

BRYAN SPEAKS ON ATLANTIC COAST

Boasts That Eastern States Are No Longer Enemy's Country.

TRIES TO EXPLAIN CHANGE

Says Clerks Have Learned Expenses Grow Faster Than Salaries and Business Men Learn Trusts Drive Them Out.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 15.—Pouring hot shots into W. H. Taft and the Republican party at every point where he stopped, W. J. Bryan tonight in this city concluded a strenuous day of campaigning in New Jersey, after a few hours in Philadelphia, where, in front of a newspaper office and before an enthusiastic throng, he arranged the Republican organization of that city and expressed his sorrow for people who, he said, were compelled to live under the rule. Switching into national politics, he asserted that the Republican standard-bearer promised that there would be no panic in New Jersey, as Mr. Taft's grandfather, promised the same thing. He wanted to know how Mr. Taft could prevent panic, when Mr. Roosevelt already had one on his mind.

Wild Reception in Jersey. Mr. Bryan's reception in New Jersey was a demonstrative one. At Washington Park, on the New Jersey side of the Delaware River, below Philadelphia, he addressed more than 20,000 persons. His audience, according to great estimates, his speech of over an hour was continually interrupted by cheers and handclapping. A statement by him that his nomination for a third time, after two defeats, with no President to help him with his patronage, was due to the growth of the ideas for which he stood, provoked the wildest enthusiasm. His every utterance almost was directed at Mr. Taft, whom he charged with running on the record of President Roosevelt.

Direct Attack on Dupont. Incidentally he again attacked T. Coleman Dupont, of the Republican executive committee, reiterating his former charge that Mr. Dupont, as a trust magnate, was unfit to occupy the position of attempting to institute reforms. Along the line of travel from Camden here, stops were made at a dozen places, and large crowds gave him an enthusiastic welcome. Mr. Bryan's speech in this city, tonight covered much of the same ground gone over during the day. Taylor Opera House, where he spoke, he was crowded from pit to dome. Seated on the stage were a number of the members of the state Democratic committee, including Chairman James R. Nugent. The meeting was intensely enthusiastic and contained many Democrats who had been opposed to Mr. Bryan in his former campaigns. Mr. Bryan left on a late train for Rochester, traveling via Jersey City, where he will make a brief stop in the morning.

CONTRASTS TWO CAMPAIGNS

Bryan Describes Change in Eastern Opinion Since 1896.

WASHINGTON PARK, N. J., Sept. 15.—"My nomination for a third time after two defeats and with no President to help me with his patronage, has been due to one thing alone, and that is the growth of the ideas for which I stand and the conviction among the people that I am on their side." These words, W. J. Bryan today, addressing a multitude of people at this place, who cheered him loudly and long, sounded the keynote of his first speech to the voters of New Jersey in the present campaign. The Democratic candidate never showed in better form. From the opening to the close of his remarks, the great throng gave demonstrations of approval of his utterances. Coming directly to the issues of the campaign, Mr. Bryan declared that the period had been reached in the history of the Democratic party "when the East and the West, the North and the South, can unite upon a platform." Mr. Bryan then compared the difference between the conditions in 1896 and the present time. "In 1896," he said, "I recognized that there was an intense opposition. I recognized that there were people who feared that my election would be injurious to the country, and they communicated that fear to those who worked for them." He declared that no such feeling could be found today. "There are," he said, "no people who are fearful of danger in one of my election." Continuing, he said:

Contrasts 1896 With 1908. In 1896 the clerks in the stores were in many, if not most, cases given to understand that, if I won, there might be no business doing in the country for four years. Today the clerks in the stores are not being advised by their employers as they were twelve years ago. The clerks in the stores are learning that under Republican rule their living expenses have increased more rapidly than their salaries.

Utah Gives Gompers Rebuff. State Federation of Labor Refuses to Indorse Bryan. OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 15.—The Utah Federation of Labor, in session here, through a special committee, today failed to indorse the general circular from the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, urging the support of Bryan, and advised that the local unions be allowed to act without instructions from the state organization. The report of the committee was unanimously adopted. Much opposition to committing the unions to an espousal of the cause of any one party was manifested among the delegates in attendance, and the action taken is looked upon as a compromise with the element opposed to mixing politics and unionism.

Spokane Student Honored. STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Sept. 15.—E. C. Matthias, of Spokane, was today elected by the Hammer and Coffin Society to be an associate editor of the Chaparral, the comic paper of the University.

"Those were just some Republicans who were being taken in and baptized."

Pours Volley at Taft. The Democratic candidate then launched into a discussion of the tariff, the trusts, the guaranty of bank deposits and the labor injunction and poured a volley of criticism into Mr. Taft, whom he charged with running on President Roosevelt's record.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Bryan left for Trenton.

SAYS TAFT DODGES ISSUES

Bryan Returns to Attack on Arrival at Philadelphia. PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—"Mr. Taft is dodging. He cannot escape from the issues. He will not be permitted to run away from them. He has accepted the nomination of his party. Now, let him take the people into his confidence and interpret his program so that the public will know where he stands and what he intends to do."

In these words, William J. Bryan, in an interview today, on the way from Baltimore to this city, issues another challenge to Mr. Taft, his Republican opponent. He read Mr. Taft's utterances, printed this morning, and dictated a report, which is in part as follows: "Mr. Taft is dodging. Instead of defining his position on public questions, he is inquiring about my record, and in his inquiry he shows that he knows as little about my record as he does about the public questions which he has attempted to discuss. He accuses me of being changeable and of abandoning issues."

Defends His Own Record. Mr. Bryan said he had been a tariff reformer for 28 years, had advocated the election of United States Senators by the people for 12 years, and had been favoring an income tax for 14 years, and Mr. Taft is only now coming around to his position on these questions. Continuing, Mr. Bryan said: "I said in 1896 that the Philippines ought to have their independence. Mr. Taft this year admitted that the people must ultimately have independence. I have maintained my position. I have also discussed the Philippine question in the campaign and called attention to the fact that Mr. Taft made a mistake of $14,000,000 in his estimate of the cost of imperialism."

On the railroad question he has expressed himself as strongly as I have. He has said and the President has also said that Government ownership will follow if the railroad prevent regulation. I have said the same thing. I do not desire Government ownership. I hope that the railroad will be regulated. Our position only differs in that he has more faith than I have in the willingness of the railroad to be regulated. "He speaks something of the money question. The money question has been taken out of politics because the unexpected discovery of gold has given the increase which was demanded by the Republican party as well as by the Democratic party. "Mr. Taft cannot escape from the issues. Will he define his position on the tariff question? On the labor question? On the question that are presented in this campaign? He will not be permitted to run away from them. "If he prefers to delve into the past rather than the future, the issue of the present, he will explain the Benguet Railroad, in the Philippines, and the perpetual franchise that he wanted to fasten upon the Philippines, a perpetual grant of income to the corporations securing the franchises? Will he explain his record on the labor question, and his silence on the tariff question and the trust question during his official service in Washington?"

Mr. Bryan arrived here at 10:20 o'clock and rode in an automobile to Dooner's Hotel, the headquarters of the Bryan League of Pennsylvania. Mr. Bryan was warmly welcomed by a large crowd at Dooner's, and held a brief reception. After his reception at Dooner's, Mr. Bryan was escorted to the office of the Philadelphia Record, where he spoke to a large crowd standing on a small platform in front of a baseball scoreboard. He referred to his invasion of the East and to the fact that the Democrats in this section were not so well equipped as they ought to be to present their cause.

No Apology for Stumping. "Where we cannot reach voters through printed pages," he said, "it is more necessary to meet the voter face to face. I offer no apology for coming, although I am a candidate for the highest office in the world." Referring to "Shall the People Rule?" he arraigned the election methods of Philadelphia.

Mr. Bryan said that the Democratic platform was offensive to bosses and very offensive to the bosses of Philadelphia. Some one in the crowd asked: "How about Maine?" and Mr. Bryan replied: "Maine has returned the lowest Republican majority in 27 years, and is a conservative I have to concede on this showing a few states to the Republicans."

He said that Mr. Taft promised prosperity, and President Roosevelt indorsed the idea, but he asked how Mr. Taft going to give prosperity when his grandfather, Mr. Roosevelt, already has put on his hands. The bitterness engendered in Pennsylvania last April over the election of Bryan delegates, which led to a contest at the state convention, and which was carried to Denver, where James Kerr defeated Colonel James Guffey, has not yet disappeared, and there were many diplomatic moves to settle the question as to who should have the honor of entertaining Mr. Bryan in this city.

The Bryan League wanted the honor and the Democratic state organization was opposed to it. The organization was backed by the New Jersey committee, a compromise was finally arranged, which the Bryan League gave him the reception at Dooner's, after which he was taken in hand by the New Jersey committee, which tendered him a luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford. To this luncheon representatives of the Democratic state and city organizations were invited.

Utah Gives Gompers Rebuff. State Federation of Labor Refuses to Indorse Bryan. OGDEN, Utah, Sept. 15.—The Utah Federation of Labor, in session here, through a special committee, today failed to indorse the general circular from the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor, urging the support of Bryan, and advised that the local unions be allowed to act without instructions from the state organization. The report of the committee was unanimously adopted. Much opposition to committing the unions to an espousal of the cause of any one party was manifested among the delegates in attendance, and the action taken is looked upon as a compromise with the element opposed to mixing politics and unionism.

The resolutions submitted, however, urged Samuel Gompers and "denounce as unwarranted and unjust the efforts being made to discredit the matchless leader, who has devoted his best endeavors in behalf of all who toil, regardless of class or creed."

MAN OF GREAT VENTURES

CAPTAIN JOHN J. HEALY, PIONEER OF ALASKA, IS DEAD.

After Typical Western Career, He Was About to Build Railroad Across Bering Straits. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—Captain John J. Healy, who died unexpectedly of heart failure Monday night, was a picturesque maker of history in Idaho, Montana, the Canadian Northwest and Alaska, and the originator of some of the most amazing projects ever conceived.

In his career of remarkable adventure, "Johnnie" Healy, as thousands familiarly called him, was a soldier, miner, Indian trader, three times sheriff of a Montana county, nearly as large as the State of New York, and more recently a promoter of Alaskan industries. His latest scheme was the French-American undertaking of a trans-Alaska-Siberian railway, for which the czar's ukase had been obtained and in constructing which Healy had seriously planned a 90-mile tunnel under Bering Sea. He was enthusiastic over the opportunities he saw in Siberia, intended to develop there a resourceful country larger than the entire Western United States. Those who know what he had accomplished in other directions believe he would have achieved success in this, had he lived. He was the founder of the North American Trading & Transportation Company.

SOLDIER DIES OF CHOLERA

First Fatality in Army in Philippines in Three Weeks. WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Adjutant-General's Office was today advised of the death from Asiatic cholera in the Philippines of Bert T. It was there that an Army officer and several members of the Twenty-Fifth Regiment of Infantry (negro) died of the disease. At the Surgeon-General's Office no fear is felt of the disease spreading to any extent and much less that the Army would suffer seriously if it did. A dispatch received at the War Department from Havana, says that there are one real and one suspected case of yellow fever there.
