginning to threaten. They are beginning to present scares, and Mr. Taft admits the weakness of his case when, instead of trying to show that the Republican position on the tariff question is right, he warns the country that, if it does not elect him to office, there will be a panic. Mr. Taft, he said, had started a panic at the wrong time.

"There was a time," remarked Mr. Bryan, "when the Republicans could use the panic argument to deceive the people, but that time has passed."

"The speeches of Mr. Taft have darkened rather than illuminated the things that the Republican platform covers," said Mr. Bryan to a big crowd that greeted him upon his arrival at Newark, where he delivered his first speech in Ohio in the present campaign. "He is endeavoring to amend in some cases, and yet his amend-

Tacoma Judge Proposes to Carry Fight Into Legislature.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 11.—(Special.)

Judge W. H. Snell will be candidate efore the Legislature for United States Senator, and so announced today. He says prominent Republicans of Pierce County insist that the large vote given him in this county entitles him to the unanimous vote of the Pierce County members in the Legislature under pledge of the laws of 1997, page 475, section 37, which provides that candidates for the Legislature may sign a pledge particularly to voters in their district to support for the Senate that a support for the Senate that the candidate receiving the highest the candidate receiving the highest

Judge Snell's manager says there are many reasons which go to show that the vote does not express the popular choice. The vote in the state is about 200,000 and in the vote for choice for Senator, Jones received only about 11,-000 plurality, which amounts to the proposition of about one-sixteenth of the voters of the state binding the en-tire vote of the Legislature to that Every Legislative candidate nomi-nated Tuesday declare they will stand by the primary pledge and vote for Jones, so Judge Snell will not have Pierce County back of him.

Brutal Murder of Italian Woman. Husband Is Suspected.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A murder attended by unusually brutal features was revealed today, when the police broke into a padlocked apartment in Forty-fifth into a padiocked apartment in Forty-fittin street and discovered the bound and gazged body of Mrs. Annie Mauro, a pretty Italian woman, 22 years old. There was evidence that the woman had been struck down from behind as she was preparing to leave the apartments; that the assassin had bound her arms and ankies, stuck a gag in her mouth and then taken an automobile vell and deliberately strangled his victim to death.

David Mauro, the youthful husband of the inurdered woman, is missing and the Coroner has ordered his arrest. The couple were married about ten weeks ago, and it is said, quarreled frequently.

ACTS AS GUARD

Wounded Man Staggers About Saloon, While Police Hurry to the Scene and Arrest the Assailant.

What may turn out to be a murder occurred last night shortly before midnight when Matt Johnson, a laborer, 47 years of age, shot down Fred Holch, a bartender, outside the Nicolai Exchange saloon at Twenty-fourth and Nicolai streets. At 3 o'clock this morning Holch was still living but his death was momentarily expected.

Johnson fired three shots into his victim's body and then turned the pistol on Pat Devine who ran at the enraged Johnson in a fruitless endeavor to avert a tragedy. Two bullets grazed Devine, who, nothing daunted at his danger, knocked the would-be murderer down, forced his pistol from his hands and held him until the arrival of assistance.

He was placed in the City Jail.

The principals were strangers to each other and Johnson had tried to strike up an acquaintance with Holch and a party of three friends. Holch and his companions were not cordial and Johnson then resorted to abusive language.

The scenes which preceded the shooting outside the saloon were witnessed by John Turk, son of the proprietor of the Nicolai Exchange saloon.

The boy is about if years of age and has been taken to the state insane asylum. On the Breithaupt place five acres were set out in peach trees, and this year they bore so plentifully that a $2500 crop was taken off the small tract. Breithaupt and his sons worked early and late to pick the fruit and ship it to market, in order to supply the demand. The boy thought, talked and dreamed of peaches until his enthusiasm unbalanced his mind, but it is expected that treatment in the state hospital will bring about a return of his reason. known Damascus farmer. ## POLLARDS ARE CANCELLED

MANAGER BAKER DEFERS TO ORGANIZED LABOR.

Juveniles Will Not Be Made Subject of Test Case on Child Labor Measure.

In deference to the opinion of the Portland Federated Trades Council and in fulfilment of a promise which he had made to that body, Masager George L. Baker, of the Baker Theater, has cancelled the Pollard Juvenile Opera Company, and that organization will not appear at the Baker. The house will remain dark next week.

The proposed appearance of the Pollards in this city had been construed by officials of the Child-Labor Commission as a prospective violation of the labor law. Mr. Baker and his attorney, John P. Logan, did not coincide in this view and were prepared to defend their position in the courts.

F. Logan, did not coincide in this view and were prepared to defend their position in the courts.

Before the Federated Trades Council law night Mr. Baker and Mr. Logan appeared and stated their views.

"We are confident." Mr. Baker told the union men, "that this law does not apply to cases such as the one in point. We have been prepared to maintain the position against the stand of the Child-Labor Commission, and we think we could do so successfully. But now we learn that you workingmen are interested in the case and that puts a different aspect on it. Regardless of our legal rights, we do not wish to do anything that might be considered as hostile to the state labor law, which organized labor has fathered. If, after consideration here tonight you decide and believe that the labor law is involved in this case, we will cheerfully defer to your wishes and cancel our contract with the Pollard Company, even at heavy loss to ourselves."

Messrs. Baker and Logan then retired and the Federated Trades Council, after some discussion, decided to indorse the position of the Child-Labor Commission.

Mr. Baker, upon being notified of the council's decision at once redeemed his promise by cancelling the Pollards, and the company will remain in Seattle next week.
