EACH PARTY ENDS CAMPAIGN TODAY

Republicans to Have Big Smoker, Democrats Three Meetings in Country.

BOTH TO HEAR RETURNS

Wires Will Be Run to Headquarters and Republicans Will Flash Results on Screen—Will Publish Statements of Contributions.

With three Democratic meetings and a Republican smoker, the Presidential campaign in Multnomah County will be closed tonight. The campaign has been waged by both parties in this county and state with more than ordinary aggressiveness and the opposing political forces are now awaiting the verdict of the voters at the polls. Oregon is claimed by the Republicans by a plurality of at least 20,000, while the Democratic forces insist that Taft's plurality will not exceed 5000, with a possible chance that Bryan may be successful in the state.

Extensive arrangements have been made by the Democrats for their big concluding rally at the Armory tonight when the speakers will be John M. Gearin, ex-United States Senator, and E. S. J. McAllister, one of the party's nominees for Presidential elector. Mayor Lane will preside as chairman of the meeting and County Chairman George H. Thomas has invited all of the Democratic judges and clerks of the election to take seats on the platform.

Will Hold Two Other Meetings.

Mr. Gearin is known as one of the most able Democratic speakers in the Pacific Northwest, and his party associates are depending on an immense audience at tonight's rally. Two other meetings will be held in the county tonight under the auspices of the Democratic forces, at Bridal Veil and West Portland.

While the audience is assembling at the Armory tonight, the voters will be entertained by a number of Bryan's canned speeches. This will be the first time during the campaign that a Portland audience will have had an opportunity to hear campaign argument produced mechanically.

The Republicans will close the campaign tonight with a smoker under the auspices of the Union Republican Club, in the Selling-Hirsch building. Judge S. A. Lowell, of Pendleton, and Judge Lionel R. Webster, of this city, will be the speakers. John Gill, president of the club, will be chairman of the meeting.

Both Parties to Get Returns.

On election night complete returns will be received from the Western Union Telegraph Company at the headquarters of both parties. Monday an instrument will be installed in both the Republican and the Democratic headquarters, with an operator in charge of each instrument. Returns will be received from all sections of the country and the Republicans have arranged to flash bulletins on a canvas which will be suspended on Third street, opposite headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building.

John B. Ryan, secretary of the Democratic State Central Committee, said yesterday that today he would complete a detailed statement of all contributions to the Democratic campaign fund in this state, together with a report of all expenditures. Secretary Ryan proposes to have this report published before the day of election. Under the corrupt practices act, each party is required to file a sworn statement of its campaign contributions and disbursements with the Secretary of State, but it is the intention of Secretary Ryan to publish the report before forwarding it to Salem. Secretary C. N. McArthur, of the Republican organization, also intends to publish a statement of the receipts and disbursements of that party during the campaign.

PLAN TO CELEBRATE VICTORY

Major Kennedy Arranges for Taft Ratification Meeting.

Satisfied that the election of Taft next Tuesday is assured, Major J. P. Kennedy, chairman of the Multnomah County Republican Central Committee, yesterday took the initial step towards arranging for a monster ratification which will be held in this city next Saturday night. The place for holding the meeting and other details will be announced early next week.

Major Kennedy yesterday appointed a committee from among the members of the County Central Committee to confer with other committees from the different Republican organizations of the county and complete the arrangements for the ratification. The committee consists of C. E. Lockwood, E. L. Shaffer and Charles Conroy.

Eichenlaub in Recital at the Heilig

BY JOSEPH M. QUENTIN.

VIOLIN and voice numbers made up the programme at an interesting recital given last night at the Heilig Theater, by Frank G. Eichenlaub, violinist. Mr. Eichenlaub had the assistance of Mrs. Rose Coursen Reed, contralto, and George Hotchkiss Street, baritone; Miss Beatrice C. M. Hidden being the efficient accompanist.

It isn't so very long ago that Mr. Eichenlaub, who has since become a teacher and solo violinist in this city, gave a recital to mark his arrival from Germany, where he studied with the best violin masters of Europe. Last night, he made a most satisfactory appearance and showed decided progress in his art by playing from memory a long and difficult programme. There is an ease in his bowing, breadth in technique and a depth to tone that stamps him as a talented player of the king of instruments.

The Corelli-Leonard "La Folia" is a most curious study of light and shade, with an unlooked for finish. Saint Saens' "Le Cygne" and Bohm's "Capriccio" got delicate renderings with muted strings, while the other supporting numbers were Drdla's "Fonsdal" and Florillo's "In Memoriam." These were kindly received. Mr. Eichenlaub's encore being a musical reading of the paraphrase "Evening Star" from "Tannhauser." The last violin selection was St. Lubin's grand fantasie on the great sextette motif from Donizetti's "Lucia," and in response to an encore Mr. Eichenlaub skillfully played the G-string aria by Bach.

Mrs. Reed sang three numbers in soft effect, Ponchelli's "Blind Girl's Song," Pierne's "Serenade" and Sans Souci's "Thoughts." Each received a fine, sympathetic rendition, and for an insistent encore Mrs. Reed sang "Love Is a Rose," also by Sans Souci.

Mr. Street's baritone voice was heard to excellent advantage. I remember him four years ago as a "kid" baritone, just coming out as a soloist, and he has worked so diligently in the interval that it is now worth the journey to hear him sing so artistically. His tone is open and sonorous, he sings from memory, and he has mastered the blending of his registers so well, that there is no perceptible break. His voice also sounds well and is eminently suited for dramatic work. Mr. Street sang a number from Thomas' "Mignon," and Tour's "Mother o' Mine." He invested this latter selection with the terrible weirdness meant by the composer, by emphasizing the lines "Though I were dammed in body and soul," by working the leading motif up to a finale and making the last note fortissimo. This is as it should be.

Friends Help Anderson Win His Bet

Baseball Fans Come to Rescue of "Doc" in His Straw Vote Across From Democratic Camp.

"DOC" ANDERSON is jingling a new $20 gold piece in his pocket this morning and the piece of Uncle Sam's legal tender once belonged to Ed Schiller. Anderson won his bet because Schiller had wagered that a straw vote taken at the corner of Sixth and Washington streets would go two to one for Taft. When the ballots were counted Bryan was several hundred in the lead and "Doc" can thank his admiring friends for winning the wager. The count of ballots showed: Taft, 898; Bryan, 1296; Debs, 34; Hisgen, 1; Chafin, 12. Total, 2241.

A lot of people took the straw vote seriously and from 8 o'clock in the morning until "Doc" closed his polls at 6 o'clock, the corner was crowded. However, the one place that the straw vote was taken seriously was at the Democratic headquarters just across the street. There, as soon as Anderson opened up, the Democrats got into action. No ten telephones in the city were as busy as the one at headquarters, and the order was sent out, "Go and vote for Bryan."

All this helped swell the Bryan vote and added to this were baseball fans who knew "Doc" Anderson and who voted just to job the genial German. It was a huge joke to these Republicans and they passed the word along, only the slogan was different. It was, "Go and vote for Bryan and help Anderson win his bet."

TODAY IS BABY HOME DAY.

Several hundred good women, girls and boys will devote this day to "tagging" Portland in the interests of the Baby Home. Let Portland's answer to the appeal be prompt, cheerful and generous.
