TALK OF FRUIT MARKETS

This much of the programme was given out by Professor E. R. Lake, of the Oregon State Board of Horticulture, yesterday afternoon.
Three days will be given up to the discussion of the commercial aspect of horticulture, said Professor Lake. "The topics will relate to the packing, shipping and marketing of fruit, and to the development of outside markets, such as the Orient. We have talked too much of improvement of stock alone. In the past, and now is the time to talk of improvement and also of the commercial side. Science will get its share of attention, but business methods will be spoken about."
"No one will be able to say a word against the fruit grown in this country. We shall have the finest exhibit of Winter apples and pears ever seen in the Northwest, and we shall also have some of the best lecturers ever heard at a convention of horticulturists. We

BUSINESS TOPICS CHOSEN BY HORTICULTURISTS.

Convention Promises to Be Well Attended and Fine Exhibit Will Be Provided.
As a change from the programme they have been following for years, the horticulturists of the Pacific Northwest and British Columbia will discuss the commercial value of and the possible markets for their product at their con-

BRYAN MONEY IS SCARCE

BETTING ON PRESENT ELECTION REMARKABLY LIGHT.
Estimated Less Than $10,000 Put Up, Breaking All Records for Presidential Campaign.
Unless a sudden flood of Bryan money is unloaded on the betting market today, the Presidential election of 1908 in Portland will stalk into history as the one Presidential election on which less than $10,000 was wagered. At the various cigar ### stores that have for years been the headquarters of election wagers there has been mighty little doing and all because there is absolutely no Bryan money in sight. From the beginning of the campaign up until last night, the betting places have handled less than $6000 and with the exception of one bet of $2000 on Taft, there have been no big bets.

other places. Of course many individual bets have been made, both of money and of hats and suits of cloths, but all told, there has been wagered less money on this campaign than any other perhaps ever held in the city since it became a place of size and importance.

What little money has been wagered so far has mostly been placed on the Taft majority in the state. Three weeks ago a number of small bets were made 15,000 to 20,000. In fact practically every bet of any size has been wagered on the vote in the state. Frank Richardson, of the Perkins Hotel, yesterday made what he called a freak bet. Mr. Richardson is a staunch Taft man and wagered $10 against $90 that Oregon would give Taft a 30,000 majority. "I expect to lose my $10," said Mr. Richardson, "but I fully expect Taft to carry the state by over 30,000 and more."

Just how many freak bets have been made is not known and will not be until after the election. There will be some usual crank who will trundle some one around the town in a wheelbarrow, another who will let his beard grow for a year and still another who will stand hitched all day to a mule.
