

RED LIGHTS BURN OUT IN NORTH END

Curious Crowds Gather, but No Revelry Marks Last Night of Resorts.

EVICCTIONS PLANNED TODAY

Angel Brigade of Ten Will Begin Enforcement of Mayor's Order. Practical Charity to Aid Needy Unfortunates.

Closed are the pompous palaces of sin of Portland's "North End." The many-colored lights of the parlor houses are out simultaneously with those of the "cribs" at an early hour this morning, and Mayor Lane declares that they will open no more so long as he remains at the head of municipal affairs.

Beginning today the angel brigade of ten, carefully selected and instructed for the duty, will begin the task of evicting the unfortunate women who have been offered in exploitation of the sins of this modern Gomorrah.

Chief Gritzmacher last night declined to divulge the names of the ten members of the angel brigade. However, he asserted that he will have completed the list today and give it to the public.

Scatter to Smaller Towns. For two days the hehira of unfortunates has been under way, although there are many who announced their determination not to move.

Thronging of curious crowds the streets of the Whitechapel district last night to witness the closing of the district that has existed since Portland became a city, but there were no signs of revelry.

Chief Gritzmacher declined to outline the plan of campaign against the women, but Mayor Lane's orders as expressed by the chief are for a group of all these women from their former homes and their expulsion from the city.

Several of the number went on duty last night and the others will begin today. They will be assigned regular beats as patrolmen while the angel brigade will be recruited from the ranks of the regular force.

Help for Those Who Need It. For two days word has been quietly sent through the district that the unfortunates who desire aid may receive it by applying either in person or by telephone to a certain place.

Few Accept Offer. Few, however, of the women have taken advantage of the offer. It is believed, however, that when they realize the sincerity of the offer and the fact that it is neither charity nor a pittance, they will accept it.

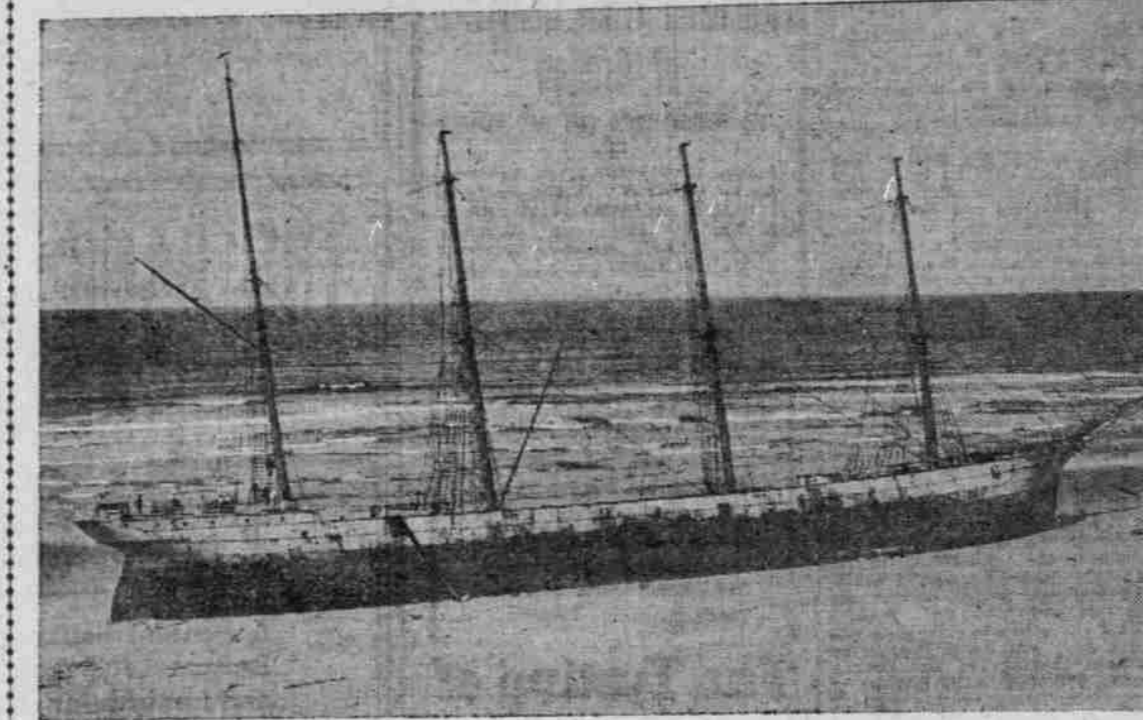

Assistant Pastor Installed. At services held in the First Unitarian Church last night Nehemiah Baker was formally installed as assistant pastor of that denomination.

REPLIES TO CRITIC

Dr. Brougner Writes on Aiding Fallen Women.

STANDS UP FOR REFORMERS

Pastor Tells What He Believes Jesus Would Do and Says Churches Alone Are Extending Helping Hand.

PORTLAND, Oct. 5.—(To the Editor.)—In an editorial on "Sirens and Satyr's" you ask the question, "What are you doing?" Of course the wives of the reformers will help lift up the fallen by giving a siren a place as cook or chambermaid or nurse girl. A good place for charity to begin is at home.

May I be pardoned for saying in conclusion that I am willing to compare the record of the "reformers" in the White Temple in seeking to save and help fallen young women with the record of those who have been continually writing to the papers condemning the present reform movement?

BOTH SIDES RELY UPON DEMURRERS

Lid-Lifters and District Attorney Invoke Old Familiar Pleas.

DODGE FIVE INDICTMENTS

Counsel for Cigar-Dealers Urge Insufficient Facts in Complaints and Cameron Makes Similar Answer to Injunction Suit.

Demurrers were passed back and forth by the Sunday retailers and the District Attorney's office, yesterday in the State Circuit Court. The retailers demurred to five indictments filed against cigar dealers on the grounds that the facts set forth in the indictments are not sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

Two Lines of Defense. The demurrer filed by Messrs. Logan and Bristol in behalf of the Sunday dealers who were indicted by the grand jury is based upon much similar grounds as the application for an injunction. The demurrer is made to apply to the general situation and it sustained will end the whole trouble, unless Cameron should appeal, as he would be entitled to do on a demurrer.

That enforcement of the law involved deprives the retailers of valuable property rights and denies them equal protection under the law. That the classification of the law is unreasonable and unjust in that the words "store, shop and grocery" used in the prohibiting classification, are indefinite, uncertain and not clear except as to business definitely known and conducted as stores, shops and groceries; and that it is not lawful exercise of police power in that it does not regulate all of the class alike and equally.

Says Law Applies Unfairly. That the law is invalid, void and unreasonable because it does not apply alike to, nor similarly operate upon, every person of the same class engaged in lawful business under like circumstances and conditions. That the law is invalid because it denies the lawful right to provide the public with the necessities of life.

Otto Tanberg Acquitted.

Otto Tanberg, indicted on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of Selma Schwarz, was acquitted yesterday afternoon by a jury in Judge Cleveland's department of the Circuit Court. The jury was out three-quarters of an hour. The defense relied solely upon the evidence introduced by the prosecution, Tanberg himself failing to take the witness stand.

Jesus Would Forgive Both. Second, I believe that Jesus would forgive and save the fallen woman just as quickly as he would forgive and save the fallen man. This is not true of the world. What may be an "indication" for a young man means "ruin" for a young woman. Let her make one false step, no matter what the temptation may have been, and the world looks askance at her.

But there are a few Christian women in our city who are following the example of Jesus Christ and seeking to save their fallen sisters. I have had a part with them in the past. I have a personal work and must be done without publicity. I want to ask your correspondents who have been sneering in regard to this matter what they have been doing to save these girls. Have these apostles for the women of the North End ever done a solitary thing to save one of them from a life of shame and make it possible for her to live an upright life? I doubt if one of them ever did anything more than sneer at the "reformers" and insist that the women of the North End should be left alone to live and die without God and without hope.

I am willing to listen to the criticism of a man or a woman who is doing something to help these girls and to save them, but I haven't any time to listen to the sneer of those who are not doing anything themselves to benefit these girls and who don't want you to do anything, either. There are two classes of people in this world—those who do things and those who don't, and the keenest critics of those who do are those who don't. If your correspondents who object to this reform movement are really doing something to save these girls to a better life, then let them speak and the preachers and "reformers" will listen. But if they are not doing anything, their words have no weight with any one.

Would Give Another Chance.

Third, I believe that Jesus would give the saved and reformed woman the same chance to live an honorable, upright life that he would give the saved and reformed man. Jesus Christ would not drag up the past to hinder the future of either a man or a woman. I know that society in general makes it mighty hard for a woman to live an upright life after she has once fallen. But I believe there are more men and women than ever before for the world today who would help a young woman just as quickly as they would help a young man to live an honorable life. In your editorial note yesterday morn-

Some People Compromise. When they think it is "too hard" to quit coffee at once and shift to straight Postum, they compromise the case by using Postum with a little coffee in it. Of course, that isn't "strictly business" and a person will not as quickly recover from coffee ails as if pure POSTUM were used, but the compromise is better than to stick to the old coffee habit and continue to suffer. Gradually less coffee can be put into the brew and soon only Pure Postum is used. Then can be expected that the old aches and ails will disappear. "There's a Reason" for POSTUM.
