

WHOLE REGALS SHOT AT GITEAU

Man Who Tried to Avenge Garfield's Death Kills His Employee.

SHOTS WITH SHOTGUN

"Bill Jones, the Avenger," Puts Charge of Shot Into John A. McPherson—Wife and Servant Are Held as Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Noted for having attempted to avenge the death of President Garfield by shooting at Giteau, the assassin, William Jones, a farmer, locally known as "Bill Jones," the avenger, tonight shot and killed John A. McPherson, of Detroit, at Bates farm, near Brookland, on the outskirts of this city.

The weapon used was a shotgun and McPherson's breast was riddled with bullets. An unloaded rifle was found lying beside the body. The shotgun was found on the porch of Jones' house. Jones was arrested shortly after the killing and brought to this city and lodged in jail.

Shot in Self-Defense, He Says.

Jones admitted to Coroner Hewitt that he shot McPherson, but declared that he acted in self-defense. The police have learned, it is said, that the two men had quarreled over the possession of a horse.

McPherson, who was 29 years old, had been working on Jones' farm since he was discharged from the United States Marine Corps, on June 24 last.

Several days following upon President Garfield's death, Giteau was taken to court for a preliminary hearing, and it was while he was being returned to jail under charge of District Marshal Fort that Jones attempted to shoot him. Jones was riding a spirited horse. He followed the prisoner from the courthouse to within several blocks of the jail, when he suddenly spurred his horse, darted through the crowd, drew a revolver and fired into the prison van.

Fired Shot at Giteau.

Giteau, who was sitting near the door, caught a glimpse of Jones as he drew the weapon and dodged. The bullet sped over his head and lodged in the side of the wagon. Jones, believing he had killed Giteau, dug the spurs into his horse's side and escaped arrest at that time. He was captured shortly afterward in Fredericksburg, Va. Jones was tried and acquitted.

Those who remember him at that time describe him as a dazed sort of man and constantly in fear of being taken into public notice. Jones, in later years, has been regarded by his neighbors as a good, law-abiding citizen, and the police record fails to disclose anything against him.

Hold Aged Wife as Witness.

Mrs. Jones, the wife of the confessed slayer of Giteau, and Elizabeth Willard, a servant in the Jones family, were arrested late tonight at a neighboring farmhouse, where they had fled after their husband's escape. Mrs. Jones is 75 years old. The two women are being detained as witnesses.

BALLOON FALLS 4000 FEET

The great sign of relief went up among the crowd who threw their hats in the air for joy. The other balloons were sent up after a brief delay, without further accident.

Holland Forbes, who appeared to be very little the worse for his experience, except that he was suffering somewhat from the shock, gave the standard press a thrilling account of the accident.

Throw Out Sandbags.

"We had some difficulty," he said, "in getting away, but once we left the ground everything seemed to be right. We mounted almost perpendicularly to an altitude of 4000 feet. As I looked at the receding instruments, I saw that the altitude, I heard a peculiar swish and said to Post: 'That sounds dangerous.' Immediately I saw that the envelope was rapidly sinking and that the appendix clear of the basket and the ropes and, drawing my jackknife, cut the ropes that were attached to the basket and sand hanging around the basket.

"Post, in the meantime, threw over everything portable. We could see, however, that we were falling into a ravine. Some of the electric articles, later, when the descent of the balloon was checked, we observed one bag of sand fall into a ravine, but, fortunately, the sand failed to pierce, but, fortunately, the nurse snatched out the baby and saved its life.

Envelope Forms Parachute.

"Both of us sprang up and held onto the ring above, hoping in this way to avoid the crash. Then above us could be seen the envelope, which was falling. We continued to fall with terrific speed until a sort of parachute had been formed and then we knew that unless a rescue was effected we were probably would be saved from death.

"Our speed did not decrease as much as we should have had and we were wings and hands around the net and reached the tops of the high houses in the streets, which increased the danger. We passed over one roof, almost touching it and still holding on to the ring. We avoided the next block but finally struck the Mansard roof of a house in the block adjoining the net and envelope fell from the opposite side. The basket crashed against the tiles and went partly through into an occupied room. The man in the room was terrified but recovered himself and assisted us to the roof, down through the skylight and to the street below, where the crowd cheered us and shook our hands. Neither Post nor myself was seriously hurt. I had cramps of the body, but otherwise I am all right.

Saved by Great Height.

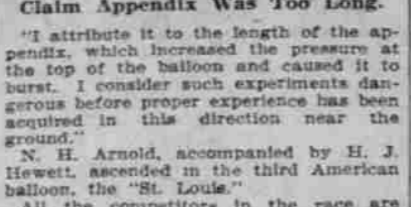

"I could very with vexation after coming so far to take part in the race and then to be knocked out by such an accident. I cannot say how much we were in the cause of the catastrophe, which I will investigate tomorrow. It was our good fortune to be up so high, otherwise the balloon could not have formed itself into a parachute. We owe our deliverance to that occurrence. A remarkable thing was that several bottles of water remained intact, everything else being destroyed."

BRYAN RESTS IN HIS HOME

Candidate Prepares for Westward Journey, Which Begins Tomorrow.

FAIRVIEW, Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 11.—Having spent several active days last week on the stump, W. J. Bryan today departed most of his time to being preparatory to a hard week of campaigning.

AMERICAN AERONAUT WHO BARELY ESCAPED DEATH WHEN BALLOON BURST IN MIDAIR, AND HIS TWO ASSOCIATES IN RACE.

H. ARNOLD

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—(Special.)—A. Holland Forbes and J. C. McCoy, of New York City, and H. Arnold are the three competitors for this country for the James Gordon Bennett cup in the international balloon race, which began in Berlin Saturday. They were nominated for the race by the Aero Club of America, and the requisite fee of $500 each was placed with the German aeronautic organization under the auspices of which the race is held.

Mr. Arnold, of the North Adams Aero Club, is taking the place of Lieutenant Lahm, who was refused permission to race by the War Department, owing to the activity of the Signal Corps in testing flying machines, etc., and represents the Aero Club of St. Louis. Mr. Arnold's balloon is the only American-made balloon in the race. Besides the James Gordon Bennett cup, the winner also gets $250 in cash.

The three best in the St. Louis race all in the Berlin contest. Erbalche pilots the "Berlin," Captain von Abernethy again has charge of the "Dusseldorf," while Le Blanc ascended in a balloon which bore no name. Among the other contestants is Celestino Uesall, representing Italy, who won the Queen Margherita cup for a flight over the Alps.

ing in Nebraska, Colorado and Wyoming. The westward journey will be begun early Tuesday morning.

Speaking of the results of his campaigning so far, the Democratic candidate declared himself as being confident of success. He stated that reports received by him indicate a constantly increasing sentiment toward the Democratic party.

Whitcomb Brougher, solos were rendered by Miss Ethel M. Shea, soloist of the White Temple. The pallbearers were the following engineers of the local department: E. C. Smith, engine No. 1; G. W. Allen, engine No. 2; Charles L. Winters, engine No. 4; Thomas C. Smith, engine No. 7; James Campbell, engine No. 8; E. L. Thompson, engine No. 5. The interment was in the fireman's plot in Lone Fir cemetery. During the service the firebell was tolled. About 100 firemen attended the services and accompanied the cortege on foot for a portion of the distance to the cemetery.

TO MAKE APPEAL TO LANE

Negroes Ask Mayor Not to Allow Production of Play.

A committee of 20 negroes, headed by Rev. E. B. Johnson, will appear before Mayor Lane this morning to demand the suppression of "The Clansman" at the Heilig Theater. Resolutions were passed last night by Mount Olivet Baptist Church, of which Rev. Johnson is pastor, denouncing the play and calling on the city authorities to suppress it. The pastor made a bitter speech, saying "The Clansman" was not only a trouble-breeder in itself, but it was recommended to the city by the Governor Vardaman, of Mississippi, the chief negro-baiter of the South, who opposes the cause of negro education, on the ground that it would split up a united country into a hostile North and South, and again in a civil strife over the negro. Practically the whole adult negro population of Portland was present at the two meetings, and the decision to oppose "The Clansman" before the authorities, and if necessary in the courts was unanimous.

Clarence J. Baker, of the Heilig Theater, takes issue with local negroes who have announced their purpose of picketing the Heilig Theater, and Elizabeth Powell, of "The Clansman," Powell, who is well known on the colored Rialto as "the $100-a-week actor," stated that he is personally acquainted with several of Portland's representative negroes, and he does not believe the better element will lend itself to the boycotting movement. He is in correspondence with the Canadian government relative to the establishment of a colony of negro farmers in the wheat lands of Alberta and the decision to oppose "The Clansman" will be made at the close of this season.

SUSPICION OF DECLINES

Authorities Not Sure Cholera Epidemic in Manila Is Uprooted.

MANILA, Oct. 12.—Five new cases of cholera were reported in this city for the day ending Sunday morning, while three new cases were secured after the first two days of the resumption of the domiciliary visits, the inspectors calling at each house twice during each day.

The entire city was covered during these visits and the results make the health officials very hopeful, although they are inclined to believe that the epidemic is being checked, and the decision to oppose "The Clansman" will be made at the close of this season.

WHITE HOUSE STABLE FIRE

Prompt Action of Keeper Saves President's Best Horses.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Fire of unknown origin was discovered in the loft of the White House stables this morning, causing $15 damage.

But for the prompt work of the stable-keeper and his assistant, the building, in which are housed several of the President's thoroughbreds, would have been destroyed.

The cost of the fire has been greatly reduced by the Holman Undertaking Company.

Heretofore it has been the custom of funeral directors to make charges for all incidentals connected with a funeral. The Edward Holman Undertaking Company, the leading funeral directors of Portland, have departed from that custom. When casket is furnished by us we make no extra charges for embalming, hearses to cemetery, outside box or any services that may be required of us, except clothing, casket and carriage, thus effecting a saving of $25 to $75 on each funeral. RIVALS IN THE STRUGGLE FOR MASTERY IN CANADIAN POLITICS

QUEBEC, Oct. 11.—(Special.)—The dissolution of the 11th Parliament of Canada, with the elections for the new House to take place October 26, finds both the political parties fully prepared for the electoral struggle. While the leader of the opposition, R. L. Borden, K. C., professes to be most sanguine of a successful issue for his party, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, on the other hand, views the matter as only a question of the size of the majority for his government. The Liberty party had a majority of 66 in the last House, and this they admit is somewhat large. There is no important issue between the two parties, both being in accord on the present fiscal policy, and on the principle of protection. There were several more members in the new House than in the last, by reason of the great increase in population in the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

TWO RECORDS SMASHED

Irish-American Club Members Make Fast Time in Hurdles.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Two records were broken today at Celtic Park where the Irish-American Athletic Club held its annual out-door games. Charles J. Mahoney and John J. Eiler, of the Irish-American Athletic Club, not only replaced long standing marks for the 220 and 440-yard high hurdles, but improved the former time in one case by six and two-fifths and the other by eight seconds.

Bacon made the quarter mile event in 1:30.34, the former record, made by Jerry Stachony, at Buffalo, Exposition, was 1:38.35.

Eiler made a successful attempt to replace Jordan's record of 34 seconds in the 220-yard high hurdle, doing the distance in 27.35 seconds.

QUAKERS GO AFTER CANNON

Will Petition House Members Not to Re-elect Him Speaker.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 11.—The yearly meeting of the Friends (Quaker) Church of Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri, and Nebraska, in session here, with 1000 members present, yesterday passed a resolution whereby a petition will be sent to the House of Representatives asking the members not to elect Joseph G. Cannon, Speaker, on account of his attitude toward the temperance question.

This is considered remarkable as Cannon was reared in the Quaker faith.

PERSONAL MENTION.

E. B. Tongue, of Hillsboro, District Attorney, was one of the arrivals at the Imperial yesterday.

E. L. Smith, of Hood River, is in the city investigating types of street pavements for his city.

W. W. Chapin, one of the leading ranchers of California, registered at the Portland yesterday.

Dr. Robert A. Bachman, ship's surgeon of the United States ship St. Louis, is a guest at the Portland.

Two tourists from Holland have arrived at the Portland, H. A. Hilde Nyland, of Dordrecht, and A. Welkes, of Helrecht.

A number of orchardists arrived in Portland yesterday to attend a meeting of horticulturalists of the Pacific Northwest. Registered at the Imperial are E. L. Smith, of Hood River, Judd Geer and E. C. Ries, of Cove.

MOTHER AND BABE CARRIED FROM BURNING HOME.

FIREMEN BADLY BURNED

Scorched by Flames as They Seek to Enter Building With Hose, Blaze Started by Careless Restaurant-Keeper.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Lying helpless in her bed, with her 9-day-old baby in her arms and the flames coming rapidly toward the room in which she lay, Mrs. Anna Schrednova barely escaped death in a fire which destroyed two buildings today, being rescued by Charles Spink and Cornelius Mahoney, both of the Potrero Emergency Hospital, which adjoined the blazing structure.

The men dashed into the burning building and carried the woman and her baby out before the firemen arrived.

During the fight to save the hospital from destruction two firemen were badly burned about the face while forcing their way into the burning building with a hose line.

The fire was started by a restaurant keeper, who endeavored to clean his stove fire with rags soaked in coal oil.

SLAYER IS SPIRITED AWAY

himself in the brush on the river side of the courtyard to await the defendant, who was to crawl through the hole instead of being returned to his cell, then placed in charge of the detective, having the body was anchored in the Columbia and in this the man whose life was craved was to be taken in safety up the river.

DETECTIVE STANDS ON GUARD.

At the moment the jury fled out of the courtroom to deliberate upon the verdict, Levings, who had been standing guard in the brush, found it necessary to change the plan of escape. From his point of observation, although the rain was descending heavily, he saw enough suspicious movements to convince him that Campbell could never be taken out the back door of the Courthouse and reach the hole in the fence alive.

Accordingly the detective made a detour of the building, reached the upper corridor, where he found the defendant's attorney talking with Sheriff Flinders, and changed the plan of procedure.

Before Levings had time to reach his station in the brush, he saw Campbell make a dash for the hole in the fence, and a moment afterwards Campbell was escorted out of the courtroom. Instead of making exit through the rear door, Campbell was taken out of a side entrance, hurried along the high fence which incloses the courtyard and turned over to Levings. Then the race to the river began.

FAILS TO REALIZE DANGER.

Campbell was too amazed at the unusual proceeding to realize his position. He was half dragged, half forced in the flight against death over the rocks and through gullies to the water's edge.

It was midnight when the detective and his charge boarded the gasoline launch and set out to await development before the dawn of day. The launch was piloted by a man named Kalam, after a terrific drive through a pouring rain and against tide. At Kalam's camp and Levings took the 5 o'clock Northern Pacific train for Portland, reaching here at 7 o'clock yesterday morning.

Assured of the safety of their client, Attorney Welsh accompanied Sheriff Flinders back to the courtroom. The crowd indicated its impatience at the restraint that had been placed upon it. There was no suspicion that the supposed prisoner had been spirited away.

It was not until morning that it became generally known that Campbell had fled.

Campbell himself realizes forcibly the dangerous position from which he was extricated.

"I have not the slightest doubt but that I would have been killed had but that I had been allowed to remain in town or even in jail, where I supposed I was going, when I left the courtroom, and I am not a little questioned about the exciting incident at the close of the trial.

"The fact that Judge Griffin approved of the flight up the river shows conclusively how seriously he viewed the situation. Not until I was told during our ride up the river of the vicarious threats made against me, did I come to a full understanding of the matter and the reason for such an unusual and cautious trip in the rain and darkness. I haven't decided yet what I shall do. The bewildering events during the past 48 hours haven't allowed me to think much of the future. I am tired and worn out and in all probability will take a trip some where along the Coast to rest."

TRIAL COSTS COUNTY $10,000.

Campbell expressed his regret that Dan J. Malarkey, who defended him, is on the verge of prostration. His account of the local attorney and Attorney Welsh made in his behalf. The prosecution of Campbell has been a heavy one, more than $10,000 and necessitated the taking of testimony from nearly 100 witnesses.

Representing the state in the course of the trial were County Attorney Snelling, Judge Thomas O'Day and Judge Bloomfield, of Portland. McClelland's friends raised a fund of $25 to secure special counsel. Appearing for the defense were Attorneys Dan J. Malarkey, of Portland; Senator John T. Welsh and Martin Welsh, of South Bend, Wash., and John C. McCue, of Astoria. In addition, both sides to the bitter trial secured the services of Portland detectives.

STORY OF MCCLELLAND'S DEATH

Victim and Slayer Factional Leaders in Remote District.

CATHLAMET, Wash., Oct. 11.—(Special.)—The trial of Michael Campbell for the murder of John McClelland began Wednesday morning and closed shortly before midnight last night. It has been fought relentlessly and bitterly by both the prosecution and defense, and the jury rendered a sensational verdict which practically the entire population in both Wauklakum and Pacific Counties. Friends of years' standing have become enemies, families quarreled and animosities aroused that will require years to overcome.

Indeed, it is declared by officials that the matter is a question of the size of the majority for his government. The Liberty party had a majority of 66 in the last House, and this they admit is somewhat large. There is no important issue between the two parties, both being in accord on the present fiscal policy, and on the principle of protection. There were several more members in the new House than in the last, by reason of the great increase in population in the Provinces of Saskatchewan and Alberta.
