Shipments to Date Amount to Over 21,000 Bales—George Rose Sells Small Part of His Big Crop.

The Oregon hop market is very firm for crop goods. A considerable number of new buyers orders came in yesterday, but dealers found difficulty in inducing growers to sell. The feeling among holders is now more bullish than ever.

The most important transaction reported yesterday was the purchase by the J. W. Seavey Hop Company of 119 bales from George Rose, a considerable number of new buyers orders came in yesterday, but dealers found difficulty in inducing growers to sell.

Statistics that were compiled yesterday show more hops remaining in growers' hands than expected. According to the list, as drawn up by local hop men, there are about 33,500 bales unsold in the state, distributed as follows:

Table with columns for location and quantity of hops. Locations include Josephine, Marion, Polk, Washington, Clatsop, Clatskanie, and Benton.

Since the opening of the season the shipments from Oregon have been about 21,000 bales of new hops. It is estimated that local and Eastern markets are holding 11,000 bales and are holding here some 11,000 bales. There is no way of arriving at the quantity of hops bought on orders and taken in on contracts but it is estimated that the local and Eastern markets are holding 11,000 bales and are holding here some 11,000 bales.

General conditions in the East and elsewhere are reported by the New York Produce Price Current as follows: The local market remains quiet and uninteresting. In New York State there is continued inquiry for the best crops at 15¢ to 16¢ and several lots are reported to have been sold at these prices. Lower grades are being marketed at 14¢ to 15¢.

Manager & Henley—The growers are going off fairly well and there is more doing in the hops here. The demand for hops is still strong and the market is firm.

A large amount of Oregon wool changed hands in Boston in the past week, according to mail advices. Including 200 bales of choice Eastern wools at 20¢, 200 bales of medium Eastern wools at 18¢ and 200 bales of inferior Eastern wools at 16¢.

More Eastern Eggs Arrive Three Cars Reach the Local Market—Foul in the Shell.

Three more cars of Eastern eggs were reported yesterday and with the stock already on hand, the market somewhat tepid. The real cause of the weakness, however, was said to be the presence of a considerable quantity of poor quality Eastern eggs on the market, which were offered at low prices.
