commanded higher prices than it was ever possible to secure for stock produced in the old days before the scientific breeder appeared on the scene.

First Families in Stock World.

At the big show now giving daily performances, the farms and stockmen will find all of the first families of the livestock world represented. In the immense horse barns will be found all classes of equines, from the ponderous Percherons and Clydesdales to the clean-limbed, high-strung thoroughbreds.

In the cattle barn there is herd after herd of the bluest blue blood to be found, and it embraces all classes. There are specialties in milkers and also for beef, with plenty of the intermediate classes, in which are found points of advantage both as milkers and for beef.

Range Steer Has Passed Away. But among all of the hundreds of stags there is no one so good as anything bearing much resemblance to the old longhorns which in the early days of the stock industry waxed fat and got themselves ready for market on the bunch grass ranges of the Pacific Northwest.

Sheep and Hogs on Display. But all of the interest in this show does not center on the horses and hogs, and when the visitor becomes aware of admiring this highest priced part of the exhibit, there can be found in other barns the finest ranges of the Pacific Northwest.

Races Up to Grand Circuit Form. If the visitor to this $1,000,000 exhibit of livestock makes a fairly early start in the morning, the rounds of the stock pens can be made in good time for the racing programme, which starts at 1:30 P. M.

TO THE STOCK SHOW. Special trains will be run by the O. R. & N. to the Country Club during the race meet and livestock show, September 23 to 25.

$2.95 WAIST SPECIALS. Worth $5; they are net and silk mostly. Don't miss this opportunity at Le Palais Royal.

Mortgage for Issue of Bonds. A supplemental mortgage to secure an issue of bonds approximating $100,000 was filed by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company yesterday with county Clerk, Fielder A. DeFoe, I. D. Chapelle, E. C. Kent, W. T. McBride and other breeders.

JUDGES PICK OUT WINNERS

PRIZE ANIMALS WILL BE SEEN IN PARADE. Blue-Ribbon Stock Will Tomorrow Pass in Review Before Grandstand at Country Club.

Interest in the great livestock show and race meet of the Pacific National show received a decided impetus yesterday and an immense crowd gathered to witness the various events.

Exceptionally interesting events were offered yesterday, but the programme for the remainder of the week includes the best attractions of the meet. A representative of the Salem commercial bodies called upon the managers of the Pacific National show yesterday and imparted the information that Salem business men, 1000 strong, would visit the show tomorrow.

The sale of horses begins this morning at 9 o'clock. The judging will be concluded today and lists of winners in the various classes will immediately be announced.

Portland established a National reputation for high-class offerings and for fancy prices at the last combination livestock sale held here in the Spring, but will, this morning and tomorrow morning, endeavor to add greater claim to eminence as a livestock emporium.

Of the beef breeds, the Short horns far outnumber any of the others. A few noted English breeds are here from California, Oregon and Washington.

SUNDAY CLOSING DISMAYS DEALERS

Purveyors of Fruits and Candies Alarmed by District Attorney's Order.

SERIOUS TALK OF DAMAGE

Saloon Owners Agree That the Prohibitory Law Should Prevail on First Day of Week Among All Dispensers of Goods.

Run confronts several score of small dealers in fruits, candies, flowers, tobacco and like sundries as a result of District Attorney Cameron's sweeping order that all places of business not especially exempted by law must remain closed on Sunday hereafter. With fully 100 of the dealers affected by this order, Sunday has been the one particular day of the week that piled up profits and kept business brisk. On that day they have been relieved from competition with the larger stores, have been brought into direct contact with the Sunday crowds, and have been able to carry out a profitable existence in the line of petty trade.

Portland imbibers have long since grown used to the practice of buying their Sunday liquor on Saturday night. In time the populace may grow thoughtful enough to lay in its supply of refreshments, but, aside from the loss to struggling small dealers, the public at large is bound to suffer much inconvenience from the closing order. Drinking fountains do not happen to abound in Portland, and the thirsty pedestrian will no longer find himself able to get some refreshing beverage from the harmless ice cream parlor. He will be compelled to master his thirst until arrival home.

Closing of poolrooms, of course, is a matter which is arousing much resentment from conservative sources. These places have not the public sympathy, and it is quite generally agreed that they should be kept shut.

It is known that a number of small dealers in confections, refreshments and tobacco have been advised to resist the closing order. Organization for this purpose has not yet been effected, but may be. At least, it is not likely that there will be a general observance of the law next Sunday, or until the dealers affected by Cameron's order means business and that offenders will be handled with an iron hand.

MURDERED BY YAQUI BAND

Son of Mexican Banker Waylaid in Suburbs of City.

NOGALLES, Ariz., Sept. 23.—Particulars have just been received of a killing by Yaquis in a suburb of Hermosillo, Mexico. Rafael J. Ruiz, son of a prominent banker, with Francisco Morales, a brother of Don Arturo Morales, Mayor of Hermosillo, was returning from Santa Margarita ranch in a carriage. When they were within two leagues of the ranch and about an equal distance from the city, Yaquis fired a volley from ambush. The men jumped out and Morales and the driver ran for assistance.

Returning they found Ruiz still alive, but he died while being taken to Hermosillo. He was wounded by the first volley, and was shot twice afterward with his own pistol by the Yaquis, who made their escape.

Nature has placed phosphate of potash in a certain part of these grains for man's use in building the gray substance of brain and nerve cells.

Adults require this to repair natural waste from mental and physical effort; children, because the nervous system grows so rapidly in early years.

This part of the grain is included in Grape-Nuts.
