HOLD-UP MAY BE CLEW TO MURDER

Thugs Accosted St. John Boy and Woman Night Butterworth Was Slain.

MOTIVE ONE OF ROBBERY

Despite Mysterious Circumstances, Police Declare Highwaymen Killed Jeweler After Struggle. Suspects Are Both Young.

MASONS INCREASE REWARD.

At a special meeting of Dorie Lodge, No. 132, of the Masonic order, a reward of $500 was offered for the apprehension of the murderer or murderers of Harry T. Butterworth. Mr. Butterworth was treasurer of Dorie Lodge. The City of St. John has already offered a reward of $250, making a total of $750, which will likely be increased.

Following clews that may aid in unraveling the mystery connected with the foul slaying of Harry T. Butterworth at St. John, Sheriff Stevens has discovered evidence which leads to the belief that the murder was one of a series of crimes that occurred in the river town Tuesday night.

Yesterday's investigation disclosed the fact that John Hayes, a small boy, was held up and searched by two men at St. John an hour and a half before the jeweler was slain. The deed was done by two men, detailed descriptions of whom are given by the boy, and it is believed that the highwaymen may be responsible for the murder of Butterworth.

Attempt to Rob Woman.

The investigation also disclosed the fact that an effort was made by a man, resembling closely one of the men who held up the Hayes boy, to rob Mrs. Mary Adams, who resides a mile and a half north of St. John. Mrs. Adams had received a large amount of money Tuesday, and in a brilliantly lighted room was counting it at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night. She was suddenly startled to hear the stealthy footsteps of some one outside the window, the curtains of which were not closed.

Almost immediately Mrs. Adams heard some one fall, and, rushing to the window, ran almost face to face into a man who had evidently stumbled in trying to gain entrance. He retreated precipitately into the darkness and she awoke her husband and sons. The light for a moment was thrown full upon the intruder's face, and Mrs. Adams caught a clear glance of his features. In many ways her description of him tallies with the description of one of the men who held up Hayes.

No Positive Evidence Found.

Other incidental clews were discovered which may prove to be links in the chain of circumstances the officers are building in the hope of solving the mystery. Aside from the description of the two men, as given by the Hayes boy, and the one man, by Mrs. Adams, however, there is little evidence upon which the officers may hope to succeed, for positive or definite information is absolutely wanting.

Chief of Police Black, of St. John, with his force, is working on the case in conjunction with Sheriff Stevens. They have slept little since the murder of Butterworth, having worked ceaselessly in running down various clews and rumors. They were greatly discouraged until they learned late in the afternoon of the hold-up of the boy and the attempted robbery of the Adams residence. It is said these two incidents may have an important bearing on the investigation.

Scout Theory of Suicide.

Theories of self-destruction by the jeweler, if such were entertained, have been completely abandoned as a result of the investigation. With the elimination of the theory of suicide, the officers are confining their efforts to the discovery of a motive. That of robbery is generally accepted, and the investigation up to this time has disclosed nothing pointing to another motive.

Though many evidences of a struggle were discovered, there are so many mysterious circumstances in connection with the crime that the officers are baffled. Indicating that Butterworth was waylaid by highwaymen and assaulted, the officers point to the fact that his hat was found outside the fence separating his own yard from the vacant lot adjoining. From this lot a flight of steps leads to the yard. It was in falling down these steps that Butterworth aroused the members of his household.

Perhaps 25 feet from the steps, toward the house, his umbrella was found. And scattered about the yard were several small coins, pennies, nickels and dimes. The finding of these, the officers declare, indicates that the struggle continued over the lawn. However, in the dead man's pockets were found more than a dollar in small change, and only a few moments elapsed between the time the women inside the house heard the noise of the fall and the time they rushed to Butterworth's aid. When they opened the door, he was the only person in sight, though they had a fairly good view of the lawn, the adjoining lot and the streets.

Body Free From Scratches.

Another circumstance the officers are unable to explain is the absence of either scratches, abrasions or bruises on the dead man's hands or face. The finger from which his valuable diamond ring is supposed to have been removed is uninjured, though Chief Black, in explaining that circumstance, declares that Butterworth had frequently told him that he always put the ring in his pocket while going from the store to his home after dark. On the other hand, it is contended, that if there was so terrific a struggle as the officers believe occurred, the dead man's hands would show that he had defended himself.

Although search of Butterworth's safe was made yesterday the missing ring was not found. It had been suggested that he might have left it there. He never owned a revolver, according to his wife.

"I figure that one, or perhaps two, highwaymen learned that Butterworth kept a valuable ring on him and lay in wait for him near his home," said one of the officers. "When they ordered 'Hands up!' he refused to obey and put up a fight. It must have been a desperate fight and Butterworth must have been getting the best of it, for a hold-up man never fires until it is necessary for him to do so."

John Hayes, a 12-year-old boy who carries newspapers in St. John, gave the officers a good description of his assailants. He lives near the edge of the river and in going up town must cross a vacant lot near the City Hall. It was shortly after 7 o'clock Tuesday night when he started to cross the lot and noticed two men approaching. He tried to pass them by leaving the path, but the men separated and forced him to pass between them. As they passed the men seized him, one ordering him not to make an outcry. He obeyed and the men hastily searched him. They went through his coat and trousers' pockets, but failed to look in his hip pocket, where he had 50 cents.

Thugs Were Both Young.

The men, the boy said, were young, one being apparently 20 years of age, and the other not more than 18. One of the men, the shorter, wore a light-colored overcoat, and the other had several weeks' growth of beard. One of the men was armed, for, as he pressed the boy close to him while the other went through his pockets, the boy felt the weapon in a scabbard.

J. H. Hinman, who conducts the Chicago rooming-house in St. John, declares that one or two men, tramps he thought them to be, ate a hurried meal on his steps between 8 and 9 o'clock Tuesday night. He secured a fairly good description of one of them and it also tallies with that given by the boy and Mrs. Adams.

Butterworth has for weeks entertained a premonition that he might be killed in a hold-up, according to an agent for a local insurance company. Only last week he voluntarily suggested to the agent that he would take $5000 of insurance on January 1, declaring he had reason to believe that an attempt might be made to hold him up. In fact he said at that time he had been badly frightened twice on recent occasions. He carried no insurance at the time of his death.

Conducted Hotel at Gearhart.

Two Summers ago Butterworth conducted the hotel at Gearhart Park. He leased it from Theodore Kruse, after having conducted Locksley Hall the previous season. He was well known by Kruse, Dan Moore and other hotel men of the Pacific Northwest.

Several years ago Butterworth was employed in the State of New York as a dining-car conductor, and more recently had conducted tourists' excursions in the West. He and his wife appeared frequently in public entertainments, for both possessed splendid voices.

Funeral arrangements over his remains have not been completed, but will be under the auspices of the Masonic order, of which he was a member. He was also a member of the order of Elks.

The City Council of St. John has offered a reward of $250 for the apprehension of the murderer and the sum will be increased.

DE GOGORZA'S BIG SUCCESS

Eminent Baritone Singing This Season in Better Voice Than Ever.

Gogorza, the baritone who made such a fine impression here with Eames and again in recital two years ago, will present another splendid programme at the Heilig theater on Thursday evening, October 29. He comes under the direction of Louis Steers-Wynn Coman, and while this is not a subscription concert, it has aroused as much attention and interest as did the opening concert of the season.

Gogorza has just sung in Salt Lake and one of its critics wrote of his work "he has been heard here before but never to better advantage nor in a programme of such variety and scope. His voice, as flexible as a tenor's is powerful, and responds wonderfully to the requirements of his dramatic selections. His group of Spanish songs was a revelation to his hearers and almost brought the entire house to its feet in enthusiastic encores." Gogorza sings here at the Heilig on October 29.

TO SPEAK ON IMPROVEMENT

Herbert W. Sawyer Will Discuss Some Legal Aspects.

"The Legal Aspects of Street Improvements" is the subject of a lecture to be delivered by Herbert W. Sawyer in the convention hall of the Commercial Club tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The subject is one that is believed to be of more than ordinary interest to realty men, builders, property-owners, and in fact to the public generally, so that the Portland Realty Board urges a large attendance.

Mr. Sawyer has given the subject a great deal of thought and study both since coming to this city and during his residence in New York. The lecture was to have been delivered some weeks ago, but a suitable date could not be fixed on account of political meetings and other counter attractions.

Exploits Lincoln County.

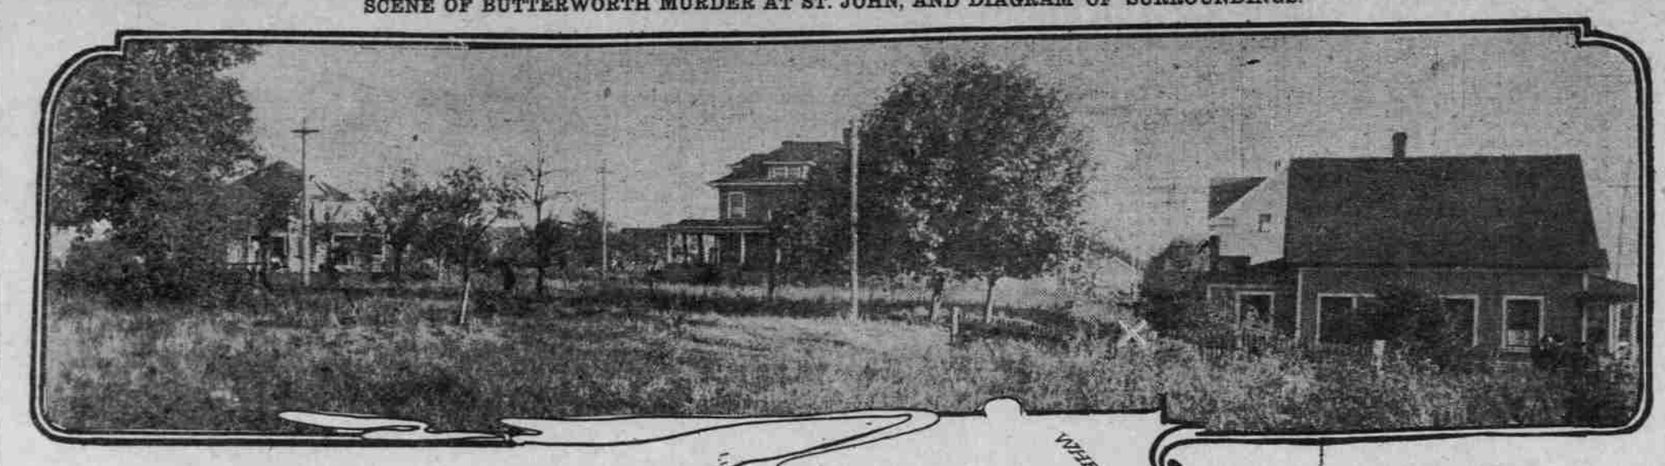
Lincoln County, Or., is exploited in a handsomely illustrated book recently issued by the united commercial clubs of Newport, Toledo, Elk City and Walport. The book, containing 36 pages of descriptive matter of this section of the state, is particularly instructive and interesting on account of the fine collection of half-tone illustrations with which it is embellished. After giving a historical sketch of the county as a whole, the book treats of the several towns and cities in particular. The book is for free distribution and will be furnished to any one interested in obtaining correct information concerning this Coast country.

At the end of 1907 the eight deposits of five Paris credit banks amounted to 3,424,000,000 francs, and those of the Bank of France to 489,000,000 francs. Such deposits are made exclusively in specie or banknotes or in checks or drafts to be cashed by the banks.

SCENE OF BUTTERWORTH MURDER AT ST. JOHN, AND DIAGRAM OF SURROUNDINGS.



Accompanying is a view of the scene of the Butterworth murder at St. John, and a diagram of the surroundings. The picture shows the rear of the Butterworth residence, the X indicating the place where the encounter between the highwaymen and their victim is supposed to have occurred. There is a flight of steps leading from the elevated vacant lot to his yard. Eluding his assailants he attempted to reach the house, and in doing so fell down these steps. It was the noise of the fall that aroused the family. Butterworth's hat was found outside the fence; his umbrella inside the yard, and the small coins were scattered about promiscuously.

TALKS ON HEALING

Physician Indorses Emmanuel Movement in Churches.

DR. WETHERBEE SPEAKER

Others Also Address Congregational Convention and Reports Show Progress of Denomination's Work Throughout Oregon.

In his fine address yesterday morning before the State Congregational Association in Hassalo-street Chrch, on "The Emmanuel Movement from a Physician's or Scientific Standpoint," Dr. J. R. Wetherbee, after giving a review of the progress of medical science, declared that, "this simply brings me up to the point where I can begin to agree with those who have been working along the line that all abnormal conditions are purely mental; that a large class of diseases that men suffer from are not based on organic pathological conditions and are called functional, traceable to the condition of the nervous system, which can be cured without resort to drugs or surgery.

"These are the diseases," said the speaker, "which have been cured by suggestive therapeutics, mental science, mental cures, Christian Science and allied methods of treatment." Dr. Wetherbee declared there is value in all these methods, but they are yet in a chaotic condition and must be studied carefully. He said that the conditions are not new, but were known 2000 years ago in the time of Plato and Socrates. Taking up the subject, Dr. Wetherbee said:

Mind's Influence on Disease.

"These conditions of the nervous system, which I have spoken of as functional have a close relation with every mental effort, and upon the condition of the mind depends the permanence or cure of the conditions. To give you an example of a case that would come under this head and be amenable to mental treatment—you know that worry, fretting and over-anxiety have a powerful effect on the body; almost any of you know from experience that fear will so upset the one that the functions of the body will act abnormally, anxiety over an examination will make the kidneys over active. Many instances of this kind have come to my notice.

"These cases show what a wonderful field there is along this line, and again how great a skill must be used to tell whether a case belongs to this class, or whether it belongs to some organic cause, and is not amenable to mental treatment at all. You would do the case a great injury to waste time in psychic treatment when medical or surgical procedure should be used. This shows that this is a complex subject and requires great skill in diagnosis.

"Now right here is where so many of our friends fail who treat all these cases alike. Organic diseases that are proven to be such are not amenable to this mental treatment in toto, yet happy thoughts help in any case. S. Weir Mitchel, who used these methods for many years in neurotic cases says: 'there is no scientific record of any case of organic disease having been cured by any form of influence exerted through the mind of the patient.' One of the most powerful of these influences is for many a simply religious faith, which teaches trust and belief, and strengthens the will to do what is morally and mentally wholesome.

Need Knowledge of Psychology.

"These nervous sufferers with their insomnia, their shifting pains, their hallucinations, their manias, depressions and harmful exaltations, their intense irritability, their moral perversions, morbid feelings, bad habits, are the despair of the ordinary physician till he enlarges his sphere of culture and is able to treat the whole man. The time is ripe when the knowledge of physchology is as necessary as a knowledge of anatomy in the healing art. In the majority of patients it is necessary to eradicate powerful habits, to supply motives, to supplant intense egotism by new and real interest in others, to hew out new paths for the brain and sometimes create or recreate a new will."

The address included an exhaustive review of the Emmanuel Movement started in 1906 in the Emmanuel Church of Boston. The speaker held out that there is a vast and most inviting field of investigation in the movement from a physician's standpoint and did not hesitate to say that the medical profession must recognize the value of these methods. The address commanded close attention.

Reports from the Congregational churches in the state show growth. In Portland, the Hassalo-street Church, where the convention is being held has spent more than $7000 in improvement. The Sunnyside Church will start on a $25,000 edifice the first of the year. The Mississippi-avenue Church has started on a $10,000 building. Membership generally has increased all over the state.

Dr. Dyott on Socialism.

"Dynamics of Congregationalism" was the title of a paper read by Rev. W. B. Pinkerton, setting forth the advanced place Congregationalism has taken in Christian education. Rev. C. F. Clapp, of Forest Grove, in the afternoon spoke on "Evangelistic Methods," and Rev. Luther R. Dyott, of the Portland First Church, spoke on "Socialism from a Minister's Standpoint." In the evening Rev. E. P. Hughes delivered the associational sermon and there was music by the Rose City Quartet.

Tonight the Pacific University will be in charge and President W. N. Ferrin will preside. There will be special music by the students of the Pacific University and a solo by Mrs. F. T. Chapman, head of the vocal department. An address, "Christian Education in Social Life," will be delivered by B. S. Huntington. The programme for today follows:

BUSINESS AWAITS ELECTION

HERMAN WITTENBERG FINDS IT DULL IN EAST.

He Says Election of Bryan Would Mean Delay in Return of Prosperity.

"Pending the outcome of the Presidential election next month, there exists a general stagnation of business throughout the East," said Herman Wittenberg, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company and promoter of the United Railways Company, yesterday on his return from a business trip to Chicago, New York and other Eastern cities. "Business conditions throughout the East have recovered considerably from the financial disturbance of a year ago and will soon assume a normal state. Many of the mills, particularly the steel mills, have resumed operations and a general feeling of prosperous conditions exists throughout the East. If Taft is elected, there will be continued improvement along all lines. Should he be defeated, the effect is hard to forecast. While the business interests of the East generally expect that he will be successful, still they are waiting for a decision of the election before launching out extensively in projected enterprises."

Mr. Wittenberg attended the Deep Waterway Congress at Chicago as a delegate from this state and afterwards extended his visit to New York, where he attended the annual meeting of the directors of the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company.

"Great interest was shown at the Chicago convention," said Mr. Wittenberg yesterday, "and a resolution was adopted asking the Government to appropriate $50,000,000 to develop the rivers and harbors of the country. Another resolution was adopted by the Congress indorsing the proposed issue by the State of Illinois of $20,000,000 of bonds with which to improve the Mississippi River from Lockport to Utica. I also attended the banquet given under the auspices of the Congress when Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan, the Presidential nominees, attended, each making an address. A good impression on the members of the Congress was created by both of the nominees.

"One of the best addresses delivered before the Congress was that of Theodore P. Shontz, president of the Chicago & Alton Railroad, a Harriman property, who assured the gathering that all of the companies with which he is associated favored the improvement of all waterways.

"Party leaders are confident that New York is Republican so far as Taft is concerned but there is a general feeling that Chanler will defeat Hughes for Governor. But at that time, 10 days ago, Hughes had just begun his campaign and it has since developed that the up-state voters are strongly for him. The sporting element and the disgruntled politicians, of course, are against Hughes but a hope prevails that any shortage in Hughes' vote in New York City may be overcome by the up-state vote.

"While the Republican vote in Ohio will probably be reduced, the state is generally considered safe for Taft. Indiana, especially the northern part of the state, is a great manufacturing district, and for that reason the Hoosiers feel confident that Taft will carry the state. In Illinois there is a serious local fight between Yates and Deneen but it is not believed by Republicans who are advised of the general situation that local differences will be permitted materially to reduce the normal Republican majority for the National ticket.

"Throughout the East there exists a general feeling that the Pacific Coast States will go for Bryan. When I met National Chairman Hitchcock, the first question he asked me was: 'What about the situation in Oregon?' When I told him that Oregon would record a plurality of at least 20,000 for Taft, he was much encouraged. I also told him that Taft undoubtedly would carry the States of Washington and California by much larger pluralities."

TO ARREST STRAUS

Government Officials Will Probably Act Today.

CHARGE IS EMBEZZLEMENT

Bookkeeper in Cashier's Department of Postoffice Says Shortage Is Due to Mistakes in Books Because of Failing Eyesight.

Charles A. Straus, bookkeeper in the cashier's department of the local postoffice was not arrested yesterday afternoon, as was reported. No information was filed against Straus, although it is known that Assistant United States Attorney Walter H. Evans, acting upon the information furnished him by the postoffice inspectors, will undoubtedly file a complaint against Straus this morning, charging him with appropriation of postal funds. Local postal inspectors have been busy for some time investigating the shortage credited to Straus. They completed their investigation yesterday, and it is said that they have discovered sufficient evidence to warrant them in having Straus placed under arrest.

Straus, up to April last, had been employed in the cashier's department of the postoffice for eight years, but the discrepancy in his accounts was not discovered until he had been forced to take a sick leave. Straus is well known socially and politically, and when informed that his accounts were in bad shape, said the shortage was due to mistakes in his books, caused by his failing eyesight. He was confident that as soon as he could get back to work on his books he could clear up the discrepancies. The Government officials gave Straus several months in which to make good, but he has failed to do so. Things were allowed to drift along until recently the story of Straus' alleged peculations became a subject of widespread gossip and at last action has been taken by the Federal authorities.

It was rumored yesterday that Straus had confessed to his shortage, a thing which all along he has contended was a fault in the bookkeeping. This was denied by Assistant United States Attorney Evans and Postal Inspector O. C. Riches. Attorney Evans admitted that he was at work on the complaint, but refused to state when the information would be filed before the United States Commissioner and a warrant asked for.

Like all Government employes, Straus is under a $7000 bond furnished direct to the Government. The bond was placed with the Fidelity Company, through Hartman & Thompson, local bankers. The bankers were notified some months ago that there was something wrong with Straus' accounts, but the company took no action and probably will not, now that the Government is about to do so.

"I am not prepared to make a statement at this time," said Mr. Straus last night when told it was understood the Federal authorities were about to issue a complaint against him, "and all I want my friends to do is to still hold their confidence in me. When the proper time comes I will talk, and then the truth of my assertions will be known."

Straus has not as yet engaged an attorney, and, now that the Government is about to cause his arrest, there is reason to believe that he will anticipate the serving of the warrant by appearing this morning with a bondsman.

BREAK UP LOOTING GANG

Systematic Railroad Robbery Found by Arrest of Station Agent.

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—The arrest of George W. Walker, former agent at Adrian, Wash., for the Great Northern Railway Company, charged with having stolen goods in his possession, according to railroad agents working on the case, will lead to the arrest of several other employes, including at least two conductors, and the destruction of "fences" at present reaping a rich harvest both in Seattle and other small towns.

Spokane, Tacoma, Seattle and nearly all the small stations in the state are said to be rendezvous for a gang of railroad robbers who communicate and carry on their trade. Walker, the agents say, is only one of a gang that for the last two years has carried on a crusade of wholesale looting against the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads.

May Have Free Delivery.

GRANTS PASS, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—This city may soon have free delivery of mail. An inspector of city routes arrived here this week from Spokane. He was taken over the city by Postmaster Donnell and inspected the numbering of the houses and the manner of indicating the street, all of which were found to meet with the Government's requirements. The books of the office were also checked up, showing that the present income was entirely sufficient to sustain the asked-for delivery.
