

MISS GORDON ASKS $120,000 ALIMONY

Demands $10,000 Monthly From Her Millionaire Husband.

LATTER OPPOSES MOTION

Says He Has Been Giving Her $25,000 Annually and Has Paid Many of Her Bills Since Their Separation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Mrs. Catherine Clemens Gould, who is suing Howard Gould for divorce today, applied to the court for an order for $120,000 a year alimony and $15,000 for her counsel fees.

Mrs. Gould is generously allowed for by her husband," Mr. Sullivan added. "In November, 1907, Mr. Gould started to provide for her at the rate of $25,000 a year. The plaintiff has no children. Furthermore, the plaintiff has pledged the defendant's credit for articles purchased since the alleged separation, to the extent of $100,000 or $150,000.

Wife's Lawyer Talks.

Charles J. Shearn, counsel for Mrs. Gould, replied that it was very necessary that Mrs. Gould be provided for at once. He said: "Mrs. Gould is being hounded by agents of the defendant and shadowed wherever she goes by his spies. Life is made miserable for her and she has recently been made the victim of a rank conspiracy to blackmail her character by the defendant. Testimony has been purchased by the witness. If Mr. Gould was willing to spread scandalous abuse of his wife throughout the world, he should now come into court and substantiate these charges."

Another Gould Case.

Immediately following the temporary disposition of this action, the case of Helen Kelly Gould against Frank J. Gould for absolute divorce was called in the same courtroom and the court fixed October 2 as the date for a hearing.

NO COMPROMISE BY TAFT

(Continued From First Page.) for Senator in the interest of harmony, a copy of this letter was submitted to me at the time, but after the original had been read it was not intended for publication, but it was understood that, if necessary, it would be published.

I personally know that the strongest pressure by various leaders was brought on Mr. Taft at that time to consent to the proposed arrangement, and he was informed by leading men of other states that in the event of his refusal to do so, his political friends in the Senate and elsewhere would cease and that Mr. Taft's nomination for the Presidency would be abandoned. Mr. Taft declined for one moment to consider any possible advantage to himself which might result from such a compromise as was at stake. His attitude on this question, as well as on countless questions, convinced me that of Mr. Taft's political friends in the Senate and elsewhere would cease and that Mr. Taft's nomination for the Presidency would be abandoned. embarrass the administration, using in this without scruple, a blind race prejudice against his main purpose. If I were confronted with a more fractional difference within my party, not involving a subject which may come up for consideration and action by the next Republican National convention, I should not be so emphatic in my conclusion.

Question of Principle.

"It is not on my part a question of personal feeling with respect to Senator Foraker. It is really a question of Republican principle. In respect to this the Legislature of Ohio expressed what I believe to be the sentiment of the people of Ohio in a resolution asking the Senator to support the rate bill. Senator Foraker declined to follow this resolution. When the issue is whether he shall be returned, it must be determined if this is to be a representative form of government, not by the question whether he has followed his conscience, but by the question whether he really represents the principles and the constituents of either a Senator or a political candidate, support the main political principle of the administration, or the opposition to those principles. Representing the policies of the administration, I cannot satisfy myself by the acquiescence in any proposed compromise which necessarily involves the admission that the fundamental difference of opinion as to no importance and one that can be waived in the interest of harmony or the settlement of fractional differences.

"There is not the slightest doubt that the next National convention of the Republican party will sustain in full the vital and main principles maintained by President Roosevelt and will express no sympathy with the opposition represented by Senator Foraker. Because I believe in these principles and because in my judgment the Republicans of the state and Nation are overwhelmingly in favor of them, I cannot favor any action by members of the committee who do me the honor to support me and wish to aid me, which will have the appearance of acquiescence in any compromise. Very sincerely yours, WILLIAM H. TAFT."

Kind of Man for President.

I publish this letter without Mr. Taft's knowledge, because I feel it my duty to the public that his attitude should be known. The man who unhesitatingly resists temptation, who cannot be swayed by any consideration of personal interest from following the path which his lofty conception of duty dictates to him, the man whose whole concern is for the welfare of the people and who has proved in a lifetime of difficulty and useful public service his extraordinary capacity as an administrator, is surely the man of all others to be entrusted with the Presidency.

Mr. Taft's candidacy is not based upon large or varied grounds, any of which would be impossible of achievement and part of which would be absolutely mischievous to the people of the whole country if put into effect. His candidacy is based upon his great record of actual achievement, his high record of service to the public, upon his inflexible adherence to the highest standards of righteousness, and upon his proved and absolute fealty to the country in the face of all opposition.

FORAKER MAY REPLY TODAY

Shows Animus Against Roosevelt in Postponing Statement.

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 21.—United States Senator J. B. Foraker stated that owing to the lateness of the hour, he would not make any reply to the statement issued tonight by President Roosevelt relative to the position W. H. Taft had taken on the matter of the non-indorsement of Mr. Foraker for re-election. The Senator said he would probably read tonight the copy of the statement handed him by the representative of the Associated Press. The suggestion was made that he might wish to answer it in the columns of the newspapers of the country in which the President's statement would be published. Mr. Foraker in reply said:

"The consumer has the right to protection in the character of food which comes upon his table. This protection begins at the time the animals are being fed for slaughter. It continues during the time the animals are slaughtered and afterwards in the preparation of their carcasses for consumption. It does not end until the meat is delivered to the consumer, properly certified as being sound and wholesome and warranted to be free from deleterious coloring matter and preservatives. The consumers of this country can have this protection if they demand it."—Harvey W. Wiley, M. D., Ph. D.
