WINDUP IN NEW YORK IN BLAZE

All Parties to Close Their Campaign in Empire State With Massing of Forces.

GALAXY OF BIG SPEAKERS

President Roosevelt to Be on Job If Things Get Warm Enough—All Presidential Candidates to Be There—Indications of Vote.

BY LLOYD F. LONERGAN.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—(Special.)—New York is to provide the firing line for the windup of the campaign.

Democratic Chairman Mack has admitted that Bryan cannot be elected without the vote of the Empire State. Republican Chairman Hitchcock agrees with Mack, but is inclined to believe that Taft will not need the 39 votes, although they will be welcome.

The star spellbinders of both parties will be brought on from the West and South and turned loose upon the New York voter. The lists furnished by both Mack and Hitchcock suggest that the last word is to be spoken here.

"And if things get warm enough President Roosevelt will be on the job," said one member of the National committee today.

Not counting the President the Republicans will have the services of such performers as Candidates Taft and Sherman, Elihu Root, Vice-President Fairbanks, United States Senators Beveridge and Borah, a dozen eloquent members of Congress, Governor Hughes, his running mate, State Senator White, and 200 or 300 minor spellbinders.

The Democratic orators will include William Jennings Bryan, Mr. Kern, John Sharp Williams, Senator Culberson, Senator Gore and a dozen other members of Congress.

The Independence party will also devote a good deal of attention to the Empire State. In the closing days of the campaign its advocates here will include William R. Hearst with some fresh Standard Oil exposes, Candidates Hisgen and Graves, Lawyer Clarence Shearn, who publicly says he will be elected Governor, various local celebrities and a host of labor union men.

The "flying wedge" idea is being played to the limit by the Leaguers this year and there are as many different "wedges" as "devil" companies floating about the United States. In the last days of the fight half a dozen different "wedge" organizations will concentrate here and proceed to whoop it up in the Empire State.

The Republicans are mightily pleased by recent developments in New York. They believe that Taft will get the electoral votes and that there is no longer doubt as to the success of the state ticket.

When the nominations were first made, the Democrats delivered a hot fire on Governor Hughes because of his "bigotry." The claim was freely made that the party, if successful, would repeal the anti-race track gambling law, which Hughes had placed on the statute books.

Recently, however, the big men in the party have seen a great light. As Chairman Conners says, "We are not the race-track party."

"As a matter of fact," declares the genial state chairman, "the people of New York, as a whole, don't care about the race tracks. There may be some interest in the prohibition of race track betting in Buffalo, New York and Brooklyn, but the up-state counties do not care about it at all. We will not make any issue of that subject. Why should we?"

When asked the direct question, "If the Democratic party is successful, will the Hughes bill be repealed?" he replied:

"Naw! We have never given that matter any consideration. It will not be touched."

The truth of the matter is that Conners and Murphy have heard some unpleasant news from up-state. They were informed with all due emphasis that the "race-track issue" was helping Hughes and hurting Chanler, and that the best thing to do would be to drop it.

"You cannot successfully attack a man because he stands for a moral idea," said ex-Deputy Attorney General Bulger, who has made a careful tour of inspection through various rural countries. "Roast Hughes for what he has failed to do, but do not call him names because he has put the Indian sign on the gamblers."

And much to the sorrow of the "Personal Liberty League," an organization started here by race track men, the advice of Bulger was accepted. From which it seems safe to assume that the so-called "principal issue" against Hughes will not figure in the campaign.

The organization leaders who fought the Governor before and at the Republican convnion, have all dropped into line. William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, the bitterest one of the lot, did not delay in extending an olive branch of peace. At a largely attended meeting in his home town, Mr. Barnes introduced the Governor to the audience, and personally pleaded for "harmony and a vote for the straight ticket."

Ex-Governor Benjamin B. O'Dell, Jr., regarded as one of the shrewdest politicians in the state, believes the tide is setting against the Democracy. In conversation with a friend the other day, Mr. Odell remarked that the Republicans are on the aggressive, and that practically all traces of factional discord have disappeared.

"Because of the way the nominations were passed around nearly every big county leader has an interest in the success of the ticket," he says: "Of course they will vote the ticket straight. It is good politics even if they do not like Hughes.

"The claim of the Bryan men that they will carry the state has hurt rather than helped him. There are a good many Democrats, who would hate to see Bryan elected, but they had publicly decided to support the candidate from a desire to be regular. But if they are convinced that Bryan has a chance, you will see some lively jumping."

Mr. Odell would not give out any figures as to the possible result, but here is some "dope" supplied by a friend who is regarded as one of his intimates.

Taft's plurality, 125,000; Hughes, 40,000; remainder of Republican state ticket, 75,000. Republican majority in both houses of the Legislature.

The majority of the Republican leaders believe that Hughes will run far behind his associates. Some of them are convinced that he will be defeated. On the other hand there are a number of astute individuals who are convinced that Hughes will lead Taft in the polls.

It is a mixed-up condition of affairs and pretty hard to figure out. Here is the way one newspaper man looks at it.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The barometer continues to rise over the North Pacific states and a new high-pressure area has made its appearance near the Oregon and north California coasts. The barometer is relatively low over the interior of Northern California and a pronounced low pressure area is central in the Missouri Valley.

Local rains have occurred at scattered places in the North Pacific states, but they were light at all reported stations. Low temperatures continue everywhere on the Pacific Slope.

FORECASTS.

Portland and vicinity—Generally fair weather with rising temperatures; Westerly winds.

Oregon and Washington—Generally fair, with rising temperatures; westerly winds.

Idaho—Generally fair, with rising temperatures.

It takes but 30 minutes to ride from the corner of 4th and Stark streets to the station. When you get off the train at the station you are right where the land lies. The outlook from any portion of Pleasant View Farm is beautiful. It will make you an ideal Summer home, or you can make a good living on it, as the soil is unexcelled.

If you know anything about the country surrounding Portland, you know Pleasant View Farm, and that it is the most attractive piece of land in the beautiful West Side Valley. If you don't know, let us show you. It's only four miles from the center of Portland.
