CRIME NOT LOCAL DISEASE, HE SAYS

Dr. Barrows Believes Driving Sin-Besotted Away Is Shirking Duty.

WORK MUST BE GRADUAL

Not in Shifting Criminals From City to City, but by Genuine Reform Measures, He Says, May Correction Be Assured.

Through the maintenance of the highest possible standard of living, a more thorough education of both boys and girls and an unrelenting restriction of the channels of vice, Dr. Samuel J. Barrows, secretary of the Prison Commission of New York and president of the International Prison Congress, sees the gradual solution of the moral and criminal problems at present facing Portland as well as other cities.

"Crime cannot be treated as a local matter," he declared yesterday. "This is particularly true of the moral evil, not alone in Portland, but in New York, Chicago and other cities throughout the Union which have struggled diligently to either reform or banish their criminal classes and society's outcasts. Shifting the trouble from one shoulder to another does not cure it."

Dr. Barrows is a guest at the home of Dr. T. L. Eliot. Today and tomorrow he will speak at the State Conference of Charities and Correction. During his several addresses, in addition to urging the general adoption of the probation system of reform in vogue in New York, Dr. Barrows will draw from his wide experiences in Europe, where he has studied the criminal classes extensively.

Dr. Barrows was asked his opinion regarding the present moral wave which Mayor Lane has instituted in Portland, and what he considered the solution or probable outcome of closing the restricted district. In answer he compared conditions here with those he had come in contact with in other parts of the country, particularly New York City, where, in connection with his prison commission work, he has had to deal with every phase of the moral problem.

"It is necessary that I should speak with some diffidence regarding Portland and the conditions here," he said. "I am not at all familiar with them and in consequence cannot sit as a judge. But this much is certain: Reform work in all its different ramifications must avoid shifting the problem.

"I came here from Seattle and Tacoma. In the former place they told me they got rid of their tramps by ordering them out of town. At Tacoma they told me the same thing. Here is the result. Seattle tramps, as soon as ordered from that city, hasten to Tacoma. The Tacoma tramps, as soon as they receive orders, get to Seattle as quickly as possible. The result? Why, it is simply an interchange of vagabonds from one city to another, or until they get tired of the game and seek other sections of the country. Both cities are refusing to deal with the problem individually, they are instead trying to shift it and the general result is chaotic.

"In New York we have found that placing the women of the underworld on probation is nothing more than a farce owing to corruption in police circles. The midnight missions are accomplishing their work, as are other reformatory societies. We who have dealt with the moral problem in New York have never hit upon a panacea for the evil. But we are sure of this much: That the disease must be treated just the same as tuberculosis or smallpox by checking it in the beginning. Broader education in early life is one of the requisites. Next, enforcing the same moral standard for both men and women, and lastly, by placing still greater restrictions upon the evil itself. It is not a local matter, but a state and National problem, and in time these methods will work out their purpose."

During his address tonight Dr. Barrows will speak on the probation work in New York City with a view of general adoption here and in other sections.

"It is our practice in New York," he explained, "to make a thorough investigation of the causes leading up to the crime committed by a first offender. In a large number of instances we find extenuating circumstances, about 20 per cent, and these are recommended for probation. The result has been that 90 per cent of those put on probation have made good and reformed.

"For instance, if the probationer has stolen a sum of money, he is given a chance to pay it back. The results have been extremely gratifying and instead of sending young men and old ones, too, to prison, where they would develop into criminals, we have made of them good and useful citizens."

The conference which Dr. Barrows is attending opened last night at the First Congregational Church. The programme for tomorrow is as follows:

9:30 A. M.—Business session; address, by the president, Dr. T. L. Eliot.

10 A. M.—"Charity and Relief Work," by Mrs. B. H. Trumbull, of the Associated Charities; discussion opened by E. J. Carr, secretary of the Multnomah County Board of Relief.

11 A. M.—"Settlement Work," by Mrs. S. M. Blumauer.

2 P. M.—Children, dependent and delinquent. "What We Are Doing in the Juvenile Court," C. U. Gantenbein, Judge of Multnomah County Juvenile Court; "Co-Operation with Child-Saving Institutions," John Teuscher, Jr., chief probation officer; discussion, "How Cases of Abuse Are Prosecuted in Outside Counties," by W. T. Gardner, superintendent Boys' and Girls' Aid Society.

8 P. M.—Short opening address by Governor George E. Chamberlain; "Prisons and Reformatories," by Dr. Samuel J. Barrows.

MR. BRYAN AND LABOR

Writer Says Judge Taft Is Wage-Earners' Best Friend.

PORTLAND, Oct. 11.—(To the Editor.)—Judge Taft and the Republican party have never concealed the fact that the fate of our country depends upon intelligent labor, wisely treated.

Mr. Bryan has by every act shown that his hopes of the Presidency were based on securing the labor vote. The majority of voters belong to the laboring class, and no party has dared to ignore them. Yet no man has so exhausted his wits in the effort to secure them as has Mr. Bryan. His campaign of 1896 called for genius. President Cleveland had been the only Democrat elected since 1860 to fill that high office. Mr. Cleveland's term had the misfortune of meeting the panic of 1893. Mr. Bryan not only had to face the Republican party, but he denounced Mr. Cleveland, not only in the latter's financial policy, but he detected a way to bid for favor in the South and at the same time bid for the support of labor unions.

With one bold stroke Mr. Bryan reached out for the states which were, by subterfuge, disfranchising a large part of the labor vote, and in which the remainder of the laborers was largely Republican, and with the same stroke planned to gain favor with the labor unions of the North. Mr. Cleveland had called out the troops and put down the Haymarket riots in Chicago, thus stopping the rule of a desperate mob.

Mr. Bryan seized upon that event to decry against government by injunction, and to declaim in favor of state's rights, asserting that President Cleveland had trespassed on the rights of Governor Altgeld, of Illinois, although the riot menaced the lives of the traveling public, and the movement of interstate commerce, and stopped the United States mail.

Having thus shown his "genius" in 1896, Mr. Bryan now attacks Judge Taft and the Republican party for not giving to striking labor unions the possession and control of the property of their employer, thus enabling the union to compel employers to suspend business so long as union men may choose to hold employers in their grasp.

As an example, take the attack about nine months ago on the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, yet fresh in the minds of the people. It will be recalled that a band of employes decided to strike on account of certain demands that they made of the company being declined. The men chose a Saturday evening on which to strike, abandoning the cars on the tracks. By inciting friends to hoot, jeer and blockade the way, while pickets were to take an active hand in stopping men from serving the company, it was supposed that the company would be unable to cope with the strikers. As is well known, the strikers had no right to the cars and use of the cars except for the faithful service of the company. All other attempts to block or interfere with the movement of the cars, either directly or through sympathizers, was trespassing and unlawful. Those who planned the strike meant to do unlawful acts in a way calculated to injure the company, but in a manner that the company might be helpless to remedy.

Mr. Bryan's inti-injunction plank is meant to catch the votes of such men as tried to injure the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, and such men are consistent in supporting him. These men take the dangerous ground that the union claims are just, and that the end justifies the means.

DR. SAMUEL J. BARROWS, OF NEW YORK.

President of International Prison Congress Talks on Reform.

The prices and excesses forced on San Francisco by unions demonstrate the wisdom of refusing to give unbridled rein to unions or any other class of men. The law of supply and demand, of agreement and the leveling tendency of competition, has stood the test better than any departure that sets aside the codes growing out of the ten commandments. Nature supplies diversity with harmony; as the trees of the forest are different, so men differ in physical traits and in mental make-up, no two being alike. Unequals multiplied by equals produce unequals, and if our laws treat all as equals, the fact that we are not equals compels the products to differ greatly.

Mr. Bryan twits the Republican party with being the enemy of labor, because its policies have taken thousands from the laboring class and put them in the capitalist class; because it has been the policy of the Republican party to encourage the use of capital in manufacture, at a profit, so that more factories sprang up and more labor was demanded, and by competition labor unions became possible. Mr. Bryan charges that the friend of capital is the enemy of labor. If enabling men to prosper and hire laborers is an offense, then the "G. O. P." is guilty.

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Gompers take capital to task in this fashion: "Employers, you must pay better wages. You must submit to union rule. Allow your mills and railways to lie idle in the hands of strikers so long as they refuse to work and demand more than you are willing to pay. During such time anyone willing to work shall be called 'a scab,' is a proper subject to be shot, and your property shall be under the control of union pickets."

Such is Mr. Bryan's demand for labor and he promises laborers such laws to get their votes, but is to deliver the goods after election. Mr. Bryan has the right to make such promise, but a capitalist has no right to suggest that he should prefer to close his mills and save his money rather than operate under Mr. Bryan's proposed laws. A candid opinion of Mr. Bryan's plan is designed to intimidate voters. True, Mr. Bryan in his speeches says that the people shall rule. Mr. Bryan is the true friend to labor, for he permits no laborer to become a capitalist, and will Haskellize him at any time that he shows symptoms of immodesty.

Is anyone deceived by Mr. Bryan's play? Mr. Bryan accuses Mr. Taft of having the support of corporations in the North. The Southern vote is so surely Mr. Bryan's that he is not fighting for it.

Industrially and socially, the votes for Mr. Bryan in the South are the same as the support of Mr. Taft in the North, and no one knows better than Mr. Bryan that the Senators and Congressmen of the South would rule a Democratic Congress, and that they would not supply the laws Mr. Gompers demands.

The Republican Senate is not the only excuse for Mr. Bryan to fall back on for not keeping his promise to labor, and so certain is he of it that his cry "let the people rule" would save his responsibility, except that in so far as he controls the Army he could stand back and permit free riot under existing laws. In case of a great railway strike he could indefinitely allow the United States mail to be blocked and the output of farm and factory to be tied up.

Differing, as Mr. Bryan does, with the United States Senate on questions of tariff, revision of the latter would lay over four years. If labor is so eager to read Mr. Bryan's messages for four years, without any sign or prospect of the principles named in them being carried out, labor must vote for him—that is a sacred right.

WANTED TO KNOW

The Truth About Grape-Nuts Food.

It doesn't matter so much what you hear about a thing, it's what you know that counts. And correct knowledge is most likely to come from personal experience.

"About a year ago," writes a N. Y. man, "I was bothered by indigestion, especially during the forenoon. I tried several remedies without any permanent improvement.

"My breakfast usually consisted of oatmeal, steak or chops, bread, coffee and some fruit.

"Hearing so much about Grape-Nuts, I concluded to give it a trial and find out if all I had heard of it was true.

"So I began with Grape-Nuts and cream, 2 soft boiled eggs, toast, a cup of Postum and some fruit. Before the end of the first week I was rid of the acidity of the stomach and felt much relieved.

"By the end of the second week all traces of indigestion had disappeared and I was in first-rate health once more. Before beginning this course of diet, I never had any appetite for lunch, but now I can enjoy a hearty meal at noon time." "There's a Reason."
