

SAYS OTHERS HAD NO EXPERIENCE

Bryan Puts Himself in Same Class With Lincoln and Grant.

HUGHES GREEN AS RULER

Talking to Germans, Peerless One Twists Reform Governor With Inexperience and Says Republicans Brought on Panic.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 2.—Speaking tonight before the German Bryan Club of Lincoln, William J. Bryan answered the criticisms which had been made of him by Governor Hughes and other Republican leaders that his experience in public life was insufficient to qualify him for the Presidency.

Mr. Bryan asked his audience, "Why this newborn zeal for experience?" He cited Abraham Lincoln, General Grant, James G. Blaine, Benjamin Harrison and William McKinley as having had no particular experience previous to their nominations and as for Governor Hughes, who, he said, had laid special emphasis upon Mr. Taft's experience and qualifications, he declared Mr. Hughes had but two years experience as Governor of the state of New York "and yet he thought three months ago that he was as well qualified for the Presidency as Mr. Taft."

The Democratic candidate maintained that, if he measured up to Mr. Hughes in experience in public life the Governor "ought not to urge my inexperience as an objection to me." In part Mr. Bryan said:

Thanks for German Support. The German element in our population is a very important one, both in numbers and in the character of the men who have come to us from Germany. The German language is rich in philosophy and in its literary treasures, but their industry and integrity. They have helped to build up our country and the energy, honesty and importance of the composite element. I appreciate the support which is being given to the ticket by the German Democrats here and there throughout the country. After discussing a number of issues, Mr. Bryan said:

Answers Prosperity Argument.

The only Republican argument that we hear of much now is that Democratic success will disturb business. Our contention is that National Democratic success will assure prosperity. Now can the Republicans threaten us with a panic when a panic came under the present President and is still upon us. In some respects it is the most acute panic that we have had and there was less in natural conditions to justify it. That this panic state has been proven in the most exact manner by the number of men who are not able to find work to do.

THREE BURGLARIES FAIL

Robbers Frightened in Each Case Before Securing Loot.

Three cases of attempted burglary were reported to the police last night and in each instance the burglars were frightened away without securing any loot. At the residence of J. H. Shields, Vancouver and Killingsworth avenues, the family was awakened at midnight to find two men trying to force their way into the house. The movements of the family scared the thieves. Upon investigation it was found that the prowlers had cut away a portion of the door leading from the woodshed into the kitchen and were about to pry off the lock which was on the inside.

BURKE ADMITS ACCUSATION

SOUGHT TO HAVE STREETCAR COMPANY RESCIND ORDER.

Patrolman Only Takes Exception to Minor Details When Brought Before Police Committee.

Patrolman Edward Burke was tried last night before the police committee of the Executive Board at the City Hall on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and an infraction of the rules of the police department. Burke was charged by Chief of Police Gutmacher with violating officials of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company to threaten prosecution of the company's employees if the company did not alter its recent order which prevented officers from riding free on the company's cars except in full uniform.

Burke, it was alleged, maintained that the company received assistance from the police in keeping its tracks clear of wagons, and that the order which has since been changed, worked a hardship on the men. In presenting the situation to the company, Burke, it is charged, implied that if the order were not rescinded the police department at large would take advantage of every opportunity to harass the streetcar company's employees. It was further alleged that Burke's remarks to the company officials were so forceful that a stenographer was instructed to take them down in shorthand and afterwards transcribe them. These were presented to the Chief of Police and did not last long. He virtually admitted the charge in substance while taking exception to some of the minor details. He admitted that while under excitement he had visited the streetcar railway office, Chief Gutmacher expressed himself as being especially sorry that the department should have been held up to this unpleasant notoriety. Thomas G. Greene said that the committee would take Burke's case under advisement and would announce its findings later.

Patrolman Ray Ellis was also tried at the same meeting for using abusive language to E. Watson. Watson alleged that Ellis ordered him out of a billiard hall and in doing so resorted to the use of abusive unbecoming police officer. Ellis produced a number of witnesses who were present at the time and who all testified that they had not heard the officer use improper language. Decision in this case was also reserved.

BANKWRECKER DENIED SPECIAL PRIVILEGES IN JAIL.

Thomas B. Rickey, Recently Indicted, Surrenders Himself to Sheriff and is Locked Up.

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Oct. 2.—Thomas B. Rickey, who was recently indicted on charges growing out of the failure of a number of banks with which he was connected, was arrested here today and tonight he occupies a cell in the Esmeralda County Jail. Rickey, former president of the defunct state bank arrived this afternoon from Berkeley, Cal., and two hours afterward surrendered himself to Sheriff Ingalls.

The aged banker asked the Sheriff to be allowed to stop outside the jail in custody of a deputy, but the Sheriff told him he would be treated the same as any other prisoner in his charge. When he was taken to his cell Rickey complained of the cold and condition of the mattress. The Sheriff ordered the steam heat turned on and had a new mattress brought in.

Papers in habeas corpus proceedings will be brought in the Supreme Court in Rickey's behalf. It will be claimed that the act under which he was indicted is unconstitutional and, further, that the indictment is defective. The papers are expected here tomorrow.

JEAN DUNSMUR DIES IN SOLITUDE

Canada's Richest Woman Estranged From Her Wealthy Son.

SUIT DISMISSED BY DEATH

Ex-Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia Shuns Mother on Her Deathbed—Daughters May Renew Litigation.

VICTORIA, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Jean Olive Dunsmuir, Canada's richest woman, died of heart failure this morning at Craigdarroch, the castle residence on a height overlooking the city, where she lived in solitary grandeur at the age of 81 years. She was estranged from her son, Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir, whom she was suing to recover the share of her husband's estate to which she considered her daughters entitled at the time of her death. She came to the North Pacific Coast in a sailing ship of the Hudson's Bay Company with her husband and two children, landing at Port Vancouver, Wash., in 1851, where Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir was born.

Her husband, the late Robert Dunsmuir, was an expert Scotch coalmaster and he was sent to Port Rupert, at the north end of Vancouver Island, to open up coal measures there. These were abandoned and he went to Nanaimo. Fifteen years after he discovered the Wellington coal measures, after much prospecting, making his find of outcroppings beneath an upturned roof far in the forest and the operation of these coal measures, in which Admiral Farquhar, of the Esquimalt naval station, Captain Egerton and Lieutenant Diggle, afterward bought out, were then engaged, laid the foundation of the immense fortune, valued at over $15,000,000 left Mrs. Dunsmuir.

Quarrel With Her Sons.

When he died in 1889, soon after completing the Esquimalt & Nanaimo Railway, which he planned to continue to the north end of Vancouver Island, had he lived, his sons, Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir and the late Alexander Dunsmuir, began a negotiation with their mother to purchase the estate with its many subsidiary businesses. Mrs. Dunsmuir died alleged the sons secured her consent by misrepresentation and fraud, while Lieutenant-Governor Dunsmuir's denial says it is good management that made the business so successful since taking it over.

The two brothers arranged that the survivor should get the entire estate and, when Alexander Dunsmuir died, he willed it to the Lieutenant-Governor, who had to defend an expensive suit brought by Edna Wallace Hopper, whose mother became Alex Dunsmuir's wife, seeking to break her stepfather's will, in which she was unsuccessful.

Estranged From Her Son.

The present litigation promised to be long drawn out and whether it will be carried on by the daughters who side with their mother is not known. There was much feeling between the Lieutenant-Governor and his mother and a few years ago, when she was thought to be dying and he was summoned, he went to a garden party instead. Some time afterwards he made the only visit during a number of years past, remaining but one minute. Of the members of her family she is survived by James Dunsmuir, Lieutenant-Governor of the province, Mrs. Henry Croft, of this city, Mrs. Burroughs, who spent several months here, leaving a short time ago for England, Lady Musgrave, the wife of Sir Richard Musgrave, who resides in the country, Mrs. Calthorpe, wife of Captain Calthorpe, B. N., and Mrs. Chaplain. Four members of her family died before her, Mrs. John Bryden, Mrs. Harvey, Mrs. Haughton and Alexander Dunsmuir.
