

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Table with 3 columns: Office Name, Phone Number, and Address. Includes City Circulation, Advertising, and various departments.

AMUSEMENTS

BUNGALOW THEATRE (Twelfth and Morrison)—Baker Stock Company in 'The Devil' tonight, 8:15.

ORPHEUM THEATRE (between Sixth and Seventh)—Advanced vaudeville. Matinee, 2:15; tonight at 8:15.

GRAND THEATRE (Washington between Broadway and Duane)—'The Devil' tonight, 8:15.

FANTASIES THEATRE (Fourth and Stark)—Continued vaudeville. 2:30, 7:30 and 9 P. M.

STAR THEATRE (Washington and Park)—'The Little Prospector' tonight, 8:15.

LYRIC THEATRE (Seventh and Alder)—'The Devil' tonight, 8:15.

THE OAKS—Allen Curtis Musical Comedy Company in 'The Devil' tonight, 8:15.

BARRELL—Twenty-fourth and Vaughn streets—Portland vs. San Francisco, 7:30 P. M.

GRANGE TO MEET—Members of Multnomah County Pomona Grange will hold their quarterly meeting tomorrow, at Corbett.

CHILD SMOTHERED IN BED—Smothered between her mother and father, Alice Lambert, 3 months old, was smothered to death in bed early Saturday morning.

EAST SIDE CHURCH TO BUILD—The First United Evangelical Church has sold its property at East Tenth and East Sherman streets and has bought a new location.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTORS MEET—The meeting of the Presbytery of Multnomah Association held yesterday in the First Presbyterian Church.

REALLY BOARD LECTURE POSTPONED—Owing to the postponement of the banquet to the Oregon athletes, the lecture scheduled for tonight by Harold W. Sawyer to be given before the Portland Realty Board has been postponed until further notice.

MILWAUKEE COUNCIL MEETING—There will be a special meeting of the Milwaukee City Council tonight for the purpose of considering a proposition for lighting the streets of Milwaukee by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company.

NEW YORK SOCIETY MEETING—The New York State Society will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. E. T. Taggart, 341 Sherman street.

BENEFIT FOR LENTS LIBRARY—An entertainment and supper for the benefit of the Lents library fund will be given at the Lents Baptist Church, Friday evening, a good program will be given.

FIRST ANNUAL PACIFIC NATIONAL LIVESTOCK SHOW AND RACE—September 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 1908, at Portland County Club grounds.

M. SCHULZ, exclusive haberdasher, at 229 Washington street, IMPERIAL HOTEL building. Has no branch store, Portland.

THE best watermelons that ever grew outside of Portland only 1 cent per pound. Read Smith's adv. back page.

FOR RENT—A few nice offices in the Oregonian building. See Superintendent, room 301.

Miss Jocelyn Foulkes, piano teacher, has returned, 164 North 22d. Phone M. 291.

Dr. Skerr, dentist, has removed to Medical building.

HELD FOR COUNTERFEITING

Albert Bozarth Charged With Belonging to Bad-Coin Gang.

Albert Bozarth, alleged to be a counterfeiter, was arrested at Independence Sunday and brought to Portland by United States secret service agents.

Bozarth and his associates are wanted by the police of Elma and other Washington towns.

It is charged that Adams and Bozarth made it a practice of following county fairs where they operated cane and knife racks and passed off their spurious coin.

Both Adams and Bozarth are wanted by the police of Elma and other Washington towns.

Northwestern People in New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—(Special)—Peo-

Trained Monkeys Head Orpheum Bill

ORPHEUMITES can certainly not complain that the bill opening yesterday afternoon lacks in diversity, for the various offerings are up to the standard established by that circuit.

DESCRIBE CRIME IN SALOON

Witnesses Tell of Shooting in Building on Nicolai Street.

Matt Johnson, a Finnish laborer, will be given a preliminary hearing in the Municipal Court Wednesday morning in connection with the charge of murder that has been placed against him.

As the result of the killing of Fritz Hollock, in a saloon at Twenty-fourth and Nicolai streets, Friday night, a coroner's jury decided to that effect yesterday.

Joseph Cole, Chris Felske and Thomas Holz, who were at the scene when the fight occurred, testified that they were seated at a table in the rear of the saloon when Johnson entered in an intoxicated condition.

The bartender refused to sell more liquor and he was so quarrelsome that the game was abandoned. He, with three companions, left the place, and soon Hollock also departed. As he emerged from the building he said:

"You wouldn't shoot me, would you, Johnson?" and three revolver shots were the reply. Hollock died almost instantly.

Johnson is confined in the City Jail with his son, who is being held as a witness.

PLAN FAIR AT MILWAUKEE

Grange Committees Prepare for Many Entertaining Features.

Milwaukee Grange will hold its annual fair September 24, 25 and 26 in its hall at that place.

Prominent speakers have been secured for Thursday and Friday nights, when entertainment will be provided for all visitors.

Friday afternoon the special feature will be a baby show which will exhibit as it is the intention of the committee to direct the fair consists of Mrs. Maggie Johnson, Richard Scott and E. W. Bunnell.

They are endeavoring to secure a concrete stone building, 40x60 feet, which will cost $20,000.

The pastor of the church, has the matter in charge and expects to have the building finished before the end of the year.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTORS MEET—The meeting of the Presbytery of Multnomah Association held yesterday in the First Presbyterian Church.

Dame Fashion Makes Changes in Styles

Handsome French Costumes Revert to the Directoire Period—Hats Are Large and Well Bedecked With Feathers.

BY NANCY LEE. At the Olds, Wortman & King opening yesterday, it is obvious that fashion has made a radical departure in women's gowns, hats and various other accessories.

"Fashions are established each season in Paris before a convention of the most exclusive French modistes, hair dressers and milliners," said Miss L. Bernard, who has but recently returned from New York and Paris.

"After resolving upon a certain style of gown, the hats, veils, coats and modes of doing the coiffure are then adopted, resulting in a costume in perfect harmony."

For this season the styles revert to the Directoire period, the short empire suggestion being manifest in the corsage, while the sheath like skirt falls in long graceful, clinging lines to the feet.

With the handsome French costume which this firm is showing, the length of skirt for calling as well as dinner gowns, shows decidedly more train than the costumes of former seasons.

Long sleeves and extreme height of collar are also marked features. In one of the Fifth-street windows is shown a striking French gown, an exquisite peach pink tint of chiffon satin, cut on loose Directoire lines, the corsage and skirt elaborately adorned with cascades of handsome lace, while the yoke and close-fitting sleeves are of gold lace.

Many hitherto new shades are shown for the first time in both hats and gowns, among them being wistaria olive, French blue, which is a cross between mauve and London smoke, amber, topaz, Copenhagen, Cobalt blue, Edison blue, Indian brown, amethyst, catwax and canard, the latter combining the green and purple tints of a duck's throat.

A stunning Directoire evening coat shown is of black chiffon velvet, with a row of sleeves and is lined throughout with a pastel amethyst satin. Another evening gown which attracted much attention is a copy of a Directoire model, a taupe shade of broadcloth, cut Directoire, which is worn with same style of close-fitting coat, the empire suggestion composed of a heavy lace of the exact tint as the gown.

Accompanying this model is a taupe shade of hat elaborately trimmed with chiffon and maribout feathers.

For the opening a great portion of the second floor has been attractively arranged with Turkish rugs and Art Nouveau foliage which is pretty well for the various specimens displayed.

A new departure is the showing of artistic old English prints, white in color, a portion of the house are displayed new styles in shoes, evening slippers and boots, the latter in most instances being cut high and buttoned, while the tops of cloths match the color of one's gown. Another novelty is a line of Parisian scarfs, composed of chiffon, either end being completed by artistic hand-painted designs, or they carry out floral designs in embossed velvet. Furs of sable, ermine, lynx, squirrel, gray fox, marten and mink, in various shapes are also a feature of the display.

A great assortment of Parisian novelties includes Directoire hat pins, jewelers, silverettes, chateaux pins, bayreid chains, jeweled belts, and vanity combination boxes.

Vells are decidedly larger in mesh, reaching much more extravagant in size than the latter, which are also called Pierette richest are in mesh and are composed of a combination of soft fluffy ostrich feathers.

The hats are much larger in size, many fully 28 inches in breadth, showing a marked similarity to the picturesque Gainsborough and other old English prints. Trimmings of parasols and feathers are of such enormous size that the ordinary hand box is inadequate. A profusion of uncurled ostrich tips, and complete heron crests are among many of the specimens shown. A new departure is the shown in motor hats, veritable Parisian creations, which are poke-shaped, or modeled after the old fashioned top hats. They are composed of plaited satin, velvet and moles and draped with flowing chiffon motor veils.

Trained Monkeys Head Orpheum Bill

ORPHEUMITES can certainly not complain that the bill opening yesterday afternoon lacks in diversity, for the various offerings are up to the standard established by that circuit.

DESCRIBE CRIME IN SALOON

Witnesses Tell of Shooting in Building on Nicolai Street.

Matt Johnson, a Finnish laborer, will be given a preliminary hearing in the Municipal Court Wednesday morning in connection with the charge of murder that has been placed against him.

As the result of the killing of Fritz Hollock, in a saloon at Twenty-fourth and Nicolai streets, Friday night, a coroner's jury decided to that effect yesterday.

Joseph Cole, Chris Felske and Thomas Holz, who were at the scene when the fight occurred, testified that they were seated at a table in the rear of the saloon when Johnson entered in an intoxicated condition.

The bartender refused to sell more liquor and he was so quarrelsome that the game was abandoned. He, with three companions, left the place, and soon Hollock also departed. As he emerged from the building he said:

"You wouldn't shoot me, would you, Johnson?" and three revolver shots were the reply. Hollock died almost instantly.

Johnson is confined in the City Jail with his son, who is being held as a witness.

PLAN FAIR AT MILWAUKEE

Grange Committees Prepare for Many Entertaining Features.

Milwaukee Grange will hold its annual fair September 24, 25 and 26 in its hall at that place.

Prominent speakers have been secured for Thursday and Friday nights, when entertainment will be provided for all visitors.

Friday afternoon the special feature will be a baby show which will exhibit as it is the intention of the committee to direct the fair consists of Mrs. Maggie Johnson, Richard Scott and E. W. Bunnell.

They are endeavoring to secure a concrete stone building, 40x60 feet, which will cost $20,000.

The pastor of the church, has the matter in charge and expects to have the building finished before the end of the year.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTORS MEET—The meeting of the Presbytery of Multnomah Association held yesterday in the First Presbyterian Church.

Dame Fashion Makes Changes in Styles

Handsome French Costumes Revert to the Directoire Period—Hats Are Large and Well Bedecked With Feathers.

BY NANCY LEE. At the Olds, Wortman & King opening yesterday, it is obvious that fashion has made a radical departure in women's gowns, hats and various other accessories.

"Fashions are established each season in Paris before a convention of the most exclusive French modistes, hair dressers and milliners," said Miss L. Bernard, who has but recently returned from New York and Paris.

"After resolving upon a certain style of gown, the hats, veils, coats and modes of doing the coiffure are then adopted, resulting in a costume in perfect harmony."

For this season the styles revert to the Directoire period, the short empire suggestion being manifest in the corsage, while the sheath like skirt falls in long graceful, clinging lines to the feet.

With the handsome French costume which this firm is showing, the length of skirt for calling as well as dinner gowns, shows decidedly more train than the costumes of former seasons.

Long sleeves and extreme height of collar are also marked features. In one of the Fifth-street windows is shown a striking French gown, an exquisite peach pink tint of chiffon satin, cut on loose Directoire lines, the corsage and skirt elaborately adorned with cascades of handsome lace, while the yoke and close-fitting sleeves are of gold lace.

Many hitherto new shades are shown for the first time in both hats and gowns, among them being wistaria olive, French blue, which is a cross between mauve and London smoke, amber, topaz, Copenhagen, Cobalt blue, Edison blue, Indian brown, amethyst, catwax and canard, the latter combining the green and purple tints of a duck's throat.

A stunning Directoire evening coat shown is of black chiffon velvet, with a row of sleeves and is lined throughout with a pastel amethyst satin. Another evening gown which attracted much attention is a copy of a Directoire model, a taupe shade of broadcloth, cut Directoire, which is worn with same style of close-fitting coat, the empire suggestion composed of a heavy lace of the exact tint as the gown.

Accompanying this model is a taupe shade of hat elaborately trimmed with chiffon and maribout feathers.

For the opening a great portion of the second floor has been attractively arranged with Turkish rugs and Art Nouveau foliage which is pretty well for the various specimens displayed.

A new departure is the showing of artistic old English prints, white in color, a portion of the house are displayed new styles in shoes, evening slippers and boots, the latter in most instances being cut high and buttoned, while the tops of cloths match the color of one's gown. Another novelty is a line of Parisian scarfs, composed of chiffon, either end being completed by artistic hand-painted designs, or they carry out floral designs in embossed velvet. Furs of sable, ermine, lynx, squirrel, gray fox, marten and mink, in various shapes are also a feature of the display.

A great assortment of Parisian novelties includes Directoire hat pins, jewelers, silverettes, chateaux pins, bayreid chains, jeweled belts, and vanity combination boxes.

Vells are decidedly larger in mesh, reaching much more extravagant in size than the latter, which are also called Pierette richest are in mesh and are composed of a combination of soft fluffy ostrich feathers.

The hats are much larger in size, many fully 28 inches in breadth, showing a marked similarity to the picturesque Gainsborough and other old English prints. Trimmings of parasols and feathers are of such enormous size that the ordinary hand box is inadequate. A profusion of uncurled ostrich tips, and complete heron crests are among many of the specimens shown. A new departure is the shown in motor hats, veritable Parisian creations, which are poke-shaped, or modeled after the old fashioned top hats. They are composed of plaited satin, velvet and moles and draped with flowing chiffon motor veils.

Trained Monkeys Head Orpheum Bill

ORPHEUMITES can certainly not complain that the bill opening yesterday afternoon lacks in diversity, for the various offerings are up to the standard established by that circuit.

DESCRIBE CRIME IN SALOON

Witnesses Tell of Shooting in Building on Nicolai Street.

Matt Johnson, a Finnish laborer, will be given a preliminary hearing in the Municipal Court Wednesday morning in connection with the charge of murder that has been placed against him.

As the result of the killing of Fritz Hollock, in a saloon at Twenty-fourth and Nicolai streets, Friday night, a coroner's jury decided to that effect yesterday.

Joseph Cole, Chris Felske and Thomas Holz, who were at the scene when the fight occurred, testified that they were seated at a table in the rear of the saloon when Johnson entered in an intoxicated condition.

The bartender refused to sell more liquor and he was so quarrelsome that the game was abandoned. He, with three companions, left the place, and soon Hollock also departed. As he emerged from the building he said:

"You wouldn't shoot me, would you, Johnson?" and three revolver shots were the reply. Hollock died almost instantly.

Johnson is confined in the City Jail with his son, who is being held as a witness.

PLAN FAIR AT MILWAUKEE

Grange Committees Prepare for Many Entertaining Features.

Milwaukee Grange will hold its annual fair September 24, 25 and 26 in its hall at that place.

Prominent speakers have been secured for Thursday and Friday nights, when entertainment will be provided for all visitors.

Friday afternoon the special feature will be a baby show which will exhibit as it is the intention of the committee to direct the fair consists of Mrs. Maggie Johnson, Richard Scott and E. W. Bunnell.

They are endeavoring to secure a concrete stone building, 40x60 feet, which will cost $20,000.

The pastor of the church, has the matter in charge and expects to have the building finished before the end of the year.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTORS MEET—The meeting of the Presbytery of Multnomah Association held yesterday in the First Presbyterian Church.

Dame Fashion Makes Changes in Styles

Handsome French Costumes Revert to the Directoire Period—Hats Are Large and Well Bedecked With Feathers.

BY NANCY LEE. At the Olds, Wortman & King opening yesterday, it is obvious that fashion has made a radical departure in women's gowns, hats and various other accessories.

"Fashions are established each season in Paris before a convention of the most exclusive French modistes, hair dressers and milliners," said Miss L. Bernard, who has but recently returned from New York and Paris.

"After resolving upon a certain style of gown, the hats, veils, coats and modes of doing the coiffure are then adopted, resulting in a costume in perfect harmony."

For this season the styles revert to the Directoire period, the short empire suggestion being manifest in the corsage, while the sheath like skirt falls in long graceful, clinging lines to the feet.

With the handsome French costume which this firm is showing, the length of skirt for calling as well as dinner gowns, shows decidedly more train than the costumes of former seasons.

Long sleeves and extreme height of collar are also marked features. In one of the Fifth-street windows is shown a striking French gown, an exquisite peach pink tint of chiffon satin, cut on loose Directoire lines, the corsage and skirt elaborately adorned with cascades of handsome lace, while the yoke and close-fitting sleeves are of gold lace.

Many hitherto new shades are shown for the first time in both hats and gowns, among them being wistaria olive, French blue, which is a cross between mauve and London smoke, amber, topaz, Copenhagen, Cobalt blue, Edison blue, Indian brown, amethyst, catwax and canard, the latter combining the green and purple tints of a duck's throat.

A stunning Directoire evening coat shown is of black chiffon velvet, with a row of sleeves and is lined throughout with a pastel amethyst satin. Another evening gown which attracted much attention is a copy of a Directoire model, a taupe shade of broadcloth, cut Directoire, which is worn with same style of close-fitting coat, the empire suggestion composed of a heavy lace of the exact tint as the gown.

Accompanying this model is a taupe shade of hat elaborately trimmed with chiffon and maribout feathers.

For the opening a great portion of the second floor has been attractively arranged with Turkish rugs and Art Nouveau foliage which is pretty well for the various specimens displayed.

A new departure is the showing of artistic old English prints, white in color, a portion of the house are displayed new styles in shoes, evening slippers and boots, the latter in most instances being cut high and buttoned, while the tops of cloths match the color of one's gown. Another novelty is a line of Parisian scarfs, composed of chiffon, either end being completed by artistic hand-painted designs, or they carry out floral designs in embossed velvet. Furs of sable, ermine, lynx, squirrel, gray fox, marten and mink, in various shapes are also a feature of the display.

A great assortment of Parisian novelties includes Directoire hat pins, jewelers, silverettes, chateaux pins, bayreid chains, jeweled belts, and vanity combination boxes.

Vells are decidedly larger in mesh, reaching much more extravagant in size than the latter, which are also called Pierette richest are in mesh and are composed of a combination of soft fluffy ostrich feathers.

The hats are much larger in size, many fully 28 inches in breadth, showing a marked similarity to the picturesque Gainsborough and other old English prints. Trimmings of parasols and feathers are of such enormous size that the ordinary hand box is inadequate. A profusion of uncurled ostrich tips, and complete heron crests are among many of the specimens shown. A new departure is the shown in motor hats, veritable Parisian creations, which are poke-shaped, or modeled after the old fashioned top hats. They are composed of plaited satin, velvet and moles and draped with flowing chiffon motor veils.

Trained Monkeys Head Orpheum Bill

ORPHEUMITES can certainly not complain that the bill opening yesterday afternoon lacks in diversity, for the various offerings are up to the standard established by that circuit.

DESCRIBE CRIME IN SALOON

Witnesses Tell of Shooting in Building on Nicolai Street.

Matt Johnson, a Finnish laborer, will be given a preliminary hearing in the Municipal Court Wednesday morning in connection with the charge of murder that has been placed against him.

As the result of the killing of Fritz Hollock, in a saloon at Twenty-fourth and Nicolai streets, Friday night, a coroner's jury decided to that effect yesterday.

Joseph Cole, Chris Felske and Thomas Holz, who were at the scene when the fight occurred, testified that they were seated at a table in the rear of the saloon when Johnson entered in an intoxicated condition.

The bartender refused to sell more liquor and he was so quarrelsome that the game was abandoned. He, with three companions, left the place, and soon Hollock also departed. As he emerged from the building he said:

"You wouldn't shoot me, would you, Johnson?" and three revolver shots were the reply. Hollock died almost instantly.

Johnson is confined in the City Jail with his son, who is being held as a witness.

PLAN FAIR AT MILWAUKEE

Grange Committees Prepare for Many Entertaining Features.

Milwaukee Grange will hold its annual fair September 24, 25 and 26 in its hall at that place.

Prominent speakers have been secured for Thursday and Friday nights, when entertainment will be provided for all visitors.

Friday afternoon the special feature will be a baby show which will exhibit as it is the intention of the committee to direct the fair consists of Mrs. Maggie Johnson, Richard Scott and E. W. Bunnell.

They are endeavoring to secure a concrete stone building, 40x60 feet, which will cost $20,000.

The pastor of the church, has the matter in charge and expects to have the building finished before the end of the year.

PRESBYTERIAN PASTORS MEET—The meeting of the Presbytery of Multnomah Association held yesterday in the First Presbyterian Church.

Dame Fashion Makes Changes in Styles

Handsome French Costumes Revert to the Directoire Period—Hats Are Large and Well Bedecked With Feathers.

BY NANCY LEE. At the Olds, Wortman & King opening yesterday, it is obvious that fashion has made a radical departure in women's gowns, hats and various other accessories.

"Fashions are established each season in Paris before a convention of the most exclusive French modistes, hair dressers and milliners," said Miss L. Bernard, who has but recently returned from New York and Paris.

"After resolving upon a certain style of gown, the hats, veils, coats and modes of doing the coiffure are then adopted, resulting in a costume in perfect harmony."

For this season the styles revert to the Directoire period, the short empire suggestion being manifest in the corsage, while the sheath like skirt falls in long graceful, clinging lines to the feet.

With the handsome French costume which this firm is showing, the length of skirt for calling as well as dinner gowns, shows decidedly more train than the costumes of former seasons.

Long sleeves and extreme height of collar are also marked features. In one of the Fifth-street windows is shown a striking French gown, an exquisite peach pink tint of chiffon satin, cut on loose Directoire lines, the corsage and skirt elaborately adorned with cascades of handsome lace, while the yoke and close-fitting sleeves are of gold lace.

Many hitherto new shades are shown for the first time in both hats and gowns, among them being wistaria olive, French blue, which is a cross between mauve and London smoke, amber, topaz, Copenhagen, Cobalt blue, Edison blue, Indian brown, amethyst, catwax and canard, the latter combining the green and purple tints of a duck's throat.

A stunning Directoire evening coat shown is of black chiffon velvet, with a row of sleeves and is lined throughout with a pastel amethyst satin. Another evening gown which attracted much attention is a copy of a Directoire model, a taupe shade of broadcloth, cut Directoire, which is worn with same style of close-fitting coat, the empire suggestion composed of a heavy lace of the exact tint as the gown.

Accompanying this model is a taupe shade of hat elaborately trimmed with chiffon and maribout feathers.

For the opening a great portion of the second floor has been attractively arranged with Turkish rugs and Art Nouveau foliage which is pretty well for the various specimens displayed.

A new departure is the showing of artistic old English prints, white in color, a portion of the house are displayed new styles in shoes, evening slippers and boots, the latter in most instances being cut high and buttoned, while the tops of cloths match the color of one's gown. Another novelty is a line of Parisian scarfs, composed of chiffon, either end being completed by artistic hand-painted designs, or they carry out floral designs in embossed velvet. Furs of sable, ermine, lynx, squirrel, gray fox, marten and mink, in various shapes are also a feature of the display.

A great assortment of Parisian novelties includes Directoire hat pins, jewelers, silverettes, chateaux pins, bayreid chains, jeweled belts, and vanity combination boxes.

Vells are decidedly larger in mesh, reaching much more extravagant in size than the latter, which are also called Pierette richest are in mesh and are composed of a combination of soft fluffy ostrich feathers.

The hats are much larger in size, many fully 28 inches in breadth, showing a marked similarity to the picturesque Gainsborough and other old English prints. Trimmings of parasols and feathers are of such enormous size that the ordinary hand box is inadequate. A profusion of uncurled ostrich tips, and complete heron crests are among many of the specimens shown. A new departure is the shown in motor hats, veritable Parisian creations, which are poke-shaped, or modeled after the old fashioned top hats. They are composed of plaited satin, velvet and moles and draped with flowing chiffon motor veils.

SHAW'S PURE MALT. America's ORIGINAL MALT WHISKY Without a Rival Today. BLUMAUER & HOCH. 108 and 110 Fourth Street. Sole Distributors for Oregon and Washington.

FROM THE BOTTOM

of a can of BAY STATE paint clear up to the top, there's dollars of satisfaction and wear in every brushful. Don't take our word alone; simply ask those who have used it.

THE BIG PAINT STORE FISHER, THORSEN & CO. Front and Morrison Sts.

Lumbermens National Bank

Corner Second and Stark Streets, PORTLAND, OREGON. Capital $250,000.00

OFFICERS: G. K. Wentworth, President; John A. Keating, Vice-President; George L. McPherson, Vice-President; H. D. Story, Cashier; F. A. Freeman, Assistant Cashier.

DIRECTORS: G. K. Wentworth, Lloyd J. Wentworth; Charles S. Russell, J. E.