CITY HUNTERS IN TROUBLE

POLICE AFTER MEN WHO USE FIREARMS IN SUBURBS.

Numerous Complaints Stir Special Squad Into Activity and S. Seller Is Arrested on Heights.

Pheasant and quail hunting in the limits of the City of Portland is the latest form of disturbance with which the peace guardians are forced to cope. So many complaints of such disturbances have been sent to police headquarters in recent weeks that Captain Bailey yesterday detailed a sergeant and a command of four patrolmen to apprehend the urban hunters.

One arrest resulted from their day of strenuous efforts, and S. Seller will appear in the Municipal Court this morning to answer a charge of discharging firearms in the city limits. As a matter of fact, according to the officers, Seller was shooting quail, or rather, shooting at quail, near the City Park when arrested.

Seller was armed with a rifle and considered the hills and timbered slopes near the City Park an excellent place to hunt quail and pheasant. He apparently went there early in the morning to begin his shooting, for it was only 9 o'clock when he was interrupted by Officer Inskip and taken to headquarters, where he was released on bail. He had flushed many birds, according to the officer, who based his opinion on the number of shots fired, but his marksmanship was decidedly amateurish.

In order to apprehend some of the city hunters, Captain Bailey ordered the detail of officers into the suburbs at 5 o'clock yesterday morning. They went on duty at that hour, but after patrolling many of the suburbs where hunting is said to have been most common, they succeeded in arresting only Seller.

"Reports have come to the station for several weeks," said Captain Bailey, "of the boys and young men hunting pheasants and quail inside the city limits. From these reports I judge that they shoot promiscuously at most any object that attracts their attention. How they have managed to avoid injuring or wounding some one is more than I can explain. Many of these boys and young men hunt systematically in the city. They arm themselves with rifles or shotguns and travel through the suburbs either on horseback or on rigs. Residents of those districts have made numerous complaints and we are certainly doing all we can to catch some of these sports."

SAYS COAST NEEDS TAFT

L. D. MAHONE SPEAKS TO VOTERS OF MONTAVILLA.

Commends Candidate as Warm Friend of Labor and Man of Wide Experience.

In his address Saturday night in Warren's Hall in Montavilla, L. D. Mahone, member of the Legislature from this county, pointed out that the Republican party had been the only party which had every legislated for the benefit of the laboring man. Mr. Mahone said that in every Republican state there were laws passed for the protection of the laboring man, while on the other hand in Democratic states no such laws could be found.

Mr. Mahone then said that Mr. Taft was the greatest genuine friend that labor had, and gave a review of his career, from the time he was made Governor of the Philippine Islands. The speaker declared that Mr. Taft was the best equipped public man of the century to deal with the problems that confront the country. He was absolutely fearless in the discharge of all the duties falling upon him, said the speaker, and these had been of vast importance. He had been a safe judge and a patriotic citizen. Mr. Mahone then compared him with Mr. Bryan, who, he declared, had shifted his opinions on every question that he had ever advocated, from free coinage of silver to Government ownership of railroads, never holding to any opinion longer than four years, and seizing upon some new fad every campaign. Passing on, Mr. Mahone disapproved the Democratic proposition of guaranteeing bank deposits, which, he said, was simply a premium on dishonesty and placing the burden on the honest banker of taking care of the dishonest banker. Mr. Mahone demonstrated that the Democratic policy regarding injunctions, if enforced, would deprive the ordinary citizen of the protection of his life, property and freedom. "The Pacific Coast," declared Mr. Mahone, "needs Mr. Taft, for he knows the needs of this part of the country better than any man. He is known in Japan and China. He knows how to handle the intricate problems that are sure to come up with these countries, for on the Pacific Coast there will be great commercial progress, and on the Pacific Ocean is to be fought out the greatest commercial battle of the age."

IF YOU should step up gently to every friend you met in the day and ask him confidentially what is his favorite piece of meat, let me assure you that nine out of ten will whisper, "A fine juicy beefsteak." I don't believe there has ever been a man born who didn't relish beefsteak—that is, the right kind of beefsteak, such as Smith sells. At any of Smith's markets you can buy a tenderloin steak or a sirloin steak at 10c per pound. Or if you want the cream of the beef, buy a small tender, sweet porterhouse steak at 12 1/2c per pound.

And the glories of prime roast beef! Smith sells it for 10c per pound. Don't you know when the Chicago packers gave a banquet this past week it was the baron of beef that took the front rank and was carried in with honor by waiters costumed in old English livery. They didn't say anything about turkey or chicken or goose—the big attention went to the prime rib roast beef, such as Smith sells, remember, at 10c per pound.

What are you doing to give honor to Oregon pig pork these days? You can't find anything to overreach its goodness. Join the many thousands of Portland folks who eat Smith's pig pork sausage at 12 1/2c per pound every day. Or you can have the most delicious pork roasts you ever ate at 10c and 12 1/2c, and pork chops, awfully tasty, at 12 1/2c and 15c. The country-fattened, milk fed veal, absolutely fresh, that Smith sells at 6c to 10c, can't be equalled at another market in town. And Smith's Oregon lambs and prime fattened mutton grace the tables of all the big caterers for banquets.

Fish at Smith's is the town talk. It's so fresh, so different from what you have been picking up at other places. We have tons of it arriving on every boat from the Columbia River. You can get salmon fresh from the stream, 3 pounds for 25c. At Smith's take your pick from several different brands of creamery butter, full weight, 66c per square. Ranch eggs at Smith's, 50c per dozen.
