DEFENSE GETS HARD JOLT

Prosecutor Stimson Springs Surprise on Defendant Regarding Loan of $125,000 Made to Morse's Secretary.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—For more than six hours today C. W. Morse sat in the witness chair in the criminal branch of the United States Circuit Court endeavoring to defend the financial operations in connection with the National Bank of North America which resulted in the indictment of Morse and Alfred H. Curtis on charges of conspiracy and violation of the National banking laws. All went smoothly during the morning session, but late in the day, when United States District Attorney Stimson took up the cross-examination for the Government, sharp, accusing questions were put to the financier.

Mr. Stimson sprang a surprise on Morse when he took up the loan of more than $125,000 made to Miss Katherine A. Wilson, Morse's secretary. The financier had testified that the loan had been made in his behalf and that the Leslie Whiting loans were also his. Then, Mr. Morse still in the witness chair, Mr. Stimson read a letter addressed to the Comptroller of the Currency, W. B. Ridgely, and signed by Morse and other directors of the New Amsterdam Bank, calling attention to the excessive loans made by the bank and especially mentioned the one to Miss Wilson.

Denial by Morse.
Mr. Stimson asked Mr. Morse again if he had understood that the Wilson loan was made in his behalf and Mr.
Morse replied that the loan was his.
Mr. Stimson then read another letter, this one being from Mr. Ridgely to the president of the New Amsterdam Bank. It called attention to the excessive loans made by the bank and especially mentioned the one to Miss Wilson.

It was this letter from the Comptroller that called forth the one signed by Morse and the other New Amsterdam Bank directors, declaring Morse was not directly interested in the Wilson loan.

The Heineke loan of $212,000 was entered into briefly, Morse explaining that the loan was made on supposedly good collateral. Curtis refused to make this loan and Morse afterward put it through.

LADY'S LIMIT IS RAISED

MRS. GOULD'S CHAMPAGNE CA-PACITY SOARS HIGHER.

Day Ago It Was One Pint, Now It Is One Cocktail, One Pint Wine and Two Cordials.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Testimony calculated to upset the contention of Howard Gould that his wife, Catherine Clemmons Gould, on frequent occasions drank to excess and conducted herself in an unseemly manner, was offered today by Elizabeth W. Sells and his daughter, Marjorie, in connection with Mr. Gould's suit for divorce. Sells and his daughter, who are distantly related to Mrs. Gould, gave their testimony before a referee before whom the case comes to trial, they being about to leave for Europe.

Mr. Sells said he had frequently visited Mrs. Gould, and she had also been a guest at his home. He had never seen her under the influence of liquor, nor had he ever seen her act otherwise than in a ladylike way. Mrs. Gould never drank more than one cocktail, a single pint of wine and two cordials at dinner, he said. He had heard that Mr. Gould charged that during the month of June, Mrs. Gould was drunk and helpless at Castle Gould, he said, while as a matter of fact, she was at his home at North Castle, driving horses and tandem and leading an outdoor life. He said he believed Mrs. Gould was a grievously wretched woman, and he wanted to do all in his power to aid her and put her right before the public.

Miss Marjorie Sells told of frequent visits to Mrs. Gould and her home, including one to the home of Thomas W. Lawson, in Massachusetts, and said she never saw Mrs. Gould under the influence of liquor, before her uncharitable language or not other than as a woman should.

Miss Sells said the return trip from Boston after the visit to Mr. Lawson's home, was made by automobile. They stopped at Hartford, where Dustin Far-num, the actor, was playing. She said her maid went to see the play but Mrs.
Gould stayed at home. She told of a visit later to Philadelphia while Far-num was playing there and of several meetings between Farnum and Mrs.
Gould. Always, she said, there was some other person present at the time of these meetings. On one occasion, she and Mrs. Gould, Miss Shackford, Miss Eleanor Robson and Mr. Farnum were taken to Atlantic City on Sunday while Farnum was playing in Philadelphia.

Miss Sells said she next met Farnum in Washington, that same Fall. She was there with Mrs. Gould and Far-num lunched with them the day they got there. After the performance that night they had supper with Farnum.
Miss Sells said she and Mrs. Gould occupied adjoining rooms that night.

When Mr. Nicol began his cross-examination, Miss Sells developed a bad memory on details. However, she remembered that when she and Mrs.
Gould met Farnum in Hartford, Mrs.
Gould had luncheon with him alone, while the witness took a drive around the town.
