BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 20.—(Special.)

—Joe Gans is back in his home town once more, but his arrival was very different from the triumphant entry he made two years ago, when he returned after getting the decision over Nelson at Goldfield. Only one or two personal friends met him at the depot in place of the throngs which greeted him when he returned during his championship

Gans' announcement that he will return to the ring, it is now learned, has largely been prompted by necessity. In spite of the fact that his hotel, a rather small structure, valued at $50,000, is still held in his name, it is said that in-cumbrances of about $22,000 are upon it. This gives him only a comparatively

It is said here that Al Hereford, Gans' former manager, is the man who holds a considerable interest in the mortgage. Philosophical deductions can be drawn from this as to whether the manager or the fighter is the man who gets the

Oldtime Idol Wants Another Try With Battling Nelson-Is Johnson-Burns $50,000 Purse

Conversation Money?

BY HARRY B. SMITH. BY HARRY B. SMITH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.— (Special.)—With only the Moran-Hanlon go to look forward to, the fans of this neck of the woods are in a state of intherny almost as deep as that which envelopes the spellbinder of the present collision. envelopes the spelibinder of the present political campaign. The Papke-Ketchel fight is too far away to rouse more than a mild, patient sort of interest.

The chances are that Battling Nelson will not fight again this year. Willist Britt, his manager, is the authority for the statement that he will take no chances with short goes in the East. The Battler thinks too much of his title to risk it monkeying with little coingrabbing propositions in abbreviated contests. He has to have a long route.

"Take it from me," said Britt, "that the Battler will daily in the footlights' glare for some time. The money is coming in easy, and as long as the sun is shining leave it to us to gather the hay. We need it in our business. When the time comes the Dane will meet Packy McFarland before the club man if he insists on the go, for that night Nelson was suffering more from an overloaded stomach than he was from Britt's punches. If they ever meet again Britt will have to he a good runner to avoid a worse beating than Gans got the last time.

The funny part of the meeting, if it should occur, will be the position of Willis Britt, who is now the manager of Battiling Nelson. He will not lose of Battiling Nelson. He will not lose get a lot of press agent matter out of this controversy, and is working both getter now and it is probable that the irrepressible boy impresario will be independent. This last is will about Burns being Antomobiles.

Kaufman is tough as a bullet and has a good stiff punch, but he is side, especially in the think tank, where he should be fast. He lacks the fighting spirit, which has a tinge of meanness in it and which is indispensable to a man who would win champleship. man who would win championship honors. Kaufman is game enough, but he lacks the temperament for a suc-cessful pugilist, and that is something which Billy Delaney cannot teach to and the go will not be well patronized.

Attell is after another 15-round go with Nelson. In the last one on points he best Nelson a mile and did more damage to him than Gans did in both damage to him than Gans did in both of the last fights, though the Hebrew could not have lasted many rounds longer. He rocked the Dane several times and almost had him groggy. While he could do this to the Battler, he looked like a novice when he was boxing with Gans. Attell admits that the negro is his master, but declares that he can beat the Dane.

Kid Mohler is still telling tales about how he was robbed by Plush Flynn, the new Coast League umpire. To the writer Flynn, seemed to have all the clars as an arbitrator, and it would seem as though Mohler had become something of a crab. His decisions here gave perfect satisfaction.

Baseball followers are mystifled as to the Coast League's plans for next year. Cal Ewing declares that nothing will be done until after the meeting of the National Association, and does not want to discuss the matter in any way. Two California clubs have been granted franchises already, and should a clash with Judge McCredie occur the league will be involved in some expensive suits.

Meanwhile the fans are wondering, Cal Ewing is worrying and there is a beautiful storm brewing when the question of extension has to be settled.

GIVES TRIBUTE TO HAYES

Hefferon, South African Prizewinner, Praises Marathon Victor.

C Hofferon the South African runner C. Hefferon, the South African runner, who got second prize in the English Marathon, paid a big tribute to John J. Hayes, the American, in a public letter a few days before he left England for his home. He said that he had not the least doubt that Hayes was the best man in the race, and that he richly merited all the honor the victory brought him. The excessive heat, he thinks, knocked all the Englishmen out of the contest so.

The excessive heat, he thinks, knocked all the Englishmen out of the contest so soon. At the start he thought the most dangerous men were Duncan, Lord and Appleby, and Svanberg, the Swede.

Tom Longboat, he thought, was a fake, and mentions that he knew he would beat the redskin the first time they met. It will be remembered that friends of Hefferon protested Hayes, but after the race was over Hefferon ordered the objection withdrawn at once. The South African admitted that he had been training for the Marathon for a long time, and that he will be on the firing line at Athens in 1910, and he hoped he would remember the mistakes he made in Engremember the mistakes he made in Eng-

The match between Johnson and Burns in Australia is looked upon with considerable suspicion by the local followers of the game. Some of them are open in the opinion that it is a frame to take some of the coin away from the Antipodes. The size of the purse offered, $50,000, makes the local promoters sit up, and they declare that it must be conversation money.

Whatsver the decision may be down there it is a cinch that Billy Delaney and Al Kaufman will meet Burns at the dock when he comes back and will challenge. To the local fans it would seem that Al should do a little more good for his country before he can expect Burns to take his challenge at the church for a match for some lime to come. SALEM, Or., Sept. 27. — (Special.)— We must have no type of superficial we must have no type of superical education which will make children ashamed of their parents," was one of the pervading sentiments of the annual sermon delivered by Bishop Hughes before the Methodist Conference today. He took for his text the fifth commandment, "Honor thy father ifth commandment, "Honor thy father and thy mother that thy days may be long upon the lard which the Lord thy God giveth thee." The Bishop's plea for respect and love and consideration for parents was so carnest and so touching that several times there was scarcely a tearless eye in the vast audience which crowded the First Methodist Episcopal Church to hear him. Though delivered before a conference of ministers, the address was directed particularly toward students, many of whom have just re-entered school at Willamette University for the new school year.
