OPPOSE STATE ROAD

Linn County Council of Grange Is Against Plan.

WANT MORE ROADS MADE

Think Money Should Be Expended in Highways From Railroads Into Fruit and Farming Districts, Instead of One Broad Way.

ALBANY, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special).—The plan of the Oregon Good Roads Association to build a broad state highway across Oregon from north to south was strongly opposed by the Linn County Council of the Grange yesterday. The action was taken at a meeting of the Council at Crowfoot Grange, near Lebanon, which was attended by prominent farmers from all parts of the county.

Instead of building one long road, it was argued that it would be a much better plan to use all available road money in building roads from railroad stations and steamboat landings into the farming sections. The state road would benefit few, it was stated, while shorter roads running from the cities and towns would benefit all, and the money necessary to build the one long state highway would provide means to improve existing county roads and make hard permanent thoroughfares.

The question of amending the state game laws, which is receiving a great deal of attention in this part of the state now because of the unprecedented scarcity of China pheasants, was discussed. The Council appeared to favor hunting without dogs as one of the best amendments yet suggested.

UNKNOWN DIES SHAVING
Overcome by Heart Disease, Hobo Is Found in Old Shed.

GLENDALE, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special).—The body of an unknown man, apparently about 40 years old, wearing a shabby blue coat and overalls, was found this morning lying among the leaves in a lonely spot on the bank of Cow Creek, about a mile north of this city near the Southern Pacific railroad bridge. The man was seen around town last Wednesday evening. On Wednesday morning a section man met him on the track near tunnel 8. He inquired of him the day of the week and when told it was Wednesday he remarked that he had been asleep for three days. Nothing more was seen of him until last night, when a young man coming along the track noticed a man lying on the ground a short distance from the track with a fire smoldering beside him. This morning a party of hunters while hunting quail along Cow Creek found the body lying in an old shed, face downward on a pile of leaves. Beside the body was found an open razor, a whetstone, a piece of looking glass and a small basket. The basket contained an old felt hat and a few pieces of raw potato and celery, evidently the remnants of his last meal.

One side of the man's face was partially shaved and he had evidently been overcome with exposure or heart disease while shaving, and had dropped the razor and fallen forward on the leaves. Nothing was found to give any clue to the man's identity. The body was brought to this city this evening by Justice C. T. Nail, and unless it is claimed in the meantime, it will be buried here tomorrow.

Farquharson and his brother, George. The accident was caused by the negligence of a switchman, James Young, who disappeared immediately after the cars crashed.

MORE ROOM FOR GRADES

Addition to High School in Oregon City Almost Done.

OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special).—After nearly a week's vacation, due to election day and the annual teachers' institute, the city schools will resume work tomorrow morning with a number of changes. The four-room addition to the Eastham building is nearly complete, and the two lower rooms will be occupied tomorrow by the fourth and fifth grades, the former having had temporary quarters in the office of the main building, while the room vacated by the fifth grade will be used by the combined seventh and eighth grades, for which Miss Joan Gray has been engaged as instructor.

The sixth grade, that has been housed in the Barclay gymnasium during the construction of the addition, will return to its former quarters. On Monday of next week the upper floor will be complete and the grade taught by Miss Mae Smith will use one of these rooms, while Miss Ellen Brobst's grade will be transferred from the gymnasium to the room in the Barclay building, vacated by Miss Smith's grade.

LOOPHOLE FOR SALOONS

Estacada Man Charged With Running "Blind Pig" May Go Free.

OREGON CITY, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special).—The decision of the Supreme Court relative to the regulation of the liquor traffic in cities and towns, irrespective of the action of counties which are voted dry as a whole under the provisions of the local option law, may prevent the indictment of Al Close, of Estacada, who, it is charged, has been running a "blind pig" since the town went dry at the last June election. The charter of Estacada has a provision similar to that of the Medford charter, placing the regulation of the saloon business into the hands of the municipality, and any violation of the charter can be corrected only by the city authorities.

The Klamath County Grand Jury has been examining witnesses in this case. Four were subpoenaed, Grover Oglesby, of Marks Prairie; Grover Krigbaum, Virgil Wagner and Russ Wilcox, Oglesby was ill in bed and could not appear before the jury. It is stated that Wilcox bought beer at Close's place and treated Krigbaum and Wagner, the latter being only 17 years old. No indictment has been returned, but the Grand Jury has the power to deal with Close for the sale of liquor to a minor.

How Chehalis County Voted.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Nov. 8.—(Special).—Returns from 43 of the 44 precincts of Chehalis County show that Taft has a plurality over Bryan of 1818 and a majority of 1042 over all other Presidential candidates. The Socialists polled 888 votes in 43 precincts and the Prohibitionists 79. Hearst's Independence party polled but 8 votes. The returns show that Taft received more support in the cities than in the country. In Hoquiam and Aberdeen, Taft received 1704 as against 1355 in the country precincts reported. Bryan received 595 in the country and 646 in the cities.

Arrested for Insanity.

ASTORIA, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special).—Jacob Aho, a fisherman living in a scow in the west end of the city, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of insanity. He imagines there are devils after him and has been shooting about the streets in that vicinity recently. He resisted arrest for some time, threatening to kill any one who went on board his scow, but was finally induced by a friend to come ashore.

ENFORCE LOCAL OPTION

KLAMATH OFFICIALS BEGIN MAKING ARRESTS.

Policy of Winking at Law Abolished. Grand Jury Will Have Plenty of Evidence.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Nov. 8.—(Special).—Following in the wake of other Oregon counties where the saloon interests, long in control of local affairs in a greater or less degree, have failed to observe the local option law after it had been voted by the citizens of the county, Klamath is now the scene of enforcement and prosecutions have been started to make the county, in fact as well as in name, a "dry" county.

Local officials have been allowing the violations to proceed openly, and the citizens refrained from taking positive steps. Sheriff W. B. Barnes, however, realizing the necessity for action, started the machinery of the law by the arrest of Carl Reed, proprietor of a resort, on a charge of gambling, and also at the same time took in charge C. F. Goodrich, dealer; Fred Sort, George English, Joe Ball and three others, who were placed under the same charge. J. V. Houston, proprietor of the Central saloon, prior to enactment of the local option law, and C. N. Meyer, owner of the building occupied by Carl Reed, were also made the subjects of warrants charging gambling.

Incidentally, it is claimed that evidence of considerable volume has been obtained to be used in evidence before the grand jury, relating to violations of the law, and that a large number of men will be included in the information. This work has been accomplished quietly, it is said, and vigorous prosecutions will follow whether the crusade started by the officers is made effective or not. When arraigned in the County Court each of the men waived examination and were bound over to the grand jury.
