

DAY OF FEATURES AT HORSE RACES

Northwest Record Smashed in 2:13 Trot, Berta Mac Clipping Off a Second.

GOES THE MILE IN 2:09 1-2

College Maid, Guideless Pacer, Again Lowers Own Mark—Coast Record Nearly Equalled in 3-Year-Old Trot—Card for Today.

Another thrilling five-heat race in which another North Pacific Coast record was smashed: the chopping of a second off her own record by College Maid: a 2:26 pace in which every heat beat 2:19; a trotting event for three-year-olds which came within three-quarters of a second of breaking another Coast record, and a spectacular galloping race were features of yesterday's card on the splendid new track of the National Pacific Show at the Country Club.

It was a great card and the various events were witnessed by a good crowd. The attendance was scarcely as large as on Portland day, but there was a decided increase over the first two days. Ideal weather and perfect track conditions aided in making the day one of the best of the meet.

College Maid, the guideless pacer, won the plaudits of the throng by making her third successive record on this new track. The mare paced a mile in 2:07 3/4, the fastest mile she has ever gone. On Monday, her first appearance on the local track, she lowered her own record, and Wednesday she clipped a second off her record. Yesterday she clipped a clean second off Wednesday's record of 2:08 3/4.

The big event of the day was the 2:13 trot, in which record Berta Mac contested with the same Day Break for supremacy. There was a field of nine, but from the outset it was plain that there were only two in the race. Five driving heats were necessary to decide the race. In the first Berta Mac, whose spurring qualities are wonderful, had the lead by a length to the quarter, with Day Break trailing a trailing field in the rear. Day Break, however, closed the gap gradually as the race advanced, and in the final heat she broke and the leadership of the gelding was never again jeopardized. He won easily by two lengths, Berta Mac finishing second and Emily W. third. Time, 2:13 1/4.

Breaks Northwest Record.

As they took the word in the second heat, Easter Belle was far behind the field, while Day Break had a good lead of two lengths as far as the quarter pole. Berta Mac, however, climbed out of the antedrag and slowly overtook the leader until the turn at the stretch, where she passed the horse and won in a driving finish in the fastest time that has ever been made in a trotting race on a Pacific Northwest track. Time, 2:09 1/2. The previous Northwest record was 2:10 1/4.

Berta Mac also took the third heat, but failed to climb to an even position in the fourth heat by weakly driving towards the wire until the mare broke and Day Break won by six lengths, lowering his record. Time, 2:16.

In the fifth and final heat of the race Berta Mac set the pace and remained a good two lengths ahead of her adversary until the stretch, when she again broke and Day Break won by two lengths. Time, 2:10 1/4.

Josephine Wins 2:20 Pace.

Josephine, H. E. Rutherford's crack mare, walked away with the $1000 purse in the 2:20 pacing race. She won in three successive heats and her supremacy was never questioned. Bushnell King, however, a game little stallion, made a great race and won second place as easily as the mare did first. Although the entries were made in a 2:20 class, all the heats were better than 2:10. Time of the three heats were—2:09 3/4, 2:09 1/2 and 2:09 1/4.

In the third race, which was first on the programme, Kaitlina won handily. The race was for three-year-old trotters and it came within three-quarters of a second of breaking a Pacific Coast record. Kaitlina took the lead in the first heat and kept it throughout the same feat in the second, while Princess Direct finished second and Bonkin, the third entry, finished third. Time, 2:17 3/4 and 2:19 3/4.

The Counsellor ran away from a bunch of four in the galloping event. He and Yank, who ran second, had had got away, but passed Sallie Goodwin and Innti in the stretch. The Counsellor, winning, Yank finishing second, Sallie Goodwin third and Innti fourth. Time, 1:14 3/4.

Today's programme offers an exceptionally good series of racing events. In the 2:09 pacing race practically all the horses have been entered which took part in the big race of the previous day. Charles D., Tidal Wave, Magaldi and General Heurtus have, of course, been eliminated, because they were in the money in Wednesday's race. The field is a big one and some of the best horses in the West have been entered.

There will also be a special trotting race, which is not on the card, and a mile running race.

Today's Features at the Country Club.
A big parade of prize-winning stock will be held in front of the grandstand at 2 o'clock. It will be over a mile in length. The prize-winners will be on exhibition throughout the forenoon. An excellent racing programme has been arranged, including a 2:09 pace, in which many of the best horses of the West have been entered. Other events will be a 2:25 pacing race, and a special trotting race, the day's events finishing with a three-quarter mile running race.
School children will be admitted free today. The City Superintendent of Schools has ordered the schools to close at 12 o'clock noon, and thousands of children are expected to see the big parade of prize-winning stock.

This will be one of the most interesting days of the present meet of the Pacific National Show at the grounds of the Country Club. Thousands of children will attend for at the direction of the City Superintendent of Schools, the public schools of Portland will close at noon today, and the pupils given a half holiday to attend the show.

An invitation was extended by the management of the show to the children to attend, and it is believed that considerable educational value attaches to the exhibit of thoroughbred cattle at the grounds. There will be no admission fee to the children.
Promptly at 1 o'clock there will be a grand parade of all the prize-winning stock at the show. The parade will be held on the track immediately in front of the grandstand and will be more than a mile in length. Many of the most valuable specimens of various breeds of stock in the country will be shown.
Another sale of stock will begin at 3 o'clock. There was considerable bidding yesterday and a number of good sales were made. Judging of the various classes on exhibition was concluded yesterday, and the stock will be on exhibition all the forenoon in the barns.

An especially interesting racing programme has been arranged for today. It includes some of the best events of the meet. Special business men are expected, will attend the meeting today.

AGAINST SUNDAY CLOSING
SEVENTH DAY ADVENTISTS FIGHT CAMERON'S ORDER.
Declare That as a Matter of Religious Belief They Close Their Stores on Saturday.

Seventh Day Adventists will join the first line of mourners Sunday at the obsequies over Sunday business privilege. Such of them as are in the business say that the misfortune that District Attorney Cameron is bringing to the average small dealer is only a trifle to what will befall them as a matter of religious belief, they close down their places of business on Saturday. With them Saturday is the Lord's day, the day of rest and prayer. It is the day to remember and keep holy. Sunday is regarded as merely one of the days of the week and intended for business purposes. Not a few keepers of small shops are of this creed.

"Such a law is unconstitutional," they say. They point out that the constitution guarantees the right of free trade to all alike. Since Saturday is their day of worship and the law compels them to close down and recognize the day other people see fit to use as a day of worship, is not such a law unconstitutional? they ask.

Their meeting to talk over the new District Attorney's experiment will be held at the Walden Hotel, 1023 Broadway and Taylor streets, Sunday night at 7:45 o'clock. Different phases of religious liberty will be discussed by A. J. Breen, of Walla Walla; E. Anderson, of Englewood, Portland; and Daniel Nettleton, of Portland. Both sides, they say, will be represented.

Just what action will be taken by clear state of mind and fountain operators, florists and the other small traders affected by the Cameron order remains to be seen. It is known that there has been some talk of organization to defeat the law. But this would hardly afford relief in the present should Chief Gritzmacher see fit to have his police department enforce the District Attorney's edict.

Mr. Cameron continually says that it is left to the Chief's discretion as to what arrests shall be made. He says he has no objection to a police officer's attention to the law involved, which cites that stores, shops, groceries, bowling alleys, billiard rooms and tipping houses are places of amusement must not operate on the first day of the week "commonly known as Sunday." Theaters, undertaking establishments, livery stables, drug stores, bakeries and butcher shops are excepted. The Chief must use his own judgment as to what constitutes a shop. In this he may find a little aid from the book of legal definition, included in every law library. A shop is defined as a place where trade is conducted, a store as a place where goods are sold for a profit.

All those affected by the order will be formally notified to close Sunday. It is expected that the order will be generally complied with, at least for the time being. The fine prescribed for violation of the law is from $5 to $50.

Loses Arm in Woodsaw.
HILLSBORO, Or., Sept. 24.—(Special.)—Fred Walton, of Cornelius, lost an arm today by coming in contact with the balance wheel of a woodsaw. The man's right arm was so badly crushed that amputation was necessary.

OREGON SWINE ASTONISHES EXPERT FROM MIDDLE WEST
J. F. Stodder, of Burden, Kan., Judge of Swine Exhibit at Pacific National Show, Pays Tribute to Coast Product.

W. H. E. of the Central West have flattered ourselves with the idea that we can produce the great meat staples—beef, pork and mutton—to greater advantage than it can be done elsewhere. The farmers of that great section of the United States are thoroughly impressed with the fact that they can produce more and better pork at less expense than can be done on any other spot on the globe.

It was my extreme good fortune to have spent the past three days critically examining the different breeds of swine exhibited at the first and great Pacific National Show, I cannot recall any initial show by National proposition, even the great American Royal at Kansas City or the International at Chicago, that had as complete an entry list as we have here in Portland this week. I presume it is the proverbial push and energy of the Pacific slope that has brought about so desirable a condition.

But, however, of different breeds have been in the show ring that unquestionably would top the Kansas City market. To produce them in the corn belt would require several months of full feed on corn.

Inquiries about and inspection of the offerings in the cattle division of the Pacific National Show, which will be sold at auction, beginning at 3 o'clock this morning, indicate that there will be a fine and active field of bidders for these choice individuals in the principal breeds which are represented in the classes which are to be dispersed in this manner among the farmers and small breeders of pure-bred stock in this territory. All told, there will be 65 head of the finest lines of cattle in the West offered for sale.

The shorthorn class there will be a contingent from the Mountain Valley Farm, of Heppner, Or., as follows: Lady, Red Topsy, Jessie, Linwood, Onward Lad, Orange Boy $23.574; from the Craiglelea Farm, Carlton, Or., the following shorthorns: Sweet Marie, Scottish Master. SHOOTS FRIEND FOR DEER
Johnsen Hjorteland Kills Albert Olsen While Stalking Big Game.

SEASIDE, Or., Sept. 24.—(Special.)—Mistaking his friend for a deer, Johnsen Hjorteland shot and killed Albert Olsen, Wednesday morning, near Push, seven miles west of here.

The men had been hunting daily for some time after bear, elk and deer, and had met with much success, as they had a plan whereby one would stop on a ridge while the other would go to the end of a canyon and beat the game up. Both knew the exact lay of the land, and with Olsen on the ridge Hjorteland started to beat the brush in the canyon by throwing stones.

When nearing the point where the game was to be killed by Olsen, but several hundred feet lower, Hjorteland saw something moving in the brush and took a shot at it. The object made a plunge, and as it went over a bluff he shot it again. He then cried out to Olsen to come down as he had a big buck. As he did not come, Hjorteland circled around and found his friend and partner dead with two bullets through his body. Both men were experienced hunters and woodsmen, and why Olsen should have left his post, will never be known. A coroner's jury, made up of men who knew both men and knew them to be close personal friends, returned a verdict of accidental death by shooting.
