HOLDS ANNUAL REUNION—At the annual reunion and roll call of the Second Baptist Church, East Seventh and East Ankeny streets, Thursday night, over 200 were present, and sat down at the banquet which was held at 7 P. M. Addresses and reports were made, and plans for the coming year submitted.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT—The financial statement of the business year closed by W. H. Hall, showing finances in good condition, a small deficit being made up at the meeting. U. K. Hall reported the condition of the business with future plans. R. R. Robinson, president of the Young Men's Club, submitted report, announcing that the club will hold a banquet in about two weeks. A report of the work of the Ladies' Aid Society was given by Mrs. Happerst, the deaconess, and Mrs. S. C. Lapham reported for the missionary society. H.
Gantenstein told of the work of the B.
Y. P. U. Rev. S. C. Lapham closed the programme with a short talk in which he spoke of the future of the church.
All reports showed the church in good condition. The new Baptist Church on East Fourth and Hawthorne avenues, an offshoot of the old church, and the Baptist churches at Arleta and Lents have received its aid.
The Second Church lost some members through the closing of the school churches, but has held its own notwithstanding these losses.

PAVEMENT IS COMPLETED—The hard-surface pavement of Killingsworth avenue, between Patton and Union avenues, has been completed, the work having been done by the Pacific Bridge Company. This work was done under a single hard-surface paving contract yet let on the East Side, the price being $3,000.
There were long delays in getting the pavement done, but the improvement through the efforts of J. H. Nolta that the improvement was made. The effort made to make Killingsworth avenue 50 feet wide could not succeed, as according to the decision of City Attorney Kavanaugh the widening could not be undertaken without the purchase of the street was under way, and the widening had to be abandoned. Killingsworth will be improved to the Williamsite Boulevard west and extended a unitwidth of 50 feet to the city limits to the east. The east end of the avenue is only partly opened, in many places being only 40 feet wide. The improvement of Killingsworth avenue has stimulated general progress all through North Albina.

GENERAL OF MRS. HOYT TODAY—The funeral of Mrs. Hoyt today, the wife of the late George W. Hoyt, Sr., who died Wednesday, October 7, will be held from the family residence, 2115 1/2 10th street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be private. Mrs. Hoyt was born in Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, July 18, 1842. She was the daughter of William Nickerson Graham and Barbara Crowthers Graham, of Yorkville, Eng-land. She was married in Albany, N. Y., to George W. Hoyt, Sr., of this city, November 20, 1865. She came to Portland with him in 1868, and has resided here since that time. She is sur- vived by her daughter, Mrs. Martha A. Hoyt and Mrs. Robert Wilson Lewis, and a son, George W. Hoyt, Jr. Mrs. Hoyt possessed a gracious personality, and her rare qualities of character and intel- lect endeared her to a wide circle of friends who were pained to learn of her sudden death.

WOMEN'S CLUB MEETS—The Portland Women's Club held its first meeting of the year yesterday. After the business session the club was entertained by in- vesting reports from the biennial con- vention of women's clubs, held in Bos- ton, given by Mrs. F. Eggert, Mrs. Sarah A. Evans and Mrs. Fear who were dele- gates to the convention. Mrs. Robert Lusk gave a fine inaugural address. A social hour followed with refreshments. Visitors to the club were Miss Montgom- ery of the Columbia River, as the guest of ex-Captain J. T. Moore, of the office in the Turn Hall Cafe did, de- clared Councilman Baker, "and if the police intend to use the ordinance in similar cases it will have to be amended. That raid was nothing short of an out- rage, innocent women were arrested and dragged to the City Jail for nothing. It was positively outrageous the way they were treated by the policeman who made the raid. He refused to give them any consideration whatever, and this to my personal knowledge. I happened to be standing across the street when the raid occurred. I was the only one who tried to stand for any more of it. If the police cannot enforce this ordinance in- telligently it will be amended so that innocent persons shall be protected.

PROTECT INNOCENT ESTABLISHMENTS.
"There are places in this city which were intended to be disciplined by the law when the Council passed it, but such places as the Turn Hall, which complies with the law in every respect, should not be raided unceremoniously and innocent women dragged out to jail. Other similar establishments, which cater to a high class of trade, but which do not violate the provisions of the ordinance, should be passed, must and shall be protected. The intent of the law is to punish those who violate its provisions, who have boxes and cater to the lowest class, who tolerate lewd women and furnish them places in which to hide—these are the places intended by the Council to be punished by the Cellars ordinance.

WILL CAUSE MUCH DEBATE.
When the Cellars ordinance was passed by the Council at its session three weeks ago there was scarcely a dissenting voice and no debate at all although its provisions were said to be the most drastic by far ever contained in any measure in- tended for the regulation of saloons in Portland. Next Wednesday it is almost certain to cause one of the greatest de- bates on record in the Council. The provisions of the ordinance in- clude the portions relating to the res- taurants, have created no end of con- fusion in liquor establishments through- out the city, and there is scarcely any one who understands what a saloon keeper can or cannot do under the law. Because of this scores have as yet de- clined to renew their licenses for the last quarter of the year, although they have only until 1 o'clock this afternoon in which to keep within the requirements in this respect. They are apparently fearful of the measure, and are not so severely that they cannot make their business pay.

TURN HALL CASE GOES OVER Trial of Man and Women Arrested in Place Set for Monday.
The case against Charles Kierner, one of the proprietors of Turn Hall Cafe, and five women patrons of the cafe, who were arrested Thursday afternoon by Patrol- man Fuller on a charge of violating the new ordinance against women frequent- ing saloons, came up before Municipal Judge Van Zante yesterday morning, but was put over until Monday. The case is attracting a great deal of interest and the courtroom was crowded with spec- tators. Henry Hanno, one of the proprietors of the Turn Hall Cafe, emphatically denies that his place has been in frequent trou- ble with the police and declares that he and his partner have always been the first to comply with the laws regulating saloons as passed by the city council. He calls attention to the fact that when the recent ordinance was passed the Turn Hall Cafe, which embraces over 150 square feet of floor space, met with the requirement of the ordinance in every respect. The only time the place was ever in trouble with the police was when an arrest was made on a trumped- up charge, says Mr. Hanno, and the de- fendants were discharged in the Municipal Court. In police circles it is rumored that several of the women who were taken into custody by Patrolman Fuller, who is a new man on the force, have banded to- gether and are threatening to commence suit for damages against the officer as soon as the present case is disposed of before Judge Van Zante.

OLD RESIDENT IS DEAD
Mrs. Ann Richardson, Native of Vancouver, Dies Aged 47.
Mrs. Ann Richardson, a native of Van- couver, Wash., and a resident of Port- land and vicinity for many years, died Thursday at the home of her son, Wash- ington, at 1000 1/2 10th street, of an attack of acute pneumonia. Mrs. Rich- ardson left Portland on September 16, to join her husband, who had bought a ranch near the eastern Washington city, and while driving to her new home one night, caught a severe cold which eventually resulted in pneumonia. The funeral will be held in Portland this afternoon and will be removed to the un- dertaking establishment of Edward Hol- man & Sons until the funeral arrange- ments are completed.
