PORTLAND DAY AT FAIR Depot to Be Dedicated During Albany's Apple Show Next Week. ALBANY, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—The big double storeroom on the ground floor of the new Elks building, which will soon be occupied by Chambers & McCune, has been selected as the place for holding the big Apple Fair next week. The room will be completed in time for the fair, which opens November 10. The management of the fair has found it necessary to make November 10 "Portland day," instead of November 11, as originally planned. The new Union Depot is to be dedicated on Portland day, as Southern Pacific officials found it impossible to be here on November 11, but could come one day earlier. New entries are constantly being received for the Apple Fair, and it is now certain that several Willamette Valley counties will contest for prizes. From present indications, there will be strong competition, both for the county and individual prizes, and the display will probably be a splendid one. Preparations for an excellent programme are also proceeding nicely. Professor Peck, chief florist of the Oregon Agricultural College, will conduct a public flower school at the fair, and Professor Cole, of the same institution, will give a daily apple-packing demonstration. There will be a number of addresses by leading horticulturists and educators, as well as by men prominent in Oregon's public life.

ON TRIAL FOR LIFE Matt Jancigaj, Defendant at Oregon City. KILLED HIS SWEETHEART Slav Who Murdered 16-Year-Old Girl Must Combat Strong Evidence at Present Term of Court. OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—Not in many years has there been such a large number of unusually interesting cases on the docket for the regular term of Circuit Court in Clackamas County. The November term will open tomorrow, and from the venire of 31 jurors, the grand jury will be selected. The first murder trial in four years will be heard at this term. Matt Jancigaj is charged with the murder of Mary Smrekar, a 15-year-old girl, who was killed by the Slavonian at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smrekar, last July. Jancigaj was in-fatigued with the girl, who spurned his advances. Going to her home at midnight, Jancigaj climbed a ladder and gained entrance to her room, and there shot her to death. The murderer fled, and though the officers searched for him all night, he found a refuge at the home of a countryman only four blocks from the scene of his crime. The next morning he gave himself up to the police. The evidence against him is so conclusive that there is little question of his conviction. August Erickson, whose former connection with a North End resort at Portland is well known, and who for the last year has been conducting Clackamas Tavern, will be placed on trial on a charge of selling liquor without a license. The chief witness for the state is Constable Miles, who purchased beer and whisky at the tavern from Erickson himself. Three Indians, Albert and Louise Ferris and Harry Clark, are held in jail to answer to charges of burglary. John Wallace is charged with grand larceny, and P. J. Wilson and Paul Schroeder will be tried for statutory offenses. Two damage cases are exciting particular interest. Those of Mrs. Rose Nehren against Ernest Mathies and George Joggel against the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company. Joggel was employed in the mill and broke his leg there. Claim Incompetence. The injured limb was set by the company's regular surgeon, Dr. Carl, and Joggel has been lame ever since. He claims $10,000 for his injury and $10,000 more for the alleged unskillfulness of the physician. It is stated by Joggel's attorneys, U'Ren & Schuebel, that the officials of the company were well aware that Dr. Carl was incompetent, and there will be offered in evidence a number of X-ray photographs showing the crippled limb of Joggel, and also the limbs of Mayville, Bonner and a number of other men who have been injured at the Willamette Pulp & Paper Company, and whose fractures were reduced by Dr. Carl. It is contended that the company is directly responsible for the acts of its surgeon, Joggel's attorneys asserting that this is the position taken by the Supreme Court of the State of Washington, though this is the first case of this nature to be tried in Oregon. Ernest Mathies, a well-to-do saloon-keeper, is defendant in a suit for $10,000 damages instituted by Mrs. Rose Nehren, who went into the saloon to protest against the sale of liquor to her husband. She charges that Mathies forcibly ejected her from the premises. This case is set for November 5, and the Joggel damage suit will be heard the following day. The trial of Martin begins next Wednesday, November 4, the day after the general election. It was thought at one time that the Government might dismiss the case against Martin, as it has taken similar action in the cases against Messrs. Barber and Moon, on whom the Government attempted to obtain service on the indictments returned by the same grand jury which indicted Martin. Unable to secure the removal of these two defendants from Wisconsin to the Idaho district, the Government, through the Attorney-General's department, ordered the cases dismissed and Messrs. Barber and Moon will not stand trial in this district. Prior to the dismissal of the cases pending against Barber and Moon, Martin had applied to the United States Circuit Court in this district for an immediate trial, and, after a long argument before Judge Dietrich, the court ordered that an adjournment of the Fall session be taken until November 4, on which date the trial of Martin starts. Right of Prompt Trial Upheld. Attorney Peyton Gordon made a strong plea on behalf of the Government before Judge Dietrich, when the argument for setting the date of the trial of Martin was in progress. Mr. Gordon requested that the case be postponed until the Spring term of the court, claiming that the Government was not prepared to take charge of the case, as the special attorneys assigned to the work were busy with Government cases in other districts. The court held that Martin was entitled to an immediate trial, and accordingly set the case for November.

IDAHO CASE IS UP Attorney Frank Martin to Be Tried This Week at Boise. LAND FRAUD IS ALLEGED Prominent Attorney Accused of Conspiracy to Defraud Government by Obtaining Illegal Timber Entries. BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 1.—(Special).—Special United States Assistant Attorneys-General Peyton Gordon and Rush, who will represent the Government with District Attorney Lindenger, of the Idaho district in the trial of Frank Martin, indicted by the Federal grand jury last April, at which time Messrs. Barber, Moon and Palmer were also indicted, has arrived in Boise to take charge of the proceedings. The trial of Martin begins next Wednesday, November 4, the day after the general election. It was thought at one time that the Government might dismiss the case against Martin, as it has taken similar action in the cases against Messrs. Barber and Moon, on whom the Government attempted to obtain service on the indictments returned by the same grand jury which indicted Martin. Hill has telegraphed Spokane Chamber of Commerce that he and his party will accept the invitation extended by the Chamber and spend Wednesday in this city. Mr. Hill will be accompanied by his son Louis W. Hill, president of the Great Northern Railroad and of the National Apple Show, he being en route to the grand opening of the Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railroad into Portland. The Chamber of Commerce is sending out invitations to its members to attend an "after-dinner" midday luncheon Wednesday to meet Mr. Hill and party.

WORTH PREPARING FOR KIDNEYS OR BLADDER All Your Misery is Unnecessary, and Vanishes Before You Realize It. More people succumb each year to some form of kidney trouble than any other cause. The slightest form of kidney derangement often develops into Bright's kidney disease, diabetes or dropsy. When either of these diseases is suspected the sufferer should at once seek the best medical attention possible. Consult only a good, first-class physician. There are many of the lesser symptoms of kidney trouble which can be treated at home as stated by a well-known authority. For some of these, such as backache, pain in the region of the kidneys, weak bladder, frequency (especially at night), painful voiding and other urinary troubles, try the following simple home remedy: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-

5000 GO HOME TO VOTE FEDERAL OFFICES IN WASHINGTON DENUEDED OF CLERKS. Greatest Exodus of Voters Since Campaign of 1896—More Leave Today. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.—Such an exodus as has been taking place in the last four or five days from the National capital of voters entitled to the right of franchise in various states has not been known in any political campaign since that of 1896. A careful canvass of the several executive departments showed up to noon yesterday approximately 3700 voters had already gone to their homes and many hundreds more left Washington last night and today. It is estimated 1500 more will leave for nearby states tonight and tomorrow. President Roosevelt's Secretary and several White House attaches who hold voting residences in Oyster Bay or other places in New York will leave Washington tomorrow night. All members of the cabinet now are in their respective states except Secretary Wright and Secretary McCall. The former failed to register in Tennessee and the latter is confined to his residence by a serious illness. The unusual number of government employees who this year are embracing the opportunity to cast their ballots indicates the intensity of interest taken in Washington in the result of next Tuesday's election. While the Presidency, of course, is the overshadowing issue, thousands are interested keenly in the election, not only so far as the benefit to themselves, but also as to the Republican National ticket. Mr. Cannon expresses the belief that the Republicans will have in the House of the Sixty-first Congress a comfortable working majority. A four-foot coal seam yields 6000 tons an acre.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—The facts recently gathered by the Oregon Railroad Commission regarding the original cost and the estimated cost of reproduction of the lines and equipment of the Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company and the Corvallis & Eastern furnish the basis for some interesting comparisons with the figures shown in the summaries of county assessments filed in the office of the Secretary of State. Railroads and their equipment, according to their showing, are assessed at only one-third of their cost. At the last hearing it was shown that the lines and equipment of the O. R. & N., exclusive of three of its branch lines, cost, down to date, over $25,000,000. With these branch lines figured in the total would be over $35,000,000. According to estimates of the cost of reproducing the lines and equipment, made by the company's engineer, it would cost about $38,000,000 to rebuild the lines and replace the equipment. It would thus appear that the actual value of the material property of the road in Oregon is not less than $33,000,000 and this does not include the value of its franchise as a public service corporation. The total assessed valuation of all the railroads in Oregon is $38,500,000 and this includes the rolling stock of street railways, which are not segregated in the reports from the rolling stock of steam roads. The total assessed valuation of all the roads is less than the actual cost of the material property of one road, and that considerably less than one-half the total mileage in the state. The Railroad Commission has conducted a hearing as to the cost of only one other road in the state, the Corvallis & Eastern and it was shown that the cost of this was about $1,700,000. The reports to the Railroad Commission two years ago show that at that time the cost of the Oregon & California had been $2,225,000; the Astoria & Columbia River, $1,080,000; the Oregon Water Power, $1,700,000; the Coos Bay, Roseburg & Eastern, $2,900,000; Northern Pacific (computed on mileage basis), $60,000; Sumpter Valley Railway, $1,200,000; Central Railway of Oregon, $72,000; Great Southern, $46,000; Mt. Hood Railway, $19,000; Pacific & Eastern, $11,000; Malheur Valley Railway, $86,000; Oregon & Southern, $1,100,000; Salem, Falls City & Western, $46,000; Northern Pacific Terminal Company (proportion not

VALE PLANS BIG MEETING Oregon Promotion League to Meet There in December. VALE, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—Assurances have been received here that the forthcoming convention of the Oregon Promotion and Development Association will be held in this city, the date of the gathering being some day early in December. The people of Vale will get together and plan arrangements for the entertainment of members of the association and an excellent programme, in which the important subject of good roads and the state highways will be featured, is in course of preparation. Vale Gets Carload of Coal. VALE, Or., Nov. 1.—(Special).—The fuel famine which was becoming serious in Vale and other towns in this territory was temporarily relieved yesterday by the arrival of a car of coal here. This will not last many days, however, and unless the railroad ships more in during the next few days Vale will again have to fall back upon sagebrush, the only local fuel available. CONSPIRACY IS CHARGE. In brief, the Government charges that Martin, who is one of the most prominent attorneys in the State of Idaho and a resident of this city, was one of a party of conspirators who attempted to defraud the Government by obtaining illegal timber entries. Mr. Martin was the attorney for several entrymen or locators who obtained tracts of the timber land located in the Boise Basin. The Government brought suit against these entrymen, cancelling their entries,
