SET FACES AGAINST EVIL

Remarkable Thanksgiving Proclamation Dwells on Growth of National Wealth and Commercial Character-Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—The President issued yesterday the annual Thanksgiving proclamation, setting apart Thursday, November 26, as "a day of thanksgiving and prayer."

"Year by year," declares the proclamation, "this Nation grows in strength and worldly power. During the century and a quarter that has elapsed since our entry into the circle of independent peoples we have grown and prospered in material things to a degree never known before and not now known in any other country. The 13 colonies which struggled along the seacoast of the Atlantic and were hemmed in but a few miles west of the Indian-haunted wilderness have been transformed into the mightiest Republic which the world has ever seen. Its domain stretches across the continent from one to the other of the great, deepest oceans and it exercises dominion alike in the Arctic and the tropic realms. The growth in wealth and population has surpassed even the growth in territory. Nowhere else in the world is the average of individual comfort and material well-being as high as in our fortunate land."

"For the very reason that in material well-being we have thus advanced, we owe to the Almighty to show equal progress in moral and spiritual things. With a Nation, as with the individuals who make up a nation, material well-being is an indispensable foundation. But the foundation avails nothing by itself. That life is wasted and worse than wasted which is spent in piling heap on heap, those things which mind later merely to the pleasure of the body and to the power that rests only on wealth."

"Upon material well-being as a foundation must be raised the structure of the lofty life of the spirit, if this Nation is properly to fulfill its great mission and accomplish all we so ardently hope and desire. The things of the body are good; the things of the soul, far in the Nation, as in the individual, in the long run it is character that counts."

DAVIS WINS PAPER CHASE

HUNT CLUB RIDERS GO OVER SPLENDID COURSE.

William Walters Takes Second in Race in Which More Than 20 Members Participate.

W. M. Davis, riding J. H. Bennett, won the first closed paper chase of the Hunt Club's cross-country season Saturday afternoon. The paper was laid over a course fully six miles long and over a country that gave the 24 odd riders a splendid ride. The trail was admirably well chosen by Mrs. F. G. Buffum and Miss Anna Shogren. The horses had to jump nicely, one of the best being a long jump that not only tested the nerve of the riders, but the horses as well.

The start was made just beyond the Irvington Tennis Club courts and the finish was a three-quarter mile stretch on the Sandy road. Over the route, Buffum and Miss Shogren placed a number of tantalizing blinds and several of them were so placed as to mystify the riders. This, together with just enough brush work, made the ride a very pleasant one. In the absence of E. T. Chase, the master of hounds, James Nicol officiated. He had the big field of riders well bunched when he signaled that the finish was near.

The trail led out of the brush into the Sandy road, but as an extra hazard, the riders had to avoid a lot of wire which litters the road. Mrs. Nicol warned the riders of this. When the whistle was blown, Mrs. W. L. Wood, on Snap, Mr. Davis and several other riders were well bunched. Mr. Davis' horse had the foot of the party that was close to him and he finished first with ease. Close up was William Walters, on Frank, who, in spite of the fact that the big jumper blind, passed Mrs. Wood, Ray Dare, who was ridden through his first paper chase by Will G. MacRae, finished fourth and would have been closer up had he been within striking distance at the red paper.

WAIT FOR REFORM SESSION

Labor Leaders Expect No Remedial Laws This Season.

ployment legislation during the present season. "We are content to wait," says Ramsey Macdonald, "for the promised social reform session of next year." With the exception of the old-age pension act, all the measures of the year have now gone through the ordeal of facing the House of Lords. The Licensing bill, the dear coal bill, the education bill and various other Ministerial treasures are now about to arrive at the beautiful brass gates over which there might well be blazoned a solemn warning to had young bills in a hurry. "Abandon hope all ye who enter here." There are three things that their lordships do. They often pass good bills; they often kill bad ones; sometimes they pass a bad bill. They have passed great liberal measures with which they did not altogether agree when they have seen with their far-reaching gaze that the bill was likely to be so largely inoperative as to do nobody any very great harm. It looks as though the Liberal government's most cherished darling, the small holding act of 1907, was allowed by Lord Lansdowne to survive the Glided Chamber for this season. Thus the parliamentary week which has been now now and Christmas are likely to be full of drama. Perhaps a little farce, a touch or two of comedy, and ever so much tragedy.

MORSE EVIDENCE IN

Ruined Banker's Case Will Go to Jury Monday.

MORSE EXPLAINS LETTER

Admits Signing It, but Ignorant It Contained Denial of Connection With Wilson Loan—Book-keeper Contradicts Curtis.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1.—Both prosecution and defense in the trial of C. W. Morse and A. H. Curtis, charged with violating the Federal banking laws, rested their case early this afternoon, and court adjourned until Monday, when concluding arguments will be made. This should place the case in the jury's hands by Monday night.

District Attorney Stimson abandoned today his announced plan to continue the cross-examination of Morse. Instead he announced that he had no other questions to ask and the witness was turned over to counsel for the defense.

When Morse's attention was called by his counsel to the letter signed by himself and other directors of the National Bank of North America, declaring that Morse had no interest in the K. A. Wilson loan, which was mentioned yesterday, Morse said that although he had signed the letter, he did not know that it contained that particular paragraph. The letter, he believed none of them would have signed it. Certainly he would not, he declared. Mr. Morse said he believed the letter was dictated by Cashier Wire. In answer to further questions he said he knew the guarantees he had given Curtis were not legal, he nevertheless considered himself morally responsible for the loans.

This concluded the examination of Morse.

Charles F. Kellogg, an expert accountant, testified that he had examined the books of the National Bank of North America, and that between June 2 and July 2, 1908, at the time it was claimed the directors jointly owed the bank $125,000. Morse did not owe the bank a dollar. On the 25th, however, Morse put in a loan, and in a very short time Mr. Kellogg's tracing of the loans of Morse footed up an aggregate of $275,000.

RAISE FUND FOR CHILDREN

Lord Mayor to Head Movement to Alleviate Poverty Sufferings.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(Spl.)—The local authorities in London present in their determination to raise the funds needed to feed necessitous school children in the coming winter by voluntary means, instead of through the rates, are today launching the 2-year-old legislation of the Labor Party. Nearly $50,000 will be required, which is about $80,000 more than last year, when an excess of the amount of unemployment was less, and the pinch of poverty was not felt so soon. But even in London $50,000 cannot be raised by magic. It will "take a lot of getting," and so the Lord Mayor has put himself at the head of the movement. A meeting has been called, to be held in the Mansion House shortly when representatives will attend from the County Council, which led the way 12 months ago in the policy of refusing to burden the rates with the provision of meals from the Borough Councils, and from all the agencies which have given voluntary assistance in the schools in the past. Little doubt is felt as to the success of the appeal which will be sent out from the conference.

The articles were returned to the police station, which has the appearance of a bazaar. The accused include several conductors.
