

MEDFORD FAIR WELL ATTENDED

Despite Rain, Large Crowd Turns Out to View Splendid Exhibits.

FRUIT DISPLAY EXTENSIVE

This is Ashland Day and Even Larger Crowd is Expected. Buildings of City Brilliantly Lighted by Electricity.

MEDFORD, Or., Oct. 1.—(Special.)—The second annual exhibition of the First Southern Oregon District Agricultural Society opened in this city this afternoon and will continue Friday and Saturday. In spite of the rain and the cool weather which followed it, there was a good attendance and there is a splendid exhibit of fruit, vegetables, flowers, fancy work and cattle.

The exhibits of apples, pears, peaches and grapes are very fine. In the domestic section there is also a good display of fruits and fancy work, and the range and rams are being shown. Many of the local merchants have handsome booths on the grounds, displaying their goods.

The fair is being held on a strip of ground belonging to the Southern Pacific Railway, right in the center of the city, and the ranges are being held at the track, some distance away.

Tomorrow is Ashland day, and large crowds are expected from that city as well as from the surrounding country. The fair is open each night, and the buildings and grounds are then brilliantly lighted. The Medford band furnishes music every afternoon and evening.

The following were the results of today's races: Pony race, quarter-mile dash—Kellong Brownie won, Midget second, time, 6:24. Saddle-horse race, quarter-mile dash—Pansy won, Blue second, time, 6:25. MUST KEEP UP DAIRY HERD

W. Schulmerich Admonishes Hillsboro Farmers to Look to Future.

HILLSBORO, Or., Oct. 1.—(Special.)—William Schulmerich, the Farmington dairyman, today sounded a note of warning to Washington County dairymen in an address under the auspices of the Fair committee. Mr. Schulmerich took high ground in his statement—one that touches heavily upon dairy results of the future for this section. He said: "If Washington County keeps well in the lead in the dairy industry her farmers and dairymen must right-about-face and give serious consideration to the question of supply of their herds. Since the two big condensers opened for business the herds of milking cows have not been increased as they should. Milk has been sold to the condensers with no thought of the future as to keeping up the numerical consideration. The heads of herds are getting too old for profitable milking, and the few additions are not sufficiently numerous to keep swelling the output.

It will soon become necessary, unless there is more breeding and raising herds of good strains, for our dairymen to import dairy cows—at least 1000 head each year. This is a matter of vital importance to dairymen. We raise our stock just as cheaply as we can import them. It will mean a slight smaller paycheck for each month until the young stock grows, but we must either stand this or pay big prices for stock from the outside.

ABANDON KELTON VICTIM

SHIPOWNERS REFUSE AID TO MEMBER OF CREW.

NEWPORT, Or., Oct. 1.—(Special.)—The only survivor of the 11 men washed off the deck of the unfortunate steamer Kelton the first of last May has apparently been abandoned by the captain of the Kelton and the officials of the company. After five months of the company, Andrew Jensen, who managed after 15 hours of buffeting with the waves of the open sea to make shore 15 miles from where he first was washed overboard, is now on his back and in need of repeated appeals to the Tillamook Navigation Company and to the Marine Hospital authorities have been of no avail.

Repeated appeals to the Tillamook Navigation Company and to the Marine Hospital authorities have been of no avail. Jensen, who managed after 15 hours of buffeting with the waves of the open sea to make shore 15 miles from where he first was washed overboard, is now on his back and in need of repeated appeals to the Tillamook Navigation Company and to the Marine Hospital authorities have been of no avail.

When the Minnie E. Kelton was struck by a heavy sea off this coast in May and 11 men were washed off her deck, Jensen, with two others, managed to keep afloat on wreckage until they reached shore just south of the Siletz River. Here the terrific surf killed Jensen's two companions and injured him terribly. He managed to crawl out of reach of the waves and was found the next morning by the daughter of Dr. Minthorn of Winstewick. He was removed to Winstewick's house, where the rest of the crew were taken by the life savers. Two days later Captain Jensen was able to bring him down to Newport, and here he has been ever since and will be until death relieves his sufferings or some provision is made by the owners of the Kelton. Winstewick has not received a cent's recompense for taking care of Jensen, nor has any payment been made Dr. Minthorn or anybody else.

Jensen is being well looked after, but, according to the physician's report, immediate measures must be taken to get him into a hospital in order to save his injured limb and possibly his life. Wonder is expressed that the owners of the Kelton do not respond to the statements made on Jensen's behalf, and that no notice has been taken of the matter in any way.

INSIST ON HEARING

Commissioners Refuse to Dismiss Wells-Fargo Case.

RATES TOO HIGH IS CHARGE

Express Company Asks Complaint Be Dismissed Because Charges Not Confined to Specific Rates.

Hearing Date Not Yet Set.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 1.—(Special.)—A few days ago B. P. Jones, of Independence, filed with the Railroad Commission a general complaint alleging that the rates charged by the Wells-Fargo Express Company are excessive and unreasonable, and asking that the Commission conduct a hearing for the purpose of determining the reasonableness of the charges. Today the Wells-Fargo Company filed a reply, setting forth that it has 781 different general merchandise rates in Oregon, 781 general-special rates and a sufficient number of extra special rates to bring the total up to 2000. It argues, therefore, that a complaint against such a point out the particular rates which are deemed excessive so that the company may prepare its defense and present evidence to support its explanation. Because the complaint filed by Mr. Jones is general and attacks all rates, the company asks that its complaint be dismissed.

This means that the whole subject of express rates in Oregon will be investigated and that a ruling will be made by the Railroad Commission. Several months ago the Commission gathered statistics on its own motion, showing that express rates in this state compare with rates in other parts of the country. The figures seemed to show that rates are excessive in Oregon and unless the company can show a reason why rates should be higher here than in other states, there is a very strong probability that a reduction will be ordered. No date for the hearing has been fixed.
