Columbia University and West High Hold Each Other to No-Score Game.

TWO PLAYERS ARE HURT

Pomeroy Gets Wrenched Back, and Ludlam Collapses - Game Is Hard-Fought and Leaves Superiority in Doubt.

BT W. J. PETRAIN. west Portland High School played a no-score tie game on Multnomah Field yesterday afternoon, which causes some difficulty in selecting the better team of the two. The West Side team is entitled to considerable credit for its game defense as well credit for its game defense as well as the excellence of the different players who ran down punts while Columbia is entitled to the palm for the mimber and variety of plays pulled off successfully in the game.

The gams was interesting from start to finish, and despite the fact that neither team was able to score, more enthusiasm was displayed than at any interestolestic game thus far played. Both teams deserve credit for the ability shown, yet when it comes to considering a possible superiority between the contending teams, Columbia was the more aggressive.

Three times during the same Gerdon Moore's squad threatened to score on its opponents, but on each occasion tried straight football instead of some of the more intricate plays executed successfully atterward, which resulted in the West Side hunch holding strongly when the threatened scare was apparent.

Columbia advanced the ball on forward passes, onside kicks, and delayed pusses on several occasions in the most approved manner, yet whethever the collegians came within striking distance of the Hill School goal, they tried straight football, with the result that they were held for downs and lost the ball.

The fact that two of the star players.

The fact that two of the star players, The fact that two of the star players, one from each team, were acceptly bruised and had to be carried off the bold as soon as the game was over, is testimonial to the hard play of both teams. Pomeroy, left half back of the Columbia team, suffered an injury to his spine which may keep him out of the game for the rest of his career. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital for treatment, but his injuries are not believed to be more than severe bruises or a sprained back.

Ludlam Also Is Hurt.

Ludiam, the star player of the game Lidiam, the star player of the name and, without question, the best end in the league, as soon as the game was over, succumbed to the hard knocks he received and fell in å faint before he could walk off the grounds. His fellow players picked him up and carried him to the Multnomah Chubhouse, where a hot bath revived him and he was able to go to his home unasigd.

It was a case of hard fighting all through and while Columbia had all the best of the engagement from a matter of yardage gained, the West Side lads put up a strong resistance and were or yardinge gained, the West Side lass put up a strong resistance and were successful in warding off every threatened score of the Columbia team. West Side possessed the better line of the two teams, for it braced wonderfully when Columbia tried straight football.

In the first half of the game, Columbia used straight football on almost every play, although an occasional delayed pass was sandwiched in, which netted pass was sandwiched in, which netted yardings, and by this means took the ball to West Side's 20-yard line. West Side held strongly at this point and Dean Walker tried a place kick, which carried wide of the goal posts. West Side kicked out, but Ennis returned the ball advantageously, and on the next two plays Columbia secured possession of the ball on West Side's 5-yard line.

Columbia Just Misses Scoring.

Then West Side held magnificently, and on three downs Columbia could do no better than make three of the required five yards and lost the hall on downs. This was the nearest approach to a score either team made, for Columbia failed to approach that close during the rest of the game and West Side was never within halling distance of the Columbia soal. The local team had the better of the argument during the first half, which ended 4 to 0 in its favor but went to pieces in the latter part of the game and allowed the Indiana to make four touchdowns, no goals being kicked.

Both Teams Have Last Hard Practice-Changes Made in Local Line-up.

Oregon spirit never ran higher than at the big raily this evening. The large body of rooters is confident Oregon will hold her own tomorrow, and will support the team in true Oregon fashion.

Washington's team, averaging 178 pounds, accompanied by about 20 rooters arrived this afternoon. The men are in excellent condition, with the exception of Fullback Willis and one or two others who have been on the hospital list the past week, but all will be in the game.

Multnomah and Whitman are in readiness for the gridiron battle scheduled for Multnomah Field this afternoon, and when the two elevens come together the contest for supremacy is sure to be interesting. Another fine practice was indulged in by the Multinomah players last night, while the Whitman lads used the field in the forenoon. All of the players showed ginger and were especially accurate at retrieving punts. Captain Stott put his

The Oregon team is in fine condition and Coach Forbes says the men are determined to win back the laurels of last Saturday's game. Averaging only 174 pounds, the Oregon aggregation is handleapped in weight, but the work the past wock has been hard and snappy, and the secret practice held the last two nights has brought out the team in fine shape for the battle tomorrow.

The question of officials has not been decided yet, owing to a disagreement between the managers. Oregon will take no action against Mucklearon and Eakin, whom, it is claimed, are incligible to play under the conference rules having played last year on the North Dakota Agricultural College teams.
