

NEW YORK'S WON BY TAFT'S SMILE

Kindliest Smile in World, Remarks One Enthusiastic Admirer.

IS AGREEABLE SURPRISE

Bryan's Talk is Monologue, His-gen's Straight Anti-Standard Business, Taft's Conversation Meant for Every Man.

BY LLOYD F. LONGERGAN NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—(Special)—W. H. Taft has made a great big hit in New York.

"It isn't what he says, it is the way he looks," remarked one enthusiast today. "He has the kindest smile in the world. Any man who can smile the way he does must be all right."

New York is used to all kinds of oratory, and from long experience has grown more or less blasé. But the Taft smile is a novelty, and because of that fact has received favorable mention. There isn't anything forced or "pleased to meet you" about the Taft smile. It radiates good humor and satisfaction. The candidate smiles all over, and the ideal spectators gather in that they are his dearest friends, and can borrow money if they want to.

The voters of the Empire State have had an excellent chance this week to compare the various candidates. Mr. Bryan, Mr. Taft and Mr. Hise have all been on view, and each one has talked early, earnestly and often.

Mr. Bryan of old, because they know Mr. Bryan of old, because they have heard him in every conceivable side of every possible subject at political meetings, church fairs and chautauque assemblies. The "Bryan act" is the same this year as it has been for the past ten years. It is a monologue, with a different line of talk, it is true, but in the main it is the spectacle familiar by constant repetition.

Just like Benjamin Thompson in the "Old Homestead" or James O'Neill as "Monte Cristo," was the comment of one New Yorker. "They have to do it, I suppose, and so do I," Bryan.

Hise's Off-Told Tale. Mr. Hise is not an orator, and will admit it if the direct question is put. His favorite subject is "Standard Oil," and he tells over and over again how, aided by his brothers, he has fought the trust to a standstill. Then he tells of a check at both old parties, alarums, and takes his seat. Mr. Hise has given the impression of being a good business man with very little knowledge of politics. He has not aroused enmity, neither, so far as can be learned, has he wildly enthused the voters.

The new party principal speakers, and in fact their only orators, are three in number, and all of them have been busy on the stump in New York State. Mr. Hearst ranks as number one. Clarence J. Shearn as number two and Clement L. Pollock as number three. Mr. Shearn and Mr. Hearst are familiarly known as the "Pilot Fish and the Shark" of the Independence League. Mr. Shearn works a meeting to its very close, and in addition is able to earn an honest living outside of "yellow politics." If he feels so inclined.

These three orators have thrown Mr. Hise in the shade. Many Leaguers do not know who is running for President, and some of them believe Mr. Hearst is the candidate.

Taft a Beaming Surprise. Mr. Taft has not been well known among New Yorkers up to the present week. Of course they have read about him and remember that he ran the Philippines, the Panama Canal and the War Department, that he traveled around the world, introduced Congressman Nick Longworth to Alice Roosevelt and a few other little things like that. Beyond this and a general idea that he weighs somewhere between 400 pounds and a ton, they are really devoid of information on the subject.

So the real Taft, the one who came here and exhibited himself on Platforms all over town, was a distinct surprise. They found he was big, but not clumsy, active and well informed. When he mounted the platform he beamed upon them, each man in the audience regarded him as a personal friend.

There are none of the spellbinder efforts about Mr. Taft. He walks down to the footlights as the chairman of the meeting introduces him, and gazes over at the cheering men in the front row, he beams at the throngs in the rear, but he smiles to his neighbor. You think he is looking at some boyhood chum in the 14th row, you will be willing to swear that Mr. Taft has recognized the old pal in the right hand side of the orchestra. He includes them all, somehow, and the greeting that is meant for everybody is taken as a personal tribute by each and every individual.

Happy as Schoolboy. When Mr. Taft talks he is conversational. You get the idea that you are enjoying a quiet little chat with a most delightful stout gentleman. Occasionally he takes a whack at the wicked Democratic party, but there are laugh lines around his eyes as he does so. You realize that Mr. Taft is merely apologizing for his words. He does not dislike Democrats. They are the fine fellows, but misguided. And he has to attack them because it is part of the game, but you know he would much rather praise them.

There isn't any venom about Mr. Taft. He is overflowing with the milk of human kindness. If you ask him about his chances, he will tell you that he is confident of election, and you realize that he means what he says.

I saw Judge Taft when he was in this city, and alluding to the fact that he had spoken in 21 states at several hundred meetings, asked him what had impressed him the most.

"The high caliber of the American people," he said. "The finest, manliest crowd in the world. It makes a man glad to think he is a citizen of the United States."

And this was not a plea for votes. Mr. Taft likes to tell you that he is glad to pick out their good qualities.

Despite nights of the hardest kind of campaigning, the candidate is just as cheerful as he was before he plunged into the vortex of politics. He is never ill-natured, never fault-finding and always pleased with the outlook.

"The Democrats lay great stress on the fact that Bryan's voice does not wear out," remarked one campaigner, "but that is not half so remarkable as the fact that Taft's smile does not fade away. He is as happy as a schoolboy at the beginning of vacation."

Yes, the Taft smile is an issue in this campaign, a good-natured, jolly issue that makes friends and does not produce enemies.

NEWS BY 45,000 IN WASHINGTON

Taft Sweeps State From East to West, Taking Rest of Ticket With Him.

PAYDAY FOR BETTING MEN

ONE CHICAGO BOOKMAKER HAS WON $200,000.

James O'Leary Is Biggest Winner on Election—Best Gains Made on Local Fight.

WINNERS IN WASHINGTON

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 4.—(Special)—Washington joined in the landslide for Taft yesterday. The heavy vote and the slow count makes it impossible to determine accurately the extent of the Republican victory, but this much is certain: Washington gives Taft a plurality of at least 45,000, exceeding by 15,000 the preliminary estimates of State Chairman de Brouler; the entire Republican state ticket is elected by majorities that run well up into the millions; the Legislature is overwhelmingly Republican, although one Democrat gets in from Stevens County; Democratic Senator from Mason, Kitsap and Island and perhaps one or two more from counties yet to be heard from. There is no doubt whatever that Wesley Jones will be elected to the United States Senate next January to succeed Lee Anthony.

SINGERS FOR GRAND OPERA

MISS FARRAR DENIES SHE WILL MARRY SCOTT.

He Follows Her Through Europe and to America, but Not With Matrimonial Views.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A large number of Metropolitan and Manhattan operatic stars arrived yesterday from Europe, among them Miss Geraldine Farrar, who denied, she has no matrimonial views under similar circumstances, the called report that she is engaged to marry Scott, the handsome and famous baritone.

With Miss Farrar came her mother and Scott, the faithful attendant of the beautiful young Boston singer both abroad and on the steamship. She explained it as a mere coincidence that they were together last Summer at Braganza, just as they had been at Braganza during the Summer last year. The journey together was an engagement for Scott in order that they might sing together at the Royal Opera-house, and he had not yet signed a contract, she said.

Tetrazzini, accompanied by her private secretary, Signor Marrioco, spoke in English on January 21, 1908, and in Italian on a considerable fluency in this language.

"I have two new roles for the United States," she said.

Caruso, who arrived yesterday, will be given five appearances by the Metropolitan management in the opening week, thus securing him $16,000 to begin the season with.

GIpsy RIGo IS WITNESS

VIOLINIST, WHO ELOPED WITH PRINCESS CHIMAY, HELD.

CANNON ROLLS UP MAJORITY

ALL IRELAND PROTESTS

LOST DOG BRINGS LUCK

THOMPSON

Ten-Inch Disc Talking Machine

COFFEE

Yin Kin Lum

Chinese Restaurant

GRAVES MUSIC CO.

WOMEN GOOD DETECTIVES

English Railways to Employ More, but Pay Is Low.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—(Special)—So useful has the woman detective proved in railway police work that several of the great companies contemplate an early increase in the number of women employed in this capacity.

"The woman railway detective," said a high official of one of the southern lines, "is a comparatively recent creation, but in the new field of feminine work she has already shown herself resourceful and clever. Practically every great railway employs several women for inspection purposes. Their names are quite unknown to the ordinary railway staff, with the exception of a few chief officials.

To all outward appearances the detective is an ordinary lady passenger. She travels about, taking her own ticket from place to place, and there is absolutely nothing to distinguish her from the hosts of other women who use the line. But she is always on the watch, listening to stray bits of conversation that may point to a ticket fraud on the company and with a ready eye for any irregularity on the part of the uniformed staff.

"Sometimes she travels in a wrong class carriage to ascertain if receipts for excess payments are properly given, and some times with overweight of luggage for the same purpose.

One day she travels among first-class passengers the next, dowdy and worn, she journeys in a carriage full of third-class season ticket holders on the track of the man who regularly says "season tickets have not got one the matter of pay, a good female detective will make $10 per week and all expenses, although the average is slightly less.

Rejected Suitor of Noble Lineage Is Blamed for Crime Which Is Reminder of Ancient Villainies.

MILANESE SISTERS VICTIMS OF INCREDIBLE CRUELTY.

Referred to their joint stories the sisters were writing letters to their parents, while their parents, other sisters and brothers were in other parts of the house. Suddenly the front door was opened with fatal keys and the girls, speechless with astonishment, found themselves face to face with a selected suitor in the person of a young marquis, who was accompanied by a friend and dressed in company.

By quick as lightning the young girls were seized and gagged by the intruders, and one forced open Angelina's mouth and gagged her and disappeared. Nobody in the house heard any sound of a struggle and this led the police to suspect the story of an entry being forcibly made as alleged. All the members of the family, however, persist there is no fancy in Angelina's account of a mysterious admirer, who has long pettered her with his attentions. They describe him as a tall foreigner with a blonde beard who claims to be a marquis.

The parents state that this strange individual has proved the plague of their household since June of last year, when they were evicted from their country house at Castiglione d'Ossola. One afternoon he intercepted Angelina as she was walking along a private lane leading from the high road to the villa. On his knees in the dust the stranger poured out passionate declarations of love, stating that he had long been enamored of her goodness and beauty.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

way police work that several of the great companies contemplate an early increase in the number of women employed in this capacity.

"The woman railway detective," said a high official of one of the southern lines, "is a comparatively recent creation, but in the new field of feminine work she has already shown herself resourceful and clever. Practically every great railway employs several women for inspection purposes. Their names are quite unknown to the ordinary railway staff, with the exception of a few chief officials.

To all outward appearances the detective is an ordinary lady passenger. She travels about, taking her own ticket from place to place, and there is absolutely nothing to distinguish her from the hosts of other women who use the line. But she is always on the watch, listening to stray bits of conversation that may point to a ticket fraud on the company and with a ready eye for any irregularity on the part of the uniformed staff.

"Sometimes she travels in a wrong class carriage to ascertain if receipts for excess payments are properly given, and some times with overweight of luggage for the same purpose.

One day she travels among first-class passengers the next, dowdy and worn, she journeys in a carriage full of third-class season ticket holders on the track of the man who regularly says "season tickets have not got one the matter of pay, a good female detective will make $10 per week and all expenses, although the average is slightly less.

Rejected Suitor of Noble Lineage Is Blamed for Crime Which Is Reminder of Ancient Villainies.

MILANESE SISTERS VICTIMS OF INCREDIBLE CRUELTY.

Referred to their joint stories the sisters were writing letters to their parents, while their parents, other sisters and brothers were in other parts of the house. Suddenly the front door was opened with fatal keys and the girls, speechless with astonishment, found themselves face to face with a selected suitor in the person of a young marquis, who was accompanied by a friend and dressed in company.

By quick as lightning the young girls were seized and gagged by the intruders, and one forced open Angelina's mouth and gagged her and disappeared. Nobody in the house heard any sound of a struggle and this led the police to suspect the story of an entry being forcibly made as alleged. All the members of the family, however, persist there is no fancy in Angelina's account of a mysterious admirer, who has long pettered her with his attentions. They describe him as a tall foreigner with a blonde beard who claims to be a marquis.

The parents state that this strange individual has proved the plague of their household since June of last year, when they were evicted from their country house at Castiglione d'Ossola. One afternoon he intercepted Angelina as she was walking along a private lane leading from the high road to the villa. On his knees in the dust the stranger poured out passionate declarations of love, stating that he had long been enamored of her goodness and beauty.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Then, rising, he excitedly pointed out an automobile stationed in the main road with a couple of liveried chauffeurs in attendance, telling her that she must fly with him to Russia or England, as he was an aristocrat closely related to the Czar and possessing a magnificent castle in England.

Whilst the marquis was again kneeling before her in the hope that she would fly, the terrified girl managed to escape back to the house. By the time she had explained the affair all trace of her persecutor was lost.

Proof is inexhaustible that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carries women safely through the Change of Life.

Read the letter Mrs. E. Hanson, 804 E. Long St., Columbus, Ohio, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was passing through the Change of Life, and suffered from nervousness, headaches, and other annoying symptoms. My doctor told me that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good for me, and since taking it I feel so much better, and I can again do my own work. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me during this trying period."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration.

Why don't you try it? Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

many animals, I took her home. She nestled into my arms and sobbed almost as if human. I could not see any way to keep her after she had recovered from the exposure, and advertised in the newspapers that a home was wanted for a pretty spaniel dog.

A few days later a man and his little boy came six miles to see me. They had seen the advertisement and the boy of 6 urged his father to come and get the dog.

I questioned the man and found that there had been a struggle to keep his family, but, like many another poor person, he had a heart to help a homeless dog and a desire to make his little son happy.

I learned that he was a mattress-maker by trade, that he repaired many at his little shop and was eager for more work. A well-known Episcopal clergyman had interested himself in the family and influenced several of his parishioners to send him work. The minister's words and acts went hand in hand.

I heard later from the man of the comfort the lost dog gave them, how she watched his coming home at night, her face pressed against the window pane, beside that of his little boy, and of his gratitude to me for saving her.

The well-to-do woman had no room in her nice home, but in that of the poor man there was enough and to spare.

I determined that the good deed of this man should not go unrewarded. I sent him my work, interested my friends and, without any asking on his part, he was abundantly rewarded for his kind act. His whole family had been made happier by the grateful dog.

The child had a companion; she slept on his bed and shared his bread and butter. Her affection paid them a hundred-fold.

How much the well-to-do woman missed in her selfishness! And yet there are many like her. It will take a good deal of preaching from our pulpits and teachers in our schools before we are awakened to our duty to the dumb.

Patronize home industry by buying your trunks of Harris Trunk Co., 133 Sixth st., opposite Oregonian. Trunks to order and repairing.

Hardman Pianos—Wiley B. Allen Co.

GUARANTEED SHOES. If Within 60 DAYS Any of Our Shoes Should Need Repairing We Make Them FREE OF CHARGE. TWO STORES. GOODYEAR CO. INCORPORATED. Agents for Edwin Clapp's Finest Custom Shoes. Cor. Fourth and Yamhill, Y. M. C. A. Bldg. 88 Third St., Opp. Chamber of Commerce.

Turn the Wick. as high as you can—there's no danger—as low as you please—there's no smell. That's because the smokeless device prevents smoke or smell—that means a steady flow of glowing heat for every ounce of fuel burned in a PERFECTION Oil Heater (Equipped with Smokeless Device). You can carry it about and care for it just as easily as a lamp. Brass oil font holds 4 quarts burning 9 hours. Handsomely finished in japan and nickel. Every heater warranted.

The Rayo Lamp adds cheeriness to the long winter evenings. Steady, brilliant light to read, sew or knit by. Made of brass, nickel plated, latest improved central draft burner. Every lamp warranted. If your dealer cannot supply Perfection Oil Heater or Rayo Lamp write our nearest agency for descriptive circular. STANDARD OIL COMPANY (Incorporated).

THOMPSON The Internationally Indorsed Sight Expert. Second Floor Corbett Bldg., 3th and Morrison Streets, Take Elevator. DON'T NEGLECT YOUR EYES. If you have pain in or over the eyes, or in the back of the head, or if you are blurred, or if everything gets black at times, if the eyes twinkle involuntarily, if you see double, if you see rings around lights, there is something wrong, and you should have them carefully examined by a skilled specialist.

Ten-Inch Disc Talking Machine Records Cut From 60c to 33c. As announced in the Sunday papers, Graves Music Co. will sell 4000 brand-new disc records for all makes of talking machines, consisting of latest selections, for less than some dealers pay for them. These records, brand-new ones, will be sold in lots of not less than six to a buyer at 33c each or $2.00 a half-dozen. This is the first and only chance ever presented in Portland to buy records at less than wholesale prices. Think of it—60c records at one-half off!

GRAVES MUSIC CO. 111 Fourth Street. The Largest and Finest General Music Emporium West of Chicago. $25.00 Talking Machines and six Records, each... $19.75 $35.00 Talking Machines and six Records, each... $