State Canvassing Board Struggles With Figures for Splawn and Pattison.

GROUND FOR CONTEST

Not Time Enough Before Election, However, for Recount—Pattison Nomination Conceded—Republican Result Not in Doubt.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—Whether John Pattison of Colfax, or A. J. Splawn, of North Yakima, is justly entitled to the Democratic nomination for Governor of this state is a question that will probably never be settled.

On the face of the returns of the recent primary election, if the State Canvassing Board does not discover material errors in the addition, Pattison receives less than 200 more votes than Splawn on a combined first and second choice. Yet a comparison of the returns as totaled by county canvassing boards indicates that there will be a discrepancy of between more than 1000 votes between the total first choice and the total second choice votes cast for this election.

The fact that if the votes are properly counted, first and second choice should exactly equal casts a serious question on the question as to who is the nominee.

Grounds for Contest.

If Splawn so desired, he would have good ground for contesting the election and a contest would mean a recount on that office in more than a majority of the precincts in the state. The Secretary of State is required to certify the election to the general election. The official list of nominees must be advertised in each county ten days before the election.

Results of Nomination.

The figures as compiled here show the following results on Democratic Governor. They are subject to corrections by the State Canvassing Board and in the case of some missing counties are the figures from the newspaper returns of the official county canvass therefor:

Republicans Not in Doubt.

The discrepancies between the totals on first and second choice votes on any of the Republican nominations are not sufficiently large to cast doubt upon the result of the election. Coovrose will have a lead on the combined vote.

STATE LEVY TWO MILLS Predictions Regarding Washington Taxes for This Year.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 30.—(Special.)—The state tax general fund levy probably will be about two mills this year as against two and one-half mills last year. The state school levy will be about two and one-half mills, one-half of last year; the highway levy will be one-half mill and the military levy one-fifth mill, both double last year.
