FATHER GRIEF-STRIKEN

AGED PARENT SHOWS FEELING AT HEARING OF TWO SONS.

Boys Arrested for Having Counterfeit Outfit Show No Concern When Held to Grand Jury.

BAKER CITY, Or., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—Bowed down with sorrow by the arrest of his two boys, on a charge of having a counterfeit outfit in their possession, George Newton, the aged father, showed deeply the shame brought upon him as he sat in court this afternoon during the preliminary hearing of his sons, Ed and Harry Newton.

Of the crowd that pressed into the courtroom today the two boys were the least concerned. They talked as lightly as if they were going to an entertainment and paid but little heed to the white-haired parent who sat at one side, head bowed and silent, his face raw with anxiety.

The arrival of United States Deputy Marshal C. R. Nicholson this morning occasioned no little interest as both the Newton boys have a wide acquaintance here. They were taken before United States Commissioner C. A. Moore this afternoon and bound over to the Federal grand jury in bonds of $1500 each. If the defendants fail to obtain the security of $1500 each, they will be committed to the Multnomah county jail tomorrow morning. Neither advised himself of the opportunity to engage counsel.

The charges against the young men, the eldest of whom is less than 28, of having in their possession molds for counterfeiting $20 gold pieces, has been the subject of investigation ever since last May, when they were first apprehended.

STEVENS, Wash., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—A jury session of the Superior Court was begun here yesterday. Judge W. W. McCredie presiding. A number of Portland attorneys are engaged in the trial of the case, and quite a large crowd awaits the trial.

The case of Ollie Sholin vs. Skamania Boom Company has been before the court the past two days. Sholin was a mail-carrier and started his route between Stevens and Collins and claimed damages from the boom company because its logs had knocked out a bridge across Wind River in October, 1908, and thereby prevented him from fulfilling his contract for several months and for that reason had been docked by the Government and other damages.

The plaintiff was represented by R. M. Wright and A. L. Miller while George E. O'Brien and George S. Shepherd appeared for the defendant. The jury was out yesterday afternoon and all night and returned a verdict this morning for plaintiff for $200.

The case of Hadley & Hayes vs. Spokane, Portland, Seattle Railway for damages caused from blasting rocks over part of their real estate near Collins Springs, is on trial today. The court and jury visited the premises this forenoon and the trial was resumed on their return.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 6.—(Special.)—That she will kill her father and her sister Lois, whom she claims she has spirited away, is the hint made by Madeline McDonald in letters addressed to the Superior Court and to the attorney in the case, pending the decision whether or not the parents of the two little girls will have custody of the younger, Madeline, 14 years old, who actively opposed the attempts of her father to regain custody of the child.

Last Summer Lois McDonald was kidnapped by her father, George McDonald, from the home of his brother, J. M. McDonald, and T. A. Weinke was appointed guardian.
