PERJURY CHARGE IN CANAL INQUIRY

Brothers Openly Accuses Witness and Causes Disturbance.

GOETHALS SHUT HIM OUT

Contract for Cableways on Gatun Dam Causes Sensational Scene. Goethals Promises Full Reply to Accuser.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The inquiry into the Panama Canal discrimination charges was temporarily interrupted in a sensational manner today, when William E. Brothers, who brought the charges, publicly accused Spencer Miller, a representative of the Lidgerwood Company, of perjury.

Brigadier-General Garlington, who is conducting the inquiry, rapped repeatedly for order, but there was so much commotion in the room for a time that he could not make himself heard.

"There is only one side of this thing to be heard, anyway," shouted Brothers over the din. "There is no use of my talking. You don't want to hear the truth. I will withdraw."

With that Mr. Brothers left the room, and as General Garlington was unable to restore order a temporary adjournment of the inquiry was ordered.

Goethals Shut Out Brothers.

The inquiry by General Garlington, Inspector-General of the Army, has been in progress here for several days. It was begun for the purpose of looking into the merits of the charges of discrimination by the Canal Commission in awarding a contract for cableways on the isthmus, which had been preferred by William A. Brothers. Mr. Brothers, who is president of the Balanced Cable Crane Company of New York, alleged that the Isthmian Canal Commission in issuing specifications for cableways had discriminated against his company, and that improper methods had been employed in preventing him from receiving the award.

Colonel George W. Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal work, and several other Army officers and engineers already have testified before the Inspector-General. Colonel Goethals in his testimony said that for good and sufficient reasons the specifications were so drawn that Mr. Brothers could not bid. He said the cable device offered by Mr. Brothers was believed to be imperfect and that the commission could not afford to experiment with it.

Mr. Miller, who is chief engineer of the Lidgerwood Company, was on the witness stand yesterday, and he was recalled when the inquiry was resumed today. He had told of being informed when on a visit to Panama that bids were to be asked on the cableway on the Gatun locks.

"Did you ever offer me any money as royalty for the use of our patented towers?" asked Mr. Brothers.

Mr. Miller said: "There is a lawsuit now pending between the Lidgerwood Company and a party who bought a plant from the Balance Cable Company, and I have been cross-examined by attorneys for Mr. Brothers for five days, and I cannot go further. I refuse, unless ordered by the court, to answer any further questions asked by Mr. Brothers."

Perjury, Shouts Brothers.

"Then only one side of the case is to be heard," said Mr. Brothers. "I withdraw from the case until summoned. Only one side of it is being heard, anyway. I prefer charges and I am not given a chance to prove them. What I want is to submit proofs that this witness has perjured himself."

"Keep quiet," shouted General Garlington. "You cannot make indiscriminate charges here."

"I am here to sustain them," answered Mr. Brothers. "I accuse this man of perjury and I can prove it."

As he walked away from the table he turned back to General Garlington.

"I want it to appear on the minutes that I charge the witness with perjury," said he. "I will submit a written statement notifying you of the position I take and I want it to go on the records."

Goethals Defends Himself.

Colonel Goethals was called upon to testify. In a voice that betrayed his deep feelings over the charges made by Mr. Brothers, Colonel Goethals entered into a defense of the manner in which the contracts had been awarded.

"I have been charged with false statements by Mr. Brothers," he said. "I am also practically charged with corrupt practices by Senator Slater, Mr. Words and Mr. Brothers. I intend to answer these charges fully, but the matter will not be taken up in the manner it should be taken up until tomorrow, when Colonel Sieberts, who is perfectly familiar with the entire situation, arrives."

the question of the San Francisco graft prosecution. In reply to a challenge from Francis J. Heney, Mr. Hearst said:

"Mr. Heney is willing to meet anyone who is respectable, but no one who is respectable wants to meet Mr. Heney. Mr. Heney should address the citizens from a pillory, where he belongs.

Archbold's Plea for Sibley.

In opening his speech Mr. Hearst said that both the old parties were so thoroughly debauched by corrupt and corporate interests that the country could hope for no relief through them. As an example of the control of both old parties by the Standard Oil Company he read the following letter.:

26 Broadway, Sept. 6, 1900—Personal—Dear Mr. Cassatt: In Mr. Patton's absence I venture to write you on a political question which seems to be of real importance and interest.

In the twenty-seventh Congressional district L. Emery, Jr., the old-time agitator, is running for Congress against J. C. Sibley, of Franklin. Sibley has had, as you know, rather a variegated career, but he is now again squarely in the Republican fold and, I think, sound in every way.

Emery's election would certainly be a great misfortune and I venture to ask that you do everything possible in the matter in Mr. Sibley's favor, on the sure ground that all corporate and vested interests will have full consideration at his hands.

With kind regards, I am, very truly yours, JOHN D. ARCHBOLD.

To Mr. A. J. Cassatt, president Broadstreet station, Philadelphia.

McLaurin's Kind Pointer.

"While Mr. Sibley hunted and retrieved through the corridors of the house," continued Mr. Hearst, "Mr. McLaurin hunted and retrieved through the lobbies of the Senate. I shall now read a letter from Senator McLaurin, a Democrat.: He then read the following:

Bennettsville, S. C., Sept. 20, 1904—Confidential—Dear Mr. Archbold: In the same mail by which your letter came was one that I wish to quote a few sentences from apropos of your remarks about Mr. R—. The writer of that letter was employed in a confidential way by Senator Hanna in matters of importance.

He is a shrewd, close observer, not overscrupulous, but a very intelligent man whose public experience and acquaintance is wide. I knew him well in Washington and when he saw my article in the Sun he wrote me a long letter indulging in some unexpected criticisms of the President, to which I replied combating his position.

Roosevelt's Threat in 1904.

He says in part, viz.: "Reading on Sunday Lawson's 'Frenzied Finance' recalled to my mind a remark that I heard him (Roosevelt) make that he hoped some day to be able to take a fall out of that Standard Oil gang, and if he succeeds himself, mark my words, he will try to make good his statement, as he believes it will appeal to the masses and keep him in the center of the stage."

I thought it might be a friendly act to copy this and give it to you in strict confidence. From my isolated position I cannot say whether it was worth the ink or not. It will show anyway that I am not unmindful of your various kind actions towards me.

With kindest regards, yours sincerely, JOHN LOWNDEN M'LAURIN.

To John D. Archbold.

Mr. Hearst and Mr. Hisgen both argued that the only hope of relief for the people was through the Independence party.

TELLS POLICE OF PLAN

CLYDE HEATH RELATES PLOT INVOLVING PARTNER.

St. John Youths Plan Hold-Up and Edward Muhm Is Arrested at Trysting Place.

After completing plans to hold up and rob a man at the end of the St. John carline, Clyde Heath and Edward Muhm, young men from St. John, met at Third and Alder streets last night, whence, it had been agreed, they were to proceed to the scene of their prearranged crime.

However, Heath suffered a severe case of chilled extremities and went to police headquarters, where he told his story to Detectives Price and Coleman. These officers, accordingly, were hiding in the shadows at the meeting place, and when Muhm joined his betrayer he was promptly taken into custody. In his pockets were found a loaded revolver and an extra supply of cartridges. After an hour's treatment to the "third degree," he confessed his part in planning the robbery.

Heath lives at 712 Richmond avenue, and Muhm lives near that suburb. According to the story Heath told the officers yesterday afternoon, he and his confederate planned the crime Thursday afternoon. It preyed so heavily on his mind that he was unable to resist the desire to tell some one, and he selected the police. He said that he and Muhm knew of a man near the car barn at St. John who would pass last night with $100 in his possession, and he was to have been the victim.

After telling the detectives Heath was permitted to go. He kept his appointment with Muhm last night, but the two officers were there also. Muhm was arrested, his informer being given his liberty. At headquarters Muhm vehemently denied his complicity in any criminal plans. He said he was 17 years old, and made a strong case for himself until subjected to a severe examination. Then he broke down and confessed.

Muhm declared that he had served a short time in the Navy, and for the past nine months had been employed by the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company. The officers insist that he is at least 22 or 24 years of age. He seemed somewhat relieved after confessing, but showed no alarm or apprehension. Heath is several years older than Muhm, whom he betrayed.

CARNEGIE GIVES $20,000

CONTRIBUTION TO REPUBLICAN NATIONAL FUND.

Mrs. Sage Gives $1000—Sheldon Asks 10,000 Business Men to Give $50 Each.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The fact that Andrew Carnegie has contributed $20,000 to the campaign fund of the Republican National Committee was announced today by State Chairman Woodruff. Mr. Woodruff also announced that Mrs. Russell Sage had contributed $1000 to the same fund. There have been no large contributions from individuals, Mr. Woodruff said, but small sums are coming in from various sources.

George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the National Republican Committee, when asked about the contributions, declined to discuss them, saying that he would publish a list of all the contributions after the election.

An appeal for contributions of $50 each from 10,000 business men was issued today by Mr. Sheldon. The appeal reads as follows:

Legitimate expenses of the Republican National campaign are necessarily large. Under the law corporations may not contribute, and we, therefore, ask individuals to contribute more freely.

Many would-be contributors are deterred from subscription, lest amount, when published, would be subject of comment as being too small, or, on the other hand, too large. I have, therefore, determined to ask a uniform contribution of $50 from say 10,000 business men, so vitally concerned in the continuation of Republican principles.

I hope you will place yourself on this roll and send to me your check, for which an official receipt will be sent you.

BURN HOLE TO FREEDOM

Prisoners Escape by Using Red-Hot Soup Spoon.

OREGON CITY, Or., Oct. 9.—(Special.)—Clackamas County officials were astounded this morning to learn of a jail delivery by which John S. Bowers, charged with attempting to kill his divorced wife, and Arthur Clark, who was serving a six months' sentence for larceny, made their escape by heating an old soup spoon redhot in the jail stove and burning a hole through the ceiling of the jail and the floor of the County Assessor's office overhead. The men made a clean getaway, and the authorities are at a loss to know where to make search for them.

Last night Miss Edith Jackson and Miss Letha Jackson were doing some clerical work in the Assessor's office when they heard a noise emanating from the jail below. Thinking it was wood rats, they paid little attention, but the sound continued for two hours, and they became nervous and went home about 9 o'clock. At 6 o'clock this morning Janitor Nehren was building a fire in the furnace of the jail door when one of the prisoners attracted his attention and told him of the escape of Bowers and Clark. Nehren notified Sheriff Beatie at once, but the men had been gone for hours and no clew was obtainable.

PUGILIST MAY DIE

Al Kauffman's Opponent in Battle Still Unconscious.

FELLED BY BLOW ON JAW

Fred Bradley, of Boston, Goes Down Like Log Before San Francisco Man's Fist in New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Al Kauffman, of San Francisco, knocked out Fred Bradley, of Boston, in the fourth round of what was to have been a six-round go at the National Athletic Club here tonight. The men fought at catch weighs, Kauffman being about 20 pounds the heavier.

The battle, which was a gruelling throughout, was witnessed by a large crowd. Kauffman in the first round with left and right to head put Bradley to the floor twice. Bradley took the count on the second knockdown, but got up strong and staved Kauffman off to the bell.

Bradley came up fresh for the second and succeeded after a rally in landing with his left on Kauffman's head. Bradley had the better of the round.

In the third Bradley was still full of fight, but no telling blows were landed by either.

Kauffman met Bradley's rush at the opening of the fourth with right and left to the head. He then sent a left jolt to the jaw, which downed Bradley. When he arose Bradley got a smash from Kauffman's left on the head which put him to his knees. He continued to hold on, but Kauffman, breaking loose, sent a right-hander to the head and followed it with a terrific left swing to the jaw, which put Bradley down and out.

Bradley was removed to the dressing-room in an unconscious condition, and late tonight, several hours after the fight, had not been revived.

WINS WITH RIGHT TO JAW

Freddie Welsh, of England, Knocks Out Kid Trendall, of St. Louis.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 9. — Freddie Welsh, of England, tonight knocked out Kid Trendall, of St. Louis, in the sixth round of a ten-round bout with a right to the jaw, after having outfought him all the way and knocking him to the mat for the count of nine in the fourth round. Welsh was altogether too clever for Trendall.

Methodists Eager to Know What Ferdinand Will Do.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—The Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Church, in this country, has sent a message to the Rev. E. E. Count, superintendent of Missions in Bulgaria, asking him to report at once the effect of the political situation on church work and what is to be done in the event of Bulgaria becoming an independent nation. At the offices of the board it is said that no trouble is expected. Prince Ferdinand is said to be liberal in his treatment of denominational interests. The mission field of Bulgaria as far as American work is concerned, is divided between the Methodists and the Congregationalists. The latter denomination is represented there by a large church that, while teaching the precepts of the denomination, is independent of the church in this country.

According to the latest report made by the superintendent of these missions, the Methodists have property in Bulgaria valued at nearly $100,000. The estimated value of church buildings, mission chapels, etc., is $19,515, and of halls, parsonages, etc., $18,612.

There are eight native workers of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society; 15 native ordained preachers; 632 members and probationers; 11 churches and chapels, and 520 attending Sabbath schools.

H-O

It's a Part of Your Religion

Of course you will eat some oatmeal porridge—it's a part of your religion, inherited from the good old sturdy stock—but you will want the steam-cooked kind, and there's only one steam-cooked oatmeal sold.

That's H-O, the meat of the oats, without the hulls, the kind that cooks up into delicate, sweet, tender kernels, instead of a lumpy, pasty mush. You will be glad to pay the few extra pennies for it after you've tasted it—it's so different from raw "rolled oats"—and so good. Ask your grocer for H-O.
