The Oregon wool season of 1908 is now drawing to a close with the purchasing of the remaining lots of the Fall clip in the Western and Southern parts of the state. It is estimated by dealers that about 300,000 pounds of wool remain in growers' hands, of which 200,000 pounds are in Eastern Oregon, 25,000 pounds in the Willamette Valley and 75,000 pounds in Southern Oregon. There is a good market for these remnants now if the farmers are willing to part with them.

From the dealers' standpoint, the close of the season is better than the opening, as the big Eastern markets, after remaining almost stagnant throughout the Summer, have now taken on somewhat of an aspect of animation. The London wool market is also decidedly firmer than it has been. The strength has been most marked this week and it is probable the war scare has been of some influence in stiffening values in England. The Russo-Japanese war was one cause of high wool prices last year, and a conflict in Europe would probably have a similar effect now.

The general improvement in the industrial situation in the United States is principally responsible for the better feeling in the wool trade in this country.

To the growers of Oregon the season has been a fairly successful one. The high prices of the two preceding years were not reached, yet the realizations in many instances exceeded the expectations of the growers. The average price paid was about 5 cents under that of 1907, while a good many of the sheep men had feared the decline would be still greater.

The total output of the state is estimated at 18,500,000 pounds, as compared with 20,000,000 pounds shown in 1907 and 18,000,000 pounds in 1906. The value of this year's clip is approximately $2,500,000, compared with a total valuation of $3,800,000 in 1907 and $3,240,000 two years ago.

Prices paid this season ranged from 12 to 15 cents for good average to choice wool, and in some instances better than 18 cents was paid.

While the Oregon wools last year were bright, with a light shrinkage, but only average staple, the wools as a whole this year were poorer in color and heavier in shrinkage, though better grown. The Valley clip, itself, was of better quality than last year. The fleeces, taking the state as a whole, weighed about one pound more than they did in 1907.

Before the opening of the sealed bid sales there was much talk among the growers of a buyers' combine. The prices then mentioned by the buyers seemed too low, as it was difficult to realize that the market had receded from 25 to 50 per cent from the level of the previous year. The additional shrinkage of from 2 to 8 per cent was not so apparent then. After the sales opened, however, with plenty of bidders in the field and competition open, it was plain that the asking prices could not be obtained and selling was then as general as usual at the auctions. As competition among the buyers developed, prices were forced up to a point where the dealers complained that there was absolutely no margin in the wools. All the large Eastern houses had representatives in the field and the purchasers were well divided.

Buyers, especially of Valley wools, continue to complain of the use of sisal by growers, and on some of the lots since turned over in the East there has been a loss to the merchants of 2 cents a pound on this account. It is probable that next season the dealers will discriminate against such growers as persist in using sisal.

According to Saturday's advices from Boston, there was a good, strong demand for choice staple wool, though clothing and inferior wools were neglected.

GIRLS' SCHOOL ENLARGED

Addition Made to Catholic Seminary at Albany.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Albany will soon have one of the largest seminaries in the state. The big addition to the building of the Academy of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, a Catholic seminary for young women, is now nearing completion and the school will then be one of the finest of the kind in the state.

The new building is 60 by 80 feet in size and four stories in height. This addition will contain all of the classrooms, an auditorium, chapel and music-room and will be devoted entirely to the school work of the academy. The old building will be used exclusively for the boarding department of the school and will furnish accommodations for 70 young women. Joseph Jacobberger, of Portland, is architect of the splendid new structure and LaDeaux & LaDeaux, also of Portland, are the builders.

The academy is conducted by the Benedictine Sisters and has been operated successfully for many years. The new addition is necessitated by the growth of the school. In addition to its splendid buildings, the academy maintains magnificent grounds, which always attract favorable attention from visitors to Albany.

BUILDINGS GOING UP

Klamath Falls Feels Impetus of Nearing Railroad.

BIG DEMAND FOR LUMBER

California Northeastern Will Reach Klamath River Within Thirty Days—Contractors Are Rushing Construction Work.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Klamath Falls is experiencing the effect of having railroad communication close at hand and early transportation facilities assured. There is a splendid movement in real estate, with many farmers who will establish homes on the land included among the buyers. In the town the improvement in financial and business conditions is marked by the erection of several splendid business blocks and others are already planned on which construction work has not yet commenced.

The First National Bank is building a handsome concrete and brick bank and office building at the corner of Main and Fourth streets, which will be ready for occupancy in a short time. The basement will be equipped with a large vault and has been leased for an office. The bank will occupy the entire first floor and the second floor will be devoted to offices.

Fourth and Main Banking Corner.

The Klamath County Bank, the pioneer financial institution of Klamath County, has entered into a lease of the corner of the Melhase-Withrow brick block at the southeast corner of Main and Fourth streets and is having a large vault built therein for its purpose. This building will be ready for occupancy by the bank within 30 days.

George R. Hurn is building a two-story brick building at the corner of Fifth and Main streets, the first floor of which will be devoted to the hardware store of the owner. The second story will be designed for the accommodation of tenants.

Crisler & Stilts have under way a brick building at the corner of Seventh and Main streets, to be occupied exclusively by their meat and cold storage plant. It will be two stories, of substantial construction and 40x60 feet.

Power Plant Nearing Completion.

The new power plant of Moore Brothers, which will receive its power from the water passing through the Keno Canal of the Government project to its turbines, will be completed within 30 days. The lines are already constructed for transmitting the electric current to Merrill and Bonanza, these two towns of the project having entered into contracts for lighting of their streets and extended to the company franchises to furnish electric current for domestic and public use.

Dozens of new residences are building throughout the city and farm homes are being erected throughout the basin. The result is an unprecedented demand on the sawmills for lumber and it is with difficulty that enough can be furnished in finishing grades.

Trains to River in Thirty Days.

The latest official information in regard to railroad construction is that within 30 days the trains will connect with steamboats on the Klamath River at the new station of Holland. All of the energies of the contractors is being directed to that accomplishment. Meanwhile, three camps have been established this side of the marsh lands of Lower Klamath Lake and work is being prosecuted also on the bridge which will span the channel of the straits between Lower Klamath Lake and the river.

AGITATE DEEPER CHANNEL

Albany Business Men to Interest Senator Bourne in Movement.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Active work for the improvement of the Upper Willamette has been begun by the Albany Commercial Club. Local organizations have passed resolutions and taken action toward this end many times, but the present movement will be an energetic, systematic effort. The club named the following committee to direct this movement: Dr. M. H. Ellis, H. H. Hewitt and Manager B. I. Dusent.

As a part of this movement for better transportation facilities on the Upper Willamette, the club will greet Senator Jonathan Bourne upon the occasion of a visit he will make to Albany this week and make him familiar with the needs of the upper river.

The following committee has been named to meet Senator Bourne and discuss the needed improvements with him: E. W. Langdon, president of the Albany Commercial Club; B. I. Dasent, manager of the club; County Judge J. N. Duncan, Dr. W. H. Davis, F. M. French, George E. Sanders, George Taylor, Dr. J. L. Hill, S. G. Simon, City Recorder F. M. Redfield, J. H. Simpson, C. H. Stewart, J. S. Van Winkle, Mayor J. P. Wallace, D. O. Woodworth, J. K. Weatherford, J. W. Cusick and P. A. Young.

Bright Lights in Salem Streets.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Salem now boasts of the most brilliantly lighted business streets of any city in the state. The Salem Board of Trade recently entered into a contract with the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, which owns the local light plant, for the maintenance of lines of electric streamers across and along all the business streets every night in the year. The lights are so numerous and so strong that not even Portland streets are as brilliantly lighted as those of Salem.

RUSH WORK FROM WEED

FOUR GRADING CAMPS HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED.

California Northeastern Pushing Its Way Rapidly Toward Klamath Falls.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—More rapid progress is being made on the construction of the California Northeastern Railroad, building from Weed to Klamath Falls than at any time since it was begun. Erickson & Patterson, who have the contract for the roadbed on each side of Lower Klamath Lake, are making a record in grading and have four camps established by various sub-contractors between Midland and Klamath Falls. H. F. Sears has the largest of these camps, with 120 head of stock and half as many men. He came from the Western Pacific work in Nevada and will build the greater portion of the grade between Lower Klamath Lake and this city.

Erickson & Patterson also have the tunnel contract just north of Dorris and large forces of men are employed at both portals. It is expected that more than a year will be required to build the tunnel, but meantime the railroad will be operated over the "shoo-fly" already completed, which climbs the hill on a heavy grade. Two other camps are located between Calor and the west end of the swamp and it is expected the track will be finished to the Klamath River during the month. It is apparent that rush orders have been in effect the past 60 days and that the railroad is to be finished without unnecessary delay.

NEWPORT PLANS TO GROW

City Council Gathers Data for Proposed Water and Light System.

NEWPORT, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—A report has just made to the City Council by City Engineer M. Wygant, which shows that a careful census gives Newport 304 dwellings, 5 hotels, 12 boarding-houses and 24 shops, with a regular population, Winter and Summer, of 900. This report was called for in order that plans might be drawn up for a water and light system.

One feature of the report is the statement that the sanitary regulations of the town are being carefully observed everywhere and that probably no town on the Coast has better health or less cause for alarm for the future.

Newport is now considering two offers for the establishment of an electric light plan and the Council is actively engaged in preparing for the issuing of bonds voted at the last election for a water system.

In addition to this extensive street improvements are contemplated, including, possibly, a board walk and road the whole length of the waterfront.

Yakima Hops 8000 Bales.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—The hop yield of the Yakima Valley this year is between 7500 and 8000 bales. Nearly 6500 bales have already been disposed of, so that there remains in first hands not more than 1000 bales. There is every indication now that the price of hops will advance, but with so large a percentage of the crop disposed of, no benefit will accrue to the grower.

SURPLUS FOR NEXT YEAR

Steps Will Be Taken to Hold County Event on Still More Elaborate Scale — List of the Prizewinners.

GRESHAM, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—As an advertisement of Multnomah County's agricultural, horticultural and livestock industries the Gresham Fair, which closed yesterday, was a great success. It was also a success financially. The receipts were ample to pay all expenses of the fair and all premiums, with a substantial surplus for next year.

The new board of directors is already considering many improvements that could not be made this year, and will be prepared to give a fair next year that will far surpass the two preceding ones. It is assured that henceforth Multnomah County will hold one of the best fairs in the state.

In the dairy test, the first prize for best dairy cow was awarded to John W. Townsend, of Troutdale.

For best dairy butter the first prize went to the Webb farm; second to F. E. Butler.

In the industrial science department the awards were made as follows:

In the baby show, first prize under the second class was won by Gertrude Brugger, and not Frances Walling, as first reported.

Captures Insane Patient.

GOLD BEACH, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—Louis A. Lux, an escaped inmate of the asylum at Napa, Cal., was captured here by Sheriff Tyler last week, just after passing through town. Word was received from the authorities at Napa which led to his capture.

NEW SALOON LAW WILL BE AMENDED

Council Considers Measure Too Drastic as Enforced by Police Department.

ORDERLY PLACES INJURED

Boxes Will Not Be Restored, but Sale of Liquor to Women in Restaurants Will Probably Be Permitted.

Literal enforcement of the ordinance barring women from saloons undoubtedly will result in the amendment of that statute by the City Council at its regular meeting Wednesday. As originally passed, the members of the Council intended that the measure should only apply to resorts maintaining boxes, for it was from these places that the complaints were received. But the Police Department, in attempting its enforcement, construed the ordinance strictly with the result that women have been barred from all places in which liquor is sold. The same members of the Council who supported the measure which has proved so extensive in its application, now propose to amend the law so that a less severe limitation shall be prescribed in the enforcement of its provisions.

Aimed at Disorderly Places.

In the first place, the ordinance was drafted at the request of Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin, of the Travelers' Aid Society, and was designed to put out of business all saloons of unsavory reputation which maintained boxes in the rear of their buildings and catered especially to the trade of young girls and women. The members of the Council were practically a unit in their support of the ordinance which was intended to apply only to such disreputable resorts as made necessary the enactment of such restrictive legislation by the Council. Instead of placing a liberal construction on the measure, the Police Department contended that the provisions of the ordinance as passed permitted no exemptions and applied to all places where liquor was sold, not excluding retail family liquor establishments.

The extent to which the ordinance will be amended has not been determined, but it will be so modified as to apply exclusively to the resorts at which it was aimed and at the same time afford protection to all respectable places. However, the day of the saloon box has been sealed and there is no disposition on the part of the Councilmen for an instant to tolerate the replacement of such enclosures. The ordinance unquestionably will be amended to exempt from its operation restaurants and the larger resorts from which the objectionable boxes have been removed. Neither will the provisions be made too strict and exacting when applied to restaurants. The serving of a legitimate lunch will suffice to entitle the proprietor to serve liquor in his establishment without making himself liable to prosecution under the ordinance, provided all boxes have been removed.

Baker States His Position.

"There never has been a disposition on the part of the Council to work a hardship on saloons that comply with the law," said Councilman Baker yesterday. "When the ordinance was passed, we figured a reasonable interpretation of its provisions would reach and correct the abuses for which it was intended, but it seems that it will be necessary more specifically to designate the resorts that shall be effected and at the same time place a limitation on its application.

"The people of Portland, by a large majority, have declared they do not wish to dispense with the saloons. At the same time, they insist that these resorts shall be conducted properly. The members of the Council are of the same mind, but they feel that regulation and not persecution, amounting to prohibition, is the proper method to pursue. The Council believes that the people want these resorts conducted under proper regulations and from conversations with the other Councilmen, I am satisfied the city's lawmaking body proposes to provide the laws necessary to that regulation."

ACRE'S YIELD 300 BOXES

DOUGLAS COUNTY APPLE ORCHARD SETS RECORD.

J. B. Smith Refuses Offer of $2400 for Fruit, Which He Will Ship East.

ROSEBURG, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—A new record has been established for Douglas County apples. J. B. Smith, a fruitgrower from near this city, from a measured quarter of an acre, will pick over 300 boxes of choice marketable Spitzenberg apples. He was offered from $2 to $2.50 per box for the apples in the orchard, which would net him at that price $2400 per acre for his entire apple crop. He refused the offer, however, and the apples will be packed and shipped East, where they are expected to bring the top market price for choice fruit.

Many other orchards in Douglas County will have a crop of apples that will compare favorably in quality with those grown by Mr. Smith. Most of them will be shipped East, in the hope of getting a higher price for them than if they were sold to apple-buying houses at this place.

The prune harvest is well along and drying will shortly be finished. The quality and quantity of the crop is as first reported, about the average, but buyers are complaining of the way the fruit is being dried in most instances, claiming it is not being dried hard enough.

The two packing-houses of Roseburg are running to their full capacity and have all the fruit that they can handle. The R. L. French Fruit Co., of Myrtle Creek, is also crowding its driers and packing-houses to their fullest capacity and expects to ship a car a day for the remainder of the season. Among the company's recent shipments have been three cars to Ontario, Canada.

AFFLICTS WHOLE FAMILY

Diphtheria Causes School Opening at Gold Beach to Be Put Off.

GOLD BEACH, Or., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—School, which should have been opened here two weeks ago, has been postponed on account of diphtheria. The first case was a little son of W. A. Bishel, proprietor of the Bishel Hotel, and since then the entire family has been afflicted with the disease. With the exception of the first case the disease has been in a light form, however, and so far no cases outside of the one family have developed.
