FREEZES TO DEATH NEAR DES MOINES

Miner Perishes With Cold by Roadside While in Intoxicated Condition.

WINTER IN MIDDLE WEST

Transition from Sultry Summer to Chill of Winter Comes Suddenly —Snow in Kansas—Low Temperatures in Other Places.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—(Special.)—A transition from the sultry heat of mid-Summer to the freezing weather of Winter, was the experience of the Middle Western states within the past 24 hours. For a week or ten days the West has sweltered under a heat of from 86 to 90 degrees, accompanied by a humidity that made life almost unendurable. This morning Western people woke up to find a drizzling rain falling. The temperature gradually fell all day until in some parts of the West the coldest September day known to the history of the Weather Bureau was recorded.

For the first time in 19 years it snowed in Kansas on a September day. The rain of early morning turned to snow in the afternoon. At 4 o'clock P. M. the thermometer registered 41 degrees above zero.

Near Des Moines a coal miner named Joseph Lenner was found frozen to death this morning. In company with three companions he left Des Moines for the mining camp at 10 o'clock last night while he was intoxicated. He quarreled with his companion and was put out of the rig. He went to sleep by the roadside and froze to death in the early morning hours. This is on the authority of County Physician Burcham. The mercury at Des Moines stood near the freezing point all morning, with a Northwest gale and a rain almost turning to snow.

Some low temperatures recorded were: Devil's Lake, N. D., 36; Huron, 46; Minedosa, 42; St. Paul, 42; Omaha, 46; Peoria, 44; Springfield, Mo., 42; Winnipeg, 48.

HOODS WORN IN LONDON

Women Use Them While Traveling and Even in Restaurants.

Milliners in London are going in for a new branch of business; they are making hoods. Whether the wearing of hoods will ever become at all general remains to be seen, but they are having a fair trial, according to the correspondent of the Millinery Trade Review. The specimens shown are very dainty and not at all unbecoming.

The prettiest are certainly those shaped like a friar's cowl, and they are also the most convenient, as they roll up small and can be tucked into the pocket of a theater wrap or stowed away in a traveling bag.

Those run in with whalebone are more cumbersome, and this setting out from the face does not improve their appearance much, if at all. Both kinds are made of soft taffeta lined with satin and trimmed about the front and around the neck with ruffles of lace. Sometimes they are bordered with small flowers, which is a mistaken notion; a few knots of ribbon and the lace are all that is necessary.

Hoods are worn only when going to and from the theater or other evening entertainment and when traveling. Some women have taken to them most kindly and will immediately don their hats and put on hoods on boarding a railway car, retaining them even when lunching or in the restaurant.

MAY FAIL TO GET TURKEY

Shipments of Philippines' Thanksgiving Dinner to be Small.

ROSEBURG, Or., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—Douglas County, the banner turkey county of the state, will furnish only about 100 turkeys on an order for 10,000 of these birds, and if, as expected, all other sections in which these birds have been ordered, fall short as far as this county did, Uncle Sam's soldiers in the Philippines will have a very limited Thanksgiving dinner.

A Portland firm, which received the order from the Government for enough turkeys to supply all the soldiers in the Philippines, placed an order here for 25,000 pounds, which is equivalent to 10,000 birds. A good price was offered the farmers, but they looked upon the demand for the turkeys at this time of the year as simply an effort of the local trade to get the birds in advance of the Thanksgiving demand and refused to sell, with the result that only about 100 turkeys were secured by the firm in this city. Other sections will likely fall as far short as Roseburg, with the result that when the vessel leaves, October 3, it will carry a much smaller number than was anticipated.

BLAME WINE AND WOMEN

Trusted Tacoma Clerk Accused of Stealing Thousands of Dollars.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—Wine, women and cards, automobiles at $5 an hour and the Seattle races are given as the causes of the downfall of Frank D. Pinkham, for eight years cashier and one of the most trusted employes of the Tacoma Mill Company.

Pinkham has been missing since August 22, but it was not discovered until four days ago that a check for $1250 sent by an Eastern firm to the mill company had been cashed and the proceeds stolen at the time Pinkham disappeared.

Other discrepancies in his bookkeeping will, officers of the company say, bring his alleged embezzlement up to $5000. The news of the defalcation became public today and is confirmed by Manager Charles E. Hill, of the mill company.

Pinkham is believed to be on his way to South America, accompanied by a woman who is said to be responsible for his disgrace.

BOAT UPSETS; SEVEN LOST

Eighth Member of Party Succeeds in Swimming Ashore.

Pearl Washes the Dishes.

Nellie L. McClung, "Sowing Seeds in Danny."

Ye know I wash Mrs. Evans' dishes every day, and lovely ones they are, too, all pink and gold, with dinky little ivy leaves crawlin' out over the edges of the cups. I play I am at the seashore and the tide is comin' in o'er and o'er the sand and 'round and 'round the land, far as eye can see—that's out of a book. I put all the dishes into the big dishpan, and I pertend the tide is risin' on them, though it's just me pourin' on the water. The cups are the boys and the fathers and mothers and the butter chips are the babies. Then I rush in to save them, but not until they cry, "Lord save us, we perish!" Of course, I yell it for them, good and loud, too— people don't just squawk at a time like that—it often scares Mrs. Evans even yet. I save the babies first; I slush them around to clean them, but they never notice that, and I stand them up high and dry in the drippan. Then I go in after the girls, and they quiet down the babies in the drippan, and then the mothers I bring out, and the boys and the fathers. Sometimes some of the men make a dash out before the women, but you bet I lay them back in a hurry. Then I set the ocean back on the stove, and I rub the babies to get their blood circlin' again, and I get them all put to bed on the second shelf, and they soon forget they were so near death's door.

IGNORANCE OF SANITATION

LOWER CLASSES IN RUSSIA REFUSE TO BE VACCINATED.

Cases Reported Number 15,683 With 7,102 Deaths But True Figures Said to Exceed These.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 27.—Since the beginning of the epidemic there have been 15,683 cases of Asiatic cholera reported in Russia and 7102 deaths. In St. Petersburg alone, since the presence of the disease was officially admitted September 8, there have been 4931 cases and 1871 deaths reported.

The figures with reference to the invasion of this city by the disease cannot be relied upon as on a number of occasions authoritative sources showed the number of cases and deaths in a single day to be far in excess of that announced by the authorities. There is an appreciable betterment of the sanitary conditions and consequent decrease in the disease as shown by the figures given out today.

For the 24 hours ending at noon the number of new cases in the city was 268 and the number of deaths 143 as compared with 312 new cases and 153 deaths for the previous 24 hours.

Difficulty has been experienced in dealing with the workmen of St. Petersburg, who with their families comprise three-fifths of the population for they were unable and unwilling to comply with the sanitary precautions. The ignorance of the lower classes and their superstition greatly increase the difficulties of the situation. During the earlier stages of the epidemic few could be prevailed upon to undergo preventive innoculation, which is provided free of charge, but latterly the authorities have made innoculation compulsory in some quarters of the city.

PICKS MAN FOR MURDERER

San Jose Sheriff Identified Suspect Accused of Six Deaths.

SHERMAN, Tex., Sept. 27.—Sheriff Howard Buffington, of San Jose, Cal., who accompanied Sheriff Arthur Langford to Sherman fo rthe purpose of identifying if possible the man held here charged with being the James S. Dunham, woh murdered six persons in San Jose 12 years ago, today picked out the man from a crowd of 40 prisoners.

When asked if he positively identified Hatfield as Dunham, Buffington said:

"I do not care to answer that question until I have heard from some messages which we sent to California this afternoon. I will probably be able to give a defnointe answer tomorrow afternoon."

Requisition papers for the return of Dunham to California were secured and signed by the officers and Governor Campbell.

Hatfield, or Dunham, has an attorney who is trying hard to find evidence upon which to fight the return of his client, but so far has been unable to produce a single man who knew the man previous to his having come to Sherman.

GAS FAMINE ON WEST SIDE

to Burnside and south to Pine street. The basement of the building that is being erected for Blake & McFall at Fourth and Ankeny had also been flooded.

The mechanical department of The Oregonian was crippled last night when the gas supply failed and the big battery of linotype machines could not be started on time. However, an auxiliary system of heating the metal used in the machines was introduced, and composition was accomplished in this manner, the paper going to press on time.

Rapid Work on Jetty.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—Engineer Clapp states that the north jetty has been completed for a distance of 6000 feet, which is the limit fixed for this year but that the work will be pushed another thousand feet before being abandoned for the Winter. About 30,000 additional tons of rock will be put in before Winter.

New Factory for Albany.

ALBANY, Or., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—A. J. Caldwell is planning to remove his hose factory from Stayton to Albany and enlarge the plant materially. Caldwell, who is a former Linn County young man, was in this city yesterday discussing the proposed change with local business men and was assured enough support to justify the erection of a big plant here.

"Hold-Ups" Bring Money.

ALBANY, Or., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—The fund for the enlargement of Albany's recently established public library was increased $235 by the unique "hold-up" campaign conducted yesterday by the young women of this city. A large number of new books will be secured with this and other money recently received in donations.

New Coal Find on Vancouver Island.

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 28.—A rich find of good coal with a seam eight feet in width has been located as a result of the boring at Deep Bay, Vancouver Island, about three miles south of Union Bay, by the Wellington Colliery Company of R. Dunsmuir's Sons. The seam will be worked as soon as arrangements can be made to sink on it.

Fined for Selling Liquor.

SCAPPOOSE, Or., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—The trial of M. J. Englert and Thomas Callahan, accused of selling liquor in Scappoose precinct, resulted in a conviction. Justice Whitney imposed a fine of $100 cash on Englert and $200 on Callahan. Defendants gave notice of appeal to the Circuit Court.

WISCONSIN TURNS ON LA FOLLETTE

Senator in Tight Position Since the Nomination of Stephenson.

MONEY USED, THE CHARGE

Success of Candidate Indicates That Primary Law Is Defective or That Legislator Is Losing Hold.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Sept. 26.—Is Senator La Follette losing his grip on Wisconsin?

That question has been frequently asked since the recent primaries were held in the Badger State, and a careful review of the results would seem to justify an affirmative answer.

In the first place, La Follette had sworn to defeat Senator Stephenson, and put in the field against him a candidate who ran fourth. Speaker Ekern, of the lower house of the Wisconsin Legislature, La Follette's closest political friend, went down to defeat. With them went three other stout supporters of La Follette—his local State Senator, his candidate for Congress from the Milwaukee District, and his Assemblyman. All these men were running as avowed La Follette candidates, and all met the same fate.

The La Follette crowd, following the nomination of Senator Stephenson, set up the cry that money had been used freely in the Senatorial primary, and it was charged that Stephenson's victory cost him several hundred thousand dollars. There is talk of a legislative investigation of the use of money in the primary. What such an investigation will disclose, and what may follow are matters of conjecture. It is quite possible that money was used in large quantities by Senator Stephenson; he is the wealthiest man in Congress, and it is only natural that he should spend money. Whether his expenditures were properly made, or whether the money was used corruptly has not yet been demonstrated.

La Follette in Bad Box.

But whatever may have brought about the nomination of Senator Stephenson, the fact remains that Senator La Follette is in a very tight and uncomfortable place. He is a radical advocate of the primary method of nominating United States Senators. Yet the very first time an election is held under the new primary law, an unbeliever in primary methods is nominated over the protest and opposition of the very men who had the primary law adopted. Either the law is defective, or Senator La Follette is losing his hold.

Now the Senator must decide between standing by his own primary law, and acquiescing in the election of a Senator opposed to all he represents, or he must renounce his own primary law, and carry his fight into the Legislature. If he makes no fight, it will be charged that he was afraid to test his strength against Stephenson; if he does fight he will be charged with inconsistency.

A Wisconsin politician, holding a prominent Government office in Washington, in discussing the recent developments in his state, said:

"Senator La Follette is taking himself altogether too seriously. He has assumed that famous 'holler than thou' attitude, and has reached the point where only he is right, and every one else is wrong. He has come to believe that he is bigger than his party, and having that belief, he has undertaken more than any one man can accomplish.

Undertakes Big Job.

"Not only has he started in to run Wisconsin politics, but at the same time he has essayed to cleanse the entire United Statees Senate, and the whole Governmental force, for that matter. In other words, he has scattered. Had he confined himself to Wisconsin, the result might have been otherwise—I do not say it would have been. But when a man attempts to regulate the universe, he is bound to be very busy, and he must overlook one while laboring in another.

"In the late primary, Senator La Follette was, in my judgment, handicapped by reason of his luke-warm support of the Republican National ticket. You will recall that the Senator said he would support the ticket, but reserved the right to 'lambaste the men who wrote the platform.' Now the platform adopted at Chicago was virtually approved, before adoption, both by President Roosevelt and Mr. Taft. It was satisfactory to them. Yet Senator La Follette disapproves of certain of its clauses, and has threatened to really attack the Republican convention during the course of the campaign.

Last Move Not Popular.

"Strong as La Follette is in Wisconsin, he forgot the fact that both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft are very popular in our state, and when he virtually condemned the President and the Republican nominee, he hurt himself with not a small contingent of the Republican voters. And he further injured himself when, at Lincoln, he went out of his way to pay tribute to Mr. Bryan. There is some feeling that Senator La Follette today is in heartier sympathy with Bryan and the Democratic platform, than with Taft and the Republican platform, and up in Wisconsin there is a belief, in some quarters, that the Senator is working his way into the Democratic party.

"All these things handicapped him with the Republican voters of the state, and unless the Senator comes out squarely in the Fall campaign for the Republican ticket, and Republican principles, I thoroughly believe that he will have a hard fight when he comes up for re-election. La Follette has been an idol in Wisconsin, but idols are perishable, and this one is no exception to the rule. There is such a thing as having too much La Follette."

HASKELL ALLIANCE KNOWN

Pennsylvania Delegates Vainly Protested Against Him.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—The resignation of Charles N. Haskell from the treasurership of the National Democratic committee did not surprise Pennsylvania Democrats. It comes out here today that certain Pennsylvania Democrats partial to W. J. Bryan, headed by James Kerr, who had just been made National committeeman, protested against having the Oklahoma Governor placed in charge of the campaign funds.

It appears to have been known to all of the Pennsylvania delegates that Haskell had been more or less tangled up in Standard Oil affairs, and his bitter attack made on Colonel J. M. Guffey, on the floor of the convention, had made "Alfalfa Bill" a marked man for more than half the Democratic delegates at the convention, and it was argued by the Kerr people that it would not be long until Haskell's dealings would be made public. The Pennsylvania Democrats, however, were told to mind their own business.

LARGE DEAL PUT THOUGH

Bank's Holdings in Sawmill at Weston Bring $35,000.

WESTON, Or., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—The holdings of the Farmers' Bank, of Weston, in the Blue Mountain Sawmill Company were purchased yesterday by a syndicate of which Robert Jamieson, president of the bank, is at the head. The consideration is reported to have been $35,000 in cash and the deal is the largest that has been negotiated in Weston for many years. The mill has a well-equipped plant 12 miles east of Weston and employs from 25 to 50 men. It has a capacity of 40,000 feet of lumber and 3000 apple boxes in 10 hours. C. W. Avery will continue as manager. Mr. Jamieson is a retired Weston farmer who now resides at Walla Walla. Men of both towns are associated with him in the transaction.

Desertions Cause Investigation.

TANGIER, Sept. 27.—M. Regnault, the French Minister to Morocco, and Herr Von Wangenheim, German charge at this city, are engaged in a joint investigation of the Casa Blanca incident, in which there was a sharp clash between French officials and representatives of the German consulate during the arrest of deserters from the Foreign Legion.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The Temps correspondent at Casa Blanca declares that for some time past certain Germans have been very active in inciting German soldiers to desert from the Foreign Legion.

McMINNVILLE, Or., Sept. 27.—(Special.)—Department No. 1 of the State Circuit Court for this county will convene here tomorrow, Judge George H. Burnett presiding. The docket will be light, the only cases of note being three suits commenced against the Southern Pacific for damages sustained in the wreck of the Sheridan local near Forest Grove last Spring. David M. Nayberger, of this city, is bringing suit for $10,000; Mrs. Evaline Brown, of Willamina, for $15,000, and her husband, J. H. Brown, for $2500.
